All Were Examined.

Charlie Holmes, of Campbellford, met the swimmers in the display building at the Exhibition Grounds and Dr. A. Haig examined every contestant.

E. H. Humphreys and R. E. Adams of Toronto, lined up some of the swimmers for the two mile race at Port Dalhousie August 14.

Mendel Burditt, who was third in the three mile race at the Toronto Exhibition last year, behind George Young and Norman Ross, of Toronto, was a spectator yesterday. The official time for that race was Young, 1 hour 44 mins., and 10 sec, with Ross nearly 2 minutes slower.

These figures make the 1 hr. 18 mins. for Frank Pritchard seem extremely fast, but it must be understood that they are unofficial, and based on another reporter's statement that Elwood Hughes fired the gun at 320 p.m.

Harold Rye of Peterborough, had his yacht alongside the boom and tried to cooperate in every way with the committee. His orchestra, or rather Roy Locksley's Canadians, who are playing at Rye's pavilion, provided the music for the dancing in the High School auditorium last night. They have made a big hit with their music here this week.

WRECKED ICE CREAM TRUCK WAS FATAL TO KIDDIE AS IT EXPLODES

Crowd of Children After Free Ice Cream Burned As Gas Top Removed.

SIX SERIOUSLY HURT.

TRENTON, N.J., Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Lured on by the hope of free ice cream, one child was burned to death and a number seriously injured when the gasoline tank of a wrecked ice cream truck exploded. Thirteen are in hospital suffering from burns, six of them in a serious condition.

The truck upset as the driver attempted to make a sharp turn.

A crowd, composed mostly of youngsters, attracted by the spilled ice cream, gathered around.

While a wrecking crew worked over the vehicle, an unidentified man removed the cap from the gasoline tank. The fuel flowed over the heated motor and exploded, showering flaming liquid upon the crowd.

AFTER HARVEST CULTIVATION IS NECESSARY

Weeds Rob Growing Crops of Moisture And Food.

PLOW SHALLOW FIRST

Cultivation is One of Surest Methods of Ridding Farm of Weeds.

Special article written for Peterborough Examiner by W. R. Reek, director, experimental farm, Ridgetown, Ontario.

RIDGETOWN, Aug. 1.—Profits from farm crops are determined after the cost of production has been deducted; many factors enter into this cost, but among them are; preparation of seed bed, control of weeds, use of larger power units, co-operation with natural forces, seed, fertilizer, taxes, etc.

Weeds rob the growing crops of moisture, plant food and standing room and reduce the price of the grain sold. This is particularly true of some such as Sow Thistle, Twitch, Bindweed and many others to a greater or lesser degree. Weeds have to be combatted according to the nature of their growth. Sunlight is one of the best partners the farmer has in the eradication of weeds. A plant uprooted during the heat of the summer will die. Nature has assisted the weed to exist and multiply, but will also assist the farmer effectively in cleaning the land if efforts is put forth at the proper time.

Labor is scarce and expensive; small power units are correspondingly expensive. Four and six horse teams should be used wherever possible by one men, whereas twenty-five years ago it was seldom that more than two horses were driven by one man.

Power machinery is rapidly replacing human and horse labor. Old methods will not suffice under new conditions because one man now has to cover far more acres in the same period of time and he must accomplish more per day. Applied intelligence is rapidly replacing sheer muscular endeavor.

Weed control because of existing conditions and because of the toll taken during the past fifteen years must become an integral part of the regular farm program lest the returns per acre prove so small that it will be profitable no longer to cultivate thousands of the most fertile acres in the province.

Cultivation Necessary

After harvest cultivation is one of the surest methods of controlling weeds because the summer heat will assist. The extent that this practice should be followed will depend upon the amount of hoe crop which may be grown. The plants are weakest when the seed is ripened; for destructive purposes the attack should be made, if possible, immediately previous in order to prevent ripening of the current year's seed as well as fighting a weakened root.

When crops have been removed shallow ploughing or deep discing will kill the young plants and induce seeds to sprout provided there is sufficient moisture. Power implements will permit this operation in short periods of time and will enable the farmer to work a field though hard and dry.

Plants cannot grow unless leaves are developed—prevent growth above the ground. A weekly discing or cultivating during August is an excellent method. Keep the ground bare.

Sow Thistle and Twitch are two of the most difficult to combat. Plough rather deeply after harvest and leave rough provided the land will become thoroughly dried; the heat and lack of moisture will go far in definitely killing the roots. If growth commences weekly cultivation must be resorted to in order that growth may be prevented. Smothering will then take place, or in other words, the plant will be deprived of food. Gathering and hauling Twitch off the land is too expensive. Deep ploughing is effective against Twitch — the roots are buried so deeply that only the stronger ones are able to reach the surface and unless allowed to develop leaves will not send out creeping rootstalks under the surface.

Work put upon the land to control weeds is of value in that the soil is in better condition for the succeeding crop. For fall wheat, early cultivation provides a fine, firm seed bed which is required. Wherever summent cultivation is not followed, the weeds though cut at harvest time recuperate and may ripen seed that season or store up energy for a renewed attack and spread the following season.

Consider after-harvest cultivation as one of the jobs that must be done.

JULY BUILDING SHOWS DECLINE

Total For Year Is $70,000 Above Same Period in 1928.

$28,276 IN JULY.

Although during July building activity fell off the total for the year to date is nearly $70,000 above that of the same period for 1928 The total value of building in July this year was $28,276.50, as compared with $37,885.00 in the same month last year. The total value for the year to date is $278,905.00.

In detail the month's building as shown at the office of the City Engineer was: Six garages, value $360; four dwellings, value $13,500; eighteen miscellaneous, value $13,790.

There were no building permits for service stations issued last month, which is in itself something of a record.

Construction Contracts Show Gain

According to MacLean Building Reports, Ltd. monthly survey of construction contracts actually started throughout all Canada, taking into consideration both urban and rural projects, new work now stands 14 per cent ahead of the identical period of 1928.

The total of $38,359,600, being the estimated value of contracts started during July, is the largest July total ever recorded. It was an increase of 51 per cent over the total for July a year ago. Amongst the larger awards included in the survey for the past month were:

Toronto, Ont., office building	$3,000,000
Toronto, Ont., customs house	2,100,00

By classifications the July contracts appear as follows: Business buildings shows $24,687,100 or 42.6 per cent; engineering, $17,583,100 or 30.4 per cent; residential, $11,478,000 or 19.8 per cent; and industrial $4,192,500 or 7.2 per cent. The same total split into geographical divisions shows: Ontario, $26,073,600 or 48.5 per cent; Quebec, $15,137,300 or 26.1 per cent; Prairie Provinces, $9,193,000 or 15.8 per cent; British Columbia, $4,052,600 or 7 per cent, and Maritime Provinces, $1,484,200 or 2.6 per cent.

$116,942,400 is the estimated value of Business Buildings contracts for the first seven months. This is 35.4 per cent of all construction. GEOLOGY VITAL T. KITSON SAYS

Takes Most Important Part in Advancement of Young Countries.

IS IMPORTANT IN WARFARE

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Aug. 2 (C.P.).—The importance of geological surveys in the development of agriculture and water power, in addition to the development of mineral sources, was emphasized today by Sir Albert E. Kitson, C.M.G., C.B.E., director of the geological survey of the Gold Coast Colony, in his presidential address to the geological section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

"The importance of the remote possessions of a great empire is dependent upon many factors, such as natural resources and their situation, physical character of the country, lines of communication and transport, nature of climate, soils and water supply, density and distribution of population, character of the peoples, conditions regarding agriculture and pasturage," Sir Albert said.

Needs Broad Vision

"To develop these fully there should be a government with wide vision and foresight, capable of energetic and a broad outlook on possibilities of developement, and ready to assist financially and sympathetically all proposals that show reasonable prospects of economic success." Sir Albert went on to explain the peculiar problems in the development of the colonies which he said were almost without exception in the tropics and hence presenting great problems to the surveyor. He had enthusiastic praise for the work done in the geological surveys in the British Dominions, especially in Canada. The work done was of the highest order particularly in the field of mining had in his opinion benefited Canada immeasurably more than was as yet realised by it.

Returning to the colonial geological surveys, Sir Albert expatiated at length on the great economic advantage attached to the proper surveyal of a comparatively young country, the cataloguing of its water power resources, the condition and value of the soil for agricultural purposes and the investigation of many other factors essential to its rapid development. "The numerous interests that need to be considered in connection with the development of any country, more or less civilized, involve the establishment of various public departments," he continued. "Those dealing with the natural wealth of the country are principally geological survey, mining, veterinary, water-supply and public works. Obviously the most important, so far as relates to the investigation of rocks, minerals, fuels, and water supply, is that of geological survey."

Rock Knowledge Important

The geological surveyor, he said, was at many points connected with the development, though in every case the connection was not at first obvious. There was the question of water supply. A rather thorough knowledge of the neighbouring rocks was necessary for complete success in the boring of new wells. A knowledge of the rocks was also necessary to determine the sanitation of sewage disposals on account of the tendency to seepage evinced in many localities. A neglect to secure expert testimony in the past had often resulted in the loss of a great deal of money and in the same way the location of filtration plants too close in view of the nature of the soil to the source of water supply had proved the cause of epidemics of typhoid in the new communities.

Passing over the development of mineral resources, the connection of which with geological investigation was quite obvious, the speaker turned to the bearing of geology on agriculture. A careful study of the soil of a region often resulted in vastly increased agricultural production and even in the adaption of the country to the production of new varieties of crops.

In another department, that of public works Sir Albert said geology must play an important part. In the first place there was the development of the water power resources of the colony. "This question," he said, "may be regarded as quite outside duties of a geologist. A little consideration, however, will show that the geologist has a great deal to do with it, especially when the question of dam-building and reservoir formation is concerned. For the construction of a dam and the formation of a reservoir for hydro-electric purposes it is of great importance to know the geology of the area and the nature of the rocks. The geologist has to help the engineer not only with regard to the suitability of the rocks at the site of the dam, but also in the whole of the area to be occupied by the proposed reservoir. When a young colony has no special department and wishes to gather information respecting such water power it has to get help from another department. What more natural than that this should come from the geologist?'

Important to Militia

Geology, said Sir Albert, also had connection with military science in modern warfare. He quoted Professor W. W. Watts from the presidential address delivered in Toronto before the Section in 1924: "It will be readily admitted that geology has been conspicuous in connection with military operations in such ways as the siting of camps, trenches and dugouts; while the minute study of the water table in Northern France during the late war was not only of value in obtaining water supplies but was of conspicuous utility in mining and counter mining.'

The nature of the country in South Africa especially, embracing as it did a wide variety of country, made geological advice most desirable in order to obtain water by means of shallow wells in dry country. After proving by statistics that mines in every part of the British possessions in Africa had benefited to an immense extent on the advice of geologists, Sir Albert concluded his address:

"In this address an attempt has been made to show the value of geological surveys to young countries and the application of scientific knowledge and methods, both theoretical and practical, to the discovery of the valuable inorganic and organic resources of Nature as opposed to the search for them in a more or less haphazard manner.

"Though geology has yielded more definite evidence of the genetic relations, associations and occurrences of minerals in rocks and lodes, yet discoveries have shown that some minerals have wider associations than had been known previously. It becomes necessary, therefore, to keep an open mind on many matters, to consider carefully all the evidence available, and not to be dogmatic in opinions and conclusions. Geology is not an exact science—therein lies much of its fascination—so, in consideration of some of its aspects, uncertainty, imagination, sound reasoning and experience. Through the aeons of the growth of our earth Nature has continuously added to the mineral secrets of her vast realm. Some of these secrets she herself has unveiled to man by her ceaseless cariation; others have been revealed by chance through the activities of man and of the animals; and still others through the application of experience and science by man. Today science plays the predominent role in these revelations, and is steadily forcing a recognition of this fact upon the peoples of the earth, for their common benefit."

Sunday School Lesson

Belshazzar's Feast (Temperance Lesson)

Golden Text: Be not drunk with wine, wherein excess; but be filled with the spirit. Ephesians 5:18.

Time—538 B. C. Place—Babylon.

Exposition— 1. Belshazzar's Blind and Blasphemous Folly, 17-23. Daniel was a man of lofty character. He was above temptation from Belshazzar's royal gifts and honors. The king had that very evening insulted Daniel's God and Daniel spurns gifts from such a source (Gen. 14-23; I Ki. 5;16). He feels the divine call to be the impious king's judge and not his beneficiary. He will not be muzzled by gifts from one to whom he must declare the stern judgment of God. There is here a lesson for men today who are called to declare the whole counsel of God. How many a modern preacher hesitates to rebuke the sins of the men and women that contribute largely toward his salary, and how the church is forced to compromise the truth by asking the unsaved to contribute to the support of the church. Futhermore, Daniel would have it clearly understood that the gift of God was not to be exercised for pay (Ac. 8: 20). Daniel lost nothing by the high stand he took for the gifts were forced upon him despite his noble disdain (v. 29). Belshazzar must be brought to see that he owes all to that very God he has insulted (v 18). Every king holds his kingdom as a gift from God. God decides who shall rule (Dan. 4:17, 25,32; Deut. 32:8). But this was emphatically true of Nebuchadnezzar, and God had made it very clear. So Belshazzar's impiety was particularly inexcusable. If there is any lesson clearly taught, both in Scriptures and in history, it is that swift ruin awaits the man whose "heart is lifted up" in pride (v. 20; Prov. 16:6, 18; Dan. 4:37; Is. 14:12,17; Lu. I:51, 52; 18:14). Belshazzar's grandfather had been a notable example of this (vs. 20,21; ch. 1:30-33). When a man becomes proud and in the dust. God's purpose in this is most beneficent, that men may know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men (v. 21). It is well that we should know this. "And thou his son, O Belshazzar, has not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all this." Belshazzar's stout-hearted pride was peculiarly unpardonable. He sinned against great light. God's dealings with his grandfather had been of a most remarkable character, and Belshazzar knew of them. The extent of man's guilt is determined by the amount of light he sins against. But we have more light than even Belshazzar had. Who will measure our guilt if we do not humble our hearts? Have we really done it? "But hast lifted up theyself against the Lord of Heaven." Alas for the man who does that! It has been done again and again in the history of the world, and the man who has done it has been made a warning to all who should come after. Pharaoh (Ex. 5:2) Senacherib (Is. 37:23, 36-38), as well as Belshazzar, are cases in point. "The God in those hand thy breath is, and whose are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified." Here was another count in God's indictment against Belshazzar. Great indeed was his folly. His very breath, all his ways were in God's hands. God had the entire shaping of his destiny. His very life was at God's disposal, and yet Him had Belshazzar not glorifed. What madness! Yes, but a madness that is being repeated every day in this land of Bible light. Our breath is in God's hand (Ps. 104:29). In Him we live and move and have our being (Ac. 17:25, 28). Every detail of our temporal and eternal destiny is at His disposing (Prov. 20:24), and yet how many of us give Him scarcely a thought. If a man has a little power over our destiny we do much to win his favor, but the God in whose hand our breath is and whose are all our ways we leave utterly disregarded.

The Handwriting on the Wall 24-30.

God will call men to account sooner or later. He may let them go on for some time in their forgetfullness and defiance of Himself, but some day they shall see the handwriting on the wall, and the word written then will be "Tekel." All men are in God's balances. He is weighing each of us day by day. How much do you think you weigh in God's balances? One may weigh well in man's balances, but go to God's (Ps. 62:9. R. V.; Lu. 16:15). Belshazzar was not found wanting in man's balances. But when God came to weigh him and mark him, the mark was "found wanting." The handwriting was sent in mercy. If Belshazzar had repented as the king of Nineveh had before him (Jonah 3:6-10), if he had humbled himself as his grandfather did, there was still mercy for him (ch. 4:34-37). But though Belshazzar honored the messenger, there was not repentance in sackcloth and ashes at the message and "in that night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain." Let every proud and impenitent sinner take warning. For a long time the critics ridiculed this story of Belshazzar, for they said that Belshazzar was not mentioned by the historians (which was quite true) and his very existence was mythical. But further researches discovered a record by his own father Nabonidus, mentioning him by name, and this objection like so many other objections of the critics had to go. The historicity of the book of Daniel is now well established. The self-confident critics are again thoroughly discredited and their much-boasted scholarship proven to be thoroughly inaccurate. The discoveries of the archaeologists have played havoc with the theories of the prevailing school of critics, and yet many of them in their ignorance or their deliberate misrepresentation of facts, go on blandly asserting that these exploded theories of German infidels are "The established results of the latest scholarship."

CANADIAN GOODS.

The announcement that a national produced-in-Canada Exhibition on a large scale is to be held in Montreal in November will be appreciated by those who realize how important it is that Canadians should learn to buy more extensively the products of their own country.

It is gratifying to hear that there is a great demand for space for exhibits at the Montreal show, and that the affair is likely to have most useful results from an educational viewpoint.

Only a comparative few Canadians will be able to see the show, it is true, but the buyers and distributors from all parts of the country who will visit Montreal on this occasion will carry away a new idea of the variety and importance of Canadian products, and the result of their attendance will be found in increased demands for such products.

Canadians are not buying enough Canadian goods, and any enterprise that promises to bring about an improvement in this respect should receive widespread support and encouragement.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

A traffic officer who watched a motorist drive past another car on a dangerous curve and summonsed the offender on a charge of reckless driving, lost his case when the Hamilton magistrate ruled that there was no law covering such cases and that to pass another car on a hill or a curve was not an offence under the Traffic Act.

The officer maintained that had another car coming in the opposite direction arrived on the scene as the passing was being carried out an accident would have been inevitable, but the court decided that the defender could not be fined for what might have happened and accordingly dismissed the case, which may be good law but doubtful common sense.

Careful drivers do not need a regulation for bidding them to drive past traffic on a curve or on a hill, but others who cannot be so described might be checked in a dangerous practice by such a law.

At all events most people will say that the traffic officer did his duty even if the verdict of the magistrate was against him.

PREVENTING ACCIDENTS.

The Ontario Safety League has devised a formula for the prevention of traffic accidents that it declares represents a combination that cannot be beaten. Here it is:

Observe carefully all traffic laws.
Use common sense in driving.
Be careful.
Be courteous.

That is a simple prescription, but there is no doubt that its general adoption would eliminate the majority of automobile mishaps.

If there is any fault to be found in the advice offered it is that the first instruction would not be necessary if the second were to be fully observed.

The man who uses common sense in driving does not need to be told to obey the law; his own intelligence shows him the wisdom of such a policy.

The Safety League is right; if motorists would obey the law, use common sense and be careful and courteous there would be a surprising decline in the number of automobile accidents and in the list of traffic fatalities.

EMPIRE TRADE.

The question of trade within the Empire is so much before the public at the present time that the third annual report of the Empire Marketing Board, showing remarkable evidence as to the development of that trade, is of more than usual interest.

The report will be a revelation to most people in the information it gives in regard to the great growth that has taken place in recent years.

"Every one of the Dominions and many of the Colonies," says the report, "have advanced within the last fifty years from a relatively modest position into that of important contributors to and purchasers in the great markets of the world. There has been an extraordinary development of the Empire's resources ever since the beginning of the present century.

"Two generations ago, the United Kingdom derived only a very limited range of its requirements from oversea parts of the Empire. The fiftieth anniversary of the first shipment of frozen meat from Australia will take place towards the end of this year, while New Zealand's meat trade only began in the 'eighties.

"Fifty years ago only small quantities of butter and cheese came from the Southern Dominions; the tea industry of Ceylon was no more than a few years old; Canada had not yet began to export apples, and no pears, plums, grapes or peaches from South Africa and no apples or pears from Australia had reached this country. Rubber from Malaya, bananas from Jamaica and cocoa from West Africa were equally unknown. A quarter of a century later, in 1904, these products had all appeared on the United Kingdom market, some of them, such as frozen meat and dairy produce, had become firmly established, others were in their infancy. But there were still hardly any Australian currants or raisins, no New Zealand apples or pears, no South African oranges or grapefruit and no Kenya coffee. Year by year the gaps were filled up. But as recently as the end of the war were no eggs from the Southern Dominions and scarcely any home-produced beet sugar or canned fruits.

"In the last two or three years cigarettes made from Rhodesian tobacco have become familiar in English shops, cigarettes from Cyprus and Mauritius have been obtainable and canned fruit from Fiji, chilled salmon from Newfoundland and grapes from Palestine have, for the first time, been shipped to this country. Nor has this steady spreading of the range of Empire supplies ceased.

"New experiments in production are constantly reported and experimental consignments from many and scattered parts of the Empire give promise of an expansion in the future not less notable than in the past."

A NATION'S CREDIT.

A nation's internal credit, the terms on which her people do business with each other, is a matter of sound methods and a social system established and understood. A nation's credit with other nations of the world is something which is governed by different conditions. Chicago's foremost banker, Daniel R. Forgan, at a luncheon in Scotland is quoted as saying:

"If England went to war to-morrow, she could borrow as much money as she wanted. France could not raise a dollar."

Neither Mr. Forgan nor anybody else contemplates a condition with England or France at war and under the necessity of straining international credit to supply military requirements. Mr. Forgan went on to explain what he meant and his words are of a kind to be commended to those who seek genuine understanding between the British Empire and the United States. He said:

"I do not believe in the cancellation of any debt, either public or private, because our modern civilisation depends upon the sacredness of contracts.

War debts cannot be wiped off the slates and forgotten, because they exist to-day in Victory bonds in Great Britain and Liberty bonds in America.

England said to the United States, "We will pay our debts. What are your terms?" I think this is the greatest example of business integrity in the history of the world.

England appreciated the value of her credit and she guarded it safely."

When the Bolshevists, eleven years ago, looted the banks and confiscated private property they thought they had become rich beyond the dreams of avarice. They had destroyed the entire structure of credit. They were like the little child who opens his air balloon to see what is inside. Credit is something more than an air balloon, but it has the quality of buoyancy and a breath of distrust can destroy it.

Of all desperate expedients for governments in financial straits repudiation is the most costly. It settles nothing and it destroys what can only be recreated over a long period by enormous sacrifices. It is true that Britain, although she was owed by the Allies and Germany twice what she owed us, met her obligations and remained as she had been before, the world's most honored merchant in credit. She did not plead, as the French so often suggest, that she would pay us if somebody else paid her. For a merchant or a banker to make such a stipulation is an act of insolvency.

Comparisons may be odious, but that of Mr. Forgan was timely and justified.—Wall St. Journal.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER.

When we start to think about the proverb, "Knowledge is power," it does not seem to be always true. For we all know people who have great knowledge and who yet are not very efficient. Professors, for instance, are notorious for being absent-minded. There is a story told about a professor in the West who was to address a public meeting. The audience waited a long time for him, and eventually some one went to hunt him up. He was found fast asleep in bed. He had gone upstairs to change for the meeting, and then, forgetting his intention, had hopped into bed as soon as he got his working clothes off. But the English word "knowledge" in its original meaning had an idea which we do not generally attach to it to-day. It meant that a man of knowledge not only knew things, but knew how to do them. The wise men who met in the Old English Parliament called the Witanagemot were not only men of thought but men of action. Knowledge that cannot be applied is not really knowledge.

The man of knowledge not only knows, but knows that he knows. He knows that he knows, partly because he has spent time and effort in learning and in using the ideas he has learned. But he must not be confused with the man who does not know and who loudly expresses his opinions. Samuel Johnson, we are told in the greatest biography in the English language, was one day asked if a person born in London of foreign parents was English. He said in his dogmatic way, "The man who is born in a stable is not a horse." But a man may be born in a stable and be a donkey. And the man who thinks he knows when he doesn't is an ass. He knows where he is going, but he doesn't know why.

To know a thing one has to think about it and this means that one has to pay great attention to it, and learn about the things which have a bearing upon it. Mr. Quiller Couch, the English author, a short time ago was giving advice to the students at Oxford on how to write prose. He told them to learn to write poetry. This is a secret of success. To be successful in the job you are doing, learn the job ahead of it. It is easier to write prose than poetry, but the man who has learned to write poetry knows more about writing prose than he ever did before. And this is true in every walk of life. The man who is recognized as capable in his particular job is the man who knows more about the job he is doing than he has to know. There is a certain point at which one can "get away with" things, but one does not then really possess knowledge. The man who knows the stages beyond his particular work, knows why it is important that he should do a thing in a particular way. And he not only knows. He knows that he knows. He has real knowledge. With him "knowledge is power."—An editorial for young people from the Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Judging from the interest in the Campbellford race, the people of Ontario are sold on marathon swimming.

The present craze for tanning would be all right if the tanning were done in the woodshed as in the old days.

The St. Catharines Standard claims that there are still plenty of blacksmiths, but most of them call themselves automobile mechanics.

It is well to remember, as the Financial Post points out, that while a destroyed crop is a twelve-month evil, a forest fire is a permanent loss since decades are required to replace forest wealth.

The regatta season is at hand, which means that the fall fair period is just around the corner.

To-day's bright thought for the children is that the opening of the schools is only a month away.

A Thought

CULTURE

Every cultivated person knows how keenly he has to contend against a certain rudeness, both in others and in himself; how much his culture costs him; how apt he is, after all, in certain cases, to think of himself alone, forgetting what he owes to others. How often has a worthy person to reproach himself with having failed to act with proper delicacy? And when a fine nature too delicately, too conscientiously, cultivates, nay, if you will, overcultivates himself, there seems to be no toleration, no indulgence for it in the world. Yet such persons are, without us, what the ideal of perfection is within us; models not for being imitated, but for being aimed at.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 8.

She smiled at him, gallantly enough. But a queer little feeling that the advantage of the situation, for the rest of this day, lay very decidedly with him, was making conversation rather hard for her. Beatrice wished that she had been married for a year.

It had all seemed natural and right enough, even as short a time past as yesterday. But now, walking over the grounds of the new Wawataysee Club, talking pleasantly of unessential things with Mr. Houston Challoner, she felt strangely constrained and remote; as if he were—well, just Mr. Houston Challoner again and she just the humblest of his office employees. It all seemed funny, that nice old Scotchman calling her "Mrs. Challoner," and the beauty and silence of the big, sweet countryside, and the loneliness of it when the sun sank, now that the laborers had gone home.

For a third time—it was really more like a tenth, but she counted it as three—she remembered that big, laughing, deep-voiced boy. Her stepson! He had held her hands—so queerly, growing sober and puzzled, all at once. He had looked at her. And he had said, in a gentle, abstracted sort of tone, "Well, that's that, isn't it?"—that's the little clerk who has managed to capture Dad, he meant.

"What brings him—your son—back?" she asked, at supper.

"Bert?"

"Yes. Has he finished his course—whatever it was—at the Beaux Arts?"

"Finished nothing. He finishes nothing, that lad. He's a clever fellow too—I want you to like him, Beatrice. No, he's not finished. He just got tired and came home. He hadn't time for many details, but he said his intentions were honorable," said his father, smiling. "Probably he'll take a little vacation up at my mother's place and then go into the business."

"Will he be any use to you, Hugh?"

"Not a particle," the man said cheerfully.

"But why not send him back to Paris?" She wanted him to go back to Paris. He—he belonged in Paris.

"Oh, he's had enough of Paris!" his father said carelessly.

Suddenly she knew what she had felt, what she had resented, in young Bert Challoner's masterful, strange look this morning. He had thought that she was marrying his father just for money, that without money no man Hugh's age could win so young a wife. He had treated his father badly himself, trying to get money from Hugh, wasting his own time and disappointing those who loved him. And he had thought—young Bert had thought, "Here's another of us, working the old man!"

Beatrice told herself that she had read that in Bert's first appraising look. Well, he had been entirely wrong. Not that what he thought or didn't think signified in the least, as far as she was concerned.

She sighed, her slim young body resting against Hugh's shoulder. And Hugh bent his head down, in the soft, dusky summer darkness, and asked her if she was tired.

The days, under the circumstances, raced past Beatrice Challoner like leaves in an autumn wind. Everything was different from what her imagination had made it, and among all the changes and surprises and bewilderments of the new life she sometimes felt as if she had quite lost herself.

There was somebody in her place, truly, a fine, happy, busy, well-dressed woman named Beatrice Challoner, but she seemed to have little in common with Beatrice St. John.

This woman had no past, no relatives, no old home. There were occasional letters from a mother and sister in southern California, to be sure, but even these seemed unreal and entirely cut away from the old days and ways. As for the little apartment in a gritty, gray, commonplace block down toward Mill Street, Beatrice never saw it again after her wedding day—she saw the outside of the building once, by chance, when her car happened to pass it, but there were strange cheap curtains at the fourth-floor windows, a new apartment house had gone up on the lot next door, and nothing about it seemed familiar.

For the rest, she lived in a beautiful big, comfortable, somewhat old-fashioned mansion on Tory Hill. It was not old enough to be picturesque and not new enough to be thrilling. Experienced old servants managed it perfectly and saved her the trouble of hanging up her gowns or answering the telephone unnecessarily.

She wrote letters to her mother and Marcia, and called upon Hugh's sisters and aunts and cousins and mother, and drove herself downtown every afternoon at four o'clock to wait for him: pretty young Mrs. Challoner, whose story was so intensely romantic, bundled up in squirrel furs, with a cap of gray squirrel pulled down over her coppery hair, waiting for her husband.

Hugh, coming down to the street with his secretary beside him, would see her there, subsided, behind the wheel, perhaps reading the latest novel or idly watching the street that was softly brilliant in autumn sunshine or gray under a threatening winter sky. She would look up, his beautiful, gentle, devoted young wife—and the wide mouth would smile and show a flash of big, even white teeth, and Beatrice would bend out to kiss him and wriggle to her own side of the car.

Late in February, noon, the old chauffeur was driving Hugh and Beatrice home over slippery snow that had frozen and thawed and frozen again many times, when they had a mild collision with another car. At the time it seemed as if no one was hurt, but afterward it developed that Beatrice had been badly shaken; she had a time of bitter disappointment to bear, and for six weeks was kept very quiet, on one floor.

Hugh appreciated, even his mother and sisters appreciated, the fact that another woman might have made a great deal of this. But Beatrice bore it with her new dignity and made her illness even more touching and lovely than her health and spirits had been.

Every night when Hugh came home she was alone; he loved to send her violets and primroses, and there were always bowls of them about the big, white-paneled upstairs sitting-room where she waited for him. A wood fire would be burning in the white-tiled fireplace, behind the brass and irons, and Beatrice had half a dozen costumes with which to please him—the blue and orchid quilted silk robe that stood out all about her like the robe of an infant Spanish princess on a Velasquez canvas; the white one that was all ribbons and scented ruffles; the gray and green one whose collar lay like an Elizabethan ruff about her long, rounded white throat.

When they two were shut into this upstairs room, with the fire burning lazily, and it was cold and dark and stormy outside, Hugh would sometimes feel as if his heart would burst with sheer felicity. There was a mechanical piano in the shadow, and sometimes Beatrice would go to it, and he would sit back in his big leather chair, with his half-closed eyes fixed upon the slender figure in the gloom, under whose fingers the melodies were so softly creeping.

Then, fragrant, rounded, deliciously serious and young, she would come back to her chair, perhaps stopping to kiss the top of his head as she passed it, an in the tempered lamplight her green-gray eyes would find his and she would question him about his day.

What To-day Means To You.

AUGUST 3rd. "LEO".

If August 3rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11.30 a.m., from 2.15 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 7.30 p.m. to 8.15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 5.15 p.m. to 6.20 p.m.

The astrological signs on this date are far from reassuring and denote that there may be disappointments and failures of a personal nature, although it might well be that business ventures may prove profitable.

Children born on this August 3rd will be volatile, vivacious, loquacious and full of energy. They will demand much love and attention, and expect more than they themselves will be willing to give. If pampered and spoiled, they will inevitably become selfish.

Although exceptionally intuitive, you are extremely practical, and only permit intuition to guide your actions when it is in consonance with common-sense. You, no matter how many worries may arise in your own private life, can always detach your mind from their contemplation, and evince an enthusiastic and a sympathetic interest in the troubles and cares of others. You also never allow personal considerations to distract your attention from these things that are of local or national importance, and you always participate, so far as you can, in all movements having for their object the welfare of the human race.

Guided by high ideals, prompted by sincere motives, you manage, whether man or woman, to create for yourself a niche in the affections of your neighbors.

Your mind is a naturally fair one, and your methods are scientific. This does not mean to imply that you possess the detailed knowledge of a scientist, but it does mean that you are scientific in your manner of thinking, that is—potentially.

You are not much of an "outdoor" person; you are studious, observant, and intellectual. You show contempt for those who do not take life with a certain degree of seriousness, and you seek the companionship of those who can be classified as "thinkers". You are not, however, either a "highbrow" or a "blue stocking."

ANOTHER PROOF

ALBION, Mich., Aug. 3.—Another proof that women are more talkative that men is shown in a report from Albion College. Social conversation of co-eds at the school takes up 10 hours a week. Male conversation averages only 8 1-2 hours. One woman student is said to have used 40 hours a week in conversation. The average male student spends 54 hours in bed, the report states, while the average co-ed spends 56

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

A report from Cobalt states that Cobalt Contact continues in high silver ore, running about 2,000 ounces to the ton. A shipment of this ore was made to the smelter on July 27 and this will be followed by another shipment of the mine where work is now being carried on is said to have every indication of continuing in high grade for some time.

Interest in Kirkland Lake is centered on the Lake Shore which has now commenced to open up the 2,000-foot level by drifting. In view of the increasingly favorable results as lower levels of this property are opened up, the development of the 2,000-foot horizon is watched closely.

It is rumored trhat the Goodfish Mines will re-open shortly. This property is located in the eastern section of the Kirkland Lake district and was closed this year. The reason for the shut-down is not clear but lack of finances probably was the cause. Shortly before the cessation, Goodfish halted underground work from the main shaft and carried out some diamond drilling on different sections of the property, from the surface.

Mining in the Mississauga Reserve is at present enjoying a large boom. White Lake is the center of activity and it is understood that results here have been favorable. Prospecting is going on apace in the reserve and severa ldeals, involving the transfer of mining claims, have been completed. A group of New York mining interests are now considering optioning a promising group of claims near the White Lake Extension Mines. The only flaw in the activity is the shut-down of the Cheney (Sudbury Basin). The reason for this, however, is that Sudbury Basin prefers to center activity elsewhere. No unfavorable results have been reported from Cheney.

Drifting is proceeding on diabase rhyolite contact to southeast at Newbec. This is the contact they have been expecting to locate for some time. It may not be long now before the downward extension of 125-level ore is encountered.

Rouyn

Among the mines, attention seems now focused on Rouyn. Amulet is the center of trading activity, Newbec nears an interesting stage, Waite has had quite spectacular success of late, Mining Corporation has two drills working on 1,000 ft. horizon seeking extension of Noranda ore zone, Noranda is rapidly approaching the time for an expansion of production, Brownlee plans diamond drilling, while on Powell, west of Brownlee, quite an important discovery was recently made.

Amulet was the feature on the Standard Exchange today following offical confirmation of the report published here yesterday that diamond drill hole No. 220 had cut into good ore. The hole is being continued and its progress is being watched closely.

Additional work is planned for the claims of the Roderick Gold Mines, central Manitoba, where earlier exploration by the Roderick Syndicate resulted in the disclosure of favorable conditions. Financing arrangements through which the Huronic claims in the Hole River section are to be developed are understood to be proceeding satisfactorily. Provided this matter can be consummated in a reasonably short time it is planned to sink to a depth of 100 feet and drift in both directions on the vein which was the main showing on surface.

Two diamond drills are said to have commenced work on the McGinn property, Baldwin Township, Sudbury, under option to T. H. Rea of Toronto. Values on these claims are said to be encouraging, ranging from 2 1-2 per cent to 3 1-2 per cent copper over widths of about 40 feet. Mineralization is said to have been exposed for a distance of 1,200 feet.

W. H. Winchell, consulting engineer and mine manager for the Acadia Metals Ltd., left Toronto last night for the property, located at Oldham, N. S. Negotiations for an additional milling unit will also be discussed. Acadia is now operating at 100 tons per day. Sinking of the new and main working shaft will be commenced next week. Some $350,000 has been expended here during the last two years and it is planned to spend another quarter of a million this year to develop the property more thoroughly. The stock will soon be listed on the Standard Exchange.

Two thousand men are now at work in completing the Hudson Bay Railroad and 11 work trains are in operation. At least 1,000,000 yards of train fill are required to put the road in shape. The completion has been delayed somewhat due to necessity of fighting bush fires and also in taken sand from frozen gravel piles. It is now expected that the celebration of opening the road by driving in the golden spike will be delayed until next spring.

Conditions are now said to be improving at the Hollinger. A good shoot of ore is said to have been opened up on the 3,900-foot level and stations are now being cut on levels above. Perhaps Hollinger will emulate Dome and come back in a big way.

Reports from Sudbury state that work at the 1,000-foot level of the Falconbridge Nickel Mines is proceeding space, some 100 feet of drifting in both directions having been carried out. Another Sudbury operation that is attracting attention is the Lake Geneva. Recent results here are said to have been particularly encouraging. Latest reports were that three raises had been put up in solid ore.

BULL MOVEMENT LEADS NEW YORK

Utility Rise To Record Levels Buoys Up Entire List.

CALL MONEY EASIER.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil—Associated Press Financial Editor).

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The bull movement on the stock market assumed extraordinarily violent proportions in the utilities during today's two-hour session. An immense assortment of the utility stocks was hurled up 5 to 18 points to record levels, and the entire list was buoyed up by this demonstration. Gains were reduced somewhat by realizing in the final sales.

Some profit-taking was inspired by the overnight announcement of a gain of more than $400,000,000 in stock exchange member borrowings during July, but it was readily absorbed as bullish enthusiasm was held at a high pitch. In general, however, the public still held aloof from the market. Trading was but moderately active, total sales for the session approximating 1,750,000 shares.

The recent violent bidding up of high-priced issues has caused concern in some quarters lest it may be a shield for distribution.

Wheat Prices Easier On Chicago Exchange

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 3. —(Canadian Press). — With lower prices for wheat early to-day results from selling associated with big receipts here 7,105,00 bu. for the week against 2,825,000 bu. last year. Advices of liberal export business over night failed to act as an offset, Opening 1-2c to 1-3c off, wheat afterward underwent a decided additional set back. Corn and oats turned weaker also, with corn starting 1-2c to 1 1-4c lower, and subsequently continuing downgrade. Provisions were easy.

AMULET BEING CLOSELY WATCHED

How Big Is Ore Body Is Question Now Being Asked.

Amulet! Reminiscent of the history-making bull movement of two years ago was last Tuesday's trading in Amulet shares. Some 330,000 shares changed hands during the session and the stock gained substantially. Many traders were heard to remark that the Standard never so much resembled the hectic boom days. Amulet possesses a certain fascination for the public to such an extent that good news rarely fails to herald an upward swing.

Operations at the property are at an interesting stage. Suspending for a time their search for additional deposits in the immediate vicinity of their known ore bodies, the Amulet management decided to drill near the Waite Montgomery line in an effort to find extensions of Waite's increasingly-important ore, or new deposits in that latter vicinity.

Official reports indicate that two drill holes have cut good grade ore over large widths. A favorable feature of this new ore is that the zinc content is almost negligible, chief values being in copper. The questions now heard on the street are: "Did the two drills intersect two different ore bodies? Did they intersect one ore body at two far-away points, or were the two holes drilled at such an angle that although they are far apart on surface they come together at depth and cut the ore at approximately the same point?"

The importance of the above is obvious. If the two holes cut ore at widely separated points at means big things for the company. If the ore was intersected at practically one point the strike would be of less importance. In any case, however, indications are that the mine's position has been materially improved by the latest developments.

Amulet Developments Another Good Augury for Copper-Gold Camp

The importance of the new copper find to Amulet, near the Waite-Ackerman-Montgomery line is that, doubtless, it will speed the decision of the railway to build a spur into the property. Evidently, the discovery will add materially to physical resources of the company. Plans for the 300-ton concentrator probably will be speeded up.

If Amulet makes good in an important way, and its prospects now are greatly improved, it will mean a boost for the entire camp. It will add to Noranda potentialities as a customs smelter. Amulet's next door neighbor is, next to Noranda, the biggest thing in north-western Quebec. Heretofore, Noranda's splendid developments have overshadowed all other developments in the area. Aldermac and Abana operations are also important.

As ground is further proven in these widely scattered areas, results should give an impetus to scores of prospects and little development, for want of capital. The opinion is that actual development, operations will spread in the Quebec copper-gold field from now forward, with excellent changes that new producing mines will be disclosed.

There are bears on Amulet who are putting forward the claim that the new find on the property is an "old" ore body, and that it is being dressed up to make financing that the company may require easier. The folly of such a course appears the best answer to the rumor.

The last annual report of Amulet gave estimated ore reserves of $10,116,626, averaging in value between $20 and $25 in copper, zinc and precious metals. A 300 ton concentrator, it is estimated, will yield a revenue of better than $2,000,000, from which profits of $1,000,000 per anum may be expected. On this basis the mine at the end of last year had five years ore ahead, and if the new find opens up as promised, substantially longer life is indicated.

One of the 2,500,000 shares outstanding, profits of 40 cents per share per annum are indicated.

Sherritt-Gordon and Hudson Bay Companies

Sherritt-Gordon promises to be a bigger base metal enterprise than Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company's Flin Flon property, at least on the present showing. At the Flin-Flon, ore in reserve and in sight is estimated to approximate $270,000,000, while drill results on the Oak Claims of Sherritt-Gordon have perhaps added another $100,000,000 to the $200,000,000 already indicated and developed in the central and eastern workings. For a length of some 15,000 feet the big Sherritt Gordon ore zone has shown remarkable uniformity, while new drilling to the east of the most easterly shaft close to the Allen claims of Manitoba Basin has proved the extension of high grade material in this direction.

The bigger Sherritt-Gordon enterprise proves to be, the better it will be for Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co. It has a five-year contract with Sherritt - Gordon to handle all the concentrates of the latter. In calculating probable profits of Hudson Bay Company over a term of years, consideration must be given not only to what the company will make out of its own ores from the Flin-Flon but from customs business as well.

All developments centering on production at Hudson Bay are being speeded and by the end of this year the company should be in a position to start on its profitable career.

Important new developments are under way in Northern Manitoba, with which Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. is connected, and which promises to add further to the productivity of the field. Next year northern Manitoba will make an important place for itself in the base metal mining industry of Canada.

Russell's Two Subsidiaries Place Large Equity Behind Stock

Russell Motor Car Company has built up a second subsidiary in Canadian Acme, Screw and Gear, Ltd., that promises in good time to prove an important revenue producer. Operations of this company have been active this year to date, and profits are reported to have increased very materially.

Canada Cycle and Motor Co., Russell Motor's older subsidiary, has been a consistent earner for many years, and from this source the holding company has drawn sufficient revenues to pay dividends on its preferred and common stocks, Canada Cycle is reported to have built up a decidedly strong position. The policy of Russel management has been to keep its subsidiaries liquid.

Shares of Russel Motor Car Company are closely held. The majority of the common stock is reported to be in the hands of the management. It is probable therefore that Canadian Acme Screw and Gear Ltd., will pay dividends into Russel Motor Co.'s treasury only when Acme Company has established itself in an impregnable position. Meanwhile the equity placed behind Russel shares, as a result of the increase in the strength of these two subsidiaries, is claimed to be very large.

NIGHTWATCHMAN SLAMS DOOR IN BURGLAR'S FACE

Quick Action Saved Patrolman's Weekly Pay Envelope.

TORONTO, Ont., August 3 (Canadian Press). — When J. W. Davis, night watchman for a local factory, in making his rounds early this morning, opened an inner door, he was faced with a long-barrelled revolver, and heard the command, "Stand or I'll shoot!" Davis slammed the door, ran to another room and called the police. A search is now being conducted in the district for the robber, and Davis retains his pay envelope, which he was carrying at the time of the attempted holdup.

MUSIC AT GALLOWS

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Aug. 3.—(C. P.)Strains of classical music echoed through the cells in condemned row as the state made ready to hang Russell St. Clair Beitzel on San Quentin's gallows at 10 a. m., today, for the murder of Barbara Mauger, his 19-year-old common law wife in Los Angeles last year.

Beitzel, apparently unmoved played record after record on a portable phonograph. He ate a hearty supper last night and ordered a good breakfast for this mornin"

Motorists Drive Many Years Over Fifty-Foot Mining Shaft

COBALT, Ont., August 3. — (C. P.) — Motorists unaware of the danger have driven for years over a hole 50 feet deep in the centre of the Ferguson Highway south of here, which was protected only by a few half-rotted poles and a layer of gravel.

The hole was an abandoned mine shaft discovered by the government engineers and workmen when they built a new road from Latchford to Cobalt. Engineers found a a rock dump beside the roadway, but were unable to discover the mine from which it had been taken. Workmen tore up the road near the rock dump and found a yawning chasm, six feet wide, eight feet long, and 50 feet deep.

FINANCIAL BRIEFS

W. J. Pentland, of Dominion Stores Limited, has returned from New York. He was reticent when questioned regarding the report that an amalgamation between Loblaw Groceterias Co. Ltd. and Dominion Stores Ltd., was under way, but the street is pretty well convinced that a basis for a proposal to bring these two leading Canadian chain store groups together has been formulated. Doubtless before an announcement can be made, if negotiations come to that many details will have to be threshed out and difficulties ironed out. Both companies are in a secure position and well established in the Canadian field, and the only inducement for a merger is that such a consolidation would be of real advantage to both parties.

The Progress of Canadian Banks

The Stock Exchange Gazette, London, comments on Canadian banks as follows: "There is no uncertainty about the progress made by Canadian banks, both individually and collectively. Profits are higher all round and although there are no increases in dividends it is clear that both the banks and the country which they serve are enjoying abounding prosperity and steadily expanding their natural resources and their financial prestige."

Looks Like $6.80 Per Share for Famous Players.

Should Famous Players Canadian Corporation earn the same amount in the final quarter ended next month, profits on the common stock, including voting trust share, for the full quarter were greater than for the first six months, according to official figures, which are subject to audit. In the first six months ended February 28th profits were equal to $2.20 per share and in the third quarter they were equal to $2.30 per share. The company is going forward with installations of talking equipment, which now number 41. This number will be doubled. Plans of the company call for construction of large theaters, which should greatly enhance earning power. Obviously, the company is now in a position to pay substantial dividends on the stock. How much the rate will be depends on the amount the management desire to write off new expenditures.

Montreal to Seek $11,353,900 Loans

MONTREAL—Two loan by-laws are inscribed on the order of the day for the special meeting of the City Council today. One is for the amount of $7,353,000 for laying a trunk sewer and for other work required in the plan regarding the sanitation of the Riviere St. Pierre. The second loan by-law provides for an additional loan of $4,000,000, which amount is needed in anticipation of the collection of revenue for the civic year 1929. This is the usual procedure every year, whereby the city borrows funds from the banks for administrative purposes, pending the collection of revenue in September and more especially in October when the realty taxes become due.

The climate at the North Pole is the healthiest in the world according to Sir Douglas Wawson, British explorer. No germs can live there in the intense cold.

SNAPSHOTS OF A WOMAN GETTING COMFORTABLE

TORONTO STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Amulet Climbs Five While Noranda Gains Seventy-five.

MANY ISSUES EASY.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—The list presented an irregular aspect at the close of the Standard Mining Exchange to-day with easings in several issues.

Amulet strengthened 5 to 2.95 but there was no firming among the three other nonferrous issues which have shared the heavy turnover in the past few days. After rising to 1.65 Big Missouri closed at 1.59 for a net loss of one and Arno dropped 5 to 39½. Base Metals lost 5 to 5.45 and Ventures 15 to 8.25. But Noranda showed a 75 point gain to 63.25 while Sheritt Gordon and Waite Ackerman were both up 15 at 7.90 and Pend Oreille 25 to 16.75.

Lake Shore was active among the Golds and strengtheend 50 cents to an even 26.00. Hollinger gained 10 at 6.85, Howey 3 at 1.14 and McIntyre 10 at 16.60 but Dome was up to 25 to 13.75.

Ajax Oil rose 9 to 2.95 and Chemical Research was stronger by 35 cents to 16.35 while Wainwell was up 4 to 34. Associated Oil and Gas and Alberta Pacific Consolidated were strong in the early trading but dropped to show no change at the close.

ELDERLY WORKERS STILL VALUABLE

Employees Beyond Three Score Mark Are Efficient Men.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Research by Labor Commissioner Charles O. Beals reveals that Maine employers find workers still valuable beyond the three-score mark. Replies received from a questionaire show that 102 of the 107 firms have not established an age limit as to new employees, and in none of the plants are older employees discharged as long as they are able to perform their duties.

Many of the Maine plants favor the old employees by providing them with lighter work and thus receive the benefit of the skill that they have acquired during their years of service. In hiring men who are to learn the more skilled trades, 15 of the firms state that they require younger men, but in hiring for less skilled work and common labor, no age limit is set.

Some 18 of the firms carry group insurance on their employees and nine work under a pension system, while the entire 107 are assenting employers under the Workmen's Commen's Compensation Act.

POWER OF DEPORTATION

TORONTO, Aug. 3. —(C.P.)— A resolution that power should be given to the government to deport from Canada foreigners brought to this country to supplant Canadian workmen was passed by the Toronto Trades and Labor Council last night. The resolution claimed that immigrants were being purposely brought into the country and that employers should have to pay costs of deportation.

Water Companies Play Safe On Future Supply

LONDON, August 3. (C.P.)— Cricket pitches and a great deal of other ground was under water to-day, in strong contrast to ten days ago, when England was as parched as a desert. Despite the liberal downpour since them the water companies are taking no chances of another shortage of water. The amateur gardener must still use a bucket to water his lawn, instead of a hose. and the motor car owner can use only a sponge to clean his car.

GUEST ENTERS QUARTER FINAL

Takes Second Place To MacGreal, Philadelphia, in First Heat.

GILMORE TAKES SECOND.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 3.—(C. P.)— Emanuel J. MacGreal, of the Bachelors' Barge Club, Philadelphia, holder of the United States' National Sprinting Sculling Title, to-day qualified for the final by winning the first heat of the senior quarter-mile dash in one minunte, 21 seconds. Jack Guest, Canadian Sculling Champion, also qualified by taking second place in this heat, which opened the National Rowing Association's final regatta program.

W. E. Barrett Gilmore, MacGreal's double-sculling partner, won the second heat without great effort in one minute 20 2-5 seconds. John A. Crooks, of the Union Boat Club, Boston, shared the fourth and last lane in this afternoon's championship final by nosing Clement B. Newbold, Jr., of the University Barge Club, Philadelphia, out of second place.

Seven oarsmen started in the first sprinting heat and the also-rans were A. E. Fitzpatrick, of the Penn Athletic Club Rowing Association, Philadelphia; Winthrop Rutherford, Jr., of the University Barge Club, Philadelphia; Jack Durnan, of Toronto, the Canadan Sprinting Champion, Cranville Gude, of Washington, and Waldo H. Brown, of the Union Boat Club, Boston. They crossed the line in that order.

There were six starters in the second heat, which brought the rowing to a close until late this afternoon. Elswood F. Bole, of the Winnipeg Rowing Club, finished fourth; Albert B. DEAD WERE BURIED IN HUGE EARTH JARS Philippine Dead Encased in Jars Made in China 960 A.D.

MANILA, Philippines, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Scientists exploring caves and old burial grounds in the Philippines have been puzzled by huge porcelain jars which they found in some of the caves. Although skulls, bones and other relics indicated that the jars had something to do with burial rites, their size precluded their use as containers of food or water for refreshment of the deceased in the spirit world.

The mystery was solved recently when one of the jars was unearthed intact, containing the complete skeleton of a man. The skeleton was in a sitting position, and further research has convinced the explorers that the ancient custom of burying the dead in jars was widespread throughout the archipelago.

Some of the jars showed indications of having been made in China during the Sung dynasty which reigned there from 960 to 1232 A.D. Others apparently were of domestic manufacture. The jars have been given to the Philippine Museum by Prof. H. Otley Beyer, anthropologist.

MRS. SIDNEY WEBB'S NEW DIFFICULTIES

As Wife of New Lord Passfield She May Add M.P. to Her Name.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Aug. 3. —(Canadian Press).—The "Guardian" has an editorial on Mrs. Sydney Webb.

If Mrs. Sidney Webb prefers to keep her own distinguished name, her wish is intelligible and should be respected. Her position is not the same as her husband's. No doubt she will suffer jointly from the expenses of rank, and she may find it hard to convince hotel proprietors that the wife of Lord Passfield should be only charged the rates expected from Mrs. Sidney Webb. She may experience difficulties, too, in avoiding some of the strict and uncomfortable laws of precedence and etiquette.

But she remains a commoner who may yet, if she chooses and is chosen, add M.P. to her long list of distinctions and who retains her right to vote for her parliamentary representative. If she is accused of fraud or homicide she takes her chance like the rest of us, before a common jury. And Mrs. Sidney Webb may well think that Lady Passfield denotes no elevation of real rank. In that amazing partnership of joint work no one has ever thought of Mrs. Webb as simply the wife of Mr. Webb, nor of Mr. Webb as simply the husband of Mrs. Webb. Each has been individually and equally distinguished. Mrs. Webb has earned her own honors and prefers her own name.

With the arrest of Frank Farrarelli, Port Colborne, Ont., and the seizure of one of his rum-exporting craft by provincial police, it is alleged that evidence of a sensational nature, of the shortcircuiting of liquor under the government control act has come to light. Farrarelli is formally charged with "selling." The photograph shows (1) Provincial Constable H. O. Finger Welland; (2) the seized rum craft, and (3) C. G. POLICE OFFICER IS SHOT IN ARM

Manager On Guard Mistakes Constable For Prowling Burglar.

ENTERING TRANSOM.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Constable William Kelly suffered a gun shot wound in the arm, and William McCarthur, Manager of the National Sanitary Supply Company is under arrest on a charge of vagrancy as the result of serious mistaken identity this morning.

About five a.m. the officer was patrolling his beat on King street east and west to the rear of the National Company's quarters to see if the doors were locked. He found a transom opened, and climbed up with his flashlight in hand to see if the place had been entered.

When he put his arms through the opening, a shot rang out and a bullet struck him. Kelly then turned on the flashlight, shouting that he was an officer, and McCarthur emerged from the gloom of the store.

Place Formerly Robbed

An ambulance was immediately called and the constable's wound attended to. McArthur stated to the police that his place had been robbed some days ago, and he was watching there at night, expecting a repetition of the visit by shopbreakers. He had fallen asleep and awoke to see a figure at the door and had fired.

He appeared in police court and was remanded for one week. Officials of the Police Department praised the officer for not returning the shot without investigation, as he is one of the best marksmen on the force and the result of any firing by him might have been fatal to McArthur.

STEFANSSON SAYS THE ARCTIC SAFEST AIR ROUTE TO AMERICA

"If You Have Found Landing You Can Easily Walk to Shore," He Says.

FROST-BITES NOTHING

By Wilfred Wees
(Special to The Examiner)

CALGARY, Alta, Aug. 5.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson was passing through the small town of Yellowgrass, Saskatchewan, the other day when he received a wireless message from Commander Byrd sent out from a corner of the Ross shelf-ice in the Antarctic. Stefansson has been official adviser to Sir Hubert Wilkins in all of the latter's polar expeditions, and unofficially often receives requests for suggestions from the leaders of expeditions into the frigid zones.

Byrd's difficulty, it seems, is in the use of tents. In cold atmospheres bed-rolls can be kept dry only in snow houses.

The younger generation may be well-advised to tuck that bit of information away for reference and probable use in case of forced landings on the air routes of the future. For Stefansson dreams and prophesies of commercial air-trails over the world's top to Europe and the Orient.

Route is Shorter

"A glance at the map of the northern hemisphere," says Stefansson, "is convincing proof that the route is shorter. I contend that is as safer. For the Arctic ocean is the safest ocean in the world." The foregoing statement has been one of the theses of the explorer's recent series of lectures in the universities of Oxford and Cambridge.

On the face of it Stefansson's remark is absurd. Perhaps it is less absurd, however, than the prophecy of fifty years ago that men would fly; and Stefansson would suggest that the absurdity is due only to the set of our minds from the study of geography texts which continue to falsify "the friendly arctic."

"For example," he says, as he picks up a western school text in geography, "it is commonly reported that the Eskimos drink oil for food. That is a phenomenon that I have yet to see. But this book says that Eskimo children drink quantities of animal oil to quench their thirst. It might pay an enterprising refreshment concern to carbonate cod-liver oil and sell it at the Aklavik soda fountains."

Many Safe Landings

In defence of his stand on the safety of the Arctic ocean Stefansson points out that there is no other part of the world let alone an ocean, containing so many safe landing places for aeroplanes. Sir Hubert Wilkins on polar flights was forced down three times and landed safely on the ice-fields. In the second place, the longest necessary over-water flight on some of the important Arctic routes of the future is shorter than some of the standard hops on the North American continent today. In the third place, if you do have a forced landing in the Arctic you can usually walk to shore.

Stewansson believes that the present proposed flight from Saskatoon to London may mark the launching of great commercial routes through Canada to Europe and the orient. A New York-to-Paris flight is spectacular, Stefansson thinks, but if as much time, effort and money had been spent in establishing routes over the top of Canada, commercial flying to Europe would now be in regular operation.

It is difficult to think of this soft-voiced, mild-mannered man of the drawing-room and the lecture-platform as the Stefansson of more than eleven years of Arctic exploration and hardship. Stefansson, of course, will not admit that travel in the Arctic is a hardship. "Nothing that we enjoy," he says, "can be termed a hardship. So many people ask me about the cold and the dangers of freezing; but anyone who has lived in the Arctic thinks no more of a frost-bite than people of the south think of a sun-burn. As a matter of fact, they are very similar. A bit of frost, and the skin turns red. A little more frost, and the skin blisters. I have never suffered from frost more than I have from sunburn.'

HEAVY TOBACCO LOSSES SUSTAINED IN STORM

Electric Storm Damages Over Three Million Dollars Worth of Crops.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Growers in Connecticut's chief tobacco-raising area, centreing about this city, faced ruin yesterday because of heavy losses resulting from an electrical storm which, accompanied by violent hail and wind, took on the proportions of a tornado.

Conservative estimates placed the losses through destruction of tobacco crops alone at $1,250,000, while figures for the general damage, including that to floral and other crops and to property, set the aggregate losses at nearly $2,000,000.

CORPORATION IN VESTORS TO RECEIVE $150,000,000

Huge Distribution Plum, Indicated by $90,000,000 for Seven Months.

STAYS IN DOMINION

By A. D. O'Halloran

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Aug. 2.—Dividend payments by Canadian corporations and financial institutions having their securities listed on the eastern stock exchanges aggregated nearly $90,000,000 in the first seven months of 1929, indicating total payments for the entire year of approximately $150,000,000. The actual total of all Canadian disbursements would run considerably higher than this as distributions on securities not listed would aggregate a substantial sum.

An estimate of payments for the first seven months of 1929 based on the ex-dividends at the end of each month returns a total of $89,189,176 and of this total $4,592,910 will be distributed in the course of the next few days as dividends accrued for the period ending with July 31st.

The year to date has witnessed initial distributions on new and old securities, increased payments and an unusually large number of extras and bonuses along with stock dividends and rights not to be figured as actual cash.

While a portion of the money paid out to shareholders of Canadian corporations passes out of the country the wide interest Canadians have exhibited in the stock market in the past three or four years assures a goodly portion of the total remaining in the Dominion. New financing has also been accomplished with ease and conversion of privately-owned concerns into public ones with the securities in the hands of the public is responsible to a large extent for the increase of cash each month paid to investors in the Dominion.

Below will be found payments by the month estimated from the official list of ex-dividends on the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges. In each case the total represents the amount paid for the quarterly or half-yearly period ending with the month previous to that in which the actual distribution took place:

February	$ 2,888,928
March	15,545,547
April	17,642,314
May	4,375,577
June	24,387,660
July	19,756,830
August	4,592,910
Total	$ 89,189,766

June, July, April and March were the heaviest months of the year. This is accounted for by the fact a great many Canadian corporations end their fiscal period with the calendar year and make distributions for each quarter. Some make payment in the closing days of each respective quarter and others in first few days of the month following.

The August list comprises fifty-four industrial and mining companies, financial institutions and public utilities making payment on sixty-three securities. All branches of industry are well represented and bonus, extras, and increased distributions are liberally sprinkled throughout.

TRADING IDEAS UNCONSIDERED WITHIN EMPIRE

Hon. Frank Carrell Claims No Attempt is Made For Proper Organization.

BUSINESS MEN WAKENING

Unemployment in England and U. S. Tariff Are Blessings in Disguise.

INTER-EMPIRE TRADE.

(Written for The Canadian Press, by Hon. Frank Carrel, Member of the Legislative Council of Quebec.)

TRADING IDEAS.

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 1.—During my recent two months stay in London, I was impressed with the necessity of an organization of business men throughout the Empire to unravel and settle many conflicting commercial problems, which I believe are retarding the expansion of trade within the Empire.

There seems to be no organization among the many existing within the Empire to cover this situation. I interviewed many prominent men on the subject and met many Canadians, and am more than ever convinced that a fresh organization should be formed. It will be of inestimable value to all governments and trading associations of the Dominions if the many conflicting problems could be aired and solved by coming to-gether by mutual understanding.

Business Men Wakening.

The unemployment situation in England and the raising of the tariff in the United States are blessing in disguise. They are awakening the business men of the Dominions and Motherland to do some serious thinking and this should lead to action. This is why it is absolutely necessary that there should be some central agency—a clearing house—one might say—to co-ordinate the thought which is going through the minds of many to-day on a subject of such vital importance to capital and labor th oughout the Empire.

For instance Canadians want to trade with Great B itain. They are becoming rich, efficient in manufacturing and beginning to travel, not alone, but with their families, considering it part of their education I have met many of them, some touring England in their own motor cars, who would feel more at home if the formalities in signing their automobiles' entries were removed. They are trifling irritating conditions, which might be easily cleared away by an organization such as I have in mind.

I met a prominent Canadian broker visiting England with his family, who was indignant with the fact that after shopping with his wife and purchasing 17 articles in various stores to find the majority of them foreign made. The president of one of Canada's leading financial institutions was perturbed over th fact o being driven to his hotel in a foreign made taxi; in a country with a million unemployed.

Another Canadian woman was indignant with an English friend who bought a dinner service made in Czecho-Slovakia. Naturally each coun ry has its specialties—but ordinary goods used in England should be made in England. Similar case come to one's notice from day to day. How can we ask the people o Canada, much as we want to, to buy British-made goods when they come here to experience these conditions. They and their children return and becom mo e and more Americanized than ever.

United States Spreads Factories.

The foreign trade policy of the United States manufacturers is to plant branch factories in all countries where there is a market for their goods. They have honey-combed Canada with over a thousand branch factories. They are now penetrating Great Britain and will continue their course in other European markets. The result of this modern policy of trade expansion decreases export trade. Of course, Canada with its potential natu al resources and immense water powers is benefitting by this American policy of oreign trade expansion with its stirring of branch factories and chain stores. But does it benefit Great Britain? Again the Americans build artistic as wel as efficient fac ories, generally on the most important and conspicuous sites, thereby benefitting by constant and direct advertising of their goods. A few recently erected in London are el citin much comment. One is even illuminated at night, but what is more noticeab e than anything else to the practical bu iness man, is that it is erected at a point where the motor traffic is enormou , and they aremaking goods for motor cars. We can only compete with the American in his enterprise and foresight by emulating him. We are doing it in Canada, why not in England?

Chain Stores Grow.

Then take the methods of salesmanship and service, the most important adjuncts to export trade. We can adopt many excellent ideas from the Americans in this direction. The chain store, which really originated in England, has rapidly developed in America. It is direct trading from the factory to the consumer. It fills factories with orders. The Eaton dry goods business of Canada is worth observation. They are expanding their business throughout Canada with branches of immense proportions, thereby enabling them to keep their factorie in full operations. To American branch factory and chain store system has penetrated throughout Canada and now is do ng the same thing in Great Britain. That system will naturally increase American trade abroad. The process of this trade expansion is to introduce and sell American goods. The export business must in consequence suffer. Let me give you an example. I am financially interested in an American company which a few years ago was supplying the British and German markets with goods from its Brooklyn factory. Now there are branch factories in both countries, therefor , America ceases to export to them—but the purchasing power of raw materials (steel lead and copper) of these factories still remains American. To-day Americans are not thinking so much of export trade in the literal sense, as they are of finding markets for their surplus goods and it seem to me, Empire manufacturers have everything to gain by emulation of this trade policy and there is no greater way of building the foundation for this course than by establishing the greatest mutual understanding, goodwill and sentiment on this question throughout the Dominions and Great Britain.

Not Enough Branch Plants.

At a time I was talking to a British stainless steel manufacturer whose plant was only working about fifty per cent of capacity, word arrived that an American stainless steel company were going to erect a branch factory in the Province of Quebec. This wi l mean a loss of orders for Sheffield. If this firm had followed the American method of trade expansion through the establishment of branch factories six months ago, there is no doubt that the American manufacturer, who uses scientific reckonings in planning his industrial expansion, would not have ventured into Canada, because his research experts would not have considered the field large enough for two such factories. British manufacturers must reconc le themselves to the present day American trade expansion movement, if they want to keep pace with the times.

I met a Canadian Trade Commissioner from India and asked him what Canada sold in that country. He said "large quantities of automobiles." I could not help thinking that the Canadian automobiles were manufactured in American branch factories, the profits from which went to American shareholders. How amusing, yet how true. Here was Canada, glad to further the trade of her American branch factories, in India, not only because it provided labor for her working population, but it evidenced her appreciation of the investment of American capital within her border.

Bette Without Soviet.

I believe Canada and Great Britain are better at the present time without diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia but this state of affairs need not interfere with taking orders for goods, if the purchasers have the gold to pay for them. While England is busy thinking over the matter, the Americans are capturing many concessions in natural resources and even laying the foundations for the establishment of branch factories—to advertise and educate the people in the use of American goods. Even Ford who, one would think would be the last man in the world to have any truck or trade with the Russians, is reported to have closed a deal with them, which will made his car the most widely known car in Russia, yet I have not the least doubt that Mr. Ford's principles do not condone the Russian conduct any more than the strictest minds in England, but Mr. Ford like many American manufacturers, draws the line between his personal views and his desire to find employment for working men and will go after business in any country with his branch factories as long as he can find a market for his class of car.

Another strong factor among Americans is their overwhelming desire to obtain home-made goods along the world's travel routes. A similar patriotic sentiment with the people of the Empire would certainly increase Empire trade.

Suggests Remedies.

The discussion of these and many such important economic questions among employers and employees in all parts of the Empire as a medium of education would assuredly benefit and stimulate inter-Empire trade. The following suggestions would, I think, help us to achieve this purpose:—

First—The organization of a representative body from all the Dominions, to meet annually in London or elsewhere to debate and solve by resolution many conflicting problems, independent of politics, but representative of capital and labor.

Second—That branches be established in all industrial centres to meet weekly or monthly at which time, personally, or through the agency of the "talkies" the mos prominent men of the Empire could address these meetings on the increase of trade within the Empire.

Through this medium, with the use of the theatres at the noon hour, millions of our Empire population would be enlightened on economic issues that would create greater understanding and goodwill and a material patriotism that would stimulate and increase trade within the Empire.

The following are a few advantages that would be obtained by th activities of such an organization:—

To support and help all Government efforts in inter-Empire trade.

To remove political, racial, sectional or selfish motives from such efforts.

To make the object one of honor and patriotism to the commercial progress and welfare of one's country and one's Empire.

Free Class Discussion.

To give all trade classes an opportunity of free discussion on all subjects pertaining or leading to the main issue.

To hold sessions every year, in London or elsewhere, to give final voice of approval to all branch resolutions, before presentation to all Governments.

To encourage and assist workmen of an inventive disposition.

To publish, print and circulate in simple text form, pamphlets such as "What does Trade within the Empire mean to us?"

To meet weekly or monthly at luncheon or in theatres during the noon hour to keep movement alive.

To protect Empire trade interests, particularly relative to discriminations of foreign countries.

To inspire employer and employee on the vital benefits of trade within the Empire.

To convert prominent and representative men to inter-Empire trade ideals.

To educate the public on the economic principle of trading within the Empire.

To encourage and emulate America's efficiency, methods of salesmanship and national penetration where it does not exist.

To teach our children more patriotic love, pride and respect for Empire goods.

To become a happy medium of understanding on all conflicting trade questions, now causing unnecessary prejudice and ill feeling.

From all whom I have interviewed, from the man in the street to the most prominent men, I can assure you no movement will meet with greater general public support, or favor, if a group of British public spirited men will only lend a hand to give it a start. I feel sure Canada and all the Dominions will answer the call as they did in the great war.

STILL MOURNS FOR MATE

Alice, 107-year-old circus elephant, still remembers and mourns for Jumbo, her one-time mate, killed by a train at St. Thomas, 44 years ago, her owner declares. Alice (shown in picture No. 1), is reported to have gone into a paroxysm of grief and terror when she sighted the spot where Jumbo met his death; and to have been pacified only by the efforts of Major, a Great Dane (shown in No. 2). Skeptics declare that Alice was 3,000 miles distant, in the London Zoo, when Jumbo was killed; but G. W. Walker, her trainer (No. 3) insists that she was with her mate on that occasion.

DREAMS UNTRUE BLISSFUL YOUTH TAKES OWN LIFE

Supposed Daughter-in-Law of Mayor "Bill" Thompson Commits Sucide.

BATHING BEAUTY

Windsor Girl Returns Home in Despondent Condition Over Fake Husband.

WINDSOR, August 1.— Her dream of happiness evidently shattered, 17-year-old Gertrude Burns, after a few weeks of blissful happiness, returned to the home of her parents 1079 Moy Avenue, from Chicago and last night took her life according to police by means of a strong dose of poison.

Bathing Beauty.

The girl a bathing beauty attracted some attention months ago when she entered a beauty contest, her finely-shaped form and attractive features gaining favorable comment on all sides. Then she met Willard Thompson.

Fascinating, with an easy manner of approach, a smart dresser, he typified the man of the world of her girlish dreams, and she soon succumbed to his lure. He told her that his father was Mayor William "Big Bill" Thompson, the Windy City's leading citizen ,and soon he secured the consent of the girl to go there to live with him. She did, and, according to her own story, told to the police here ,she was married to him and reside dwith him at 8020 Princess Avenue, Chicago. There, she said, she met his married sister, but was not introduced to his father.

She returned to Windsor about a month ago, and her parents, doubting her story, asked police help. The girl was taken to the police station, but repeated questioning could not shake her story ,and she proudly exhibited her ticket back to to Chicago, announcing her intention of rejoining her husband.

She went home ultimately, however, but left her parents again, and the next they saw of her, according to police, was when she returned recently. The unfortunate girl appeared despondent, she had evidently discovered that her husband was a "fake," for William Hale Thompson has no son.

Went for Walk.

Last night she brightened considerably, though, and went out for a walk. During that walk she premeditated and laid the plans of self-destruction. About 7.30 o'clock she entered the drug store of W. F. Westover, and purchased a three-ounce bottle of oil of cedar. This is a poison, and is used for placing in cedar chests for the destruction of insects . She signed for it, as is customary, using her married name, and owing to its commercial use, the clerk felt no reluctance in selling her the dangerous commodity.

Then she evidently walked back home, as she was there when her parents returned.

About 9.50 o'clock she kissed her parents good-night, a custom she had followed since childhood, and they had no suspicion that their daughter's smiling face but covered a heart torn with emotions, that their child would never again speak to them or embrace them.

Frightened Screams.

The unfortunate young girl made her way to her bedroom, where slept two little sisters. Five minutes later the frightened screams of the little ones caused the parents to rush upstairs, and there they found Gertrude writhing in agony . Medical help was summoned, Dr. Gordon Morris responding. While the doctor made hurried arrangements for the care of the girl at the Metropolitan Hospital, and the ambulance of Janisse Brothers was summoned, the deadly poison got in its work and the girl died before the ambulance arrived.

The bottle was found in bed beside her, drained to the last drop. Coroner Dr. W .Crassweller this morning decided that an inquest was not necessary, but police complained that they had not been notified of the tragic affair until this morning at nine o'clock, pointing out that the medical profession was in duty bound to inform them of tragedies of this nature. No explanation was forthcoming as to the delay in notifying police, but this morning Detective-Sergeant Duncan MacNab and Detective James Yokum investigated the case.

Cork Bitten.

A glance at the bottle showed that the girl had probably bitten at the cork of the poison bottle as soon as she had retired. It had broken, the upper half coming away, and the other half remaining plugged in the neck of the bottle. This had then been shoved inside, before the contents were drained.

Where Willard Thompson is remains a mystery ,but it is not likely that any effort will be made to apprehend him, as police feel that no charge could be laid against him.

It was stated by police that the girl had once before been in Hotel Dieu, suffering from the effects of a poison, supposedly self-administered.

Gertrude was the eldest of the Burns children ,and is survived, besides her parents, by six little brothers and sisters, Lawrence, Harry, Corinne, Jack, Virginia, and James, Junior. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

A python's eggs are about the same size as those of a hen. After laying about a hundred, the female coils herself round them and remains thus until the young are hatched. This takes two months, during which time the snake fasts.

NEW PARKING RULE WORRIES FARMERS

Store Patrons Think New Fifteen-Minute Rule Too Short for Business.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Aug. 3.—The new fifteen-minute parking by-law has created a stir in Havelock. Many citizens think th longer parking time, perhaps ha hour, would be much better.

One merchant of the town says the farmers who patronize his store say they cannot do their business in the allotted time and would find it a nuisance to have to shift their cars every fifteen minutes. Another business man thinks the law a very good one, pointing out that anyone bringing produce into town can drive up to the store where he trades, leave his goods and drive his car to an unrestricted area nearby and call back to make his purchases and transact other business at his leisure.

Many of the residents think the by-law was greatly needed to prevent a line up of cars from seven in the evening till near midnight.

The latter part of the evening was spent in music and conversation.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—With receipts approximately 1,200 head lighter than the preceding session, salesmen were able to move the bulk of cattle supplies during the week's market at the Union Stock Yards. Quality was generally common to medium, however, and, as buyers exhibited chief interest in the better class of cattle, declines of 25 cents to 50 cents per cwt. were recorded in sales of common quality supplies.

Monday's receipts were fairly heavy, and although buyers took the best of the supply in opening trade, approximately 1,500 head remained in the yards at the close, chiefly common butchers' cattle. Tuesday's market witnessed a sharp decline in receipts, however, and Wednesday's offering was also more in keeping with current demand. Good quality cattle were scarce during the entire week and brought prices fully steady with the preceding week.

Among the week's outstanding transactions were sales of five loads of good quality heavyweight steers at prices of $11.50 per cwt. to $11.85 per cwt., while some common quality heavies sold as low at $9.75. Good lightweight and weighty brought prices ranging from $10 to $11 per cwt. and a few changed hands as high as $11.25. The best of the heifer supply reached $10.50, although the majority of butchers' steers and heifers were of common to medium quality only and these sold between $8 and $9, with an extreme low for the week of $5.

Common to medium quality animals formed the bulk of the cow supply and sold 25 to 50 cents lower at a range of $5.50 to $7, with canners at $4, while the better grades were fully steady at $7.50 to $8 and sales were recorded as high as $8.50 for a few.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—The local cheese market continued dull and featureless. Prices ruled steady, with No. 1 Quebec white and colored selling from 16⅝c to 16¾c per pound, and No. 1 Ontario white and colored selling from 17½c to 17¾c per pound. Receipts were 4,893 boxes.

The butter market continued to rule steady with Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized selling at 38c to 38¼c per pound in a wholesale way. Receipts were the best of the week, amounting to 3,335 boxes.

Eggs in a wholesale carlot way were advanced to a dozen to-day, but prices to the retail trade were unchanged. Receipts were the heaviest of the week, 2,775 cases.

The potato and poultry markets were unchanged.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—Rising butter and egg values marked the course of moderately active wholesale produce trading in Toronto during the last week. Buying reflected a pronounced demand from distributive sources and supplies appeared to be almost insufficient to meet current demand. This was particularly evident in the egg market, extras and first-grade eggs moving readily at firm prices, although the supply of second-grade eggs was more than sufficient.

The strong tendency in produce prices was a natural sequence to the active trading of the last ten days in July, when receipts began to shrink in volume. A factor of increasing importance during the week was the continued dry weather, which, coupled with rising temperatures, had the effect of curtailing the prospective butter supply, not only in Western Canada, but in Ontario and Quebec as well. Egg conditions were similarly influenced by prolonged hot weather and the course of egg values reflected this situation to a marked degree.

From a range of 38c to 38½c a pound at the close of last week, finest No. 1 creamery butter has risen steadily in fractional amounts to a range of 39c to 39¼c a pound for supplies delivered in Toronto yesterday. The higher price range is a result of active demand which has centred on No. 1 grade supplies, but No. 2 butter moved correspondingly upward to a range of 37¼c to 37½c, and prices to the retail trade show an increase of a cent or more for the week. Number 1 creamery prints were quoted to the retail trade at 42c yesterday, with No. 2 prints at 40c.

Cheese Trading Is Quiet.

Cheese trading was quiet at the week's opening and in subsequent sessions the market exhibited a somewhat easier undertone. To-day's meetings of country cheese boards will do much to establish the trend of next week's prices, which during the last five days have approximated 18¼c a pound for new, large, waxed cheese, No. 1 Government graded, delivered in Toronto. In view of current market price movements it is interesting to compare the storage figures for Toronto warehouses, announced yesterday. At August 1 butter stocks of 67,809 packages, creamery, were slightly below those at Aug. 1 a year ago, but in spite of the firmer tendency of the market present stocks are substantially above those of a month ago, when only 38,287 packages were in Toronto warehouses. The increase in storage holdings of butter has, therefore, amounted to nearly 50 per cent. in the past month, but demand has been so active that prices have risen in the face of the larger supply.

RANGERS IN CAMP AT NORWOOD ROAD

One Hundred and Fifty Members Are Under Canvas For Musketry Training.

Last night the Rangers went under canvas on the rifle ranges on the Norwood road. At 8 o'clock one hundred and fifty members of the Rangers assembled at the Armouries and marched to the camp site, where they will encamp over the week-end and the Civic Holiday on Monday.

An advance party of twelve men went to the scene Thursday night under the command of Major G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M. There were also two officers and one N. C. O. in the party. Yesterday they placed the tents of the camp.

The camp is in command of Lt.-Col. M. H. Park, who states that it is in ship-shape condition. The equipment includes six marquee tents, forty-five bell tents and a hospital tent. The site is ideal for the camp on account of the high nature of the ground and fresh water supply available.

On their arrival at the camp, the men drew their blankets and fatigue equipment. In the morning they began the musketry training which is the purpose of the camp. Also there was a period of field training.

Instructors at the camp are Sergt.-Major Driscoll, Q.M.S. Tulliner and Q.M.S. Glancross of the ordinance corps.

During the camp the men will compete in musketry for numerous challenge cups and trophies.

On Sunday there will be a divine service at the ranges and a concert has been arranged for the evening to be staged by members of the Rangers with the Ranger Band in attendance. A special attack practice will take place Monday afternoon when the men will advance down the ranges firing at intervals at disappearing targets.

AT WOOLER.

The bride-to-be, Miss Stella Nelson, one of the most popular young ladies of this town, was honored with a miscellaneous shower, which was so beautifully arranged in the church parlors by Mrs. Ray Plumpton and Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth. The decorations were so attractive of white and mauve crepe paper and white bells, large white baskets of flowers. The friends gathered in large numbers, and filled the room.

Rev. H. B. Neal was in the chair, and in his humorous manner presented the arranged program:

Vocal solo—Laura Vosburgh.
Hawaiian guitar—John Hunt.
Recitation—Lulu McColl.
Vocal solo—Grace Mutton.
Vocal solo—Virginia Cole.
Piano duett—Mrs. A. G. Austin and Mrs. L. H. Rowe.
Vocal solo—Ada Whitney.
Address—Rev. H. B. Neal.

Then Stella and her fiancee, Angus Gunter, were invited to the two chairs placed in front of a long white decorated table, where they received their gifts.

Doris Nelson and Edith Austin carried a large basket filled with gifts to this table, and unwrapping and placing the same, and following immediately were Luella Nelson and Elsie Rutlan with another basket and vice versa until five were brought in, making a wonderful display of a case of silver, gasoline lamp, cut glass in white and color, china, bedroom and dining-room linen.

The Sunday School class, of which Miss Nelson was a member, gave her an Irish linen dinner tablecloth and serviettes, rocking chair, and many kitchen aluminum pieces, all showing the esteem in which the young couple are held.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

Yesterday was the greatest day that Campoellford has ever seen. It was conservatively estimated that the population of thet own increased five nundred per cent. for the day. Late last night the restaurants were entirely sold out of almost everything edible. The hot dog stands were doing a capacity business long after midnight.

A damper was thrown on the unofficial celebration about two o'clock this morning when a fourteen year old girl was reported missing and the anxious parents began to search for her. She had gone to bed early, but was later missed from her room. There seemed little that could be done but search everywhere in the town for her. Eventually she returned, unaware of the anxiety she had caused.

They tried to have a night shirt parade last night, but it wasn't really a success. This was entirely due to lack of proper organization. The event had not been listed on the program and there were only comparatively few who knew of it. The band appeared attired in night clothes, but the parade was short and terminated in a street dance at the corner of Front and Bridge streets.

The number who witnessed the swim yesterday afternoon has been conservatively placed at five thousand. The highest estimate so far is twice that number. Whatever the number may have been, it was certainly a large crowd.

The crowd got a laugh yesterday. Just when every individual was tense, waiting eagerly for the starting gun, it happened. From a motor boat in front of the starting float, the starter was giving his final instructions and warnings. "No.., swimmers, keep your places," he called. Immediately five swimmers fell backward into the river. They were on the outer extremity of the float and the one at the very end of the line was Miss Helen Miller, Toronto, whom everyone, not knowing her name, dubbed the Fat Lady. It required two or three minutes to get all hands back on board, then the race started.

Ernst Vierkotter, the big German champion swimmer, did not go in the race. During the progress of the event, the announcer was understood to say that Vierkotter was not in the race, but was in the crowd of spectators.

The first real boxing exhibition which Campbellford has ever had, was held in Meyer's arena last night under the supervision and management of Playfair Brown of Toronto. There was some interesting entertainment between bouts, and the capacity crowd left the arena after the fight, feeling that they had had full value for their money.

Last night Roy Locksley and his Canadians closed a three-day engagement as Old Home Week dance orchestra at the High school auditorium. This band of musicians are the regular orchestra at Rye's Pavilion, Peterborough and were specially engaged for the Campbellford celebration. They dispensed their music with al the mastery of jazz players and have a pleasing faculty of playing classics in dance time, and in such a way as to make it exellent dance music without spoiling the classic beauty. The general opinion among the dancing crowd during Old Home Week was that their slogan was well selected. "You don't have to dance. Just get on and ride." Last night approximately two hundred couples "got on and rode." It was the largest crowd of Old Home Week and Old Home Week has been having the largest crowds ever seen dancing in the High school.

Among the guests on board the cabin cruiser from New York specially to see the swim yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Mulqueen, Toronto. Mr. Mulqueen was in charge of the Canadian Olympic team during one of their voyages overseas.

SCHOOL DAYS ARE RECALLED

evening swim. Now Doc Longmore has the edge.

Right in the middle of the singing, the band stormed the class rooms. It wasn't the regimental band, but a clown band and they were runnin' wild. At least that was the tune they played as they stood on the desk and broke up the lesson. The disease was contagious. The scholars began to run wild. Old and young let down the barrier and paraded up and down the aisles, stepping high and singing their loudest and in an effort to drown the band. Others danced at the front of the room. One bad boy and girl got right up on the desk and danced. The teacher could not get to them with her pointer of their dance would have been short.

There was, however, a more serious side of the reunion. After the fun began to subside there was roll call. This was arranged by each pupil standing up and giving their name and where they were from. They came from Halifax, N.S., Vancouver, B.C., and Los Angeles, California and intervening points, from all over the continent. But even here there was fun. Just when the scholars were begining to realize how far apart they had drifted through the years, a voice from near a west window broke in with, "Aye hane Olie Yonson, Aye coom frum Minnie-a-poleus." The remark brought roars of laughter. This was in Mrs. Thompson's class.

When it was all over and the last name had been given, Mrs. Thompson was visibly affected. "I'm proud of every one of you," she said. And it was clear that the scholars were proud of their former teacher. They sang For She's A Jolly Good Fellow, and they sang it lustily. Then they changed to See Her Smiling. Someone started it, and everyone rose to their feet, crossed their arms, joined their hands and with Mrs. Thompson as the centre of the great circle, sang Auld Lang Syne.

Yesterday morning brought home to many the days of years ago. In years to come, they will recall it, and it will revive dim memories of childhood days.

ITALY VIBRATES WITH SCANDAL

Farinacci himself was subjected to a scathing criticism by the Premier Mussolini, who said: "The head of the Government deplores in most forceful manner the action of Attorney Farinacci, deputy in Parliament and member of the Grand Council for having brought publicity and grave defamatory accusations touching directly the Fascist Party and a great banking institution of the United States.

Leave Bad Openings.

"These accusations, which the committee has ascertained are wholly without foundation, have furnished to remains of Anti-Fascists, to radical Masonic elements of Milan, Italian and foreign a new pretext for comments to damage the kingdom."

Both Bellonis and Farinacci have been among the most eminent members of the Fascist Party. Belloni was President of the Fascist Congress held in Rome in 1921 before the party came into power and has been known as one of the most astute financiers and economists Italy has produced. He also was a noted scientist and published several works on commercial chemistry.

No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

CAVAN
(Mrs. F. M. S. Cavan)

Each Saturday, I look at the Institute column, as likely many other Institute members do, to see how many Institutes have contributed. Much interesting information is contained in this section, but what a pity, that every Institute in the district is not heard from, at least occasionally.

It would form a connecting link among the Institutes. We are all a part of this wonderful world wide organization, and individually and collectively we are interested in what the various branches are doing. It would keep us in touch, one with another. It is such an easy thing for a society to get into a rut, and allow their meetings to grow monotonous.

Many new ideas can be gleaned by reading about the methods and work of other branches. In chatting with the president of a live Institute, recently, I broached the subject to her, asking why we never saw anything from her Institute in the Institute column. She said she did not like the idea of everything being put in the paper.

I think her viewpoint is wrong. It is not making a display. It is a matter of being a help in a good cause and we sincerely hope that more will send in contributions. The following are a few customs and fashions which have been established by the Institute and which are mentioned by Mr. Putnam.

"To be healthy and efficient instead of pale and pampered. Health service is now a constructive and preventive laboratory rather than a repair shop. Never to finish your education. The eighty-year old is as keen for additional knowledge as the eighteen-year old is to acquire essentials for the beginner. To render service to the needy—to the community. To speak, sing and play. Debates speeches, music for the community; to present plays. For women to make money for community work and to add to the farm income. To make homes convenient, attractive, comfortable, healthful. To eat the right things in the proper quantity and combinations. The Institutes have also set standards in: Methods of organization, co-operative effort in the community, in the district, in the convention areas with the departments of government. ood citizenship.

The Institutes are readily accepting greater responsibility in district work, improving for and holding conventions and in the Provincial Federation.

WARSAW

Miss Mary Yates in introducing her subject "Home Economics" said that sometimes the men thought that was a good thing, as economy was that which they wished their wives to exercise. Miss Yates said she was not there to preach economy, but economics, things to use in the home, and home management.

However, are tne two so far apart? None of us consider it an extravagance to have a cistern, a washing machine, nor anything else that lightens or lessens labor. Indeed they are often a saving in doctor's bills, hospital bills, and even funeral expenses, and all the other added expenses that come to a man when he has succeeded in breaking down his wife (unintentionally of course, he is likely very proud of how hard she works). A broken down woman is more apt to be down for a long time, because she seems to be able to keep up relatively longer than a man, so that when the snap does come, there is more to break. What has it not meant to the farmer, his wife and family to have the telephone, rurall mail delivery, the motor vehicles? Of course they cost, but is there not good value received? Farmers and doctors are two people who really need cars, not necessarily the most expensive ones, but good, respectable usuable ones.

The children in the home go to school. Should not the mother and older sister have leisure enough to know what the children are studying and to understand the home and political lessons they receive? If they do not it is small wonder the juniors think they are wiser than their seniors.

Hardwood floors, or better still, for some rooms, linoleum covered do save many backaches and eliminate the weariness caused by simply seeing dusty floors. Too many ornaments cease to be ornamental, and cause unnecessary labor.

Women now, very largely because of Institute work, (for the public benefits from the Institute) have come to realize that plain wholesome cooking is far more wholesome for the family, as well as easier on them, than the now almost old-fashioned quantities of baking which once was considered a necessity.

It is becoming less difficult to get a woman to use a high stool when washing dishes, cleaning vegetables, and much other work. A mangle saves much in ironing, one may be home-made.

There should be a complete set, or what may be converted into a complete set, of cooking utensils, and farm woman needs them more than any one else.

Indeed there is no convenience in a house, which if it may be legitimately obtained should not be at hand. This does not mean that every new supposed convenience should be gotten. The majority of farm women will consider well whether an article is of good use to her, or whether she can use some other article which she has, just as well. There is moderation in all things. It is really worse to rust out than to wear out, but it would puzzle most to find a competent farmer's wife rust out. The idea of beauty in the home must not be forgotten either.

Books, music, pictures, flowers, are not luxuries, but necessities. The mental, and spiritual life must be developed, else part of the being atinphies ,and no one needs full development more than the mother in the home.

MILLBROOK

Financing the teaching of music in the public schools of the community, having first obtained the consent of the trustee board, is an enterprise one Institute successfully tried out last year, and when the value of the training was fully realized the school board itself undertook the expense involved.

Stunts for the annual Institute picnic are now being sought for, as these outings are on the list for July and August, and committees are glad to learn of anything new alopg this line. For the men horse shoe pitching is a never-never-failing source of interest; a newer contest for married women is trying out how near to a given mark each can throw a rolling pin; races have a good many varieties these days, and the younger element, particularly, appreciate this feature of the sports' program; the cup-of-water race, in which each contestant tries to carry a full-to-the-brim cup of water from one end of the course to the other, and the candle race, when the winner is adjudged he one whose candle is still alight when the mark is reached, are two contests in which the young ladies are most likely to take part, they will also participate in a neck-tie race, running to their partners, say ten yards' distance, untying the tie, carrying it to the first mark, then back again and the prize goes to the one who re-ties correctly the gentleman's neck adornment.

Even the older ladies will enjoy a race where each contestant is equipped with a palm leaf fan, and must propel with this, from one goal to another a large ball made of crepe paper (have each ball a different shade) stuffed with cotton batting. Probably the grown-up element will also like the game called 'sing tag'; one person is 'it' and tries to tag the others, who must sing when likely to be touched; so long as anyone is singing they are safe from being tagged, provided the song suddenly struck up as 'it' approaches is quite a different tune from any other chosen.

Assembling a 'Maternity Basket', to be loaned to those who would care to have it, is a new activity which one branch has recently undertaken to try out, and evidently one that promises to be of practical value to the district served.

Providing a telephone for an invalid in the community who is not able to afford this luxury (or shall we rather say, necessity) herself, but who finds it a great source of company because of her shut-in circumstances, is a piece of unusual helpfulness reported by one Institute. Both the suffering and the loneliness of the invalid concerned have been considerably mitigated through this courtesy.

"Do not fail to have a publicity committee in your branch", advises an official from headquarters; "it is an immense asset to have the meetings properly advertised each month, and a write-up of the proceedings sent to the local paper, together with an account of any special activity, so that your organization is kept constantly in the community limelight."

LADY SALESMAN USES PLANE.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press). — High-pressure salesmanship in the form of aerial travel is being exercised by Miss Grace Walton, advertising manager for a firm of silk glove and hosiery manufacturers.

Miss Walton, who is considered to rank among the first three women advertisers in the United States, dictates style influences in addition to advertising the quality of her firm's products, and realizes the importance of speed in anticipating trends and changes. She is among the first women to adopt the flying machine as a means of rapid transportation, but utilises established air lines in the course of her travels.

When Baby Is Cutting Teeth
The Bowels Become Loose

At this time diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and other bowel troubles manifest themselves; the gums become swollen, and sealers form in the mouth. This is the time when mothers should use "Dr. Fowler's" and perhaps save the baby's life.

Do not experiment with new and untried remedies, but get one that has stood the test of time. This valuable preparation has been on the market for the past eighty-five years. Price, 50 cents a bottle at all druggists or dealers. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

OUR CHILDREN

YOUR MARK.

You cannot pass through this world without leaving your mark behind you. Some other will follow your trail and happen upon that mark and know you for the person you are. Children need to be taught this bit of experience.

There is a certain kind of boy who cannot be in a room half an hour without making it look very untidy. There will be marks on the floor, scratches on the wall, bits of paper lying about, books where they have no business to be, a general air of confusion and carelessness. Such is his mark.

There is a certain kind of boy whose presence leaves a record of calm and ordered beauty. The place he leaves takes on a cheerful, ready and waiting air. Not only are the things in place but they are placed with a care and nicety that gives an added peacefulness to the place.

Everybody knows the child who leaves a trail of belongings behind him. And the one who leaves the wrappings of all sorts of edibles in his path. Chewing gum, chocolate, peanuts, orange peels, cracker crumbs and bread crusts mark his way. No mistaking what he is like. Nor the one who takes along with him the last thing he used and found handy. The gaps in the equipment are his marks.

I think they are the children of the people who litter the streets, mar the walls of buildings, carry off hotel towels and silver, smoke all over the earth and leave their buts behind them. They may be well meaning but they certainly are ill-doing folk and I could wish that they passed on a better inheritance of their children.

Every spring time the schools are due for a deluge of requests from more or less public bodies who want the schools to instruct the children to care for public property, to show good manners in their use of public property. Every year the schools do their best, but the marks are set as usual. It is not the children who leave these traces behind them always. Children do not read the newspapers that cover the ground nor do they smoke one out of each hundred cigarettes whose stubs soil the earth. But the children learn from their elders so long as that teaching is in opposition to that of the schools, the marks that are left behind will be those of the opposing parents. Order and cleanliness and high breeding begin at home and only the shadow of them touch the world.

Every summer for many years I have passed the dead birch that bears this legend: "This tree was planted by a wise man who loved God and respected man. It was killed by a fool whose mark you see here." The mark is a broad girdle of black against the white trunk. Somebody had liked the white bark and stripped it. Somebody had left his mark of ignorance and unfitness.

It is well to teach the children respect for people and things. It is well too, to realize that our example is the best teacher.

WOULDST BE QUEEN?

LONDON. — Seasonal dresses find their way into the tastes of royalty as well as the ordinary citizenry. The Queen of England recently displayed her newest styles, and they revealed: Longer skirts for indoors, but shorter for outside; coats and coatees with summary gowns; the return of the normal waistline. Her Majesty's skirts have raised from three inches above the ground to between four and five.

Parisian Foibles

Brown charmeldine cut on smart lines is used in this Premet coat which is designed for summer wear.

BROWN CHARMELDINE MAKES THIS PRACTICAL COAT.

By Madame Charlotte of Premet.

The separate coat is a necessity in every wardrobe, and for this model I have used charmeldine in a brown which is much favored by the Parisian woman. The flaring lines of the skirt, repeated in the lines of the sleeve, and the long narrow collar are all interesting features of this practical model.

SUGGESTED AS CANADIAN FLAG

A new idea for a national flag for Canada, reproduced here, has been advanced by A. Spencer, Toronto. Mr. Spencer suggests a white field, on which nine maple leaves, one for each Province, are joined together. In the right-hand corner is a Union Jack. Mr. Spencer believes this flag has a dignified appearance, in keeping with Canada's pride of country.

ANNE WILCOX'S MAIL

"Dear Anne Wilcox:

Have you room for another neighbor who appreciates the Women's pages very much, especially the letters of the other readers? I used to thifik I would write when "Marion" conducted the page, but somehow I just couldn't get up courage.

I think your column "Just Between Us Women" is splendid, Anne. That one about vacation on Tuesday was especially good. After reading the one about criticism I decided that never again would I criticize anyone because I was one of the guilty ones.

Keep up the good work and give us a good sermon once in a while.

Yours sincerely,
HAZEL."

Why of course we have room for another neighbor 'Hazel'! I'm glad you like the column and the neighbors' letters they are very interesting aren't they? Come again soon!

"Dear Anne Wilcox:

It is not so easy to procrastinate put off day by day and then wait and wait? Seeds come from what is sown and the habits have a habit of becoming full grown. Some of my neighbors being in the same pickle, is no excuse for my being fickle. Of our willingness to help this should be a test, to try and do one betetr and our best.

When Marion went, and left us, I don't think she knew how much she bereft us. But we must not let our new friend get on alone, it seems just as though this page is our own. With much on our energies to pull, time in warm weather seems quite full. This is just to cheer and let you know we've not forgotten, though so far behind we have gotten.

META."

Of course, 'Meta', the page is 'just your own,' I'm only conducting it for the neighbors. It was delighted to read your letter of welcome as I had heard about your interesting letters. Don't forget to come again and often.

"Dear Miss Wilcox:

Will you please send me the household helps which I have marked—four of them? I like, another of your correspondents, thought they were going discontinued, and was real glad to see them appear again, as they come very necessary at times.

I extend you a welcome to our page, though it is late in the sending. We seemed to get acquainted with Marion and she was like an old friend, and I hope she has secured some nice position. Yet we will find a friend in her, successor if everyone comes forward to do his share. Not many like letter writing myself included but if an SOS appears that I can help, will gladly do so.

Now must not make my first letter to you too lengthy or it will go to the W.B.

Yours truly,
ANOTHER FRIEND."

You seem like another friend already by your ready willingness to answer my SOS which may appear. Thank you for your welcome and I hope you may find a good friend in me.

TRIALS OF LINCOLN.

LONDON, Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press).—The Times Literary Supplement, discussing Mrs. Babcock's book, "Lincoln's Mary and the Babies," says:

Mrs. Babcock is apparently an authority in America on Abraham Lincoln, and while her story depicts the President's inner home life, the drama of the Civil War is the main theme. It is surmised that the women and children were merely her excuse for writing yet another book on America's hero.

But not even Lincoln can make his wife attractive, either in Springfield or Washington. Snobbish to an extent only possible under democracy—vain, jealous and bad tempered—the wonder is that her assassination did not come before her husband's. If Mrs. Babcock's picture is correctly painted, she chose a better foil than probably she was aware of at first. Lincoln's wonderful years at the White House smashed the Confederacy and freed the slaves, but these works might well pale into insignificance beside the fact that he never addressed a cross word to Mary. How often must his saintly character have resisted the impulse to give tongue. Even at the end she leaves Washington wondering whether Congress will pay for her debts—not as a favor, but as a right. Of the greatest of America's Presidents, it can only be said that he was too bewilderingly great for mere mortals.

DRESS TOO DRAB

LONDON, Aug. 2.— Present day clergymen dress too much like undertakers, says Rev. B. G. Bourchier, vicar of St. Jude's. "Few clergymen have the courage to go about dressed like reasonable human beings," he says. Their present method of dressing is "calculated more than anything else to set up an effective barrier between the clergyman and the layman," he says.

WEDDING BELLS

PEARCE-BAILEY

(Examiner Correspondence

HASTINGS, Aug. 3.—A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, July 27, when Margaret Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Bailey became the bride of Allan J. Pearce, of South Porcupine, Ont., Rev. Father F. P. McGuire performing the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father was becomingly gowned in an ensemble suit of French blue georgette with large blue mohair hat and shoes and hose to match. She carried bouquet of ophelia roses. Paul Bailey, of Montreal acted as best man. Miss Betty Pearce, of South Porbupine, acted as bridesmaid.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride and a dainty lunch was served. The happy couple left later on a short honeymoon.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

ANOTHER SUGGESTION FOR SEASICKNESS.

When a ship's surgeon has had to handle thousands of cases of seasickness, you may be sure that he has tried everything known to medical science in his efforts to combat this distressing ailment.

I have spoken very recently about Dr. Oriel and his experience with dextrose (starch sugar) and after using it in a series of 1000 cases he reports that "the effect" was better than he had obtained from any other of the many remedies he had tried. This counteracted the acidosis which is the cause of the vomiting and nausea.

Where the vomiting was so severe that the dextrose could not be retained it had been given successfully by means of the lower bowel on injection into a vein.

He advises a dosage of three teaspoonfuls.

The avoidance of fats and eating plenty of fruits and vegetables. As you know it is agreed that it is a disturbance in the semicircular canals in the ears that enable us to balance ourselves, that usually causes the actual dizziness, which is followed by the nausea and later by vomiting.

Dr. Facilides, a European physician, therefore suggests that the prevention of dizziness, when in a swing or on board a vessel, is to make the required counter movements in order to maintain your balance.

If you permit yourself to be involuntarily tossed about by the movements of the ship you will become dizzy.

If you will counteract the movements of the ship by swaying to the right when the vessel goes to the left, and vice versa, you can maintain your balance and thus prevent seasickness.

His thought is that taking medicines to quiet all motions is a mistake. If a drug is powerful enough to make you sleep it is bound to have an after effect. It also upsets the normal appetite and digestion.

So ii you are taking a trip try and remember the suggestions of these two physicians. First to avoid hurry and worry before departing, to avoid fats, and the use the dextrose as suggested. Second to try to maintain your balance by counteracting the movements of the vessel.

EVERYBODY REVELS IN SUN TAN VOGUE

Sleeveless, Backless Dresses and Scanty Bathing Suits Feature New Mode.

Everyone is seeking sun tan.

Toddlers and grandmothers have gone sun-worshipping together.

It's not so noticeable in Peterborough, but in cities like Toronto—well, not content with acquiring their tan on the beaches young girls are tripping down to work in sleeveless, backless gowns.

At golf courses and tennis clubs they revel in the freedom of fewer clothes, and less of them. Not content with discardin sleeves and letting the sun bronze their backs, they have abandoned stockings n favor of socks.

Here the vogue is chiefly followed by children, who wear the least permissible clothes as they play about at home or on the beaches. But it will spread to the elders yet.

People wondered whether conservative Ontario would ever adopt the fashion set by Miami and California.

Now they know. The world is going sun-mad. All the scientific and pseudo-scientific discussion of the benefit of the sun's rays has done its work. If ever people are heathy they should be at the end of this summer.

In Peterborough, at any rate, dresses and bathing suits are kept within bounds of modesty. Some of the bathing suit designers have gone pretty near the limit. The back portions of the suits are cut lower than any evening gown ever was, and if sunning the spine makes for health, as well as chic, the world is well on the way to better times.

Gloomy Dean Inge, of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, has proclaimed the value of sunlight on the human frame. He Praises women's revolt from the extensive covering they indulged in forty or fifty years ago, saying that the movement of the sunlight league was carrying on further the salutary effects of milady's discard of heavy and confining clothes.

He has, however, certain bounds. He does not for, instance, approve the extremists of France and Germany. "Clothes are a matter of convention," he says, "and it is necessary to hold at arms' length certain unwholesome people."

Physicians recommend the sun tan vogue. They never tire of advocating the rays of the sun as the most powerful health giving force in the world.

It will be recalled that had the Nicholls Hospital bylaw passed, the extension would have been glassed with a special glass admitting all the healthful rays of the sun. It has been proved that undersized youths and girls improve beyond all recognition when they are allowed to revel in sunshine.

So make tan while the sun shines.

WATER AT INVERLEA IS LOWEST IN YEARS

Piers of Old Wooden Bridge Are Exposed as Water Drops.

The water at Inverlea beach was the lowest yesterday afternoon it has been in years. The life guard stationed at this popular retreat from the heat stated that it was the lowest in his experience.

In fact it was down to such a low level that the bathers could wade the greater way across the river to the east side from the park. The water was about ten feet from the life lines which usually mark the safety point, and these same ropes rest on dry ground, away from any water.

The water level as marked on the cement piers of the present bridge is nearly five feet below normal and so low that the piers of the old wooden bridge are well above the surface of the water.

Logs which were floating down on the current were stranded high and dry on the far shore and were strewn in as far as one could see, when the water sank to the lower level.

That part which is usually below water was yesterday high and dry, and bathers experienced a great deal of difficulty as they attempted to get near the river and the beach was very rocky, making the walking in bare feet quite difficult. The life guard stated that he had spent a great deal of time in picking up pieces of broken glass that were strewn around on the part that was exposed.

However it is an ill wind that does not blow somebody good and the life guard with a few volunteer helpers went to work and cleared out the place below the spring board making it much more suitable and safe for diving.

"A HOUSEHOLD NAME IN 34 COUNTRIES"

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

I have never really agreed with the parable of the prodigal son, taken on its face value.

* * * * * * *

I think the killing of the fatted calf was overdoing things a bit. What did the elder son, who had fatted the calf through the winter, think of it?

* * * * * *

The case is drawn to my attention by a letter from a local girl whose sister has returned after drifting around the large cities for months.

* * * * * *

"All the time she has been away," my correspondent says, "I have remained dutifully at home, though it has been dull enouugh, dear knows."

* * * * * *

"I haven't been allowed to go to shows or to dances except when some member of the family was along. I have been the dutiful daughter in every way."

* * * * * *

"It wasn't because I wished to be awfully good," my honest correspondent says. "Very far from it; being good is so awfuully dull, but I just thought that since —— had gone off on her own,it was up to me to kind of fill in for both."

* * * * * *

"And then —— came home. What a stir! If I stayed out late at night I got a bawling out, but apparently where I made my mistake was in coming home before two or three days or weeks."

* * * * * *

There's the point, neighbors. To forgive is divine, but....too much forgiveness must be handed with discretion.

* * * * * *

It's not right to allow a spirit of revenge to spoil one's outlook on life and one's appreciation of justice. The bigger the person, the bigger he can forgive, but I think it will pay to watch your forgiveness.

* * * * * *

How about the case we have on hand. One girl stays out late at night, and is criticized or punished for it; another girl goes off galivanting for weeks and is welcomed with open arms.

* * * * * *

That's not fair.

* * * * * *

Most of the misery of the world could be avoided by finer, freer, more divine forgiveness.

* * * * * *

But a great deal more misery may be caused by the wrong kind of forgiveness—the kind that is merely weak and spineless, and unable to resist a bright-eyed, dynamic, forceful, go-getting prodigal.

* * * * * *

Justice should always be tempered with mercy but forgiveness should be for all on the same basis.

* * * * * *

Certainly, the stay-at-home girl should have as full and free forgiveness for her small departure from whatever law you neighbors make for the conduct of your homes as the wild girl who goes out to see the world receives in the abandon of your joy to see her safely home.

* * * * * *

Isn't that reasonable?

* * * * * *

Otherwise, if the prodigal son idea is followed out with the prodigal daughter, you are putting a premium on a real worthwhile whoop-it-up jamboree—and the girl who is satisfied with stay-at-home pleasures pays the piper.

* * * * * *

It's not fair! Be stern if you like, but be stern all around. And when you wish to obey the divine command, do it in the proper spirit, and forgive all offences against the code equally.

* * * * * *

To forgive one many times, and hardly forgive another at all for the same offence is not fair play.

* * * * * *

To punish one for a small infraction and forgive a much larger in another because of relief in having her safely back, is not fair play.

* * * * * *

And for all unfair play may we all be forgiven!

WORSHIPPING AT THE SHRINE OF THE SUN GOD

SUN TAN VOGUE IS AT ITS HEIGHT.

Now that the hottest season of the year is upon us, everyone is seeking relief from the discomfort of life. Most people seem to find relief by discarding as many clothes as possible, and these pictures, taken in Toronto, show how, at the country club, on the beach, and even on the street, bare-back frocks are to be found. (1) Martha Norelius, United States and Olympic amateur swimming champion, on the golf course, wearing a frock with a low-cut back. (2) Here is a striking example of the low-back bathing suit, photographed at Sunnyside pool. (3) Little Ruth Eleanor Rainie parading her sun tan on the Sunnyside board walk with as much savoir faire as any of the grown-ups. (4) Two sturdy lads, revelling in the sunshine in their garden.

AUTUMN CLOTHES.

"Few of us can resist the moral support of being suitably dressed."—Health confessions of business women.

Most of us of moderate means are prone to think of holidays as an auspicious time for the wearing out of old clothes—the dress which is now a bit shabby for office wear and the shoes which show creases or need the soles resewn. But those days of leisure are also admirably adapted to a little wardrobe planning anent the resumption of work.

Though one is apt to relax a bit and do things in a slightly haphazard way during holidays, businesslike care and method certainly pay in the planning and achieving of wardrobe replenishment. One's budget must be consulted and decisions made as to which articles will be bought ready made, which dressmaker or tailor-made, and which owner-made. Obviously, the lower the budget, the more of the latter there must be. Then, the occasions for which one is likely to require suitable clothes must be considered. In no case must the amount allotted to clothes for work wear be infringed upon.

When the vacationist has renovated her old clothes and planned her new ones, the carrying out of those plans to any normal daughter of Eve is a very pleasurable occupation.

This summer, there seem to be a few distinctive trends featured by all dress authorities. One is the prevalence of the light weight coat. For evening wear it is often of chiffon shown with epaulet sleeves or a cape in one with the coat. For sport wear pique and silk crepe are popular with wool crepe for the cooler autumn days. The writer used to be of the opinion that a coat was a garment which only a tailor might attempt with impunity; this summer, having herself made one which is proving very satisfactory, she is happy to be able to say concerning the making of unlined coats at least, that "they can do little who can't do this."

The waist line seems to be emulating the price of wheat in its rapid ascent and, occasionally we see tuck-in blouses. To the teen-age girl that type of blouse probably has its appeal, but those of us who, in a former decade, wrestled with black-headed pins in a skirt band, are hoping their regime may be short.

The procuring of fulness in the skirt gives scope for much variety: pleats (inverted, box, or knife), flares, circular skirts all seem to be having an inning.

'Y' GIRLS STAGE STUNT EVENING

Night On Eagle Mount Proves Full of Excitement For Visitors.

CLEVER STUNTS.

One of the adventures at the Y. W. C. A. camp during the past week was the spending, by a number of the girls, of a night on Eagle Mount.

Stunt night brought out the usual number of clever bits of foolery. The first stunt was "Friday Afternoon in School," with a teacher as Miss Carbuncle (Miss Rose McKibbon). Two mischievous pupils were Samanthy (Miss Helen Macdonald) and Mirandy (Miss Elsie Fowler). A little boy, Percival Archibald (Miss Dorthy Yelland), was brought in rather late by his mother (Miss Mary Morton), who informed the teacher that Percy was late because he had "a pain in the a.m. and was sick in the p.m."

The second stunt, put on by the Hamilton crowd, was "Crossing the Railway Tracks." The deaf man and his wife, on being informed by the station agent that there were no trains north, east, south or west, led their crowd of rowdy children "Across the Railway Tracks," which were a couple of sticks.

Dead Man Wakes.

The prize stunt of the evening was "The Trial of Marie Schwartz." A murdered man, a ghost-like apparition (Miss Sybil Sharpe) came forward and introduced the characters, then fell prostrate on the couch. Judge Sourbaby (Miss Isabel Davidson) brought the court to order with a huge rolling pin. The lawyer (Miss Violet Davidson), wearing a leather coat well stuffed with pillows, had a voluble stream of language. The first witness, Marie Schwartz (Miss Lulu Smith), was called. The lawyer, failing to get a coherent story, called on the murdered man's wife (Miss Gwen Hewitt), and later, just as he was going to give up the case, thought of asking the jury (Mr. Arnott, caretaker at the camp) for a verdict. Just then a loud snoring was heard and the murdered man came out of his trance, explaining that it was all merely a scheme to regain his wife's affections.

The last stunt was presented by a number of the Peterborough girls, who put on a humorous and realistic repetition of Monday night's performance on Eagle Mount, when the girls camped out there.

After the stunts, a red cedar whistle, tied with blue and white ribbons, and carried on a huge cushion, was presented with much laughter to Miss Littlefield.

Rocco, McCann and Hackett Win Boxing Bouts

EGERTON FAILS TO WITHSTAND ONSLAUGHT OF STEVE ROCCO McCANN FLOORS "RED" BRAGAN

Campbellford Fans See Three Good Boxing Bouts in Myers' Arena.

HACKETT BEATS BARBER.

Rocco Scores Two Knockdowns in Second Round of His Bout.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 2.—(By Staff Reporter).—Leading from the first bell Steve Rocco, of Toronto, scored two knockdowns over Frank "Red" Egerton, of New York, in the second round of a six-round bout winning the decision in a masterly manner. Rocco had his opponent groggy in that second round and a knockout appeared certain, but the telling blow was never forthcoming. Egerton recovered quickly during the one-minute rest and managed to stay on his feet under the terrific pounding he received.

Thomas "Red" Bragan, of Toronto, lost a close decision to Art McCann, of Philadelphia, in a six round bout and Sam Hackett, of Toronto, earned the verdict over George Barber, of Toronto.

The three bouts were fought in Playfair Brown's show staged in Meyer's Arena to-night in connection with the Old Home Week here, and they all supplied torrid fighting.

Longer Reach.

In the first bout Hackett having the advantage of a longer reach outpointed Barber at long range, but Barber never backed up. Both men layed into it freely amid a flurry of gloves, Hackett pressing with Barber always retaliating soundly. Hackett went to the floor in the fifth round, the fall being caused more by the slippy canvas than by Barber's right. Barber tired toward the last in the heavy going and Hackett went on to win.

A bad first round in which he hit the canvas and a knockdown in the sixth proved too much for Red Bragan to overcome in his bout with McCann. In the opening round he appeared as though still groggy from his beating at the hands of Phillips. He improved as the fight progressed, but could not gain sufficient advantage to overcome the two knockdowns scored against him.

Bragan used his fast right to shake McCann with blows to the jaw, but McCann scored heavily in the infighting. McCann fell halfway through the ropes in trying to elude a rush by Bragan in the fifth. Bragan made strenous efforts in the last minute of the fight after he had been floored in the first thirty seconds of the sixth round. He accepted the decision against him with evident distaste.

Plenty Of Fireworks.

The Rocco-Egerton setto supplied the most fireworks of the whole entertgainment. Egerton is a rangy, fire-thatched youth who stood up courageously under the barrage of blows that Rocco flung at him and then came back for more. Although plainly outclassed he never stopped boring in.

Rocco stepped in landing savage blows from the outset and in the second round he knocked Egerton twice to the canvas within thirty seconds, and had him weary and thick-headed. In the third Egerton seemed to recover and he blocked many of Rocco's blows to land to the body himself, yet Rocco had an unquestioned superiority.

Referee—Charlie Hallett, assistant matchmaker of the Shamrock A.C.; timekeeper—A. G. Thompson, of Bloomfield.

Between rounds Duncan Cowan, with his folk songs and jokes, and Ernie Bruce, with his comic songs and instrumental numbers, kept the spectators in good humor.

Guests Fish From Rooms In New West Port Hotel

BROCKVILLE, August 3. (C.P.) —Unique in many respects promises to be an hotel owned by Edward Ryan now approaching completion in the village of Westport, into the basement of which it is possible to drive boats and tie up at a cafeteria for refreshments, while other guests will be able to fish from their bedroom windows. The hotel takes the place of a mill which stood on the same site, and the former flume passing under the building furnishes access to boating parties.

Pittsburgh Shut Out By Philadelphia 2-0

PITTSBURG, August 3. (C.P.) — Lester Sweetland blanked Pittsburg yesterday 2 to 0 allowing Philadelphia to make it three out of four for the series.

Don Hurst hit a homer in the 9th. His last six hits have all been homers, which is believed to be a record.

The local defeat, which came while Chicago was idle because of rain, increased the Cubs' lead to five and a half games.

WON FOURTH PLACE IN BIG SWIM

The most famous amateur girl swimmer to turn professional since the day that Gertrude Ederle of Boston tossed her trunks into the money pool—Miss Martha Norelius of White Sulphur Springs, Virginia, who captured fourth place in the big swim at Campbellford yesterday.

Martin Stern, her manager, who comes up from New York with her, says her middle name is "golf" and that she comes by it naturally, having come from a real golfing family.

Martha Norelius is a well built, well matured young woman who admits to being 20. She is nearly as tall as Ethel Catherwood and almost as good looking. Her record as an amateur is a clean sheet. She has never been defeated in real competition. Born in Stockholm, Sweden, she has represented the United States at two Olympics, the 1924 in Paris and at Amsterdam in 1928. A substitute on the 1924 team she defeated Gertrude Ederle in the 400 metre swim. She is a regular feminine and fininy Nurmi, wining the 400 metre swim at both these world trials. She aded to her laurels by being on the winning 400 metre relay team. Out of sixteen posible records she holds eleven.

The longest distance Miss Norelius has done in competition is 3½ miles and the ten mile distance will be entirely new to her.

In the Boston half Heving, with one out, reached first when Berg let a third strike get away from him. Scarritt forced Nariesky, who ran for Heving.

Bill Barrett's double scored Scarritt to tie the score and Regan's single scored Barrett for the victory.

SENATORS WIN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Irving Hadley returned to form yesterday and the Washington Senators defeated St. Louis, 5 to 3.

Hadley blanked the Browns in seven innings and was touched for only seven hits.

The Senators got ten hits off Crowder.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—The Cardinals handed Dazzy Vance one of the worst beatings of his career yesterday, pounding him for 18 hits and 13 runs before he retired in the sixth inning.

The final score of the slugfest was 14 to 7, giving the Cardinals the five-game series by a 4 to 1 margin.

Greenfield finished the game after Vance retired for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Jim Bottomley hit his 24th home run of the year in the third.

WEEK OF AUGUST 5-10.

SLANTS ON THE SWIM

TED OUTRAM.

Frank Pritchard, the eighteen-year-old boy from Buffalo, flailed his way into the front right from the start, and swinging his arms like trudgeons with a 60-to-the-minute stroke, soon opened up a gap that stretched a full sixth of a mile at the finish.

* * *

Pritchard is a sturdy fair-haired youth, but not fat. He has only been swimming three years,and his only noteworthy feat up to yesterday was to breast Lake Erie. "I feel great," was his only comment as he stood on the boom waiting for his brother, Stan., aged twenty-one, who clambered out some three minutes after him. "Sure I'm entered in the C.N.E. marathon, but that will be something different again," he said later.

* * *

George Young's alibi was an injured ankle. Met on the street an hour after the swim, he was asked why he quit. He drew up his left leg and, indicating his ankle, said: "That's all there was." George's ankle was incased in a black silk sock, but otherwise there seemed to be nothing strange in its appearance.

* * *

Young appeared to be in the pink of condition as he stepped onto the boom for the start. He was bunched with the leaders around the first lap, but appeared to be making no gain on the speeding Pritchard brothers, Summers and Martha Norelius. He was well back in eighth place when he dropped out at the boom at the end of the second lap and the first mile.

* * *

Johnny Walker, Young's old trainer and famous swimming coach of Toronto, gave the vanquished George the raspberry as he walked past the announcing stand. Walker was announcing through the microphone. Young waved his arm, replying, "There's another swim coming."

* * *

Toronto newspapermen claimed that Teddy Oke, Young's backer, lost $1,000 when his temperamental natator failed to complete the three miles. The bet was with Bill Sadlo, of Toronto, who finished in sixth place, outside the prize money.

* * *

Martha Norelius left no doubt as to her ability. She maintained fourth place or better during the whole six laps, although challenged several times by Byron Summers. She gave Stan. Pritchard and Lyle Hubbard, who came third, a struggle as they past her.

* * *

Miss Norelius hails from New York and this was her professional debut. She won a world's championship at the Olympic Games in 1924 and 1928, and she does not look to be over 20 right too, and she is attractive with now. Like the other swimmers, she has a wonderful physique, but, too, she is attractive with long raven locks.

* * *

Thirty-eight swimmers, by actual count, hit the water with a tremendous splash as Elwood Hughes fired the starting gun. The long narrow boom on which they were crowded nearly sank several times. They were there in all kinds of bathing attire from the sparse loin cloth of George Young and Byron Summers to the all covering calico of several of the women, and all shapes and sizes.

* * *

It did take long for the champions to leave the field. About half were mere plodders, who crested the waves using the antiquated breast stroke or the side flutter. The leaders all used the crawl stroke, burrowing deep in the water.

* * *

The 10,000 spectators who crowded the bank were soon in a maze as to who was leading. The swimmers were spread out around the whole course and no one but the judges and those on the boom knew just who was who as they slipped past the buoy. Johnny Walker kept them informed on the details, however, with his boaming voice through the "mike."

* * *

Several of the swimmers got out of the water after two or three laps bent with cramps, but this was lack of condition. There was none of the suffering or pain that marred the C.N.E. frigid test of last year. All were given immediate attention by the doctors.

* * *

Leah Riley, of New York, was the only other girl besides Miss Norelius to complete the six laps. Miss Riley, who still retains her Irish brogue, swam in impressive style, finishing in tenth place. Getting out of the water, she stretched to her full height, five-foot-two, and maintained that she felt fine.

* * *

Vern Janeway, the local entrant, was lost in the jumble of contestants and his progress is a mystery.

* * *

Don McArthur, of Campbellford, thrilled his fellow townsmen by completing the full grind and finishing in twelfth place, well ahead of some of the much touted wrigglers.

BISONS FAIL TO HOLD LEAFS

Two Home Runs By Rabbit and Stone Make Victory Easier.

SCORE 9 TO 3.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Two vicous home-run thrusts by Joe Rabbitt and Jonathan Stone went a long way toward making Guy Cantrell's pitching task against the Bisons yesterday easier than it might have been.

And Howard E. Freigau, former Boston Brave, acted more or less as a cousin to Cantrell when he fell all over himself trying to field a couple of drives to short by Nolen Richardson, and also let go a wild chuck over Clayt Sheedy's head.

Three runs in the first inning and five more in the second, put the game away for the Leafs. They scored another later in the game, but it wasn't needed in Cantrell's fifteenth victory.

Pitcher Case made the run possible when in trying to pick Rabbitt off second he hit the speedy Joe on the leg, and Joe ran to third, to count later on a long fly by Bill Sweeney. The final was 9 to 3.

TECO TROUNCE WESTCLOX BOYS

Thirteen Runs in First Two Sessions Proved Jinx For Hillmen.

SCORE 15-2.

A bad first two innings for the Westclox team that gave the Teco aggregation a handicap of thirteen runs spelt defeat for the Hillmen to the tune of 15-2, in a twilight fixture of the softball league at Central School Grounds last night.

After the second frame Manager Delahaye switched the Westclox team around considerably which worked real effectively the Storemen only scoring two runs in the remaining seven frames. Goodson who started out in centre field, shifted to left, changing places with Fields, Delahaye went from the box to behind the plate, Foley went into left field and Currie came in from there to take over the hurling honors. This general shake up proved itself to be what was needed and changed what had all the earmarks of being a burlesque into a fast softball game which was marked with air tight support behind each of the twirlers.

In the second frame, twelve Teco batters faced Delahaye, which marked with numerous errors and passed balls on the catcher's part netted the Eaton Company representatives thirteen runs.

The real burlesque play came in the first innings when White, the first Teco man to bat, drove a long hit into centre field when Fields, who was playing that territory, attempted to stop it but let it roll through his hands and kicked it four times before he got hold of it, allowing White to go to third base on the play. It was also in this frame that the first four men to bat crossed the plate for four counters before there was one put out.

However in the ninth the Westclox team redeemed itself and were credited with a double play. Goodson in left filed for the Big Bens caught Westbrook's long drive and made a pretty throw to Kitchen at first for the double killing.

Kitchen was the best player on the field for the Hillmen and seemed to be about the only one in the initial frames of the game that the nine men could rely on.

Line ups:

Teco—White, c; Crary, 2b; Westbroke, ss; Frick, 1b; Jones, lf; Board, 3b; Miller, cf; Carruthers, p.

Westclox—Baptie, ss; Goodson, lf, cf; Kitchen, 1b; Delahaye, p, c; Foley, c, lf; Barrie, 2b; Hayden, 3b; Currie, p, lf; Fields, rf, cf.

ORIOLES TAKE DOUBLE HEADER

Black Cats Put Up Great Battle in Each Game.

SEVEN RUN RALLY FAILS.

Baltimore, Aug. 3. (C.P.)—Although the Jersey City Black Cats made a game bid for victory in both games yesterday, the Orioles closed the series by winning the double header, 3 to 2, and 10 to 7.

Andy Chambers held the invaders to seven hits in the opener while Henderson and Hopkins were touched up for eight.

Henderson was forced from the contest when he was hurt by Layne's drive in the sixth.

The Cats broke loose with a fourth-inning rally that netted them seven runs in the night-cap, but were hsld safely thereafter.

George Loepp hit two homers and a single in the nightcap to help give the Birds their eighth straight victory.

RED WINGS DEFEAT MONTREAL ROYALS

League Leaders Capture First of Four Game Visit in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—The champion Rochester Red Wings took 12 innings to turn back the Royals here yesterday. A walk to Collins, Watkins' double and Worthington's single finally turned the trick and the Wings copped the first contest of the four-game visit, 5 to 3.

The contest was the most thrilling local fans have witnessed this year. The Royals tied the score in the ninth and filled the bases in the tenth and had men on second and third again in the twelfth, but failed to come through with the winning markers.

Manager of George Young Loses Wager With Sadlo

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—The failure of George Young, Toronto, to complete the course in yesterday's professional three-mile swim, cost his manager Teddy Oke, Toronto, $1,000, it was reported.

William Sadlo, New York, it is said, wagered $1,000 with Oke that Young would not complete the course. The Catalina marathon winner retired from the race at the 1¼ mile mark because of a sprained ankle.

Reading Stages Great Rally To Win Seventh Consecutive Game.

BEARS LOSE EIGHT.

READING, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—Reading staged a three-run rally in the seventh inning to win its seventh game in a row here yesterday over Newark, 6 to 5. The Bears have lost eight straight.

The Keys trounced Carl Fischer off the hill in the seventh when Taylor tripled with two mates on the bases to tie the score.

Quellich then hit a sacrifice fly to drive home the winning run.

Max West hit two home runs for the Bears. Each was hit with the bases unoccupied.

SAM MANDELL DEFENDS TITLE

Tony Canzoneri Receieves Boxing Lesson of Life in Chicago.

GETS BAD POUNDING.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 3. — (Canadian Press).—A courageous young man named Tony Canzoneri, once ruler of the world's featherweights, attempted to annex the lightweight championship from Sammy Mandell in the Chicago stadium last night, and for 10 rounds received the boxing lesson of his life. Mandell was off to a bad start when he dropped the first two rounds to the chesty, flat-nosed Canzoneri, opened up in the middle of the third round, and from then on hit Canzoneri with everything he could think of.

Meanwhile, Canzoneri, attempting to bounce a knockout punch off the champion's chin, continually charged in close, but got nowhere. The great left hand of a great boxer turned back the ambitions of the New York box. Mandel splashed lefts into Tony's face and thundered rights to the body, until the result was never in doubt.

Detroit Spotted Six But Loses Game

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—The Athletics spotted the Detroit Tigers six runs in the first inning yesterday, then staged a great uphill battle to win the fourth game of the series 11 to 10.

The clean sweep over Detroit increased the Macks' margin over the Yankees to 11½ games.

Jack Quinn lasted only part of the first inning, but Rommel and Shores were effective in the rescue role. Shores got credit for the victory.

Harry Hellmann hit two home runs for the Tigers and two singles. McManus and Alexander also hit for the circuit.

Poor Suport Given Loses Game For Giants

CINCINNATI, Aug. 3 (Canadian Press).—After 36 scoreless innings the Reds finally ended the jinx Fred Fitzsimmons had held over them and won the final game of the series from the Giants by a 3 to 2 score.

Fitzsimmons allowed only four hits yesterday, but poor support deprived him of a victory.

The Giants presented a patched up line-up, due to the illness of Lindstrom and an injury to Reese.

Hearty Laughs predominate in the new all talking comedy "The Dummy" the holiday attraction at the Capitol.

If you have laughs prepare to use them when you see the new all-talking melodrama at the Capitol Monday. "The Dummy" is the strangest and most amusing entertainment to be produced in the new medium which has added so much enjoyment to the moving picture theater.

There isn't a dull moment in "The Dummy" from beginning to end, laughs following thrills in quick succession. From the time Mickey Bennett starts his deaf and dumb talking, while everybody else is speaking with the voices they were born with, until the gang of kidnapers is safe in the clutch of the law, "The Dummy" supplies all the thrills and entertainment any one could wish for one evening.

An excellent cast headed by Ruth Chatterton, Fredic March and John Cromwell, enacts this melodrama. Two brillant and likable youngsters, Mickey Bennett and Vondell Darr, do some excellent work.

The voice recording is excellently well done, showing the vast improvement made in this new entertainment medium in a short time. All of the players speak their lines with fine inflection and good enunciation. "The Dummy" is something everyone should see.

101 ENTERED GOLF MATCH

Canadian Amateur Golf Championship Match To Be Staged in Jasper Park.

87 CANADIANS.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 3.—(By The Canadian Press).—Entries for the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship have passed the hundred mark with the official closing of the lists and more, admissable under special circumstances, are expected. The number stands at exactly 101 but Saskatchewan and the Maritimes have not yet named teams for the interprovincial match, played as part of the national event's qualifying round. These will swell the total for the event, to be held over the Jasper Park, Alberta, course, from Aug. 19 to 24.

Of the entries received 14 are from the United States, the majority of these players stopping off at Jasper on their way to the American amateur in California later. Of the 87 Canadian entrants, Ontario and Quebec each are represented by 21 while British Columbia, appearing in the championship for the first time, is close behind with 19. Alberta has 13, Quebec 7, and Saskatchewan, another province that has never been represented before, has six players.

Five former champions, representing the period from 1921 to 1928, are entered. They are: C. Ross Somerville, London, Ont., winner in 1926 and 1928; Don Carrick, Toronto, 1925 and 1927; Frank Thompson, Toronto, 1921 and 1924; C. C. Fraser, Montreal, 1922, and W. J. Thompson, Toronto, 1923.

Winnipeg has the largest representation of any city with Manitoba's complete squad of 21. The St. Charles Club has eight, Norwood six, Elmhurst four, Niawaka two and one player is unattached.

The 36-hole qualifying round will be played on Aug. 19 and the 32 players returning the lowest scores will form the championship flight, playing one round of match play over 36-holes each day commencing Tuesday, with the final Saturday.

ASKED TO RESIGN.

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—Illinois boxing affairs will be administered after August 10, by a group other than that composed by Paul Prehn, Sam Luzzo and Al Mann.

Governor Louis L. Emmerson yesterday requested the resignations of the present Illinois State Athletic Commission, with the brief comment that such a change "would undoubtedly be for the best interest of boxing in Illinois."

MYERS AND WRIGHT WILL CLASH BLADES

Beaten Several Years Ago By 'Joe' Myers is Eager For Revenge.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., August 3 (Canadian Press). — Kenneth Myers, crack sculler of the Bachelor's Barge Club of Philadelphia, has hopes of turning the tables on Joe Wright, former Canadian and International champion, when they clash to-day in the championship single sculls, the classic event of the National Rowing Association's 57th annual regatta. Whether his hopes will be fulfilled remains to be seen.

They matched oars several years ago in a national regatta, and the famous Toronto bladesman defeated Myers so decisively that he has been yearning for revenge ever since. This pair of oarsmen, probably the swiftest on the continent, were due to row against two other noted scullers, Russell S. Codman, of the Union Boat Club, Boston, and W. E. Garrett Gilmore, Myers' clubmate, over the Connecticut River's curved mile and a quarter course.

PICTORIAL GOLF

DIRECTION NO DIFFICULTY FOR UPRIGHT SWINGER.

The upright swinger has a decided advantage over the flat swinger in obtaining direction with his short irons. Some very excellent players employ a flat swing for the woods and then straighten up their swing for the irons. This can be done if one plays considerable golf and understands the use of the clubs.

This would mean that the wooden clubs were made with a flat lie and the irons with an upright lie. Unless one was so equipped, he would fail in attempting to change from one to the other. Golfers sometimes attempt to change their style without changing their clubs.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the lads ain't had a bad week, what with nosing out Deloro here last Sat. and nipping a regulation affair and a exhibition fracas from Mister Walter Gerow's Belleville Nationals. As these chaste thoughts is being put down on paper, us and Oshawa and Deloro is all in a heap for 2nd place, and it begins to look like as if the gang is going to battle all the way down the stretch to see which is going to have the pleasure of clashing with Kingston in the league playoffs.

The game last Sat., Mac, was 1 of them rare affairs when nobody can't do nothing wrong. Us and them gobbled up everything that was hit out there, and as the heavens was stingy with their hits, it was tough getting to 1st base and tougher getting around. Our Mister Heckman had no speed either in the box or out of it, and his curve ball was away getting repaired, but without smoke or a hook he wafted something in there that Mister Elliott's collegians couldn't hit on the nose, and you couldn't do more with all the stuff in the world. Mister Swanston, our pilot, sent the home fans away happy by hitting one on the snout just when the Petes needed nothing else but, and Mister Holyman hoofed it all the way from 1st to score the run that made the final ballot 3 to 2 for us. But the Tues. battle, Mac, was the cats. The Petes ain't had so much fun in years. Here they was tackling the league leaders without one of their regular pitchers within 80 miles of Belleville and Mister Gerow's athaletes had amassed 4 runs with considerable help from the visiting firemen. And all at once, Mac, extra base hits rained all that Belleville diamond and the Petes ran themselves ragged round the bases.

A triple, two doubles, then two triples, all lined up like a circus procession, blasted Mister Alex. Weir right off of his spikes, and for a while it looked like Belleville would hafta call the fire laddies to get the side out. The scrutineers finally gave the count as 7 runs, and the outburst was enough to let the Petes pick up the marbles.

The real entertainment came after the game, however, Mac, when Mister Nicholson, of Kingston, and Mister Kerr, of Deloro, the gentlemen in official charge of the affray called the fixture at the end of the 9th on account of darkness. Right there it looked like another tough job for the League of Nations, for every Belleville fan, fanny and player in the park tried to convince the eminent baseball jurists that they was plenty of light left. They couldn't see it that way, however, and the Petes rode out in their bus amid a frenzied chorus from the maddened multitude. And how the gang ate that up.

Well, Mac, now I got the Petes going right again I'm going to desert them for a coupla of weeks, so it's right up to the lads themselves. As for me, I ain't sailing under no sealed orders. I'm going fishing, and you know what that means, Mac. They say the fish is biting good, but that don't mean a thing to me. Good or bad, it's all the same, I'll get them if they're to be had. And what I don't get will be chased so hard that somebody down the lake is going to get some easy picking if they get busy before the big fellows get their second wind.

Just watch the bulletins from Stoney Lake next week, Mac, and you'll find me up with the Big Six, knocking them off every day. You know me, Mac.

Well, take care yourself.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

THE OPEN ROAD.

There is joy in a hike up the long winding pike
With the warm summer wind in your face,
Putting mile after mile far behind you the while,
For you move at a swift sturdy pace.
You are free from the jar and the jolt of a car
And you happily lay down your load, sup and to sleep when the shadows are deep
O'er your camp by the side of the road.
But I have been never a strenuous man
And would vastly prefer a nice speed sedan.

It is great to contend with the rivers which wend
Their way through the towering hills,
The tide to defy as the riffles rush by
Affords you the grandest of thrills.
At night on the breast of the bayou you rest
And till morning you happily dream
Of your consummate art, and the undaunted heart
That conquered the pride of the stream
But with swift running waters I never would bicker
When I go canoeing, I carry a kicker.

The lore of the wood is exceedingly good
For a city bred person to know.
You can kill all the meat that your party can eat
With your rifle, or even your bow.
Grouse and partridge and deer all are hovering near
And if hunger you happen to feel
You only require a bright little fire
To cook you an excellent meal.
But as for myself, I would rather a guide
The game and the meals and the camp should provide.

LOCAL TEAMS MEET MONDAY

Kiwanis Juniors and Moose Juveniles Clash On Holiday.

TWO STRONG OUTFITS.

A battle royal is scheduled for the baseball fans of Peterborough at the Riverside Park on Monday, when the Kiwanis Junior team hooks up with the Moose Juveniles. These are the teams that defeated the invading Belleville nine last Saturday and it has been a question ever since which team is the stronger.

Well, Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock at Riverside Park, or rather the James Stevenson Park, across the bridge, these two outstanding aggregations will settle the argument once and for all, and they will produce some of the smartest ball that has been played here this year.

RABBIT SKINS BECOME MINK

Synthetic Fur Destroys Real Fur Market Imitations So Clever.

GENUINE FUR DOWN.

WINNIPEG, August 3. — Synthetic fur is threatening the stability of the ancient industry that is interwoven with the romance of the trap line and the remote northland. Curtailment this year through the length and breadth of the Hudson Bay country of the fur catch is very marked. Some of those connected with the business maintain it is the synthetic article on market that is disrupting operations. Production fell off 20 per cent last spring as measured by summer deliveries from the north. Prices paid the trapper to-day are the lowest in the history of the fur trade in the Canadian northwest.

And the cause of it all, fur men assert, is the synthetic fur fabricator. The lowly rabbit and even the domestic house cat competes through the art of the synthetic manipulator, with the mink, otter and lynx, very successfully. The cost of obtaining these pelts differ so widely that when manufactured, there is such a margin that the counterfeit article has much in its favor. The trade is feeling the inroads of the bogus garment.

Col. James K. Cornwall, "Peace River Jim," one of the pioneers of the trap line of the Canadian northwest, asserts that it requires an expert to determine the difference between the real article and the counterfeit. He thinks this is one reason all genuine fur is rapidly reaching lower price levels. The synthetic product is even destroying the profits of the "fur farm." He says the time was when a half dozen big companies operating in the north country could stabilize the industry and curtail and enlarge the output of a season as desired, or as price and demand suggested. It is not true to-day.

The average purchaser of a fur-trimmed garment does not know its quality. Of course reputable firms do not offer the synthetic article as the genuine fur, only this sense of merchandising honor stands between the public and bogus fur sales.

There is an ever-increasing expense to the trade in pelts of the wild fur-bearing animal. He is seeking more remote regions and can be caught only by the expenditure of more time and money. This must be reflected in the price to the ultimate consumer. The reverse is true of the synthetic traffic, the "fur bootlegger," as the legitimate trader terms this keen competitor.

This deal presents a finessing situation which is overlooked by many players. The Declarer holds three small Diamonds and has the Ace-King-Ten in Dummy. Clearly his only normal chance to make three tricks in the suit is to find the Queen-Jack to Dummy's right and to finesse the Ten on the first round. Should he win the first lead of suit with either the Ace or King and then attempt a finesse on a second round, it is obvious that but two tricks can be made with the holding given.

Salient Points of Bidding

Action: While South has three suits stopped and four cards of the unprotected fourth suit, his original bid is preferably one Heart rather than one No Trump as his distribution (5-4-2-2) is of the suit type and his biddable suit is a major.

West overcalls with one Spade and North passes, his four Hearts to the Ace and doubleton Spade providing insufficient values for an immediate assist.

East, holding strong support for Spades is well satisfied with West's overcall and therefore passes, as does South, the latter having no sound unassisted re-bid.

Contract The procedure of South, West and North is the same at Contract as at Auction. East, however does not pass but jumps the bid to a game contract as he holds six supporting tricks including four cards of partner's suit, for West's Spade overcall.

The Play

North leads the Ace of the suit bid by partner, Hearts. South playing the encouraging Eight, thus asking for continuance of the suit as he see no point in asking for a shift to another suit. Accordingly, North follows with the Heart Two. Dummy trumps with the Spade Three and South plays the Heart Seven.

West now leads the Spade Four from Dummy, South plays the Nine and west, with nine cards of suit between the two hands takes the single finesse with the Queen which holds, and next lays down the Ace of Spades, dropping both the King and Jack.

At this point West decides upon the Diamond finesse. He, therefore, leads the Diamond Three and, North playing the Seven, finesses Dummy's Ten for the reasons stated in the introductory remarks above. The Diamond Ten holding, West leads the Club Three from Dummy. South goes right up with the Ace and returns a Club which is won by West's King.

Declarer now leads a small Heart, trumps in Dummy and claims the remaining five tricks, to wit, the Ace and King of Diamonds in Dummy and the last three Spades in own hand. He thus makes five odd, losing but the Ace of Hearts and Ace of Clubs. It will be seen that had the Ten of Diamonds finesse failed, Declarer would still have made four odd, the extra trick resulting from taking advantage of the one possible way of making three Diamond tricks. Also, it will be noted that had North split his equals on the first round of Diamonds, West would have gone up with Dummy's Ace or King and finessed the 10 on a second round. North's best protection, however, is not to split his equals in this situation as to do so is an almost obvious give-away. He should rise [illegible] on the first round, as but very few players will take the ten finesse spite the fact that it is a play which cannot lose and may gain.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write to him, care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drug store.

CHEESEMAKERS MONTHLY MEET

Patrons of Halloway Factory Told Butter Fat Test Best Way to Pay For Milk.

NEW 'MAKER' RESOLUTIONS.

STIRLING, Aug. 3.—The cheesemakers of Instructor C. F. Lennis' district held their regular bi-monthly meeting on Thursday night at Holloway factory. This building was the first cheese factory built in Hastings County, 65 years ago, and has been used all those years for that purpose. James Bird was the first president of the company and was the manager and salesman for several years. The milk was drawn twice daily from as far north as Wellman's Corners, as well as east and south from the farmers who wished to patronize the new enterprise. The building was constructed of timber out nearby on property owned by the Wallbridges, an enterprizing family of those days. The lumber also came from one of their mills, near Tweed Village.

The curing room for the cheese was upstairs, the building being 3 stories in height. Changes have been made in the layout of the inside of the building since those early days, and more modern apparatus introduced to carry on the work. The building has somewhat of an ancient appearance on the exterior, but the grounds, with the profusion of flowers and the inside with its modern machinery, one could hardly imagine that the manufacture of cheese had been carried on there for the space of two generations.

New Factories.

Since then numerous factories have been built, enroaching on the territory and causing its supply of milk to decrease considerably, until the labor of the present day is greatly reduced as well.

Chairman Chosen.

At the time for opening the meeting, Mr. John N. West, president of the association, called for the election of a chairman for the evening. Mr. Henderson, of Foxboro, was the choice and assumed the position, which he filled very capably. In his opening remarks he stated they met to discuss their troubles and were glad to have the patrons present as an interchange of ideas was often helpful to both. Years ago any kind of cheese went, but of late the Old Country demanded a better quality, and he believed that no better cheese was made in Ontario or even in the world than right here in Hastings County. He thought the butter-fat test the best way to pay for milk.

Only Three Away.

At the call of the roll by Secretary Hiram Rodgers it was found that 24 makers were present and only 3 of the district absent.

Correspondence was read from the central association relative to the qualifications of young cheesemakers and the licensing of them. After a general discussion of some length, Mr. Morris Rose moved and Mr. Sherwin seconded a resolution that a maker before being licensed should work two years as a helped, then attend a dairy school and work another year before being licensed. This motion was carried after some further discussion.

Former President Called.

Mr. James McMullen, a former president of Holloway factory, was then called upon, and in the course of his interesting speech, enlightened those present regarding the early days of cheesemaking in Hastings County. He suggested that some way be devised to grade milk before taken in by the maker.

Mr. Bailey, dairy instructor of Madoc district, was next called upon. His remarks were chiefly regarding flavors, and he thought often bad flavors were due to the water used at the factory; he had a puzzling case, which after considerable time, was solved with that result.

Mr. Linn, the local instructor, was the next speaker. He congratulated the company on the condition of their factory, and stated that all his factories were like it. He thought if makers would go to farmers and talk the matter over regarding quality of milk it would do a great deal of good towards making conditions better, if not right. He addressed the makers regarding their work, and said he was well pleased with them and to continue as they were doing and the result would be alright when the season closed.

Mr. McLaughlin, of Sidney Town Hall factory, a veteran cheesemaker, followed. He was sorry to see the farmers selling off their cows and thus crippling an industry which has done so much for this part of Canada as the cheese and butter business has.

Mr. Angus Farrell of Kingston factory spoke briefly. Mr. Rose, the host of the occasion, with a few remarks invited all to partake of lunch which would be served by ladies present.

Lunch Served.

The business part of the meeting closed and a most bountiful lunch was served, ending another profitable conference of the makers of cheese in this section. The next meeting is to be held at Harold factory on Wednesday, August 14th. Mr. Bailey announced a meeting to be held at Madoc on the last Thursday night in August.

NEW ROAD PROGRESSING

STIRLING, Aug. 3.—Work is progressing on the construction of the new road between here and Oak Lake. Two steam shovels are digging through the hill and teams and trucks are hauling the earth and filling up the hollows so that when completed the grades will be greatly reduced. They are working near Mr. Thomas McGrath's on the north side of the hill and on the south at the entrance to Oak Lake.

HYDRO PROMISE IS OLD STORY

ing provided for by the usual plan of interest and sinking fund. It is in included in the cost of the power, and every power user in the Central Ontario district is now helping to pay off the $15,000,000 which Hon. Mr. Cooke mentioned in his Belleville speech. But the Commission is urging that every municipality shall purchase its local distributing system.

For example, Peterborough has already done this, but Cobourg is one of the towns which still hesitates. Its local distributing system is owned by the Government as part of the original property which was bought from the old Central Ontario Power Company. Other towns and villages in this district are still in the Cobourg category.

Government Could Sell.

The substance of Hon. Mr. Cooke's promise was this, that when all the municipalities have acquired their local distributing systems, power lines, sub-stations, etc., and when the bonds have matured, then the entire property will belong to all the municipalities jointly. It might be pointed out that when the bonds mature the Government as the owner of the power dams and high tension transmission lines could sell its property to a private company, and the municipalities would continue to be purchasers of power, and not owners of the entire system as in Western Ontario.

Promise to the Towns.

But the Government has promised that ultimately the Central Ontario cities and towns will own their system, in the same manner and to the same extent as the cities in the western section of the province where the Hydro idea had its birth. What the Government is actually giving Peterborough, Oshawa and the other municipalities is an equity in the Central Ontario system, and this equity will be realized when the conditions laid down by the Government have been fulfilled.

These conditions again are that the municipalities buy from Hydro Commission their local distributing systems and also that Central Ontario bonds be fully for.

That is the whole story. Cooke's statement does not Peterborough is going to rec thing the city does not a pect, and will ultimately

CHA. E. STEWART TAKEN BY DEATH

Was Doorkeeper For Forty-nine Years at House of Commons.

GAVE HISTORIC 'FIRE' CRY.

OTTAWA, Ont, Aug. 3.—Charles E. Stewart, doorkeeper at the House of Commons for 49 years and who shouted "fire" from the floor of the commons chamber the night the main block of Canada's parliament buildings was destroyed in February, 1916, is dead. Word of his passing on Thursday at Stellarton, N. S., where he had gone to live on being superannuated from the government service two years ago, was received here with widespread expressions of regret.

The following account of Mr. Stewart's quick action on the night of the fire is taken from an account of the historic blaze published on February 4, 1916, by the now extinct Ottawa Free Press.

"Suddenly, an excited attendant went through the doors behind the chair of the Sergeant-At-Arms. The startling appearance of a stranger on the floor of the chamber caused a momentary sensation.

"Fire!" he shouted, pointing upwards. 'The building's on fire."

"The warning was scarce out of his mouth when, with a roar, a huge tongue of flame broke into the chamber from the east side."

CEASE SEARCH FOR LOST GIRL

Believe Now Body Is Wedged In Rocks At Bottom of Houders Lake.

WOODS COMBED.

BUCKINGHAM, Aug. 3.—(C.P.)—Search for the body of Miss Irene Lamount, Ottawa, believed to have been drowned in Houders Lake, near Buckingham, Thursday last has been practically abandoned.

If the theory that the body is wedged in the rocks or caught in the weeds at the bottom of the lake is well founded there is little hope of finding it unless an organized party equipped with all the necessary appliances goes to the lake.

The theory that Miss Lamont may have run unnerved, into the bush when three ot her companions were drowned has practically been abandoned after the week of unsuccessful sarch through the nearby territory. Bodies of Mis Lamont's companions Mr. and Mrs. V. Craft and Mr. and SHADES OF THE PAST.

Lo and behold if the citizens of Peterborough were not astonished in this modern age of motors and auto busses, to see a cow loping up the middle of its proud and modern main thoroughfare as contented and as at home as if it had been wandering and cropping the grass along the side of the road in Birds Eye Centre. Although unaccompanied it was not attracted by the bargains displayed in the stores or even the sombre front of the liquor emporium and continued its jaunt until stopped at the corner of Brock and George Streets when a man dashed out from the sidewalk to stop her in her journey.

FIREMEN HOLD DRILL.

No fire calls were received at the department yesterday. This morning the men were busily engaged in their regular drill practices consisting of life saving, ladder and hose work. In the life-saving practice, ladders are erected at the back of the Fire hall and the men carry out actual practice by carrying each other down. This operation was carried out this morning with a smartness that indicated long practice. The hose work consisted of carrying hoses with and without water to the top of the ladders.

An odour of unmistakable origin pervaded the city at a late hour last evening, indicating the presence somewhere in the vicinity of a skunk. This rarely occurs in this locality but there was not the slightest doubt last night that "Jimmy Skunk" was paying ing a visit somewhere about, although The Examiner did not take the trouble to investigate the exact position of the pretty little kitten.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOMAS ROUTLY.

The death occurred on Monday, July 29th, at Brooklin, Ontario, of Eliza Bond, beloved wife of Thomas Routly, in her seventy-sixth year.

Survivors to mourn her loss are her husband, four sons and one daughter, William, Nelson and Norman, of Peterborough, Walton of Rochester, N. Y., and Mrs. John Maynard of Brooklin.

The funeral took place from her late residence, on Thursday afternoon, to the Groveside Cemetery at Brooklin.

ALBERT BUGG.

The death of Albert Bugg, brother of Robert Bug gand Golden Bugg, of this city, took place recently in England. The following clipping from an English newspaper has reference to the occurrence:

"We regret to record the death of Mr. Albert Bugg, of 100 Ware Road, a well known and highly esteemed farmer, who for 35 years occupied Greenhall Farm, Bramfield. Mr. Bugg, who was aged 60 years, was a man of a very genial disposition, and his many friends will regret his unexpected death, which occurred on Thursday last week in a London hospital, after only a short illness. He went to the hospital in the previous week, and following an operation pneumonia supervened, and after a sudden collapse he passed away. Mr. Bugg was the son of Mr. Richard Bugg, Payne's Farm, Nazeing, and he was born at Stanstead Lodge Farm. He was connected with the Watton and District Ploughing Competitions, in which he took a great interest, for many years. He was also a school manager at Bramfield for a number of years, while politically he was a staunch Conservative and he did considerable work in that cause at Bramfield. Mr. Bugg gave up his farm at Bramfield as recently as last September. He is survived by his wife, one son and two daughters. He was cremated at Golders Green on Monday, everything being carried out in a very quiet and simple manner, only his immediate relations being present. There were no flowers by request."

In Police Court

Three grave cases were presented to His Worship Magistrate Langley in the local Police Court this morning. Stanley C. Graham of Peterborough was charged with forgery, having acted on a forged document on August 1 as if it were legal, knowing it was not. The cheque amounted to $16.09, and was drawn on the Bank of Toronto. The defendant elected to be tried before the Magistrate and pleaded guilty, but at the request of the Crown, represented by V. J. McElderry, K.C., he was remanded for one week.

Edna Fallis next appeared on the charge of perjury, it being alleged that she gave false evidence in the Dalton Dolan case on June 17, 1929. On request of the Crown, this case was also remanded for one week, and this also gives the girl time to get a lawyer to act for her as she appeared before His Worship this morning without a defending attorney.

A local young man pleaded guilty to having liquor in his possession without a permit. J. F. Strickland, his representative in the case, pleaded for leniency, and the minimum fine, stating that he did not believe that the circumstances of the case warranted any greater punishment. The accused was fined $100.00 and $11.32 costs.

Two more English boys, discontented with farm work, surrendered themselves to the local police force this morning. Leonard Haskath, age 17, of Liverpool, and John McLaughlin, of Belfast, Ireland, who came to this country about April 20, and have since been working on farms. They said that they never had a minute to themselves, and that they have not had a square meal since they started to work at farming. "No more farm work in this country," they both stated. "We would be far better off at home, although we are not homesick," was their comment.

WEDDING BELLS

ASHBY—RUSSELL.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 3.—A quist but very pretty mid-summer wedding took place in Saint Thomas' Church on Wednesday, July 31 at high noon, when Lois Elizabeth, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Russell, became the bride of Clyde Charles Ashby, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Ashby, of Peterborough.

The church was beautifully decorated, the altar being banked with flowers, Rev. Canon Allen performing the ceremony, and Mrs. Allen playing the wedding march.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was daintily gowned in ivory satin, veiled with old lace, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses; she wore a wedding veil in coronet style, and her shoes and stockings were in matching shade with her dress. Miss Margaret Russell, the bride's sister, was her attendant, and looked charming in a becoming dress of yellow silk, with hat to match, and carried yellow roses. The groom was supported by Mr. O. Miller, of Peterborough.

Following the church ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, attended by only the immediate relatives and friends. The bride's going-away ensemble suit was of light green flat crepe, with tweed top coat, trimmed to match suit, her hat, shoes and stockings being also in a matching shade.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a signet pin, to the groomsman a tie pin, pearl set, and to the organist a silver bread tray.

The wedding trip was by motor to Ottawa, Montreal, and other points east, and on their return Mr. and Mrs. Ashby will reside at Peterborough.

VINER—WOODCOCK.

A very pretty wedding took place August 1st at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. M. J. Woodcock, 1115 Gerrard street, Toronto, when Theodosia, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Woodcock, 223 George street, Peterborough, was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Charles Follett, of the United Church, Toronto, to Herman Wolf Viner, son of the late Mr. Viner.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Robert Windover, looked charming in a dress of orchid silk with hat to match. She wore black shoes and flesh hose and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. The matron of honor, Mrs. M. J. Woodcock, sister-in-law of the bride, was charming in beige colored dress and hat to match, and bouquet of carnations.

The groom was supported by the bride's grother, Mr. M. J. Woodcock.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Viner wil leave for their future home in Rochester after a visit with the bride's parents in Peterborough.

WHALING VESSELS MAKE LARGE HAUL

Kill 6,600 Whales in Ross Sea During a Period of Six Years.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 3.—(Canadian Press).—It is estimated that 6,600 whales have been killed in the last six years in the Ross Sea by three whale factory ships and their attendant chasers.

According to reports received from New Zealand, the Norwegian factory ship, C. A. Larsen, made 75,000 barrels of whale oil, representing a catch of 786 whales, and valued at approximately $3,500,000 in the United States. The Sir James Clark Ross, when she left New Zealand for Europe, had on board 49,000 barrels of oil, representing a catch of 543 whales. This made a total of 1,329 whales for the two ships in four months.

The N. T. Nielsen Alonso, which returned to Hobart from the Ross Sea recently, was reported to have treated 733 whales, which yielded 63,500 barrels of oil. Thus the three whalers, representing only two concerns, have accounted for 2,061 whales this season.

Adding this season's reported catches to the official figures for previous years published by the New Zealand Marine Department, the three factory ships have accounted for more than 6,000 whales in six years.

TONG WAR SPREADS IN U.S. CITIES AS ONE CHINAMAN IS SLAIN FEDERAL LEADERS TAKE ACTION

One Is Killed and Two Injured in Battles in New York.

LEADERS WARNED.

Boston Man Is Slain and Compatriot Is Wounded in Street.

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 6 (Canadian Press). — Prospects of one of the bloodiest tong wars in years were seen to-day by additional killings both in this city and in Boston, bringing the dead to five in two days in addition to several wounded.

A few hours after U.S. Attorney Charles H. Tuttle and Samuel Sung Young, Chinese Consul-General, had warned Tong leaders here that no violence would be tolerated pending a peace conference to-day a Harlem laundrymen was shot and killed at his ironing board.

Similarly in Boston two Chinese were shot and killed within a few hours after Tong leaders had assured the police there would be no Tong warfare in that city. Police officials said it was the first time Tong leaders had deliberately deceived them, and expressed the belief that the killings would result in the bloodiest Tong war even in New England.

Started in Chicago.

In Chicago and Newark, N.J., where the killings started with one death each on Sunday, a tense quiet prevailed. Police maintained close watch in the Chinese sections, but no attempts at violence occurred.

The cause of the renewed Tong outbreak remained in mystery. One theory upon which New York police were working was that it was over the Rice liquor trade which was said to have become quite profitable with the deteriorating quality of other bootleg liquor.

BOSTON, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press). —An unidentified Chinese was slain and another shot and wounded last night, as the tong war broke out in earnest in Boston. The first victim was shot by two men as he passed a Kneeland Street doorway, and the other was shot on Washington Street. Both shootings happened within an hour.

Both shootings happened in Chinatown. The first came after four Chinese in an automobile had drawn up to a curb at Kneeland Street and deposited two of their number, who entered a doorway. As their victim approached he was shot down. The gunmen then fled to their waiting automobile. The other shooting happened a short distance away. The victim was only wounded and was taken to a hospital. The details of the shooting were being sought by the police.

The outbreak came but a few hours after a conference between the police and the leaders of the On Leong and Hip Sing tongs here, during which the Chinese said there would be no outbreak in this city.

Chinese in Conference.

Late yesterday afternoon seven Chinese, one of them a representative of the Hip Sings, answered a call to a conference in the Federal Building. The one mentioned said he was Corresponding Secretary and that leaders of both factions had gone to Newark, N.J., to confer with police and attempt to restore quiet there.

Mauretania Clips Mark Of Previous Crossing

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 6. — (Canadian Press). — Steaming westward across the Atlantic in quest of its shorn speed laurels, the Cunard liner Mauretania clipped off 680 miles in its run from noon Sunday to noon Monday, a radio message from Captain S. G. S. McNeil to the line's offices here said.

This broke by four miles the Mauretania's previous record day's run of 676 miles. The ship was averaging 27.20 knots.

SMART BANDITS OUTWIT CLERK

Call Saleslady Out of Laura Secord Store While Cash Is Taken.

OBTAIN $400.

TORONTO, Ont., August 6 (Canadian Press). — A clever ruse was employed by two men in robbing a Laura Secord candy store here late last night of $400. One man went into a telephone booth a few doors away and 'phoned the shop. There was only one saleswoman in the place at the time, and while she was answering the 'phone call the other man who had waited in front of the store slipped in and took the cash out of the unlocked safe.

Miss Mary Conroy, 21, the saleswoman, had closed the shop for the night and was counting the day's receipts when the 'phone call came to another candy store nearby asking for the Laura Secord clerk. The latter was notified as the man giving the message said it was an urgent one. Miss Conroy said she did not think anything would happen in the few minutes she was away, so did not lock the shop door when she went next door to answer the 'phone call. She returned just in time to see the man enter the store, but it required only a moment for him to secure the cash and crash his way through the rear door into an alley.

Late last night police had found no trace of the robbers.

Engineer Leaves Officer To Drown In Detroit River

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press). — Admitting that he left a Prohibition Border Patrol Agent floundering in the Detroit River after a struggle Heath, wealthy elevator engineer last night said he would surrender to Federal authorities in connection with the presumed drowning of the officer Sandlands.

Heath said he and Sandlands fell into the Detroit River after a struggle which took place when Sandlands, without identifying himself, attempted to arrest him and his wife Maxine. Heath swam back to his boat, he said, but he never saw Sandlands again.

MURDER CHARGE FOLLOWS SHOT BY DETECTIVE

Killed Man Who Had Bottle of Beer On Hip Instead of Gun.

MAY REDUCE CHARGE.

Claims Dead Man Threatened To Kill Agent Before Fight.

VANCOUVER, B. C., August 6. (C. P.) — Alex. Kirkwood, who is proprietor of a private detective agency here, was charged with murder early this morning as the result of the fatal shooting Monday night of David Spence, Vancouver.

According to the story told to the police by Kirkwood and a companion, Spence approached them while they sat in their car on Richards street, and made threatening remarks.

Spence, they state, reached for his pocket, saying, "I have something on my hip that will kill you"

Kirkwood thereupon drew his gun, and in a struggle which followed, Spence was shot fatally in the chest, dying while en route to hospital.

Detectives said they found no gun on the man's body, but found a bottle of beer in his hip pocket, to which he had put his hand.

It was intimated at police headquarters this morning that the charge against Kirkwood might be reduced to manslaughter.

YOUTH DROWNED AT SANDY POINT

Four Year Old Boy Wanders From Cottage and Falls Into Lake.

PULMOTOR USED.

LINDSAY, Aug. 6 (Examiner Correspondence).—The holiday at Sturgeon Lake resorts was marred yesterday morning by a sad drowning fatality at Sandy Point. The little four-year-old son of Mrs. Vaugh T. Salter, 381 Woodland West, Ferndale, Mich., wandered from the summer cottage, and half an hour after his disappearance, his body was found in the lake close to the wharf. It is said that there were indications of life when the child was taken from the water. Dr. Johnston of Fenelon Falls and Mrs. Dr. Thompson, who is holidaying on the lake, were summoned, and a call was also sent in to Lindsay for the pulmotor. Every effort towards resuscitation failed, however. It is believed that the little fellow was stunned after striking his head on the wharf, as there was a cut on one of his lips.

MAY ASK DERBY'S HELP

LONDON, Aug. 6 (C.P.).—There were reports to-day that Lord Derby, who has a record as successful mediator in trade disputes, might be asked to mediate in the Lancashire cotton mill stoppage. Lord Derby himself would make no statement in the connection.

Generally it was felt such a move would be futile at this stage of the strike.

DOLLY SISTER FACES CHARGE OF SWINDLING

Wife of Mortimer Davis Is Wanted By Paris Police.

BOUGHT NECKLACES.

Husband Refuses To Pay Notes and Jewellers Lay Charge.

PARIS, August 6 (Canadian Press). — Roszika Dolly, of the Dancing Dolly Sisters, wife of Mortimer Davis and daughter-in-law of the late Sir Mortimer Davis, Montreal tobacco magnate, was charged to-day with swindling the Paris jewellers out of pearl necklaces valued at 7,000,000 francs (approximately $280,000) in a suit fyled with the Seine Tribunal.

The jewellers asked that a trustee should be appointed to keep the necklaces until the case had been decided. The complainants admitted they did not know the whereabouts of the pearls.

Roszika Dolly herself was reported last Friday as being in a hotel at the Cap D'Antibes on the Riviera, where it was said she had started divorce proceedings against her husband.

In their complaint, the Paris jewellers alleged the dancer's husband had signed notes for the necklaces and the notes had remained unpaid.

A judge was appointed by the Seine Court to open an inquiry into the affair.

Each of the necklaces was valued by the jewellers at 3,500,000 francs. They said that when Miss Dolly took them she strung the two together in one rope worth more than a quarter of a million dollars

L. C. BOARD WILL ATTEMPT TO CUT WHISKEY SALES

Sir Henry Drayton Returns From Trip To Great Britain and France.

INTRODUCE LIGHT WINES.

No Decrease In Price of Liquor is Announced by the Chairman.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 6 (C.P.).—Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, who returned from a trip to Great Britain and France Saturday announced today that the lessening of whiskey sales, the introduction of light French wines and encouragement of cider drinking would be the objects of the board in future as a result of his overseas observations. There will be no cut in liquor prices here.

Sir Henry hopes to wean drinkers in Ontario from strong liquor to light wines and cider and other drinks with less alcoholic content. Among French light wines which he plans to encourge sherries and ports are not included. They are wines to which no spirits, not even sugar, have been added, they will stand transportation and, according to Sir Henry can be offered at attractive and reasonable prices.

Ontario, said Sir Henry, had become known as a province of whiskey drinkers, and he thought that the introduction of light wines would be "a good way of fighting the abuse of alcohol."

"I think our prices are reasonable and the quality good," he said. "In the Old Country, for a bottle of Scotch, which is by no means good, they pay twelve shillings and sixpence. It is not as good liquor as the Scotch that is bottled in Scotland and sold here for $3.80 a bottle, notwithstanding the liquor duties in Canada."

CITY MANAGER PLAN OUTLINED TO ROTARIANS

Judge Simon Ross Tells of Conditions in Cincinnati To Rotary Club.

CITY IS PROSPERING.

Mayor Is Elected By Aldermen and His Position is Purely Honorary.

Outlining the great strides that the city of Cincinnati had made since 1925 under a city manager and a chartered civic government, Judge Simon Ross, of the Court of Appeal, Cincinnati, addressed the local Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day on the subject, "The Form of Civic Government in Cincinnati."

Telling of conditions previous to the change in 1925, Judge Ross stated that the city was conducted by an ordinary municipal government with an elected council of 26 members, representing each ward. The mayor and other important officers were elected separately.

There was intense dissatisfaction under this system. One man, George B. Cox, was the big boss and ruled the city, although he never held office. The city could not raise sufficient revenue to keep the streets and waterworks in a state of repair.

Charter Party Wins

A strong movement rose to secure a charter for the city by which the city could govern itself. In a great election in 1923-24 the charter party carried an overwhelming majority. Under the system then brought in, which still remains in effect, there were to be nine councillors elected by proportional representation, representing the various factors and factions in the city's life. The mayor is elected by the councillors from one of their number and his position is purely honorary.

The management of the city was

MANY DEATHS OVER HOLIDAY

Week-end Holiday in England Takes Heavy Toll Along Its Highways.

TWENTY-FIVE KILLED.

LONDON, August 6 (C.P. Cable).—Twenty-five persons were killed in accidents on English highways, in the immense holiday traffic of yesterday, Bank Holiday. Seventy-five others suffered injuries. The weather was fine—and the road casualty list greater than ever.

England is now liberally ribboned with arterial roads, which provide broad direct pathways between the main centres. Motorists naturally seek these roads with the result they become gravely congested. For hours in some places the homecoming throngs last night were restricted to a crawl.

Among the holiday accidents outside those due to traffic, was the double drowning at Newquary, where Kenneth Broad and John Broad, brothers, from Tunbridge Wells, lost their lives while surf-riding. A third brother was saved. The party apparently misjudged the undercurrents.

BADLY MOSQUITO BITTEN PARTY TELLS HOW MOTHER BUOYED UP KIDDIES SPIRITS FOR LONG NIGHT

Brave Mother Refused To Give Up Hope They would Be Found.

CHILDREN OFFER PRAYERS.

Dog Fought Porcupine and Refused To Be Sent Home As Guide.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Aug. 6.—(By The Canadian Press).—Members of the party of one woman and seven children who were lost for several hours in dense, swampy bush near Abbatoir Lake yesterday, narrated their experiences to newspapermen to-day. The party was found huddled together on a rock at the edge of a swamp late last night, badly bitten by mosquitos, but othewise none the worse for their experiences.

The children were loud in their praises of Mrs. Herbert Sparling, mother of three of the children in the party. She refused to give up hope that they would not have to spend the night in the bush.

Told Funny Stories.

The youthful adventurers gleefully told how Mrs. Sparling and Germaine Bedard, 17-year-old member of the berry picking party, told humorous stories to keep up the spirits of the children and how 7-year-old Lindsay Sparling, the youngest members of the party, went to sleep in his mother's arms as he listened to the story of the babes in the woods."

"Why did you persist in still moving when you knew you were lost?" one of the newspapermen asked:

"You'd move if you had a million mosquitos chasing you," replied 12-year-old Carmen Bedard, as she displayed a hundred and one stings on her arms and legs.

"You know," she continued, "when we started to cry, Germain told us she was going home to get pillows for us. Then we laughed and cried some more."

Search Party Formed.

Meanwhile a general alarm had been occasioned by their absence and a search party was organized. Four hours later Oremeus Bedard, a brother of Germaine, firing his rifle periodically, heard an answering chorus of joyful "whoopees" and "hurrahs."

"Stay where you are," shouted Oremeus, his voice re-echoing through the swamp. Fifteen minutes later he fought his way through the thick undergrowth of the swamp and located the party. Two hours later Ormeus, who had been joined by Patrick Kennedy, a brother of Terence Kennedy, one of the lost children, and Steve Bedard, father of the Bedard members of the party, led their party from the bush just as the headlights of the car of a party of newspapermen flashed around a bend in the road. The car took the party to North Bay, where an impromptu banquet was held.

Sure Prayers Helped

Perhaps the most joyful member of the party was Carmen Bedard, known as "Kitty," who laughed, joked and cried and prayed alternately throughout the long ordeal. She was convinced beyond a doubt that they would still be wandering

Body Of "Shorty" Horne Is Recovered From Lake

SUDBURY, Ont., Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press). — Recovered from Lake Sagatosky where he was drowned last week the body of the late George Alexander "Shorty" Horne is being brought to Sudbury by plane this morning and is expected to arrive in Sudbury about noon. The body was found yesterday evening, and word of the recovery reached Sudbury to-day. The recovery of the remains of the popular hockey player had been hampered by the rough weather prevailing on the lake where he lost his life.

OCEAN AIR LINE MAY BE OPENED

Britisher Thinks Graf's Time Not Enough Improvement On Good Liners.

TWO NEW BRITISH ZEPS.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press). —Cabled reports from Lakehurst that the Graf Zeppelin's successful trip to America probably would be followed soon with establishment of a regular Trans-Atlantic airline brought considerable speculation in London morning papers as to the possibility of British competition.

Greater speed, or at least a cut in elapsed time of the trips was held to a necessity for success of such a line and the hope was expressed that the two British giants, now nearing completion, the R-100 and the R-101, would prove much faster.

Sir Dennis Burney, M.P., head of the company which built the R-100, talking to the Daily News, opined that the Graf's time did not give margin enough over fast steamers, and an airship to be successful must be able to do a trip in 60 hours outward and 48 returning. This would imply a cruising average of 90 miles per hour.

CASUALTY LIST GROWS

OSTEND, Belgium, Aug. 6 (C.P.).—Latest casualty lists show 11 dead, 23 injured, and 5 missing in the Ostend harbor disaster Sunday, when two pleasure steamers crashed. Nine bodies have been recovered. Twenty-one survivors are in the Ostend hospital.

The Weather

TORONTO, Ont. (Meteorological Office), Aug. 6 (Canadian Press). — The depression over Northern Quebec yesterday morning has passed to the Labrador coast, causing showers in some districts of Eastern Canada. High pressure with mostly fair and comparatively cool weather covers the Western provinces. Pressure is low over the South-West States.

Civic Holiday is usually one of the Summer's warmest days. This year was an exception. The highest temperature was but 68 degrees. Sunday's highest point was but 62 degrees. I was told that snowflakes were to be seen drifting lazily downward both on Sunday afternoon and evening. I did not see them myself. In some places in the Ottawa Valley there was a little snow on the ground for a short time.—W. P.

Claims Broker Was Not Alone When He Started Across Lake.

WAS MEETING TWO FRIENDS.

TORONTO, Ont., August 6 (Canadian Press). — Suspicion of foul play in connection with the disappearance of Franklin D. Mack, young New York Broker, missing since he left Timagami Inn on Wednesday night was voiced in an interview here by Mrs. H. Kouri The missing man is the son of Mrs. Kouri by her first marriage.

Her son was not alone when he made the mysterious trip, in Mrs. Kouri's opinion, but someone was with him in the canoe in which he took the trip that resulted in his disappearance.

On Wednesday night, said Mrs. Kouri, Mack left Timagami Inn saying that he was going to Bea Island, but instead went to Mrs. Kouri's camp. On the way over he had damaged his skiff and taking a canoe he had left her camp to pick up two friends.

Next morning her son did not appear, said Mrs. Kouri, and the afternoon his canoe was found floating right side up with his coat and hunting knife in it and one paddle missing.

A search is now being conducted on land and water with airplanes in an attempt to find Mack's body or solve the disappearance.

PORT HOPE MAN DIES OF WOUND LACK OF FATAL WEAPON BAFFLES POLICE WITH SUICIDE THEORY

Officers Disbelieve Murder Is Involved and Search House For Instrument.

SINGLE CUT ON WRIST.

Find Room in Disorder and Bathtub Covered With Blood and Water From Struggles.

TORONTO, August 6. — The mysterious disappearance of the weapon with which a fatal wound was inflicted on W. A. Kuhne of Port Hope, in a rooming house at 197 Richmond street west yesterday, mars the suicide theory of the police, with the result that a headquarters officer is conducting a full investigation of the case.

In spite however of the fact that whatever instrument was used has vanished into thin air, and although the tearing up of plumbing, carpeting and hot air registers has failed to reveal it, the police still reject a theory of murder.

Shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Kuhne, who was manager of the Port Hope Mat and Manufacturing Company, was found dead in the bathroom of the rooming house. The tub was brimful of mixed blood and water, and the man had apparently bled to death.

Chief Coroner Probes.

The discovery was made by Plainclothesmen Priest and McCrea of the Court street station who at once opened an investigation, in which they were joined by Detective Gadd, Hergt. Walter McConnell of Headquarters and Sergt. William Evans, in addition to Chief Coroner Dr. M. M. Crawford.

Kuhne first came to the roominghouse at 8 o'clock on Saturday night telling Wm. Brooks, the landlord, that he wanted to stay until Tuesday morning. What struck Brooks as peculiar at the time was that his new lodger's only luggage was a telephone directory and a Sunday newspaper. He had no razor.

Up until Monday noon Kuhne's stay was uneventful, according to the landlord. Then at 12 o'clock yesterday noon Brooks rapped at Kuhne's door, on the ground-floor front. A voice answered: "I am in bed."

War Lord Who Shot Prince Is Charged With His Crime

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press.)—An exchange telegraph dispatch yesterday stated that Peiping despatches have been received in Tokio reporting the indictment of Chang Tsung-Chang, former Chinese war lord, for the killing of Prince Hsien Kai, 21-year-old cousin of China's former Boy Emperor.

The dispatch said that the Chinese Judiciary were demanding that Chang be extradited because of his alleged implication in several murders before his flight to Japan after his recent defeat by the Nationalists.

RADIUM LURES DEEP SEA FISH

New York Naturalist Catches Quid On Line a Mile Long Near Bermuda.

NO DAYLIGHT THAT DEPTH.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 6.—(Canadian Pres).—Science gave fishermen something new to play with yesterday, when word arrived from Bermuda of successful use there last week of radium as a lure for deep sea fishing.

The radium was used by William Beebe, New York naturalist, as a luminous bait on hooks attached to sounding wire about a mile long, in depths where no daylight exists. The first catch was a squid, a member of the Octopus family. It was large enough to fill a fair-sized fruit basket.

ROWBOAT UPSET WHILE OCCUPANTS CHANGE SEATS

Fenelon Falls Girl Has Narrow Escape from Being Drowned.

LINDSAY, Ont., August 6 (Special to The Examiner). — Miss Della Deyman, eldest daughter of Mr. Cecil Deyman, of Fenelon Falls, had a narrow escape from drowning in Cameron Lake on Friday. The young lady and a younger companion were in a rowboat, and in attempting to change seats, the boat upset. They were both in imminent danger of drowning, but the younger girl managed to cling to the boat. John Stewart, who witnessed the plight of the girls from the shore, swam out and rescued Miss Deyman as she was going down for the third time.

BODY OF BABY GIRL IS FOUND; AUTHORITIES SUSPECT MURDER

Blindfolded Girl, With Head Crushed, Discovered in Turning Basin.

IN WATER MONTHS.

TORONTO, August 6. (C.P.) — The body of a baby girl, with the top of her head crushed in, was taken from the turning basin at the foot of Carlaw avenue yesterday. Condition of the body points to murder, but clues to the identity of the child are totally lacking. The child was judged to be one year old.

The body was badly decomposed, and apparently had been in the water for several months. An autopsy performed yesterday afternoon by order of Chief Coroner M. M. Crawford revealed little in the way of medical evidence, although it is believed that the child had been killed before it entered the water.

Alexander Pilch, 143 Montrose avenue, fishing at the foot of Carlaw avenue, saw the body floating amongst bits of driftwood. He called P. C. Turner, 50, of Pape avenue division, and their investigations resulted in a call to detective headquarters. Detective-Sergeant Harold Waterhouse and Detective Joseph Ewing answered.

Black shoes and stockings, a white underwaist, and lace trimmed overshirt covered the body, while around the eyes, tied in a knot at the back of the head, was a handkerchief. According to theory the child was blind folded and then struck on the head with a heavy instrument, later being thrown into the water.

Although the body may have been thrown into the turning basin itself, it may also have entered the basin through either the ship channel from the harbor or through the new cut from the open lake. In the several months during which the body had been in the water it would have had time to float from the American shore, from a ship in the lake, or from any place along the Canadian shore line.

ENTRY LIST AT JUNIPER ISLAND REGATTA IS LARGEST IN YEARS

Events Are Closely Contested Despite the Bad Weather.

PRIZES PRESENTED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

Despite the handicap of very poor weather which threatened rain all day and a high wind with occasional gusts which continued throughout the afternoon, Juniper Island regatta went over the top as a success and not as a failure as the committee feared early in the day. Until two o'clock the question was discussed in all its phases: Will it be postponed or will it not? But the optimistic group prevailed and the regatta got away at 2.30 to a good start with the members of the committee all at their respective posts and the contestants eagerly awaiting the starting gun which, was, as usual, in charge of F. D. Jones, who has for years filled the position of starter most efficiently, spending the afternoon in a punt at the starting line. The judges were J. R. Dodworth, W. G. Morrow and G. K. Fraser; the referees, . H. Renwick and P. Dodworth; the announcer, J. M. Gouinlock; numberer, W. Clink; G. Guillett was in charge of the floats and course, and Miss B. Graham was clerk.

Two Enter Dinghy Race

The first scheduled to start was the dinghy race, and two boats entered; John Guillett's "Barney" and Andrew Brewin's "Sunbeam." Just before the start the tiller of the Guillett's boat broke and the Brewin boat capsized. The greater number of the dinghies were at the Sturgeon Point regatta and so the entry list was small, but the two boats gave a good race, with a very close finish.

The men's tandem canoe race brought out nine entries and was particularly good and the race was well worth watching as the finish was remarkably close.

In every race, in spite of the high wind and threatening weather the entry list was larger than usual and from one-third larger to double last year's entries. The wind provided an extra hazard in the gunwale and crab races, but the boys were not afraid of a possible ducking and few escaped at some time during the afternoon. The mixed tandem canoe race was run in two heats and was a close race with a very close finish. In fact, nearly every race was won by the proverbial "nose" which, of course, sustained the interest to the very end. The crowd did not have an opportunity to become bored, although there were some unavoidable delays, which were partially accounted for by the fact that the course was altered to the east side of Juniper Island, and the judges' stand was on the floating dock instead of the government dock as usual.

The competitors in the fours and seven in a skiff had a strenuous time during the gusts of wind which swept the course but there were no serious accidents and judging by the unfailing good humor and the splendid spirit of sportsmanship displayed throughout the whole afternoon with no "grouching" to mar the harmony, the regatta struck a high water mark this season.

The special event announced on the program took the form of a tug of war and was well contested right to the very last.

The Y.W.C.A. camp was present to a girl, and while there were but few entries, they made a brave showing. "Oak Ridge Camp" was present in full force also and carried off a large share of the prizes, "Don" Fitzgerald was in good form and made a most excellent showing and "Reg" Blomfield staged a remarkable come back with three firsts and two seconds in spite of the fact that it is thirty-two years since he last competed at Juniper regatta. N. Smith of the "Oak Ridge Camp" also was a conspicuous figure, and showed good form. The younger boys will be to the fore in the junior regattas which are due in the near future.

Probably no race had more thrill than the "sea flea" race between J. R. Ardiel in "Miss Windsor" and W. C. Landrigan in "I'm Alone."

Following the regatta the prizes

U. S. Commander Tells Tales Of Belgian Congo Horrors

NEW YORK, August 6. (C.P.) —"A land of living skeletons," where those who did not die of hunger fell victims of disease or were torn to pieces by wild animals, was described by Commander Edward P. Thompson, U.S.N., retired, on his arrival here yesterday, after spending six years in Africa.

In the famine-ridden Ruanda district of the Belgian Congo, he said, the living were too weak to care for their dead, and everywhere corpses were left lying beside the roads. Those survivors who had sufficient strength to gather up their belongings have fled to adjoining districts.

Commander Thompson blamed continued lack of rain and undercultivation of the small farms by the Bahutu tribe, for the three year famine.

JAPAN DESIRES SPECIAL RATIO

Minister of Marine Intimates Country Will Ask For Disarmament Conference.

URGE 10-7 PROPORTION.

TOKIO, August 6 (Canadian Press) —Minister of Marine Takarabe yesterday told a conference of prefectural governors that Japan would insist on a ratio of auxiliary naval vessels, and would endeavor to obtain agreement of the powers at a future disarmament conference.

The Admiral failed to specify what ratio would be demanded, but his speech showed the intention of Japan to urge a 10-to-7 ratio for auxiliaries.

DUNNING VISITS CAMPBELLFORD ON CANAL TOUR

Minister of Railways and Canals Acknowledges Invitation From Council.

HOLIDAY MEETING.

Further Discussion Takes Place Regarding Proposed Change of C.N.R. Train Schedule.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 6.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence)—Holidays mean nothing to the city fathers when there is business to be done. Although yesterday was generally accepted as the legal civic holiday, the council met in the council chamber at eight o'clock and attended to the business of the moment. Four councillors were absent and it began to look as though there would be no meeting. But Mayor Davidson rounded up Councillor Wilkinson. This made a quorum and the session began fifteen minutes late. Those present were Mayor Davidson, Deputy-reeve Stone, and Councillors O'Sullivan, MacDonald and Wilkinson. Reeve Bygott, Cole, Wiggins and Abernethy were absent.

After the minutes of the court of revision and the last council meeting had been heard, correspondence was read. The first letter was from the private secretary of the Hon. Mr. Dunning, minister of railways and Canals, Ottawa. It acknowledged the invitation of the local council to visit Campbellford during his proposed tour of the Trent Water system, and expressed the opinion that the visit would take place as soon as the minister's health and duties would permit. The letter pointed out that the minister had not recovered from a recent operation as rapidly as had been expected. The letter was received and filed.

Seeks No Parking Area.

Then came a request from T. J. Horkins, Bridge Street merchant. It was to have a no parking area in front of his two stores on Bridge Street. This was laid on the table Once more the desired change in the local C.N.R. train schedule came up when the clerk read a letter from the village cerk of Hastings, saying that that village had no desire to act independently in bringout about the proposed change, but would be glad to act in conjunction with the other municipalities. Although Hastings had forwarded a resolution to the C.N.R. officials, this was due to some slight misunderstanding. At the June meeting, the Council had passed a resolution favoring the change.

This was the last village to be heard from along the line from Peterborough to Belleville, and the matter now rests with a committee appointed by the local Council last night. It will be for this committee to decide what line of action to adopt and communicate with the other corporations interested. The change of schedule which they propose to seek is to have C.N.R. train No. 94 routed from Peterborough to Belleville rather than from Peterborough to Port Hope. The committee is composed of Mayor Davidson, the Reeve, Deputy-Reeve, and the Town Clerk. It is expected that a similar committee will be appointed by each of the other corporations to work with Campbellford.

Assessment Notice.

The Capital Trust Company, Ottawa, advised the Council by letter that the assessment notice which they had received should have been sent to Walter Henson, town. At the

DOG LOSES IN PORCUPINE FIGHT SAVES FAMILY BY RUSHING HOME

Mother and Seven Children Had Been Lost in Dense Bush Near North Bay.

HUGE PARTIES SEARCH.

NORTH BAY, Aug. 6.—Lost since early afternoon, a mother and her seven children are safe at home now because their dog lost out in an encounter with a porcupine.

With his nose full of quills, the dog started for home. The weary mother and her children followed. At 1 a.m. this morning a solitary searcher, a relative, encountered them. They had wandered miles from the city.

The find was made after more than 50 men had been searching the district ever since sundown. Arrangements were being made to rouse the whole city for a gigantic search when the discovery put an end to all fears.

Children and the one lone woman were frantic. They wandered in circles, then sat huddled together for hours. At one time they all engaged in prayer.

Meanwhile the dog had investigated thoroughly the surrounding district and had stuck an inquisitive nose toward a porcupine. The animal retaliated and filled the dog's nose with quills. The dog started for home in full cry, and members of the party, convinced that he was headed in the right direction, followed.

Orneus Bedard, a relative of three of the children, found the party near a swamp. They were directed to a road when motor cars took them to North Bay.

The party includes Mrs. Herbert Sparling and her three children, Marvin 12, Clarence 9, and Lindsay 6; Germaine Bedard 17, Kitty Bedard 12, and Patsy Bedard 8, the latter the children of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bedard; and Terence Kennedy, 9, son of Mrs. A. Kennedy.

The searching party had been out since sundown. Volley after volley of rifle fire had been sent thundering across the bush country. Fathers and friends are in the search party which has been increased by volunteers from the staff of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway.

Anxiety was so great that a railway union official said that unless the party was found he would call out every available railway employee in North Bay to join the search.

BODY OF MAN FOUND IN RIVER

Martin Quillan Is Drowned in the Scugog River At Lindsay.

SECOND IN WEEK.

LINDSAY, Ont., August 6 (Special to The Examiner). — On Sunday morning about nine o'clock the body of Martin Quillan, a well-known resident of this town, was found floating in the Scugog River, a short distance from the dock. Quillan, who was about 50 years old, was last seen on Saturday night about eleven o'clock at a local hotel.

Dr. Hugh Logan conducted a postmortem examination on Sunday morning which revealed death was due to drowning. The police have instituted an investigation. Quillan was employed by the County Road Board, and is survived by a wife and two children.

This is the second mysterious drowning within the last week. On Sunday last the body of nine-year-old Leonard Munt was discovered in the river a few feet from the spot where Quillan's body was found floating.

The authorities have decided against holding an inquest in connection with the death of Martin Quillan. The police have been able to trace Quillan's movements up until about 12.30 o'clock on Sunday morning. It is believed that the unfortunate man lost his bearings and wandered into the river.

LONDON DAILIES' RUSSIAN VIEWS ARE DIFFERENT

Telegraph Says Soviet Couldn't Agree To Proposals Without Eating "Humble Pie."

HERALD WISHES PEACE

Post Claims Bolshevism Given Trial Enough, Hopes Party Backs Henderson.

LONDON, August 6 (C. P.) — The hitch in the negotiations looking to resumption of commercial and diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Russia is featured in the London newspapers to-day. The Daily Telegraph remarks that no one who followed the long course of the negotiations could fail to see that Right Hon. Arthur Henderson's proposals were much more than the Soviet could agree to "without eating their own words."

"The Soviet Government's intention was that relations should be resumed, ambassadors appointed at once, and discussions on the matters outstanding between the two governments should follow," said the Telegraph. "Mr. Henderson's reply was quite unexpected in character. The Russian account is highly colored and perhaps is not quite an accurate account of what was said, but the Foreign Office statement showed Mr. Henderson spoke of setting up machinery, and he contemplated the possibility at least of complete settlement of all outstanding questions before Parliament's reassembling in October.

Reversed Attitude.

"This is a development of the policy on which the government must be congratulated, but as it also represents a complete reversal of their own attitude, and abandonment of the cardinal point in the Labor Party's program, the congratulations will hardly be forthcoming from their own supporters. If that party was pledged to anything it was pledged to immediate and unconditional resumption of relations with Russia."

No Relations at All.

The Morning Post takes the view that the Russian negotiations should not have been undertaken at all, since they break and even reverse the line of British foreign policy. "We had given the Bolshevists a good trial," the Post said. "We found it was impossible to deal with them, and we had turned them out. Then with a change in government we reopened the whole question so far as to approach Moscow, thus giving an impression of weakness, and even surrender.

Henderson Right.

"The Foreign Secretary wants a settlement before he gives recognition. Ambassador Dovgalesky wants recognition before giving settlement. We think Mr. Henderson well justified in the preliminary precautions and sincerely hope his government and party will support his attitude."

The Laborite Daily Herald says it trusts the significance of the temporary suspension of negotiations will be calmly assessed, with no foolish outbreaks of suspicion or accusation.

"Unfortunately, the Soviet Government's despatch suggests both misapprehension and suspicion," the Herald adds. "If these misunderstandings are removed the Herald is convinced the Soviet will decide to accept Mr. Henderson's offer in the spirit of friendship in which it is made."

A party of Canadian newspaper men, representative of many Canadian newspapers, while touring England recently made the acquaintance of Norman Edwards, English press artist, who accompanied them to several places of interest, including Warwick and Stratford. Here is a group of his "personal" impressions.

FAKE MANAGERS WILL BE OUSTED

Parasite Swim Managers Are To Be "Looked After" By the Ontario Commission.

PROTECT SWIMMERS.

By James A. Cowan
(Special to The Examiner, Copyright, 1929).

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—Brief investigation below the calm surface of preparations for the approaching C.N.E.-Wrigley marathon for the world's title and a purse of $50,000, reveal the fact that any so-called managers whose abilities are largely financial and only incidentally concerned with a knowledge of the marine sport, are likely to receive a rude jolt and that preparations to provide said jolt, where and when required, are well under way.

That the endurance plunge at the Canadian National Exhibition takes place under the supervision of the Ontario Athletic Commission, really a branch of the Provincial Government, is an important truth which has so far escaped general notice. It is supervised therefore exactly as is boxing or any other professional sport. One of the matters which is directly within the jurisdiction of this official body is that of contracts between swimmers and managers. Of this, a number of managers have been unfortunately unaware and, as a result, are now apt to suffer anguish.

Must Pass Commission.

The head of the Commission is T. A. Murphy, M.P.R. While he has issued no solemn warnings in public or made no announcements covering the situation, the attitude of himself and colleagues is well-known to swim officals. Marathoners competing in the great marine brawl are going to be protected from the viles of persuasive gentlemen who say sign here and I'll manage you to a fortune. Contracts must be passed by the commission, and from the decision of this body there is no appeal.

There have been some interesting cases reported in connection with previous swims. Young athletes of proven ability in the flush of excitement after the race, have placed their signatures on documents by which they agree to give individuals they have just met fifty per cent. of their total earnings over a period of years in return for advice and encouragement and vaguely defined varieties of assistance. These nice arrangements are, henceforth, cut.

Promises of fat vaudeville contracts, important dough for exhibition appearances and large sums for testimonials are some of the immediate returns which have been offered in return for on legal signature. The promises may not mature but the John Henry remains. Where these conditions are clearly inequitable as, for instance, where a swimmer has been known to agree to pay all training expenses out of his own pocket as well as the various incidental outlay involved in being a distinguished human seal and to receive nothing much but conversation and friendly guidance for half he makes, the charter is apt to be cast into the furnace by the moguls of the board in session assembled.

Protect Coach Besides Swimmer.

Several of this type have already been viewed and found practically n.g. In two cases, the swimmers were under age. The net result is that individuals with a flair for the impresario role who figured the marathoning business out to be easy money, will be better off financially if they gather together and spend their time holding hands. The attitude of the Ontario officials is to guard not only the swimmer but also the legitimate manager and coach.

TAKING 'HUSKY' IS GIVING ME LOTS OF ENERGY

"It Makes a Fellow Feel Like Doing a Real Day's Work," Says Mr. Gasteen.

HENRY NOEL GASTEEN.

"Husky has help me like nothing else ever did; it makes a fellow feel like getting out and doing a real day's work," said Henry Noel Gasteen, of 248 Brooklyn St., Winnipeg, Man., as he told how a few bottles of this medicine have benefitted him.

"I had gotten to the point where I didn't have any energy for my work as my food was disagreeing. I was nervous and didn't sleep much at night," he said. "I suffered severe pains in my stomach and I often lay awake until an early morning hour. My nerves were all to pieces and I was tired out.

"I heard so much talk about Husky I began using it. It has made me feel so much better and I now sleep so good all night without ever waking. I digest my food without any trouble and get up in the morning with plenty of energy and ready to go to work. And my work doesn't leave me tired out at night like it used to."

Begin using "Husky" to-day and note how soon you get relief, how your food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is wonderful what this medicine will do for you in just a few days. Husky can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store here and at other good drug stores everywhere.

LABOR MEMBER EASILY DOWNS HIS OPPONENT

Was First Straight Fight Between Labor and Communist Voters.

11,804 VOTES TO 512.

Although It Was International Red Day Little Interest Was Shown.

LEEDS, England, Aug. 6.—C.P.)—James Milner, Labor, was elected in the Southeast Leeds by-election yesterday with 11,804 votes. His only opponent, William Brain, Communist, received but 512 votes.

Thus in the two by-elections since the general elections, the Government supporters have retained constituencies which voted Labor on Maq 30.

The by-election was due to the elevation of Sir Henry Slesser to the Bench as Lord Justice of Appeal. Sir Henry as Labor Candidate had an overwhelming majority over a Conservative on May 30.

Little Interest

Yesterday may have been International Red Day but the vote certainly did not indicate it. It was the first straight fight between a Communist and Laborite in British Political history.

The farcical character of the contest was indicated by the lack of interest shown at the declaration of the result today. Barely 100 persons gathered outside the town hall, when the Lord Mayor, flanked by the two candidates, both of who wore red rosettes, appeared on the top of the steps.

Greeted ith Laughter

A very weak cheer from the Communsts, drowned in hearty laughter from the rest of the little gathering, greeted the announcement of the figures.

The standing of the parties in the House of Commons remained unchanged from the general election—Labor 288, Conservatives 260, Liberals 58, Nationalists three, Independents five and rohibitionist one.

This includes the vacant seat of Twickenham in the Conservative column. A by-election is now being held there, due to the elevation of the Peerage, of Rt. Hon. Sir William Joynson-Hicks, former Home-Secretary.

SAFETY IN TRAVEL.

The news item in Saturday's Examiner to the effect that many owners of automobiles prefer to travel by train during the week-ends will occasion no surprise. Highway accidents, many of them fatal, have been so numerous this summer that sensible people will find their faculty of caution and self-preservation naturally inclining them to avoid this Saturday and Sunday traffic menace.

By Newspaper advertising and otherwise the Ontario Department of Highways has made every possible appeal to the individual motorist to co-operate in a general effort to abate this danger, and there are days and particularly week-ends when it would seem that this safety propaganda was achieving the desired effect. But this opinion has frequently been dissipated by later tragedies.

Denunciation by the press and the Minister of Highways of reckless driving needs something more corrective than present penalties. The safety of the public should, of course, be the primary consideration in dealing with this problem, but another factor which may develop in the direction indicated by the news item from railway sources is the extent to which the automobile industry may be affected by the public's fear of the fool at the wheel.

Property is articulate, especially the powerful interests of the motor industry and its accessories, and can find a way of making itself heard effectually even when the public seems powerless and dumb.

CIVIC HOLIDAY.

If the label "Civic Holiday" ever associated any pertinent, practical meaning with the idea the phrase proposes, it has been a long time out of use and forgotten.

And it implies so much. Civic Holiday one might fancy as being dedicated to the spirit of local citizenship and its stimulation, a day on which the populace, especially the taxpayers, might take thought of their contributions to the common good of the municipality. Perhaps their omissions and lapses from the ideal of civic virtue might also give them some concern.

Conceivably that might be the purpose of "Civic Holiday," but actually most men give that connotation not the slightest thought. Their intentions yesterday were to get as far away from their town as their cars would take them. And their fathers in their day were not one bit more virtuous, in the civic sense, for railway fares were cheap, and entertainment was just as easily invented then as now.

No; we closed up the municipal shop on Monday without any feeling of neglect or delinquency. Possibly it is just as well that we do not take our community spirit too seriously. Opportunities for enjoying the pleasures of summer are not so numerous for most of us. And so we place the emphasis on the holiday idea of yesterday, and give our over-worked civic consciousness one day's rest out of the three hundred and sixty-five.

There are days which have a stirring significance for groups of the community, but only rarely do our local holidays evoke that ardour of civic unity and harmony which we like to believe would make us a greater and finer community than we are.

THOSE GERMAN GUNS.

After the Great War Dr. A. G. Doughty, Dominion Archivist, distributed 1,300 captured German cannon among cities, towns and villages of Canada as mementoes. Ottawa received four or five, dumped most of them down in Lansdowne Park, and promptly forgot about them until this week when a citizen appeared before the Board of Control to complain that his child had been injured by the tilting barrel of one of these grim souvenirs.

In the past few days people have been making inquiries. Nobody can be found at City Hall who admits any responsibility for care of the guns. They never were mounted on concrete bases, as was done in some cities. They have not been painted, nor given any attention whatever, apparently. Nobody but the Archivist knows their history, because they have not been marked in any way. Many other municipalities which accepted guns have had a similar experience. The enthusiasm with which they were received evaporated rapidly as the years passed.

There is a strong body of opinion which finds no beauty in an old cannon set in a city park, and discerns no good purpose to be served by its constant reminder of those ugly days when the nation went to war. Its associations perhaps were with triumph and military glory, but also with death and destruction. To many persons it recalls bitter bereavement and tragic experience. There are others who hold that a people need to be kept in mind of their martial accomplishments in the past and that war's reminiscent touch is an incentive to peace.

Now that the question has come up the civic authorities must decide what is to be done about these guns. Perhaps the controllers might invite deputations to express their views. But it is clear that if the cannon are to be retained they must be given proper attention. Each should be mounted on a permanent base, spiked securely so that no moving part may endanger children, and carry a tablet setting forth its history in brief. If they are not worth this much trouble and the consequent expenditure, they should be returned with thanks to the Archives Department.—Ottawa Journal.

FAIR PLAY FOR BRITAIN.

No thinking American need take offense if the British Chancellor of the Exchequer wastes no time in turning down the Young plan to diminish the German reparations at the expense of Great Britain in order to conciliate the continental Allies. No nation cares to be called an "easy mark" quite so casually as all that. Britain has met her war liabilities honorably and promptly, which is more than any other nation can say, and her good faith should not be abused.

It is conceded that no power as concerns this country was granted to the [illegible] representatives at the reparations conference [illegible]mand for a full indemnity to the last cent for the expenses of our army of occupation of the Rhine should not be thrown up against Mr. Young, although to the British it might seem a trifle ungrateful. Perhaps it would clarify matters a little to show what Great Britain has done in meeting her debt to the United States up to date.

In 1922 the British negotiators, headed by Mr. Baldwin, the former Prime Minister, arranged to make a debt settlement which has been faithfully met. It was not like a German reparations settlement with a whine for easier terms every two or three years. It bound Britain to pay it in full over ten years at 3 per cent. and fifty-two years at 3½ per cent., irrespective of what she received elsewhere, and the Allies owed her twice what she owed us.

Up to date Great Britain has paid us in settlement of principal and interest of money advanced, even in those fifteen months when we had declared war but were not ready, the sum of $1,200,000,000 and upwards. She has received in that time from her own debtors rather less than $160,000,000, including her share of the German reparations. Is it necessary to find so unworthy an explanation as the nearness of the general election in England for the Chancellor of the Exchequer's refusal to continue his country in the character of the goat of all the world? Who ought to make sacrifices? Germany is far more lightly taxed than Britain and the same is true of France, although France is more heavily taxed than Germany. It may be true that the willing horse pulls the load but working a willing horse to death is a different matter.

There is purposely no intention here to exploit sentimental twaddle about brothers in blood and ideals, "hands across the sea" and all the rest of the after-dinner conventional stuff. What is much better than that is the frank and generous recognition of the way in which Britain alone is meeting her obligations to us, without quibble or plea of poverty, and how casually so high-minded a policy is received in this country.

It may be said here and now that Germany will put an implicit repudiation clause in any reparations treaty, but Britain will keep her obligations.—Wall St. Journal.

CUTTING AIR COSTS.

Despite the shouting that is being heard from a section of the American press which demands that more money be spent on military aircraft, as a measure of protection in case of war, the United States may decide to slash its aviation expenditure. Secretary of War Good has indicated that he considers the $50,000,000 per year cost of the service entirely too high.

The secretary is undoubtedly right. Such an expenditure on purely military aviation is out of all reason. There is every indication that it is so much money wasted.

This is no time to be preparing for war. The maintenance of an adequate force as a measure of protection is justified, but the money spent on war-like aviation could better be turned into other channels which would benefit the nation much more. Civil aviation needs all the help it can get, and if half the money now spent on military activities were devoted to this branch, the result would be a most valuable aid to the advancement of the science.

Experience has shown that efficient military airplanes can be quickly manufactured in case of need. The training of pilots is what took up most of the valuable time in the last war. At that time, however, there were few pilots in civil life, and it was necessary to take green manhood and turn it into a corps of aerial fighters.

The same condition does not exist to-day. More and more men are learning to fly, and are using their training to good advantage in civil commercial aviation. Yet the United States goes on training thousands of war pilots and maintaining them as a heavy burden on the national treasury.

It would be much better were these men released from the army, to pursue their art in peaceful endeavor. Skilled pilots, should the need arise, could speedily learn the arts of war, and every aircraft manufacturing plant in the country could be turned, almost overnight, into a factory for the production of fighting types of planes. This does not even mean the United States need fall behind in the development of modern war machines. A small, highly-trained technical staff could be kept on duty, constantly experimenting and developing, so that, in an emergency, the results of their work could be put to practical use.

Aside from the comparative lack of aircraft manufacturing plants, Canada set an example to her neighbor. She maintains a very small permanent military flying force. Pilots who hold commissions are allowed to take short refresher courses each summer at military camps, but are not kept on the permanent strength. Meanwhile, flying clubs from coast to coast are constantly turning out expert pilots, who could, in a few weeks, be fitted to go into the air and fight their country's battles. Compared to this system, that of the United States is extravagant and unwise.—Border Cities Star.

Your successes in life will never be of a crushing and mountainous character, and your name will never be listed among the famous. Yours will be the small and unrecorded successes, which belong to one who is warmly human and kind. You are capable of spreading peace and happiness about you and your life will be full of adventures in friendship and love.

Circumstances may give you an empty hearth, but you will never be doomed to an empty heart. Years will bring you an accumulation of love and respect. They are better than cold memorials of fame. You are one of the few whose soul remains unscarred by hardships, worry and grief, and whose love is preserved through them all.

You are not a wide reader, a deep student of books, a scientist, or a philosopher. CHAPTER 9.

It was during these stormy March nights, when Beatrice's illness had made her even sweeter, gentler, more dependent than ever, that they first talked of the Kreutzmann Memorial.

Bert was with them. He had taken a sudden fancy to his own home of late, and while usually leaving his father and Beatrice to their tete-a-tete dinner, and for an hour or two of happy solitude afterward, he had formed the habit of joining them at about nine o'clock, for an hour of talk before bedtime.

"Dad, going after that Kreutzmann thing?" the son asked. Beatrice looked hopefully at her husband, from the luxurious couch where she was deep in pillows. Any subject or interest that those two could find in common she found herself seizing with fervor and hope in these days. Bert's attitude was distressing his father deeply; every day, every hour, of his cheerful idling and wasting was exasperating to the older man, and until the boy established himself somewhere- doing something, his presence was always a possible source of friction and consequently a cause of anxiety to Beatrice.

"The boys in the office will make a try for it," Hugh answered, lowering his look, glancing over at his son, from his deep red leather chair by the fire, and arresting his look, on the way back, for a smile at Beatrice.

"And you too, Hugh!" she said quickly and jealously.

He laughed at her tone.

"What would I want of fifty thousand dollars!" he asked mildly.

"Oh, IT isn't the money, Hugh!" Beatrice exclaimed, with her characteristic eager animation. "But the fun of winning! And then we'd have to go to California, wouldn't we?"

"You can go to California any time that you want to, Bee," he said

"Yes, I know. But this would be such fun!"

"How much money did the old geezer leave, Dad?" Bert asked.

"Oh, millions. Twenty-two, twenty-three, I've forgotten. But the prize for the plans is fifty thousand. Old Philo Applewhite was telling me to-day that French and Austrian architects will compete—they expect two or three hundred plans. Applewhite's on the board; he's all wrought up over it."

"Was Kreutzmann an architect, Hugh?"

"No, he was a miner first, and then in railroads and things. I used to see him walking down-town—fine old fellow. He owned this immense tract out in California, somewhere in the mountains north of Los Angeles, I gather, and he wanted to leave a permanent memorial there; the Kreutzmann Memorial college. Clara and Adolph Kreutzmann—those are the names.

"Hugh, why don't you try for it individually?"

He smiled across at her, narrowing his eyes.

"Look at her, leading me on!"

"No," said Beatrice, subsiding, "but it would be such fun to have you win it!"

"I'll try for it," Bert suggested, "and take you along if I win, Bee!"

"I wish you would—no, not take me along," she said, laughing, "but really try for it."

And she looked across at his father for sympathy. But Hugh was looking into the fire, with an odd expression on his face, and did not meet her eyes. There was affection enough, but there seemed to be little sympathy between father and son.

When Bert had gone to bed, still connecting Hugh's serious look with the boy, she spoke of him somewhat uncertainly:

"He is lazy, Hugh, and he doesn't seem to have settled down yet. But his mother's death, coming just—he was telling me yesterday—just when he was beginning to discover how much he loved her, and then those years in Europe—demoralizing for any boy!—all have helped keep him—well, irresponsible."

"He's some years older than you are remember." Hugh observed dryly, as if he spoke against his will.

"Oh, I know, but boys are always much younger! Besides," argued Beatrice, "I'm married. That makes a difference."

"Alice—his mother—had a brother who was just like Bert," Hugh said. "I keep seeing Carter Merritt in him."

"Carter Merritt!" Beatrice echoed animatedly. "I remember him! Oh, he was a heart-breaker. I remember, when I was about fourteen, thinking that Mr. Carter Merritt was perfectly wonderful."

"Where'd you ever see him?" Hugh asked, surprised, faintly frowning.

"I used to go to Miss Roberts' School; Mummy taught music there for years, and Marcia used to help with the upper grades before she graduated. The riding academy was right next door, and I used to see Carter Merritt riding around the ring and jumping. And then afterward I'd see him in that bright yellow car—"

"He drank," Hugh contributed briefly, as she paused.

"Yes, I know he did," Beatrice felt puzzled and chilled. For some reason Hugh seemed displeased. "Was he—had he been drinking when he was killed?" she ventured.

"Coming home from the old country club," Hugh assented with a nod.

"Was he married, Hugh?"

"Married, and had two children. A perfectly irresponsible wife, of course."

"And who takes care of them?"

"I take care of the youngsters. Lorette—the wife—has married again."

Beatrice spoke forgivingly.

"But he was fascinating, Hugh. One of those men who make friends everywhere! He had the most wonderful smile, I remember—well, it was just Bert's smile."

"Yes, he was like Bert." Hugh said it shortly, unemotionally.

"And Bert makes friends everywhere, too," Beatrice went on, enthusiastically. "After all, we oughtn't to judge a nature like that, Hugh. Wherever he goes he's spoiled and adored and made much of—your mother just worships him."

"Did he take you to the lecture this morning?" Hugh asked abruptly after a while.

"Who, Bert?" Beatrice countered surprisedly. For from his absent expression she had supposed his thoughts to have wandered far away from his son.

"Bert."

"Oh, yes. Didn't I tell you at dinner? He drove me in the closed car, and I came straight back to bed, and he was just like a girl—" Beatrice broke off to laugh. "Just like a girl about helping me," she resumed. "He hung up my coat and put my hat away, and when Nelly came in he was trying to fold up the big cover to my bed. I wasn't one bit tired; I don't know when I have ever laughed so much in my life. It was a silly sort of lecture about Indian dialects, and Bert began to make up a dialect of his own, on the side, and of course, you know, when you can't laugh?—Beatrice explained, with her ruffled satiny head dropped on one side, and her eyes full of laughter at the mere memory of it—" of course it's perfectly terrible!" she ended.

Youth, beauty, softness, gayety, sweetness. He looked across at them all, embodied in the red-headed, white-skinned girl who was opposite him, deep in pillows, and smiled a constrained, sort of smile that vaguely puzzled her even though she smiled gallantly back. Did Hugh think she was criticizing Bert? Hugh's mother had told her more than once that his heart was wrapped up in the boy, that bitterer even than Alice's death, to Hugh, was the constant disappointment and gall of his son's irresponsibility and ainlessness.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

An account of a golden wedding celebrated recently in Middleton, Scotland, will be of interest to the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hollings of town and of Mr. and Mrs. John Carter, McGill street, Peterborough. Mrs. Hollings and Mrs. Carter are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gracie of Grimshaw Lane, Middleton, who celebrated their golden wedding recently at that address. The elderly couple were married in Glasgow in 1879, at the bride's home. Mr. Gracie was then a citizen of Dumfries, although he was working at his trade of cabinet maker in the city of Glasgow. Later he went to Manchester and joined the Royal Marines, serving fourteen years with that famous corps in all parts of the world. While serving on the West Coast of Africa he sustained injuries which caused him to be invalided from the service, but not before he had received the Long Service and Good Conduct Medal. During the war, Mr. Gracie was both too old and physically unfit for active service, so he did his bit making munitions at Middleton. He is now in his seventy-third year. Mrs. Gracie is in her seventy-first year. She is enjoying excellent health.

The account of the celebration mentions three daughters and one son living "Out in Canada." These are Mrs. Albert Hollings, Garry street; and Mrs. Carter, McGill street, Peterborough, who came to Canada twenty-two years ago; Mrs. Hawthorne, a daughter, and the son, Mr. Gracie, came to Canada last Spring.

• • •

It wasn't lack of interest that made the crowd so small at the lacrosse match between the Peterborough and Campbellford teams on Saturday afternoon. The event was not scheduled on the program advertised, and everyone thought that the week was over. Dodgers were handed around on the street just before the game, but the majority of people didn't know anything about it till they were asked why they weren't at the game. The visiting players lost by two goals with the score at six to four. But they stayed in town for the dancing that evening and were the guests of the dancing committee at the high school.

• • •

The Old Boys are unanimous in pronouncing Old Home Week a success. They were a little dubious at first in believing that a town the size of Campbellford could make a celebration last for seven days. Now they are, for the most part, tired out, but they wish it was still to come and not a thing of the past. Many of them are staying on to visit friends and relatives, now that they will have time for a real visit and not have to go rushing here and there for fear they miss seeing the attraction of the moment.

There are two classes of people in town now—those who believe the Old Home Week committee paid its way, and those who believe it didn't.

TORONTO CURB HOLDS STEADY

Trading Not As Strong As On Friday Following Holiday Recess.

SOME LIGHT SETBACKS.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 6.—(C.P.)—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange was active and fairly firm this morning after the holiday recess. The showing was not as strong as on Friday for although some of the leaders continued to advance there were recessions in others.

Brazilian led the strong issues with a rise of more than four points to 66½ on sales of 2,594 shares. International Nickel was also in demand to register an advance of more than a point to 50⅜. Famous Players at 63¾ was 1¾ ahead of the high for the year established Friday. Single point advances were made by Page Hersey at 139, Steel of Canada, 61, F. N. Burt, 65½, Service Stations 66, and Massey Harris 56½. Great West Saddlery was also up 1 to 15.

Canadian Pacific Drops.

But the gains of these last two issues did not extend to others in the w...ad group. On sales of only 7 shares Canadian Pacific dropped 6 dollars to 224. Cockshutt Plow and Waterloo marked time under small demand.

Reactions to previous activity were led by Bell Telephone which dropped 2 from the year's high reached Friday to 179. Loblaw 'A' under pressure yielded slightly to 24 and Loblaw 'B' was also down fractionally to 23. Walker's was sold heavily to yield more than a point to 19. Ford of Canada was fractionally weaker at 46.

CURB SUBJECTED TO GREATEST SELLING PRESSURE OF THE YEAR

Prices Show Decline of 11 1-8 To 9 1-2 Cents Per Bushel At Noon Hour.

SENSATIONAL DROP.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 6 (C.P.).—The bottom temporarily fell out of the wheat market this morning when bears were rampant and subjected the market to the greatest selling deluge of the year. At noon prices had slumped sensationally from 11⅛ to 9⅛ cents per bushel, and the wave of selling had not been conquered. October wheat was down 11⅛ cents to $1.54, its lowest figure in weeks. December delivery wheat had dropped 9½ cents to $1.51¼ and May 9⅝ cents to $1.55⅞.

GAINS AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 6 (C.P.).—Wheat scored material advances in price to-day after a sag at the start. Reports of big purchasing of flour southwest, together with predictions of rapid falling off in the movement of winter wheat, did much to swing the market upward. Opening unchanged to 1⅜ off, wheat later showed gains all around. Corn displayed notable strength, starting unchanged to ⅝ cents higher, and afterward making a sharp general upturn. Oats followed corn. Provisions also tended to advance.

EASIER RATES CHECK DECLINE

Many Issues Regain Losses Suffered During the Morning Session.

ON NEW YORK CURB.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil—Associated Press Financial Editor).

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 6.—Easting call money rates checked a sharp decline in to-day's stock market. Prices of many active shares were carried down 1 to 8 points in the morning selling movement, but most of the losses were cut in half, or better, and a sprinkling of issues carried 2 to 6 points above yesterday's final quotations in the early afternoon recovery. Trading was fairly heavy in volume.

Early selling was inspired largely by a further break in Middle Western utilities stocks in the Chicago Stock Exchange. The high renewal rate on call loans and prediction of an increase in the Bank of England rate on Thursday. Wall Street recalled that the disastrous breaks in prices in the New York Stock Exchange in March, 1926, and again in the spring of this year were preceded by sharp re-actions in Chicago and many traders, fearing a repetition of those experiences, sold stocks heavily.

The ease with which some of the high-grade investment shares melted away alarmed timid speculators who were carrying stocks or margin. Strong buying support appeared when the call money rate dropped from 12 to 10 per cent., and funds were loaned in the "outside market" as low as 8 per cent. There was nothing in the day's business news to account for any chance in speculative sentiment, as the latest batch of earnings and sales reports continued to make favorable comparison with the corresponding period a year ago.

Detroit Edison, which rallied 50 points last week, broke 25 points on a few sales. American Telephone dropped 6½ but made up all but a fraction of its loss before the end of the third hour. New York Central dropped 7 and quickly rallied 4½, and General Electric made up all of its early drop of 4½ points.

AMULET

Northern Engineering Service says Amulet hole 220 shows 11 feet medium grade ore in addition to 30 feet high grade. Hole 221 should cut further ore Friday this week with Hole 222 following in few days.

Our Kirkland Lake man says: "Have it from good authority that the last diamond drill hole, presumably No. 220, fifty feet south of 217, gave over 40 feet of good grade copper ore. This enlarges the possibilities very much. Another hole is being drilled 50 feet west, it is reported."

This year's prize list of the Canadian National Exhibition is greatly in excess of $125,000.

STOCK A DAY

AMALGAMATED LEATHER COMPANY INC.

Amalgamated Leather Companies, Inc., was formed in 1919 to take over a business which was originated in Germany in 1715. It is engaged in tanning, manufacturing, purchasing and selling hides, skins and leathers. The principal products of the company are from goat skins from which kid for women's shoes is produced. It also manufactures patent leathers, cabretta kid, a substitute for glazed kid, and shoe dressings.

The company owns practically all the stock of 5 subsidiaries one of which is an advertising subsidiary. The plants of the company, including garages and chemical laboratories, are in Wilmington, Del., and have a capacity of 45,000 goat skins and 1,000 hides a day. The company also has an extracting plant at Elsmere, Del., and maintains offices in New York City.

Earnings, like conditions in the leather trade, have fluctuated widely in the last decade. In only 3 of the last 9 years have earnings covered preferred dividend requirements. Net in 1928 was $272,861 or $5.45 a preferred share. This compares with earnings of 77 cents a share in 1927. The company has been unfavorably affected by the style trend to reptile skins which it does not manufacture. Moreover, at the beginning of 1929 inventories represented 71 per cent of current assets.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding includes $5,000,000 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par value and 175,000 shares of no par common. No dividends have been paid on common or preferred dividends April 1, 1929 were .59¼ per cent.

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets $6,973,303. Current liabilities amounted to $3,550,830 and net working capital was $3,422,473. Book value of the preferred stock was $107.86 a share. Bank debt amounted Jan. 1, to about $1,000,000.

RAIN RELIEVES PART OF NORTH

Fire Menace Still Rages Without Halt in Most of Northern District.

NEW FIRES IN KENORA.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press)—The menace of forest fires continued almost undiminished on widely scattered fronts across Canada last night, though efforts of corps of fire fighters had so far prevented serious loss of property or loss of life. Rain fell during the last 24 hours in many sections of Eastern and Western Canada but, according to reports did not cover extensive areas—and the danger from fire while diminished in some places still continued serious.

The weather, however, was generally cooler yesterday and this relief from the heat prevalent for a week past, will prove a help to late maturing crops.

New fires broke out in the Kenora district in Northern Ontario, according to official reports and the rain which fell elsewhere in the Province missed the districts where fires are being fought. The big fire at Kahagi Lake remained out of control while forces were despatched to new outbreaks between Kenora and Reditt and near MacIntosh.

Provincial authorities are satisfied that their efforts have prevented a real disaster but are convinced the situation will remain serious until rain is general.

ELEVATOR FALL HURTS 25

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 6 (C.P.).—Twenty-one persons, five of them women, were injured when the elevator in which they were riding, fell from the seventh floor of a midtown loft building to the basement to-day. Two of the injured were said to be in a serious condition.

STIMSON'S NOTE ON SETTLEMENT STIRS RUSSIANS

Soviet Angered At Proposals To Have China Restore "Status Quo Ante."

WILL RESIST PLAN.

Action Is Viewed As Masked Imperialist Advance On Soviet Union.

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press)—Publication of a Tass News Agency despatch from Vienna reporting that Secretary of State Stimson is alleged to have sent a "secret" note to the great Powers concerning the creation of an International Commission for untying the Soviet-Chinese tangle has caused much comment here.

(On July 25, Secretary Stimson was reported to have sent an identic aide memoire to the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, France, Japan, Italy and Germany which was understood to have related to the projected negotiations between Russia and China over the Chinese Eastern situation. The exact terms of this were not made public but it was rumored that the Secretary was concerned with having China restore the status quo ante as a preliminary to negotiations. Although these reports were cabled from the United States to Moscow at that time, the Vienna despatch mentioned in to-day's Moscow cable may have had its origin in the July 25th report).

The Moscow press on the basis of this despatch views the reported action in the Chinese Eastern Railway conflict as an unprecedented masked Imperialist advance against the Soviet Union on an International scale."

Pravda, the official Communist organ, after discussing the alleged "secret" note, winds up with the declaration that the "exposed Imperialist plans" will meet with the Soviet Union's maximum resistance.

Mongolian Tribes Rise.

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—Shanghai despatches to the newspaper Nachtausgabe to-day said telegraphic communication between Urga, Mongolia, and Kalgan, Chili Province, had been broken to-day to the consternation of Chinese circles who feared it meant invasion of China by outer Mongolian tribes. Russian influence is dominant in outer Mongolia.

General Yen Chung-Chang, Chief of Police in Shanghai, has been informed of uprisings among the tribes of inner Mongolia against the Kuomintang. The headquarters staff of the Nationalists in inner Mongolia had fled.

Conference Deadlocked.

NANKING, China, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—The Foreign Office of the Nationalist Government announced to-day there was a deadlock at the conference between Russia and China over the seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway, which has been in progress at Manchuli, Manchuria.

The Nationalist authorities were unable to accept the Russian demand for reinstatement of the Russian associate managers on the railway before the opening of formal negotiations.

The Foreign Office instructed Chinese Minister Wu at Washington to notify signatories of the Kellogg pact as to the discussion in full detail.

hopelessly in the smap lands if they had not prayed.

Mrs. Sparling realized at 7.15 p.m. they were lost, and at once herded her little flock around her, "called the roll," and found they were all present. She then informed them they probably would have to spend the night in the bush. Up to that time she had not given up hope of getting their bearings.

Dog Fought "Porky"

Mrs. Sparling told how she had tried to get the Bedard dog to lead to safety. The plan proceeded excellently for a time. Then, without warning, a porcupine appeared and Mr. Dog had to do battle with it, lost or not lost. Immediately the dog yelled as though in his death agonies, his nose being quickly filled with quills. He returned shortly after but he would not lead and all we could do was sit on the huge rock that we had found and hope for the best."

T. and N. O. Men Search

In this connection it is worthy of note that approximately one hundred employees of the night shift of the T. and N. O. laid down their tools at midnight and jumped into automobiles and were transported some miles into the bush, where they scoured the woods in all directions.

Some of the men continued the search hours after the party had been rescued, not knowing that they had been found.

DRINK OF WATER COSTS $200,000

Brokers Runner Lays Bag of Securities Down Only To Have It Disappear.

STRANGE MAN SEEN.

NEW YORK, August 6. (C.P.) — A boy's desire for a drink of water yesterday resulted in the disappearance of stocks and bonds valued at $200,000.

James Waltz, aged 16, employed as a runner for Arthur E. Frank and Company, Lower Broadway brokers, was given the securities to deliver to stock houses. He placed his black bag containing the securities on a bench in the office, and went to a water cooler.

When he returned the bag was gone. Clerks reported seeing a strange man loitering near the doorway.

turned over to a man hired for the job and he is paid a salary of $25,000. He is superintendent of all the city business and property, and hires and fires on his own initiative. If any drastic changes are considered, he goes to the council for approval, but otherwise he manages on his own responsibility.

Under this form of government the city has prospered and the improvements have been substantial and permanent. Police, waterworks and highways are under separate heads appointed by the city manager.

The great success of the movement pointed out Judge Ross, was directly due to the women's vote, and they have been the most active factor in maintaining it against the annual attempts on the part of the old regime to return to power.

In his opening remarks Judge Ross spoke highly of the hospitality and kindness of the Canadian people as he had experienced during his stay in this country.

He was introduced by Joe Wearing, and S. R. Armstrong and W. R. Morris each voiced a strong vote of thanks to him.

The Boy Scout movement and especially the Jamboree now being held in England at which 46 different countries are represented was praised by W. R. Morris. "It is a great international body that is doing much the same work as Rotary," said Mr. Morris. J. T. Hornsby also praised the Boy Scouts.

SOFTBALL.

With Bridgenorth and Teco as the opposing teams for to-night softball fans can look for a good game. Teco have won their last two starts and just lost out to Harrisons a week ago by a 6-4 score. They possess one of the best teams in the league. Bridgenorth have lost only one game this season and are out to keep their record clean and also to stay right in the race for the honors.

The game is scheduled to start at 6.30 at Central School Grounds and with two of the best teams in the league fighting it out, a good bill of softball should be the result.

On Wednesday night the fast-going K. of C. team will meet the Harrison aggregation. K. of C. have been turning in good games of late and are fast developing into a great team. After winning two in a row they were nosed out by the odd run by the Bridgenorth Wildcats. They were more outlucked than outplayed in this game. Harrisons will have to win this game to keep in a tie for first place so should be out their playing all the way.

The game will start at 6.30 at Central School Grounds. Softball fans should not mis this fixture.

A low estimate puts the value of Great Britain's royal jewelry at $30,000,000.

COL. J. K. MACKAY OUTLINES NEEDS OF THE RETURNED MEN CANADIAN LEGION LEGION PICNIC

Representatives From District Branches Attend Outing at the Oval.

ORGANIZATION NECESSARY.

Legion Has Secured $25 Millions For War Broken Heroes Speaker Says.

An address delibered by Col. J. K. MacKay, vice-president of the Ontario command of the Canadian Legion, featured the picnic of the local branch of the Canadian Legion yesterday afternoon when comrades with their wives and children of Legion branches of the surrounding district and Peterborough gathered in Nicholls Oval for an afternoon's program of sport and inspirational addresses.

Unsettled weather conditions prevented many representatives from more distant points attending, but Lindsay, Warsaw, Keene and Peterborough were well represented. Arrangements were in the hands of Dr. N. H. Sutton, first vice-president of the Peterborough command of the Legion; Arnold Everett, second vice-president, and James Abraham, past president.

Words of welcome were spoken to the visiting comrades and their children by Dr. Sutton. He called on Lieut.-Col. Charles Ackerman, president of the Ontario command of the Legion to introduce to the audience Col. MacKay.

Attention was drawn by Lieut.-Col. Ackerman in his short address to the increasing tendency towards organization among the returned soldiers of Canada as evidenced by the large numbers who attended the convention of the Canadian Legion held this year at St. Thomas. He declared that it was the most important conference of its kind since the close of the Great War. Three times as many representatives were at the St. Thomas convention as at the convention last year in Kingston, he stated.

Organization Is Necessary.

The necessity for organization of the ex-service men was emphasized by the speaker. "Organized effort is the only means by which the government can be forced to take note and attend to the problems of the ex-service men of the nation." The fact that the officials of the government of Canada are recognizing the importance of the ex-service man's problem was indicated, he stated, by the presence at the conference of a number of the noted men of Canadian politics.

In introducing Col. MacKay, Lieut.-Col. Ackerman called attention to his splendid war record. As well as being the vice-president of the Ontario command, and a member of the Dominion executive of the organization. Few in the province, Col. Ackerman said, have given their time with such whole-hearted generosity to the work of the Legion as Col. MacKay. Gratitude was expressed to Col. MacKay for his generosity in sparing time to visit Peterborough and deliver his message to the gathering.

Opening his address, Col. MacKay commented on the great work being done by Col. Ackerman as president of the Ontario command of the Legion. He thanked Dr. Sutton for the opportunity given him to speak in Peterborough. His message that followed was an inspiration to his eager audience.

He recalled the announcement of Sir Edward Grey to the House of Commons and the world on that fourth day of August exactly fifteen years ago of Britain's determination to enter the war. "Then the wheels of the ordinary affairs of time stopped and henceforth everything had to be viewed from a different prospective and measured by a different standard."

Never Know Our Loss.

"What our loss resulting from the Great War is we shall never know. We are well aware that the very cream of the brain and brawn of our country was thrown into the conflict and just as the keenest and best were the first to go, so the keenest and best were the first to fall.

"What was Canada's effort? A total of 620,000 Canadian men and women enlisted to do whatever duty their country might lay upon them. Almost half a million Canadian citizens from all walks of life hastened overseas to take part in the great conflict. Then followed four years and more of work and strain, of endurance, of vigil and suffering. The pages of history are replete with the names—Ypres, St. Julien, Festubert Givenchy, St. Eloi, and Hill 60, the Somme, the attacks on Courcellette, Zoleron, Hessian and Regina Trench.

Col. McKay then drew a vivid picture of the weary work and horrors the Canadian men went through before victory came, recalling some of the battles and scenes in which Canadians figured to the memory of his audience.

Task Calls for Courage.

Continuing, "Canada by her devotion earned a place at the Council Table at Versailles, became a signator to the Treaty of Peace, is a member of the League of Nations, and is a party to the pact for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy. What duty then is solemnly committed to us? Our brethren lifted a flame at the Altar of Peace, and we must keep it burning. This is a task neither for cynics nor sentimentalists; it calls for courage and determination, judgment and discipline.

"What then of the future? Out of the war there has arisen a great organization, mighty in the vastness of its limitless resources, recognizing great duties to perform and rights to maintain, based upon common service, common blood and common patriotism. It is destined to play a great part in bringing about a better day and nobler destiny than was ever wrought by the sword or sought at the cannon's mouth.

"One often hears the inquiry, 'What is the Legion doing?' Have they secured for the returned man the privileges which are rightly his? I shrink from the criticism which suggests that the word should not be 'they' but 'we,' but, backed by a record for the Legion every page of which is progress, I venture to make earnest and respectful answer to this question.

Secured 25 Million.

"During our few years of operation we have secured over $25,000,000 for our war-broken comrades. The work necessary for this result done by volunteer workers is the product of incessant toil. The Pension Act itself bears witness to our efforts in its amendments and valuable concessions. The status of the ex-service man has been clarified and enhanced. No longer is he the prey of the unscrupulous and sport of the thoughtless. No longer are his passions enflamed, his impulses misdirected, his incredulity imposed upon, and even his very prejudices made to play a part in which every reasonable interest of society is jeopardized.

"Can you then reasonably defend your position outside this organization, an organization which, out of chaos, pandemonium, and suspicion has achieved these magnificent results in a few years? Gentlemen, these efforts have not been the product of time serving, they are but an emanation of the same qualities which prompted a soldier when, in the din of carnage, reckless of hurtling death, to carry succor to his fainting friend and aid a fallen brother when from that brother's hand the rifle fell, and from his gallant heart there gushed a crimson stream of patriotic life.

"For years I have made appeals to influence and finance. I pointed out to those the impossibility of avoiding covenants sacredly sealed during the dark and ever darkening days of the war. These appeals have not been in vain, but I now voice an appeal to you which comes not from me, neither does it come from the Legion. It comes from consecrated ground; that long line from Soissons to the North Sea, hallowed by your struggles and doubly hallowed by those who died for our victory; sacred soil to all of us and eloquent witness in our present prosperity to the invincible valour of Canadian hearts. Can such a message fall on deaf or unwilling ears? If so, I am sacrificing my self-respect and taxing your patience in vain. But such is not the case. With increased devotion you will reconsecrate yourself to the great task that lies before us.

At the conclusion of Col. MacKay's address, the gratification of the audience was expressed by Dr. Sutton. Referring to parts of the address just delivered, he urged that the problems of returned men in different parts must be looked after and a special remedy prescribed to fit each problem. The only way to gain this object, he reminded the audience, was to carry on the work of the Legion.

During the afternoon the picnickers enjoyed themselves at softball and horse-shoe pitching in the expansive park. A tug-of-war provided much amusement among the men. Supper was served on the grounds by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the local branch of the Legion, and a booth on the grounds supplied the picnickers with ice-cream and soft drinks and candy.

MINE MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Light Decline Noticed in Many of Active Leaders of Last Week.

NORANDA DROPS.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 6 (C.P.).—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning reflected a lessening of demand for many of the issues that helped to make last week's trading lively. Precious metals and oils as well as the nonferrous issues were irregular.

Noranda, the earnings of which have been the subject of speculation, dropped back 1.45 to 6.75. A large share of the turn-over was accounted for by Amulet and Arno. Arno rose 3½ to 43 on sales exceeding 100,000 and Amulet after reaching the three dollar mark dropped back to 2.87 for a net loss of 8. Newbec was off slightly at 46½ and Big Missouri up 1 at 1.60. B'wana gained 10 at 5.10; Sudbury Basin and Sherritt Gordon lost 5 apiece to 8.95 and 7.85. Pend Oreille was off 40 to 6.35 and Ventures up 5 to 8.30. Hudson Bay added 35 at 18.00.

Towagmac was stronger with an advance of 15 to 2.05, while Premier rose 6 to 1.80, Teck Hughes 5 to 8.30, and Howey 3 to 1.17. Lake Shore was steady 26.00 but McIntyre was down 35 cents to 16.25. Hollinger was off 10 at 6.75.

Although Ajax declined 9 to 2.70, Home Oil 25 to 23.75, and Imperial 50 to 29.50, there were a number of gains in the oils. Chemical Research was up 15 to 16.50, Dalhousie 10 to 3.85, and East Crest 20 to 2.45 and Baltac 5 to 2.45.

The United States imports 3,000,000,000 pounds of bananas a year.

Peterborough Tourist Camp Establishes Record Over Holiday With 96 Registering

A record was established at the Peterborough Tourist Camp over last week-end. The largest number of tourists in the history of the camp spent part of the holiday at least in that spot. Thirty-one parties registered with a total personnel of ninety-six. Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, would have received the prize had it been a competition; there was a party of twelve camped from that city, while Toronto was not far behind with twelve in their delegation.

The caretakers remarked that it was a regular tented city, and that those who stayed there were the tidiest people that they have had. They said when they left it was clean, and pointed to the spic and span appearance of the grounds.

Those who stayed were all very well pleased, especially so with the cleanliness of the conveniences that are in the camp The following remarks were listed in the registration book: "Clean and beautiful," "Delighted with the camp and city;" "Cleanest camp that we have stayed in;" "Everything is fine, and we appreciate it very much."

Such remarks as these bring credit to J. Gillespie and William Knox, whose efforts have made the camp one of the outstanding in Ontario: "We enjoyed it last and came back again," and as another tourist states: "This is our third trip to this camp

The places that were represented by this record-breaking influx were: Washington; Niles, Ohio; Windsor; Toronto; Akron, Ohio; Cleveland, Ohio; Newcastle, Pa.; Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio; Hamilton, Ont.; Parnasus, Pennsylvania; Sidney, NJ.; Amsterdam, N. Y.; and Saginaw, Mich

JUNIPER ISLAND MASQUERADE IS BIG SUCCESS

Three Take Part in Annual Dance On Saturday Night.

PRIZES AWARDED.

Judges Had Difficult Task in Picking Out Costume Winners.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 6.—(Examiner Correspondence)—Lowering skies and threatening rain did not prevent nearly three hundred people from enjoying the annual masquerade dance at Juniper Island on Saturday night and although the number in costumes was not as large as usual there were some excellent impersonations and some which were exceptionally original. The judges had a very exacting and difficult task in judging the various classes as there were several in each class which deserved special mention.

The judges who were Mrs. Irving Ardagh, Mrs. J. Henderson, Miss Phyllis Denne, Messrs. Howitt, Rogers and Plaxton, awarded the prizes as follows:

Best lady's costume—Miss Winifred Culver as a 'Farmerette."

Second best lady's costume—Miss Grier as a Nun.

Best gentleman's costume—Mr. Jack Fairbairn as the Shepherd of the Hills.

Second best gentleman's costume—Mr. Scully as a Shiek.

Most original lady—Mrs. Tugwell as a Fairy.

Most original gentleman—Mr. Massie as "Body by Fisher."

Second best original lady—Miss Esme Heward as a Lady of the Harem.

Second most original gentleman—Mr. Jim Currier as a Tramp.

Best pair—Mr. J. M. Gouinlock and Mr. Jim Plaxton as Robinson Crusoe and his man Friday.

Best group of four to seven—The six Wotherspoons as a Caterpillar.

The latter was remarkably good and wriggled in a realistic manner and kept the crowd interested.

The Myers camp came as paw, maw and the family, the latter included a baby in a 'pram", the "baby" was a real hit as it was a live monkey and gave "mother" lots of trouble by jerking off its bonnet and being as fractious as a real baby.

The Morris camp appeared as the Wrigley Imps and kept the spectators in gales of laughter by their antics.

Mr. Massie's unique outfit labelled "Body by Fisher" was probably the most talked of as his costume was not only original but was ridiculously funny. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mackenzie as a pair of penquins were remarkably good. Miss Betty Fairbairn was a "break down chorus girl", Mr. Durley was a "cavalier" and Miss Muriel Strickland was a cowboy with real chaps. This really gives only a few costumes, among the outstanding impersonations, there were the usual large percentage of "niggers", pierrots and pierrettes, etc., which all add their quota to the festive scene and help along the "good old times" which are ushered in by the masquerade.

NEW YORK HAD HIM LICKED BUT HE FOUGHT ON, AND WON

H. Kerr Eby, Famous Etcher and Illustrator, Recalls Stirring Days in His Youth in Canada, Striving For a Place in the World and the American Metropolis.

(Special to The Examiner. Copyright.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—It is just 23 years ago that H. Kerr Eby, noted etcher and illustrator, then a 16-year-old Canadian boy, was carrying the chain on a northern Ontario survey, aimlessly trying to find a place in the sun, which meant a meagre living.

To-day at his home at Westport, Conn., he recalls those early days and of the struggle later in New York when, well nigh beaten, he managed to pull through, the days when he walked 25 blocks to save a nickel's carfare.

Eby is the son of Dr. C. S. Eby, Methodist missionary from Canada to Japan, stationed at Tokio. He was born and spent his babyhood in the land of Nippon and his boyhood was spent in Vancouver, Kingston, Toronto and Bracebridge, Ontario.

In the past ten years Eby's etchings have found their way into many noted galleries and collections and many a famous patron of arts treasures samples of his work.

During the war he served with the camouflage section of the artillery, and when not painting trees and "scenery" on the big guns, was constantly drawing and sending home sketches of "battle, murder and sudden death."

FLIGHT ENDS IN CRASH

Disaster ended the proposed non-stop flight from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokio, Japan, on Sunday, when the aeroplane City of Tacoma (shown top) was wrecked in the take-off from Tacoma field. The pilot, Lieut. Harold Bromley (bottom), a Canadian from Victoria, B. C., was uninjured. The plane, a Lockheed Wasp-powered monoplane, swerved after travelling 150 feet down the runway, then crashed on its right wing. The pilot leaped from the cockpit.

as to where we shall be led, as to whom we shall meet, and as to what further relationships we shall have with spiritual things. We should come in with surprise—to realize that something was added during the day to our lives. One of the great dividing lines is the threshold line. It is a sacred thing. It is personal and exclusive. In the larger life we have to step beyond the threshold line. Then we are up against the trouble of the crowds, but we come back in the evening to the few. Many people have no reverence for the threshold, forgetting the going out and the coming in.

Rev. Mr. Morton for the remainder of his sermon referred to the peril of the going out for the young people into the world with its subtlety, tension, and conflict, and also to the final going out at our last hour with the hoped for coming in to the eternal home.

MILLBROOK UNITED

MILLBROOK, Aug. 6 (Examiner Correspondence).—"Tending the Gap" was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. Mr. Merriam in the United Church on Sunday morning, the congregation being particularly large for the holiday season. Mr. Merriam is spending a few weeks at his summer home at Bewdley, and will supply locally for two Sundays this month during the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones.

The solo, "My Task," by Miss Margaret Lang, of Toronto, which took the place of the anthem at morning worship, was appropriate and much appreciated.

The story for the members of the Young Worshippers' League prefaced the sermon, and concerned the boyhood days of the speaker when his duty was to tend the gap in the farm fence, seeing to it that the many cattle, pasturing in those days on the roadside, did not find their way into the grain field. Remiss in this duty, on one occasion, through going swimming with a chum, punishment from his father followed.

The incident carried its own lesson, and led to the thought of God looking for a man to whom He could entrust a special task, tending some gap in the front line of Christian warfare, and alas, sometimes at least finding none to prove faithful.

The texts were chosen from Ezekiel 22:30, and 25:5: "And I sought for a man among them, that should make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it; but I found none. Ye have not gone up into the gaps, neither made up the hedge for the house of Israel, to stand in the battle in the day of the Lord." That a man can be so important that God does actually single him out, and give him a worthwhile task was proved by instances from the Bible, the first noticed being the woman who talked with Christ at the well near the city of Sychar. Wicked in her life, shunned by members of her own sex, yet her testimony to the Saviour's knowledge and winning personality, led almost the whole city to the feet of Jesus.

Again there was the maniac of Gadara, who when healed at the time of the Saviour's visit, followed the command, "Go and tell," and when later Christ again came to this country He found hearts prepared to receive Him with ready welcome.

Moses interceding for the Israelites at the time Aaron had made the golden calf, is another splendid instance of one man "standing in the gap" to the salvation of many others; and from secular history comes the fact of William Pitt, when only twenty-four, and out of favor with the king, yet saving Britain and the world through wise statesmanship. The action of the Canadians at the second battle of Ypres, when the Germans launched their initial gas attack, in standing firm until the foe was driven back, though this manner of warfare was unexpected and utterly hideous in its planning and carrying out, makes still another story of "gap tending" that had far-reaching and beneficial results affecting the civilization of the whole world.

"God is seeking for men, for women, for young people, to "stand in the gap" in the church, the Sunday school, and in many activities in His Name, offering a challenge, and the question comes home, "Are you looking to Jesus to-day to find your place, at some task requiring steady attention, and courage, letting others hear Him through your lips, see Him through your life, and by faith unfailing, and God's cleansing force, becoming His trusted servant and winning victories for His glory?

Rev. J. F. Mears, B.D., of Port Hope, will preach morning and evening on Sunday, August 11, the Rev Mr Merriam supplying again on August 18, the final Sunday of Rev. Mr. Jones' vacation.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

ST. PAUL'S, MARMORA.

MARMORA, August 6 (Examiner Correspondence). — An impressive sermon was delivered at St. Paul's Church on Sunday morning by Rev. S. E. Morton, rector of St. Luke's, Kingston. Rev. Mr. Morton is a former rector of Rawdon, and at present holidaying at Crow Lake, elected to take the morning service of Holy Communion at St. Paul's, while the rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, officiated at Kingston. The text was from Psalm 12, verse 8: "The Lord will preserve thy going out and thy coming in." At the commencement of his discourse, the preacher referred to the tendency to take the passages of the Psalms as having been written because of extraordinary events in the lives of God's people the Jews, whereas they should be connected with the ordinary experiences of our own lives. In the ordinary routine of our life we need God. The psalmist had seen God's rainbow in the darkest background of daily routine. His song is the song of one content to go out with God and to come in with Him. There is a going out and a coming in in ever ylife. Home is in the centre of the picture. It is the centre of our activities. Here the day begins and here it ends. Here we are privileged to go out and to come in, and while so doing some of us forget the simple promise, "The Lord will preserve thy going out and thy coming in in every life. Home is in wonder and we return without surprise. We should go out wondering

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

If he's your partner he's worth insuring

FORGET for a moment talk about financial embarrassment if your partner dies, or the effect upon the business, and consider this: if he's your partner, he's worth insuring; if you're his partner, you are worth insuring.

If your business is worth anything, it can stand the premiums. No matter how prosperous you may be, jointly and severally, a nice block of money for your own or your partner's dependents, should the occasion arise, is always welcome. If you buy Endowment insurance and live out the term, it will be nice to have the money to divide between you. And don't forget that, should an emergency arise, you can raise money on the policy.

We have a representative in this district who specializes on business and partnership insurance. He will gladly call and discuss the matter with you, without being importunate if nothing comes of it.

Phone him or write for our pamphlet entitled "For the Last Time" which deals with certain phases of Business Insurance. Address:

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowels. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile Sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid and Jury, Bond's Drug Stores and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

SHARE ALIKE.

GLOBE, Ariz., August 6. — John Vloss got angry with his wife recently and swore out a complaint and had his helpmate arrested for using the family car. He charged her with stealing it in his complaint. Justice of the Peace P. P. Greer, however, ruled that "A wife can't be arrested for using family property." It was revealed later than the car was jointly owned.

LAKEFIELD.

At a meeting held on Tuesday evening last in the Legion room and attended by members of the Legion and also by a number of interested citizens, a discussion took place on the proposed war memorial. The feeling of the meeting was very strongly in favor of a suitable cenotaph or war memorial which would stand in a public place as a permanent testimony of Lakefield's remembrance of their dead.

They are not forgotten, but time is passing and the next generation will need to be reminded of the service and sacrifice which kept our country free. Canada's response to the call to duty and service was magnificent, and her volunteer army is the brightest jewel in her crown, and from coast to coast this service is recognized in a manner which those who run may read, and the feeling of the meeting was strongly in favor of definite and immediate action. A new committee was appointed consisting of some citizens and members of the Legion, with a view to pushing the matter at a very early date and having an intensive campaign.

Name Omitted.

The name of Robert Nicholls was inadvertantly omitted from the list of cadets from the Lakefield corps who were in camp at Barriefield. Robert was successful in taking the first place in the sports day and winning first prize.

INDIGESTION TORTURE

Pain and suffocating pressure until Tanlac brought relief

Only those who are tortured by Indigestion cramps after eating, and suffocating pressure of gas, can realize the relief, the joy, which came to Mrs. Odelie Langlois, as Tanlac freed her of every trace of Stomach Trouble.

For 25 years, she suffered. "Food was like poison" she writes from 714 Albert Street, Windsor, Ont., "I would become dizzy and faint. I became so weak and nervous that my daughter had to do my housework. I spent enough on treatments to buy a home; and it almost breaks my heart to think that I did not use Tanlac before. Because four bottles of this grand medicine made me a well woman. I could feel the very first spoonful helping me; and now after only four bottles, I have regained my health and strength. My husband also used Tanlac for Kidney Trouble and it has made a new man of him."

If you are suffering, don't wait, Get Tanlac today. It is pure and good — and it must help you or your money will be promptly refunded. It costs less than 2c a dose—less than 6c a day to get well. Ask your druggist

PETERBOROUGH FLOATS WIN IN BIG CAMPBELLFORD PARADE

De Laval and Bell Telephone Carry Off Honors in Calithumpian Parade.

PRIZE WINNERS

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 6. — (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — All during Old Home Week there were attractions to please some one, but the only attraction which could be guaranteed to please everyone was the calithumpian parade of Friday. It was by far the largest parade that has ever been seen on Campbellford streets, and it was also the most interesting. With a list of thirty prizes, many of them subdivided into three or more, the interest of the townspeople and the rural folk as well was keyed up to the highest pitch. Nor was the interest only of a local nature. The De Laval Company of Peterborough and the Peterborough office of the Bell Telephone Company were sufficiently interested to send down two of the most attractive floats in the parade. That this was the case is proved by the fact that the judges awarded the first and second prizes to them. McKelvie and Beattie, Campbellford, won third honors. Practically every local business and industry were represented in the parade. Private citizens and groups of citizens donned all sorts of costumes and disguises and joined the line of march that was headed by the Regimental Band of the Northumberland Regiment.

De Laval First.

The parade formed at the schools and followed the same route as that of Tuesday, Bridge street, George street, Garry, Canrobert, Tice, Front and then to the fair grounds, opposite the starting point of the big swim. With the streets of the town swarming with the population of a city, the various units of the long line were cheered and applauded to the echo. Old-timers compared it with the calithumpian parade of twenty-three years ago when Campbellford became a town. They were both surprised and delighted that the old town could do it, and do it so well. Under the management of H. N. Carr, the parade started almost on time.

Perhaps the most spectacular and attractive was the Bell Telephone float which received first prize. It was a creation of blue and white, a large sphere of white with blue continents of the world forming the central portion. The De Laval float was representative of the dairy industry in which that company is interested. It won second prize. McKelvie and Beattie's float was given third prize.

From the sublime beauty of the floats to the line of disreputable cars was a far cry. As the string passed along numerous people with an eye for sport took side bets that certain cars would not hang together long enough to finish the course. Most of them did, however, and the prizes went to Stuart Anderson, first, and Fred Palliser, second. Decorated cars displayed wonderfully artistic taste on the part of their decorators. The judges were hard pressed to make their decision. The decision placed them with Neil Thompson, first; Leigh Isaac, Warkworth, second, and Jim McMullen, third. Mrs. Neil Thompson, as the wife of the first prize winner, won the china tea set donated as a special by the Seirite stores.

Decorated Bicycles.

There was a flock of decorated bicycles, both girls and boys. In many cases the riders were also in costume. The prizes for the boys went to Master Montgomery and Master Pettifer. The special prize was won by Mrs. Montgomery. For the girls the prizes were won by Jean Tait, first, and Elsie Connor, second.

Much interest was taken in the special prizes to the oldest old boy or girl in the parade and to the old boy or girl who had come the greatest distance to attend Old Home Week. Mrs. O'Sullivan was easily the winner of the prize for being the oldest citizen in the parade. Mrs. O'Sullivan is ninety-five years of age and has been a resident of Campbellford and vicinity all her life. It was a woman, also, who came the greatest distance to attend the re-union. This was Mrs. Nettleton, of Los Angeles, California. Mr. Charles W. Johnston, of Galveston, Texas, was second. Another old boy who returned from almost as great a distance was Darrel E. Longmore, who came from Vancouver, B. C., specially to be here for the week.

FORT HOPE MAN DIES OF WOUND

Brooks thought no more of the matter and went to the rear of the house.

Landlord Gives Alarm

A quarter of an hour later another lodger was unable to open the bathroom door upstairs, and again a half-hour later the door was still locked. Finally, about 2.30, Mr. Brooks became worried, and called the two plain-clothesmen, who forced open the bathroom door.

Then came the intensive but fruitless search for the weapon. Neither in the bedroom, on the staircase or hall, which Kuhne must have traversed on his way to the bathroom, nor in the bathroom itself, could any trace be found of knife, razor, piece of metal or glass, or any sharp or jagged object which could possibly have caused the deep, clean wound on Kuhne's wrist.

No Trace of Weapon

The plumbing in the bathroom was torn up, carpets were pulled from the floors, pictures were taken down, grates dismantled, bedclothing and furniture searched, and every square inch of the bedroom, bathroom and hall scrutinized and gone over as with a fine tooth comb by the plain-clothesmen, detectives, coroner and a plumber, but no weapon was found. And so the matter rests.

Kuhne was not financially embarrassed, apparently, as his room rent was paid in advance, and he carried considerably money, as well as business letters, cigars, keys and other effects. His landlord says he was not a despondent man, and gave no evidence of ill health or other worries.

DUNNING VISITS

Court of Revision, Henson claimed that the two lots under dispute were not purchased by him at the time he bought the remainder of the property. The matter was left between the Trust Company and Mr. Henson for adjustment. Two other communications were from W. A. Fraser congratulating Campbellford on the success of Old Home Week and thanking the Council for the invitation to be present. There was a similar letter from the Mayor of Bowmanville.

Deputy-Reeve Stone was preparing the list of accounts to be presented when he found the bill of G. E. Morrison not OK'd. He wanted to know what to do with it. The amount was $86.40 for painting the parking and driving lines on the streets. Reeve Bygott was not present to sign the account, and there was some discussion as to what should be done. Mr. Morrison was present and detailed the items which made up the total. Finally, he was told that if he would make out a detailed account and have it signed by the Reeve, it would be paid when presented to the clerk.

Deputy-Reeve Stone brought up the matter of a railing for the sidewalk on the Simpson Street hill. He reminded the Council of Mr. Frederick's accident, and ventured the opinion that there might be grounds for damage suit. Other places where sidewalk railing might be required were discussed and the matter finally left in the hands of the Road and Bridge Committee.

Councillor Wilkinson ventured the opinion that Old Home Week had been a great success, and he thought that the Council should instruct the clerk to express their appreciation to all those who assisted in making the week a success. He mentioned specially the Northumberland Regimental Band. The clerk was instructed to insert a proper notice in the press. The pay sheets and accounts were presented and passed, and the Council adjourned at 9.20.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 6. — Announcement of a record breaking increase of the United States visible wheat supply total went hand-in-hand yesterday with much lower prices for wheat. The increase amounted to 17,167,000 bushels, was said to be the largest ever known at this time of year, but toward the end of the day the market scored a substantial rally, signs indicating that the peak of the 1929 domestic winter wheat movement had finally been passed.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 2 3-8c to 3 3-4c a bushel below Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1 3-8c to 1 7-8c down, oats 5-8c to 1 1-2c to 1 3-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a set back of 20c.

Rains in Canada tended to force prices lower, but the moisture was generally regarded as coming too near harvest time to be of much avail except as a check against further damage to the Canadian crop.

Lt.-Col. M. H. Park and the officers of the Peterborough Rangers were at home to their friends during several very pleasant hours on Sunday afternoon, when afternoon tea was served at the Rifle Range Camp on the Norwood Road, where the men of the Rangers have been in camp during the past three days, for Musketry practice. The officers were at home from four to six o'clock. The guests were received in the Orderly tent by Lt.-Col and Mrs. M. H. Park and Mrs. W. Gordon Hall. A table covered with silver trophies representing the prowess in musketry of the men of the Peterborough Rangers during many years past, was an interesting exhibit. Gladioli were used as decorations here and in the long tent at the rear where tea was served at a long table centred with flame-colored flowers. In the recreation tent farther on the Band of the Rangers, led by Bandmaster Peryer, and wearing their bright scarlet coats, provided splendid music during the afternoon. Tea was poured by Mrs. Joseph Mills and Mrs. E. B. Clegg. Mrs. Mills was convenor of refreshments and Mrs. R. H. Parsons was in charge of the table. Assistants were Mrs. W. L. Sharpe, Mrs. G. G. Winterbottom, Mrs. George Melton, Mrs. Gordon Monkman, Mrs. W. R. Thompson, Mrs. R. J. Bolton, Mrs. W. H. Peryer, and Mrs. E. Nicholls. JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

I WAS READING a health article the other day when I happened on a splendid truth—something that would save all of us a lot of needless worry if we could only remember it:

* * * * * *

It wasn't for pleasure that I was reading the health articles—it came as a part of my work. Here is what I read:

"As a matter of fact, one side or other of the average nose is clogged a good deal of the time. It is a common experience for one to have first one side and then the other more or less closure of the nasal passages."

* * * * * * *

Just at this point I began to feel the symptoms. Sure enough, one side of my nose was clogged! I took the treatment advised by the eminent authority and then found the other passage clogged.

* * * * * * *

It didn't take me long to find all the other symptoms—and undoubtedly I had catarrh! Just think, if I hadn't read that item I might never have known!

* * * * * * *

As a matter of fact I haven't. I asked a medical friend, and I know—but I could equally well delude myself into having any one of a score of diseases by reading the symptoms.

* * * * * * *

It's just the same in many ways in life. If we look for trouble we can usually find it. Here's a case in point:

* * * * * * *

A neighbor writes to me that her husband is too fond of other women's company. "He has even gone out to lunch with his stenographer," she says.

* * * * * * *

She is just like me reading the medical article—she finds symptoms of many things that are not true; or if true, are not dangerous.

* * * * * * *

I do not understand the tradition that decrees that husband and wife shall never go out separately, yet there is an almost universal disposition to view with suspicion a woman who is seen having a good time in public with a man not her husband.

* * * * * * *

It may be of course, that the woman is at fault sometimes, but more often the evil is with those whose blind acceptance of conventions is narrow and unhealthy. Tell me, neighbors, just why can't a decent woman or man go out with another decent person without caususing talk?

* * * * * * *

Is it a crime to enjoy companionship of people to whom one is not married? Without faith no marriage can be made worth while, and I believe the ultimate unpardonable degradation is lack of that faith and undertsanding.

* * * * * * *

Constant supervision is anything but evidence of faith, and the fact that a woman everlastingly wishes to have her husband under her eye is evidence of lack of faith.

* * * * * * *

The same applies to the man, of course, who refuses to allow his wife to attend a party or dance without his chaperonage, although he may be the dullest company there in spite of his otherwise good qualities.

* * * * * * *

I would like to ask this neighbor who wrote me whether she does not think her husband came home to dinner the day he lunched with his stenographer with a greater appreciation of his wife's worth? Does she fear the competition of an immature girl?

* * * * * * *

Two hearts may beat as one but no two minds think alike. When you hear a woman boast that her husband and she think just alike on everything, don't believe it! One of them is a tyrant, and is forcing opinions on the other.

* * * * * * *

It's better to have the hearts beating in unison, and let the minds work separately, than to have one mind working for both.

* * * * * * *

And, that being so, the minds must be free to pick up separate ideas. Dining out with someone else's spouse, or with someone not attached, will give new ideas, and keep both parties active in mind. That assists in the home life by bringing into it topics of conversation—we all know how difficult it is after a few years of married life to find things about which to talk entertainingly.

* * * * * * *

If two people love each other and understand each other they can well afford the luxury of going out with others—even people whom the other doesn't like.

* * * * * * *

Where there are two minds which do not ma ke every difference of opinion a cause for domestic warfare, there is enduring peace, understanding and happiness.

* * * * * * *

And so I suggest that trust replace suspicion; that troubles be not sought, and that everything read and heard be not believed.

* * * * * * *

There are still poison pens and poison tongues, but faith will conquer all.

* * * * * * *

If you really love him, and he really loves you, no outside opposition will break up your home. I'll tell you why again.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

FACTS ABOUT CANCER.

After each new triumph in medicine, wiping out small pox, malaria, yellow fever, controlling tuberculosis, diabetes and other formerly fatal illnesses, you perhaps say to yourself 'will cancer ever be cured?"

Despite the fact that its exact cause is unknown, one outstanding thing has been learned and that is that "irritation" is the big factor.

In England, in the days when chimney sweeps were the rule rather than the exception, it was found that the dirt and soot irritated portions of the body that were never exposed to sunlight, and which, because baths were scarce, were not kept clean. Cancer was common here.

Natives of Africa and other parts of the world keep in the mouth the betel nut, which is irritating.

They get cancer of the mouth.

"Another savage race living in a colder climate wears, in the winter, on the abdomen, a bag of hot coal, and in the irritation produced by this continuous heat cancer develops.

Up to a few years ago there were a large number of mouth cancers and here again it was due to irritation; and the irritation of ragged dirty teeth.

To-day the number of these cases is becoming less because of the care now given to cleaning the teeth, and good dental care.

For awhile there were a number of cases of cancer developed in X-ray operators due to burns. These also are becoming less in number owing to the care now exercised.

Cancer of the breast usually means neglected care for one to three years of an irritated nipple.

A corn, a wart, a hangnail, if irritated, should not be neglected.

What does all this mean?

Well as Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood, the great cancer authority briefly puts it "none of us need longer be ignorant of the possible causes of cancer, and most of us can be protected from the majority of cancers by this correct information."

His figures show that cancer of the skin and mouth, late and hopeless cancer, has been reduced from more than fifty to less than 10 percent, and the number of individuals now seeking medical care before the spot on the skin or mouth becomes a cancer, has increased twenty fold.

Why there is no substitute for ENO

Because

ENO's "Fruit Salt" is recognized by the people of every nation as the finest, safest, and most pleasant laxative aid to good health.

Because

ENO first thing every morning is the natural way to ensure internal cleanliness—to eliminate waste matter which causes acid poisoning and intestinal toxicity.

Because

ENO contains only those ingredients which are acceptable to all systems—no purgative mineral salts, no sugar, no flavoring matter.

Because

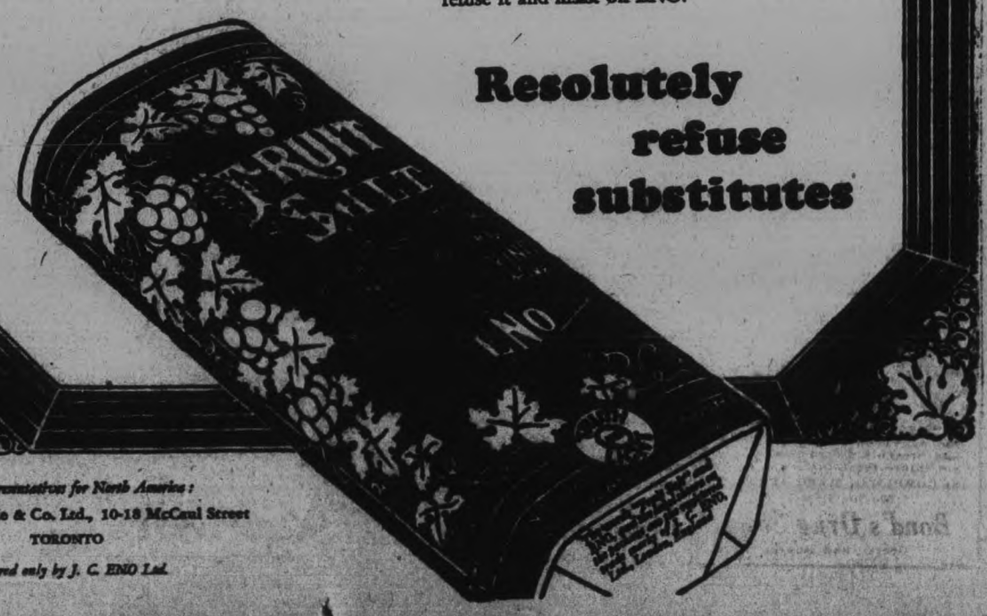
ENO is non-habit forming, therefore quite safe for anyone to use.

Because

ENO, wherever bought is always the same perfect product, unvarying in quality, composition and purity, and untouched by hand during manufacture.

Because

ENO has triumphed over every test of time and usage—for over sixty years it has been the standard saline laxative. ENO has many imitators but no rival! So if you are offered a substitute refuse it and insist on ENO.



Resolutely refuse substitutes

ESTABLISH NEW RECORD

When the "St. Louis Rovin," endurance flight plane, descended from the blue at St. Louis, Mo., on Tuesday, after being in the air 420 hours and 21 minutes, or over 17 days, the old world endurance flight record suffered a serious shock. It had broken the present record made by the "Angeleno" by the generous margin of seven days. The photographs here show: (1) Forest O'Brine; (2) St. Louis Robin, a Curtis aeroplane, showing O'Brine at work on the cat walk during flight; and (3) Dale Jackson, pilot.

ONE OF GREATEST ENGINEERING FEATS IS ALMOST COMPLETE

Miracle of Cement and Steel Bigger Than Gatun Wil Connect Two Lakes.

PRINCE MAY OPEN IT

(By RoyC. Greenaway.)

St Catharines, Aug. 6.—The $120,000,000 new Welland canal is almost comoleted. In August, 1930 it is predicted, the Prince of Wales may turn the last electric lever.

Gone is the forest of scaffolding, and the concrete cliffs of the lift locks at places, rival the height of the falls at Niagara.

Gates that giants might have fitted on their hinges swing half-open at the end of startling vistas. Thirteen pairs of them, 82 feet high, 48 feet wide, and five feet thick; made of steel over a structural steel framework. Rivetted, each one of them, with 43, 563 rivets; caulked water-tight; hinged at the quoin in two places; secured at the top to a large structural steel frame embedded in the lock wall; swinging or pivoted on a manganese steel ball, called the pintle, at the bottom. And yet one steel cable rotated around a drum by an electric motor pulls them closed or open.

One of the mightiest engineering feats in the world describe it all; soon to be hidden under water

Yet who goes deliberately to see it?

Survey by Engineer.

Col. A. E. Dubuc, chief engineer of the department of railways and canals, came from Ottawa to make a survey of progress. Outside the control house on Lock 8 he stood with A. J. Grant, chief engineer of construction, and a little group of assistants, watching a trial of one of the twenty-one bridges that are to play a part in cutting down the present fifteen to eighteen hours required to navigate a boat through the old canal to eight or nine in the new.

"Fifty-seven seconds," commented the colonel, as traffic resumed its course across the bridge. But resident engineers told of other tests that took only 45 seconds to complete.

But even as it is, almost half the mileage of the now super canal, consisting of the long stretch from Port Colborne to a point north of Welland, as well as a smaller section from Port Robinson to Allanburg is described officially as "completed and in use." As it is, Lake Erie water comes right to the southern timber unwatering gate of the famous guard lock on the face of the escarpment. With the opening of navigation next year the whole section from Port Weller at the Lake Ontario end to the base of the height of land, with the two remaining connecting links between Lake Erie and the guard lock, are to be ready for transportation. Only the famous twin flight lock section, with each of its three pairs rising one above the other, will hold up the great upper lake grain boats till August.

Greatest Canyon.

A dozen miles away, at Niagara Falls, nature gouged out a majestic canyon to attract the world's attention. As if in competition at the Thorold twin flight locks, Canadian engineers have outrivaled nature. Like three colossal steps up the face of the escarpment, are these three locks, officially known as four, five and six, with their total aggregate lift of 139½ feet as compared to the 85 feet of the Gatun locks at Panama.

Comparable to a great elevator built to lift huge vessels twenty-six and a half feet higher than the Toronto city hall, the new Welland canal naturally reveals its titanic nature here near Thorold on the very edge of the escarpment, where the biggest lift of the 139½ feet occurs. Locks four, five and six are exactly like twin elevators arranged in three steps up the face of the cliff. Since the canal had to ascend the escarpment so quickly it was necessary to place these three locks together to overcome the rise, the upper locks feeding into the lower. At the same time, twin locks enable vessels to sail past each other, down-bound boats taking one side and up-bound the other.

Stand on the north end of Lock five and look down into Lock four and you might be perched, if that were possible, on the verge of the Niagara cataract, for the Horseshoe Falls at Niagara, 158 feet, are only 28 feet more in depth. Altogether, in these immense twin elevators, 125,000,000 cubic yards of beauty. And these twin flights lock are now 95 per cent finished.

Next August, then this new Welland ship canal will replace the present channel of water connecting Lake Erie with Lake Ontario. The total length of this new navigation short cut will be 25 miles, five miles shorter than the present canal. There will be only eight locks including the guard lock on the new, as compared to 27 on the old. Besides, for all practical navigation purposes, the new canal is a straight line. Bottom width is nowhere less than 200 feet with 310 on the waterline. Depth nowhere is less than 25 feet in the canal reaches, and nowhere less than 30 feet from the gate sills of the locks. Seven locks each lift 46.5 feet, with the guard lock at Humberstone to take care of the twelve feet rise and fall of Lake Erie, due mostly to wind direction and storms.

Huge Breakwaters.

At Port Weller like two gigantic fingers stretch out the mile and a half breakwaters of this artificial harbor. Here, on the tip of the eastern jetty, gardeners have erected a spiral work up a stone cairn. Hollyhocks stand like sentinels at the back of rock-lined flower gardens. Thousands of young trees, planted in rows for future wind-breaks, bend before the cool breezes. Unsuspected riches have already yielded to the artistic touch of the landscape gardeners. An indented harbor for small craft has been discovered already by yachtsmen. Motorists have found the road that leads to this unsuspected paradise for picnics.

Like the entrance to a giant's castle, loom the black lock gates as you look south from the breakwater. Cement stairways look like an ancient Aetoc temple. Here at lock no. 1, described as almost 99 per cent finished, we found workmen testing the gate machinery and the five great Stoney Gate valves each 15 feet by 11½ feet, in the regulating weir. Everything, including unwatering pumps capable of emptying the lock inside ten hours, has been installed and the water is expected to be let in soon.

Were all the earth and rock excavated loaded on dump cars, the train would stretch for 1500 miles, exactly the length of the great wall of China. The amount of concrete used would be sufficient to build a solid wall, 20 fet high, six feet wide, and 100 miles long.

Takes Eight Minutes to Fill.

Down more than thirty fe.t on both sides of the walls of all th locks, are mooring aperture , where canal men are to tie up the vessels before they begin to lift. Go down spiral and straight stairways to these apertures and you find yourself in a straight connecting gallery that might be stretching, it would seem, for a quarter of a mile from gun pit to gun pit in the rock of Gibraltar. Since it takes only eight minutes to fill a lock, men in these mooring chambers might find themselves like victims before the oncoming tide if they slip on the steps with the water rushing up the staircases.

North tf Welland, the present canal is again joined, the Chippawa Creek being passed over by means of a large syphon culvert. At the present time, the Chippawa Creek crosses under the old canal in a cut stone aqueduct. This is being replaced by a concrete inverted syphon culvert, consisting of six 22 feet diameter barrel tubes with vertical end shafts, through which two street cars could pass with comfort. When the wing walls of the culvert and the new approach channels are completed the river will be diverted and the old stone aqueduct removed.

Crosses Port Colborne.

From Welland, the present canal route is maintained for another eight miles to just north of Humberstone, a village adjacent to Port Colborne, where a cut-off is made to the east near the point of the guard lock. Thence it goes on through the centre of the town of Port Colborne to the old Lake Erie terminal harbor, now practically doubled in width, with a new 2,000 foot breakwater extension to protect the channel from south-west winds.

Standing facing south on the bridge at Lock No. 8, you see plainly the towers of the vertical lift bridges at Port Colborne. Away down at the south end of the famous guard lock you catch sight of the two pairs of 36 foot steel gates with the smaller timber unwatering gates past that.

Nearer Port Colborne a snorting steam shovel seemed to be examining the earth for dainties, and began to spout up the siftings, as we watched, into huge bank. As a matter of fact, it was a dramatic moment. The commencement of the excavation for the supply weir which will control the flow of water into the canal from Lake Erie. The commencement, in fact, of the last big job on the new Welland canal.

People according to resident engineers, will only begin to realize the marvellous new economic era heralded by the new Welland Canal when it is covered up with water.

SIMPLE ENSEMBLE IN BEIGE.

By Yteb.

Simple straight lines characterize this ensemble in beige cloth which I have just created. The coat is attractively trimmed with a long collar of summer ermine, which produces a harmony of tones with the shade of the coat. The sleeves, which fit the arm closely, are widened slightly at the bottom. An interesting irregular line of stitching joins the upper and lower portions of the coat, which is worn with a dress of beige, which also shows the same notched and irregular lines in its construction.

OUR CHILDREN

LEAVING THE BABY.

A mother must have recess. There must be a time in each day when she can be freed of the care of the baby for opportunity to rest. That rest may be attending to some club meeting, a picture show, a gossip with a friendly neighbor, a shopping trip. How it is to be used is entirely the mother's affair. Seeing that she has such an opportunity is her responsibility first, and another's later.

Nobody will be likely to say, "Now the baby is taking his nap. He is not going to need any care for the next two or three hours. You go off and enjoy yourself." Few people have that fellow-interest. So the mother must say it for herself and secure some dependable person to stay with the baby for this period.

If there is a grandmother who likes children, the thing is done. Or an understanding aunt. Even an uncle has been known to function well on such occasions. There are nurses and maids who can be trusted. There is usually someone ready and willing to serve if the mother will only give him the chance.

Mothers are usually reluctant to do this. The baby might wake up and cry. He might need attention. Anything might happen. She would better stay by. Sometimes there is some older person about who is sharply critical about young mothers who want to leave their babies with other people and go gadding about. If there is, it is too bad, but the only thing to do is to ignore them and go right along.

The baby needs to be left alone a period daily. He needs to know that his mother will go from him and return. That he does not need to have his hand held all day and all night long. It is his first lesson in self help and he ought to get it early enough to keep him from feeling any shock when the first time comes. Accustom the child to be left with someone else.

Then be sensible still further and give that person whom you trust, full authority to act in your absence. Adjust yourself to the thought that no matter how hard this person may try to be like you, he cannot be you and some difference in attitude there must be. Accept it. It won't hurt the baby to learn to adjust himself to various personalities unless there are too many—and of the wrong sort.

Select the right person and then go ahead. Fathers ought to have an evening alone with the children occasionally. That will be an education in child training for father. He will learn about his children and they will learn about him. But of course the mother's real free period should come in the afternoon. Father's night is extra.

Many mothers sigh and say, "I can't do it. There's no way out." Think again. This means as much to the healthy rearing of the children as it means to their mother. Find a way.

ESKIMO WOMEN MOST THRIFTY

Must Work Hard To Secure Livelihood in Barren North.

NO WASH DAYS.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 6.—(By the Canadian Press)—Gertrude Acheson writes to the Journal, tales of an Eskimo village.

Woman takes an equal place with man among the Eskimos of the far north; so say the white men who have dwelt among them. The Eskimo woman is equal in every way with her husband—or husbands. She is not a chattel, as is the Indian woman, but a partner. If burdens are to be carried, she is not loaded down while her husband goes burdenless; she carries an equal load only.

Like her husband, she is thrifty and industrious. She, like him, must work hard if they are to wrest a livelihood from the frozen northland. She must make all the clothes for the family. The calico overall, worn over their fur "lingerie" to shed water and soft snow, may be made by sewing machine, but all else must be made by hand. The skin garments and boots, must be sewn with deerskin sinew which is waterproof and will not rot.

No Wash Days.

Next the body is worn a fur garment with the hair against the skin; over that another fur garment, with the fur outside, then, over all, the calico frilled "smock" or wrapper. In the igloos the clothing is changed at night. Wash day has no terrors for an Eskimo woman, for when her clothes get sufficiently dirty enough she throws them away.

In addition to her sewing she prepares all the food, and all the dog feed; makes the dog harness; splits the wood—if in a district where there is wood to split—and looks after the lamps. In the igloo the primitive lamp was a vessel of seal oil, but now the up-to-date house-and cooking ranges, on which she sometimes bakes bread, but more often baking powder bannocks. For use in her tent when she is on a hunting trip, she has an air-pressure stove, about the size of an electric plate which is made in Sweden.

The great severity of their life has caused a shortage of women and, in some parts, the practice of polygamy, which, so the white man say, works well as a rule. Probably this is due in part to the fact that Eskimo women are independent and will not be given to another except by their own will. Betrothed at birth, they age early, and are married at 12 years of age. A maiden or widow may not remain unmarried. She must marry, but she chooses her own man.

Adopt Children.

Although so fond of children, the severity of existence means many childless couples, and the adoption of children is very common. If however, they lose an adopted child by death, even if through natural causes, the couple never can adopt another child. No family, no matter what the necessity, would give them a child. Superstition, of course. They never seem to get away from their old ideas.

A woman carries her babe in her "attiga" or outer fur garment—a hooded skirt. Until the child is about three years old he lived underneath his mother's attiga, which is bloused at the waist. He travels around in it at the back or sides, and peeps out at the front. If another child comes she cannot carry two, and the older one could not be kept warm elsewhere, so the younger one, especially if it be a girl, is killed. Of course that is against the law. The mother knows that, but what can she do? She looks at it this way: "The Lord gave me the child. I cannot keep it, so I gave it back." She does not want to do so. She loves the child dearly, but she cannot keep it.

The Empire's Greatest Timber Stands

THE last great stand of soft-wood timber in the British Empire lies in British Columbia. The timber industry of this province sets in circulation each year, eighty-four million dollars. It provides employment for one in every four workers in this province. It represents capital investment of one hundred million dollars. Nearly four thousand firms, spending fifty millions each year on equipment and supplies, are engaged in the timber and allied industries.

These are tremendous factors in the rising tide of British Columbia's prosperity. But apart from the timber industry itself, vast forests make this province a land of opportunity and a place where life is better.

Forests provide watersheds and control stream flow for hydro-electric power, a factor in British Columbia's rise to the third province in Canada in power and industrial development. Forests conserve moisture for irrigation for prosperous farms. They prevent floods and temper climate. They clothe British Columbia in beauty which attracts tourists.

And because of British Columbia's mild climate and rich soil, new forests grow rapidly on logged and burnt-over areas, contributing what is roughly estimated at six billion board feet of lumber annually to our timber wealth. Visit the Coast this summer.

Maple Leafs Split Double-Header With Bisons

TORONTO CLUB DOWNS HERD IN SECOND GAME OF TWIN BILL IN THE QUEEN CITY

Losers In Opening Tilt By 6-5 Count, Winning Night-cap 11-10.

TORRID STRUGGLES.

Reading Runs Winning Streak To 11 Straight By Dropping Cats For Double.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 6 (Canadian Press): — The Leafs and Bisons had a turbulent time yesterday. 11,000 fans, out for a holiday, had one. 4,000 witnessed a torrid struggle in the morning and to the Bisons went the 6-5 spoils. 7,000 turned out in the afternoon and they saw the Leafs win in the ninth, 11-10. It was another hectic affair.

Each team used 13 players in the before lunch game. The Bisons put on review 11 performers in the afternoon, but the Leafs went them three better. They threw 14 into the fray, and Guy Cantrell was the finishing pitcher in both. In the afternoon he succeeded in clicking off his sixteenth victory.

Both games were full of sure pitching and sour pastiming afield. Five pitchers, three of them Bisons, climbed the pea in the morning, and seven in the afternoon, and of the seven four were Leafs.

But for all that, the wild contests had the crowd in a continual uproar.

KEYS DROP CATS.

READING, Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—Reading ran its winning streak to 11 straight by taking another pair from Jersey City here yesterday to sweep the series. The Keys now have won eight in a row from Jersey City.

Danny Taylor, hard-hitting Reading outfielder, hit a home run in each of the games.

ORIOLES TAKE FINAL.

NEWARK, N.J., Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—Swept along by a high stiff wind, seven home runs rattled off the bats of the Orioles and Bears as Baltimore took the final game of the series yesterday, 11 to 6. Six of the circuit blows were credited to the Birds, George Loepp, Johnny Neun and Al Bool each driving out two. "Rube" Lutzke hit one for Newark.

Athletics Save Dropping Game To Yankees in Second Game.

DOWN BROWNS 8-7.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., August 6. (C. P.) — The Philadelphia Athletics managed to avert dropping a full game of their long lead to the idle Yankees yesterday by pulling out a twelve-inning victory over the St. Louis Browns 8 to 7, after losing the opening game of a doubleheader 6 to 4. Quinn, enjoying a relief role, allowed only four hits until the twelfth when Boley scored the winning run with two out on Bishop's single.

The Browns mowed down the aces of the Athletic hurling staff, chasing Rube Walberg from the mound in the first game, while "Lefty" Grove and Earnshaw were knocked out of the box in the second encounter.

DECISIVE VICTORY BY U.S. TENNIS PAIR

Misses Willis and Cross Beat Miss Nuthall and Mrs. Watson.

EASTHAMPTON, N.Y., Aug. 6.—With the flashing racquet of Miss Helen Wills showing the way, a pair of United States girl tennis stars scored a smashing victory yesterday over two of the English women they are to meet in the international Wightman Cup team matches at Forest Hills the last two days of this week.

By the decisive scores of 6-3, 6-0, Queen Helen of Berkeley and her San Francisco partner, Miss Edith Cross, overwhelmed the English combination of Miss Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Phoebe Watson to win the doubles finals in the women's invitation tournament at the Maidstone club.

GALA SEASON IN FULL SWING

Committees Making Preparations For Annual Regattas To Be Held This Month.

AT STONEY LAKE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, August 6. — The gala season of good old times on Stoney Lake is in full swing, and old and young are enjoying re-unions, large and small and the special events which go to make the holiday season socially gay. This year the Special Events Regatta, which for the past three years was a feature of the Saturday before the Juniper Regatta, was dispensed with, and the Juniper regatta program is a one day affair. However, the Children's Regatta, which is scheduled for August 17th, has three special events for adults, which ought to bring out a large number of contestants, and also possess a strong local interest. Two of these events are the mile swim for men and the mile swim for women; the cups which are the prizes for these events are both donated by Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, and are very handsome. There is also the canoe sailing race for the W. G. Morrow Cup.

The Children's Regatta is gaining rapidly in importance and attracts many entries of youngsters from 12 to 16; each year sees some of the prominent figures pass the age limit, but even more eager youngsters reach the entry limit and put all the enthusiasm and optimism of youth into the contest.

The children's masquerade will take place on Wednesday, August 14 for children of from 2 to 14 years of age, and is an event of importance to children and their friends, and also to many adults who attend, because they enjoy the pretty spectacle.

17 YEAR OLD GIRL IS HAILED AS COMING TENNIS CHAMPION

Olive Grace Wade Astounding Expert With Mastery of Game.

WINS CANADIAN TITLE.

(By R. L. Condy, Editor Canadian Lawn Tennis and Badminton.)

TORONTO, August 6 (Special to The Examiner, Copyright, 1929). — A few years ago a tiny tot stood at one side of the net clasping a racquet as big as herself in both hands and batted the ball back over the net to her father on the other side.

As she became stronger her father gradually moved her further back from the net. The next stage found her holding the racquet with one hand and getting the ball back the whole length of the court. After a few months — and long before she tried to play a real game of tennis, her father took her to the practice board where every day for an hour or so she batted away with all her little might under the watchful eye of her parent. To-day, only four months after her seventeenth birthday that little girl, Olive Grace Wade, is lady singles champion of Canada.

Incidentally, she has already won more titles than there are years in her age. She has won the Canadian junior title three times, is Ontario lady singles champion, holds the Canadian and the Ontario doubles championships with her sister, Mrs. O. E. Gray, is Western Ontario junior champion, holds the Western ladies' doubles title with her sister, and has numerous others. A fine record for a girl of her age.

Born in Toronto.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wade, came to Canada from Ilford, Essex, England, twenty-odd years ago. She was born in Toronto, on March 24, 1912. Mr. Wade was a builder in the Old Country, but his health demanded less strenuous occupation. He found healthy and congenial occupation soon after reaching Canada when he joined the Toronto Tennis Club as groundsman. He was naturally adapted to this work, and he is recognized now as one of the leading experts on court construction and maintenance in the Dominion. He has been with the Toronto Cricket Club for more than fifteen years, and that body would not willingly part with his services.

Playing around the courts while her daddy was at work it is not surprising that little Olive from the moment she could walk developed a fondness for the game which soon amounted to a craving. Before she could toddle her baby hands reached excitedly for any ball that came in her direction. As soon as her little legs could carry her body she used to grip any racquet she could find with her baby hands and ask her father to stop his work to play with her. When she was between ten and eleven years of age her father saw that she was showing a natural bent for the game; as even then she swung her racquet with a freedom and grace that were evident and hit the ball with extraordinary pace and accuracy in one so young. Mr. Wade is a keen sportsman, and he immediately did all he could to encourage his younger daughter. Every evening when his work on the courts was finished he would play for an hour with his daughter, and then direct her practice at the board. He says he never had to persuade her to practice; she was always at the board as soon as she could get there, and was always reluctant to stop.

Daughter of the Groundsman.

And so, the daughter of the groundsman of the crack tennis club has become famous. The officials of the club—ready to do everything in their power to forward the game of lawn tennis in the Dominion—were quick to see the promise displayed by young Olive. They encouraged her, and she became a playing member of the club. She was fortunate in being able to first watch and afterwards play with the very best lady player that Canada has yet produced, Mrs. Harry Bickle. She was fortunate, too, in having a father keen enough to devote hours of his time in helping her improve her game. But the phenomenal success which has attended her efforts is due in no small measure to her own courage and determination. Every credit is due her for her great achievements.

First she became club junior champion, then club champion, and then in turn city champion, provincial champion, and finally Canadian champion. There is that in her game which holds distinct promise that one day in the not too distant future Miss Wade will be the equal of any girl on this continent, quite possibly of any in the world.

Make Fine Showing.

Canadian men are doing well in the international lawn tennis field. Jack Wright and Willard Crocker made a splendid showing in England this year. But it would appear that before a Canadian Tilden or Cochet rises to the top of the tennis tree there will be a Canadian lady champion at Wimbledon; and that lady champion will be Olive Grace Wade.

Miss Wade started competition at the age of 12. Her record is as follows

At 13—won the Eastern junior title at Toronto, 1925.

At 14—in the finals for the Central Ontario title at Toronto, 1926.

At 15—won Southern Ontario junior title, at St. Catharines, 1927; also ladies' open doubles with her sister, Mrs. Gray; also runner-up in finals of ladies' singles. Also winner of Toronto Tennis Club championship.

At 16—won junior championship of Canada, 1928, at Toronto, defeating Miss Mary Greef of Kansas City; also Toronto Tennis Club championship; also Southern Ontario ladies' doubles with her sister, Mrs. Gray, at St. Catharines; also in junior finals; also in semi-finals in ladies' open singles.

At 17—Quebec champion, 1929, winning ladies' singles, mixed doubles final and runner-up in ladies' doubles; won ladies' doubles at London, Ont., also junior singles and runner-up in ladies' open singles and in finals of mixed doubles (not played yet); won Ontario ladies' singles title at Toronto, runner-up in ladies' doubles, also junior ladies' singles, also mixed doubles finals; Canadian singles championship, as well as the ladies' doubles and junior ladies' singles.

Streets And Buildings Still Gay With Decorations But Crowds Have Departed.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 6 (Examiner Correspondence).—Although Old Home Week came to an official ending Saturday, the holiday extended over the week-end till yesterday. The streets and buildings were still gay with decorations, but there was a noticeable absence of the crowds that all week had marked the general home-coming of Campbellford Old Boys and Girls and their friends.

Saturday was another day, designed principally for visiting, and to allow the busy hostess to set her household in order for the long week-end when it would be necessary to supply her larder for a two-day siege. In spite of threatening weather, there was an excellent lacrosse exhibition in the afternoon between a Peterborough team and the local aggregation. It was not well attended, but this was due to the fact that few people were aware that it was scheduled. The same was true of the Saturday night dance at the High School. There was a general opinion around the town that Old Home Week was over.

ROUGH WATER MARS REGATTA

Races Abandoned Owing To Heavy Winds At Marmora Gathering.

ANNUAL OUTING.

MARMORA, Aug. 6—Dull skies and morning showers of rain had their effect upon the second annual regatta which was held yesterday afternoon at the Booster Park, Crowe Lake. The event was sponsored by the Marmora Women's Memorial League, the proceeds being to help pay the balance due on this pretty park. Considering the adverse climatic conditions, those in charge of the afternoon's program felt that good patronage was shown and though owing to the rough condition of the water, canoe and boat races had to be abandoned, the other events were followed with much fun and interest by all alike.

The girls' softball fixture between Stirling and Marmora teams was the opening attraction, the homesters winning a one-sided six innings game by 25—8. Horseshoe pitching was another diversion, but no fixed game could be arranged.

The program of swimming races, diving contests and foot races found entries for all save four entries. The results were as follows:

The baby show had its usual interest. In the 6 months and under class, Willoughby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, carried off the honors. The other class was 6 to 18 months. Beulah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Burnett, was successful in securing the prize in this class. The grounds were fitted up with attractive booths and from the serviceable kitchen, refreshments consisting of hot dogs, cake, pie and coffee, were sold to the readiest of buyers.

About 5 p.m. a men's softball game was commenced. Charles McInroy captained a Deloro team and A. Bartlett brought out some good Marmora opposition. Better diamonds have been seen as well as outfields, so it was anybody's game. At the end of the fateful seventh innings, Marmora found the best they could do was to raise a total of 17 runs against the 18 registered by their rivals. Hon. J. R. Cooks, M.P.P., who was present, not only gave a nice donation to the Booster club funds but obliged with a short speech in which he dwelt upon the value of such a park to the community and made the pleasing announcement that the highway from Peterborough to Tweed would be taken over by the province, the official announcement to that effect to be made within a few weeks. Throughout the afternoon pleasing selections were rendered by Marmora Community Band.

An energetic men's committee assisted the ladies in their endeavors to make the affair a success and D. E. Bell, president of the Booster club, felt at the close of the day that loyalty to the object had not been wanting.

CHICAGO CUBS LEAD LEAGUE

Increase Lead By 7½ Games Over Pittsburg By 9 to 8 Victory Over Brooklyn.

SIXTEEN INNINGS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(Canadian Press).—The Chicago Cubs boosted their lead over Pittsburgh to 7½ games by edging out a 9-to-8 decision over Brooklyn in sixteen innings, while the Pirates fell before the Giants.

Hack Wilson ended the lengthy struggle by sending English across the plate with the winning run on his long single in the sixteenth.

After Root and Morrison, the starting pitchers were pounded out of the box the game developed into a duel between Guy Bush, leading pitcher of the Cubs, and Vance. Dazzy was in at the finish, but Bush gave way to a pinch-hitter and Art Nehf was credited with the victory.

Superior Hurling and Timely Hitting Enables Motorists To Win Victory.

EXHIBITION GAME.

KINGSTON, August 6. — Oshawa General Motors of the Central Ontario Baseball League, defeated Kingston in an exhibition game played here yesterday morning by 6 to 3, good pitching by Ogden and Wills, combined with some heavy and timely hitting by their teammates, helped the General Motors to double the score.

Oshawa scored a run on a walk, a wild pitch and a perfect bunt by Sutton in the fourth, and in the fifth, with one on, Young cracked out a home run. Three more runs were scored in the sixth on a single by R. Fair, Gray's double and a three-bagger by McCallum.

Kingston tallied two runs in the fourth when M. Gibson walked and S. Gibson singled, and both counted on Ada's smash to right field. The last Kingston run came in the eighth, when with one out, Ada singled and came home on Lawlor's double.

McGRAW IRATE OVER REPORT HE RIDES MEN

Muggsy Denies He Fines Players Too Much For Mechanical Errors.

MAKES FACTS PUBLIC.

New York Club Pilot Threatens Court Action Against Sports Writers.

CINCINNATI, August 6. — John McGraw, manager of the Giants, threatened legal action to-day as a result of newspaper stories depicting a state of rebellion among his ballplayers.

Smarting under printed criticism McGraw denied the tales of excessive fines and added that he would take the case to the courts for vindication. He said: "A few alleged baseball experts have written stories to the effect that my rigorous management has broken the spirit of the Giants. They claim that the players have been fined excessively and that Frank Hogan has been assessed $1000.

"The facts are these: Last year the club did not collect one cent in fines. Of the present members of the club two have been fined, and the total amount is $100. Hogan was fined $50 for a breach of training rules and $25 for disobeying orders twice on the playing field." The other $25 was plastered on Carl Hubbell for his failure to touch second base in a game at the polo grounds. It was purely a case of negligence and it lost a ball game for us. There is absolutely no truth in the report that I have fined my players for fumbles or bad throws. In all my career as a manager I have never fined a player for an error. Mechanical errors may happen to the best of men.

Report Untrue.

"The report that I have been 'riding' the team into a slump is particularly untrue. I have been in the game long enough to know that nagging does not help a ball club in a slump. I never have anything to say to the players when they are losing. When they are winning I call them together in the clubhouse and point out their mistakes, but when they are in a slump I hold no conferences with them. We have not held a conference since July 18.

"I am going to take this case into court for a showdown. I want the public to know the facts."

Elton Hogsett, sensational pitcher with Montreal, is doing better work in Class AA than he did Evansville of t e Three-I League.

CANADIAN TENNIS STAR

Is she the coming world's champion? On the RIGHT is Olive Wade, 17-year-old tennis sensation, who captured the Canadian title with ease, and now seems headed for international honors. She may be found playing abroad next year. She has a vicious back and forehand, and her mastery of the ball is remarkable. On the LEFT she is shown with her sister, Mrs. O. E. Gray, with whom she pairs in championship doubles. In this picture Miss Wade is standing on the LEFT. She plays in sans stockings always.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE DUMMY"

This is an entertaining feature in which two clever youngsters have much of the spotlight. The "Dummy" is Mickey Bennett and this little boy is one of the smartest child actors yet seen on the screen while his piping treble voice adds much to the swift action he injects into the picture. He has the stellar role throughout and holds it to perfection. The little girl of the production is Vondell Darr, the small, blonde child who made such a hit in the picture, "On Trial." Ruth Chatterton has the somewhat negligible feminine role of Agnes Meredith; John Cromwell is Walter Balling, the detective who does some quick thinking and acting in his role, and Frank March is James Meredith. Jack Oakie of the rounded, freckle face, is "Dopey," one of the criminal band, and so is ZaSu Pitts, as Rose Cleason.

The story is light and entertaining. Cooper's gang of crooks, and, by the way, Cooper himself is a wonderful example of the real killer type of master criminal, and his way on the screen, while brief, is extremely vivid and memorable, kidnaps the Meredith child and Mrs. Meredith, who is at outs with her husband, blames him for the affair. Balling, the detective, sends the little boy, who acts as a dummy, to discover the girl's whereabouts and he does this quite successfully. Then he talks in his sleep and gives the show away. The denouement is sensational and dramatic.

The comedy is a farcical scream in which two long distance swimmers from Atlantic City swim the Atlantic and arrive in Holland. There they engage themselves to a tulip grower as guards of his flower plots and succeed in annihilating all the innocent blooms. To retrieve the error, they proceed on an expedition to the Alps in search of edelweiss and procure a large bunch by peculiar means. A goat mixes in and destroys the final scene completely. The line of conversation is smart and hilarious.

An added attraction is the beautifully colored picture entitled "In a Chinese Temple Garden," with a pair of lovers incurring the wrath of a mandarin. The picture shows his peculiar type of vengeance and ends on a colored, happy note.

Anyone who admires the veteran actor, Milton Sills, has an opportunity in this program of hearing him tell, in a characteristic voice, all about the wonders of "The Divine Lady," in which Corrine Griffith appears here shortly. It is the story of the romance of Lord Nelson and Lady Hamilton.—Jeanette.

SATURDAY'S GAME IS POSTPONED.

Rain made necessary the postponement of the game here with Belleville on Saturday, and just when the Petes were all prepared to take their third fall of the week out of the Nationals. This makes the second game with Belleville that will have to be crowded in at some convenient time, likely at the end of the schedule. Both games are of great importance and will have a direct bearing on the team standings in the league.

The Petes play in Deloro to-morrow, and a win over the Smelters would put them in sole possession of second place. Deloro and Oshawa were scheduled to play in the Motor City on Saturday, but the fixture was also postponed on account of rain, leaving the three teams still deadlocked for second honors.

Oshawa trimmed Kingston 6 to 3 in an exhibition game played in the Limestone City yesterday morning.

MOOSE JUVENILES ADD TO STRING.

The mounting string of victories for the local Moose team, champions of the City Juvenile League, remains unsullied by defeat. On the holiday they downed the Moose team of Belleville, junior champion there, to the tune of 14 to 1. Des Hun'ts men played sparkling ball behind the steady pitching of George Gatfield. Belleville got one lone hit, the first man up in the game getting a single. Meanwhile the local Moose were swinging their bats collecting sound cracks that pushed their score into two figures.

VETERAN FOES TANGLE AGAIN.

Fans were given a smart exhibition of ball yesterday at James Stevenson Park when the Kiwanis Junior team played a representative squad of last year's Royals. After ten innings the Royals squeezed out a 6 to 5 win, when Hatton tripled and came home on Dormer's sacrifice. Newson, Hollingsworth and Holland provided the fielding features.

PLAY-OFF IN E.P.L.

The play-offs in the East Peterborough League get underway to-morrow evening when Cognawagas invade Bethany. This game is attracting wide interest because of the manner in which Bethany plied their way into the leadership of the league. Vanest will likely get the call in the Cogs' attempt to quell Doc Hamilton's lusty hitters while Harold Ralph will do the hurling for the home squad.

HERE'S A RACE HARD TO EQUAL.

Leslie Burke, diminutive second sacker, leads the Leafs in driving in runs, his mark being 56, but Joe Rabbitt, Bill Sweeney and Warren Cote are tied in the runner-up position with 55, and Ralph Shinners, who has pounded in 48, is rapidly closing in. The three-cornered tie and the fact that Burke is only one run ahead of the triumvirate is rather extraordinary. Joe Rabbitt is the pace-setting, extra-base clouter, a fine record for the light-weight outfielder. He leads in making homers and three base hits and is a bang up second to Shinners in the race for the doubles crown. In addition the sprightly Rabbitt is the International Leagues outstanding base runner. Guy Cantrell, the most willing worker the Toronto Club has had on the payroll since the days of the "iron men" hilltoppers, has won 16 games and lost 9. He participated in both games here yesterday, winning the second. Joe Samuels, undefeated in seven starts, appears to be another Victor Sorrell. It will be recalled that Sorrell won six games the first year he pitched for the Leafs, and the following season took five more before meeting his initial reverse. Samuels is headed Detroitward, as is also "Chief" Hogsett of the Montreal Royals. The chief came up from Evansville, but it is said that he is the property of the Tiger owners. He will be welcomed in the City of Straits where they haven't glimpsed many high class moundsmen since "Wild Bill" Donovan was at his best.—Toronto Globe.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

WARNING.

A psychologist declares that people who are fond of fishing have underdeveloped brains.

If you think it is fun to repose by a brook
And hark to its musical flow,
While you dangle a fly or a worm on a hook
In the riffles that ripple below,
If it quickens your pulse when a loosely tossed line
Grows taut with a swift throbbing strain,
You had better be careful, for this is a sign
That you're just a bit weak in the brain.

To be fond of the song of the swift spinning reel
As it plays out the line isn't sport,
But the vice of an idler, which has no appeal
To folks of the go-getter sort.
Only dull-witted loafers and drones and the like
Would wait in the warm summer sun
And chuckle with joy at a strong sudden strike
Or thrill when the battle was won.

It's the naughty, bad boys who play hookey from school
And are clumsy with text-book and slate,
Who are found by the bank of the leaf-shaded pool
Where the pickerel rise to the bait.
Their minds, being laggard at Latin and Greek
When Spring spreads her foliage once more,
Are calmly content with the song of the creek
And the grasshoppers chorus on shore.

You may by some accident, clamber to fame
As a number of persons have done
If you cannot resist the imperious claim
Of a stream that is bright in the sun
But when the psychologist gets you at last,
As he will in the end—he will find
If ever a look at a brook you have cast
You possess an inferior mind.

In Police Court

"Fifteen days' imprisonment in the common jail" was the sentence Magistrate Langley passed on Harry P. Carney, who pleaded guilty to driving a car on Charlotte Street on Sunday night while in an intoxicated condition. "He was very drunk and used abusive language," said the prosecution.

"He might have been here without a head this morning if we hadn't found him. He was lying on the C.N.R. tracks dead to the world, with the train not far away," said the prosecution about a local young man who pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and was fined $10 and costs.

John Donnelly was fined $25 and costs when he pleaded guilty to allowing his premises to be used for a disorderly house. The charge of selling against him was withdrawn.

Clarence Ibey was remanded without pleading to the charge of carrying dangerous weapons.

"Not guilty! No, sir!" said John Smith to the charge of vagrancy. "Oh! I don't mind being sent up if they give me enough food. It's food I need, in fact I should have some right now." He was remanded until Friday, being hustled out just as he was preparing to favor Magistrate Langley with a song.

The charge against Alexander Sharpe, aged 84, was withdrawn by the complainant, H. Mumby, on Sharpe paying the costs.

The two immigrant boys who had refused to work on a farm were sentenced to one month in jail on a charge of vagrancy, the Magistrate advising that they be sent back to the Old Country.

Game is made on many hands due to a lapse in the defense occasioned by Declarer's play being so timed that adversaries are apt to misread its object and thus give up an extra trick to Declarer, enabling him to go game. In such cases, Declarer has nothing to lose, for should adversaries read the object of his play and block it, he is no worse off as he could not go game if played in any other way. The play of this deal illustrates a situation as described above.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction: South and West passing, North bids one No Trumps, having much greater strength than required for such a bid Third Hand. All pass thereafter. East having no sound overcall of a No Trump on right and South too weak to offer a take-out in his long suit—Diamonds.

Contract: North bids two No Trumps originally holding 5 Quick Tricks and all suits stopped, three of which are doubly stopped and a fourth possibly so.

East passing, South assists by bidding three No Trumps rather than taking out with three Diamonds. His partner has shown stoppers in all four suits and therefore two or more tricks should be deliverable at No Trumps by South's hand.

The Play

East leads initially his fourth best Club, the Three, which North wins with the Jack and lays down the Ace and King of Diamonds.

Declarer now has won three tricks and can count five more, to wit, the Ace and King of Hearts and three Diamonds in Dummy. He must in some way get in a Spade trick, if possible, before adversaries lead Clubs as he is wide open in that suit.

Accordingly he lays down the King of Spades, endeavoring to give the impression that he holds no more Diamonds for entry into Dummy and is attempting to drive the Ace of Spades, thus setting up the Queen for the needed entry.

Now, if West reads the play of the King as such an attempt and holds off with the Ace of Spades, North makes his contract laid down, conceding four tricks at the end.

On the other hand, if West takes his Ace of Spades on North's lead of the King and returns a Club, North will still make eight tricks, one short of his contract.

It now becomes clear that the lead of the Spade King, after laying down the Ace and King of Diamonds, is a play by which Declarer can lose nothing and may go game should adversaries misread the play. It should be stated, however, that the attempt by North to run through his King of Spades while still holding a small Diamond could be read as such if East but play the Eight on the first round of Diamonds and the Five on the second round, thus permitting West to mark North with another Diamond and eliminating any guess as to the immediate play of the Spade Ace on North's lead of the King.

WANTED—FAT GIRLS

To try this safe, easy reducing method

Fat girls, here's good news for you. A safe, easy way of reducing weight, without dangerous drugs, without irksome diet or exercise. Read how this woman lost 23 lbs. and gained in health and vigour.

"I have taken Kruschen Salts every day for nearly a year, and I have not felt so well for many years. My weight has dropped from 163 lbs. to 140 lbs. All my acquaintances say how much younger and better I look. I feel bright and well, whereas before I was always tired and nervous." Mrs. B. Kruschen fights fat by removing its cause, which is the accumulation of waste matter thrown off in the process of digestion. These acids and poisonous masses should be eliminated by the body's "scavengers"—the kidneys, liver and bowels. When these get lazy, these deposits remain in the body and form unhealthy fat.

Kruschen Salts, by toning up the eliminating organs, gradually remove the fatty deposits. As the fat melts away, joyous health and energy return. S. C. 3

PREMIER SCOUTS ELECTION RUMOR

30,000 People Hear Cabinet Ministers At Big Lennox Picnic.

NOT YET DISCUSSED.

TORONTO, Aug. 6.— "I might tell you in confidence that this government is going to continue in power for some time. I may say that we have not even discussed an election. When we feel, however, that that time has come, we will not hesitate in declaring an election; we will not hesitate in going to the people of Ontario."

In those few brief sentences Premier Ferguson yesterday afternoon definitely dealt the body blow to rumors that Ontario was going to be the centre of an election this fall. He spoke at the 24th annual Lennox picnic at Jackson's Point, Lake Simcoe, and approximately half of the crowd of 30,000 crowded around the stand to hear the premier make his declaration.

Public men to-day realize that they are merely the servants of the people, chosen by the people to put their wishes into effect, stated the premier. A few men who were not of the government were clamoring for an election. Yet the government did not feel like going into an election when there seemed to be no reason.

"In confidence I will further tell you that the government doesn't see anyone on the horizon to fill their positions," he continued with a smile and the crowd cheered. "And I don't see for some time that any one will be on the horizon."

Following an array of speakers, including Hon. George S. Henry (minister of highways), Hon. Chas. McCrea (minister of mines), Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion (former minister of national defence and federal member for Fort William), Geo. Spotton, M. P. (Huron North) and Col. T. H. Lennox, M.P., the premier first paid tribute to Col. "Herb" Lennox, the host of the day. He characterized Col. Lennox the invincible challenger for people's rights "up in North York."

Continuing, he referred to Hon. George Henry's remarks on the highways. He declared that the improved highways of Ontario are giving rural residents access to the cities and that greater interest is being given the farmers' roads at present by the government. Last year 6,000,000 had been spent on the highways, and this would be increased if necessary.

Farmers were also benefitting under the extension of rural hydro. The water powers of Ontario belonged to every resident of the province, and every resident should be offered the opportunity of sharing in the power derived from them. Also in education, the rural child will be afforded greater opportunity to take up advanced studies under the proposed changes in the educational system of the province.

Farm tenancy for the United States increased from 25 per cent in 1890 to 38 per cent in 1920.

PIMPLES BADLY AFFECTED FACE

Ashamed to Go Out. Lasted a Year. Cuticura Healed.

"My face was badly affected with pimples. When they first started they looked red and were hard. Later they became larger and soon began to fester me by itching. I scratched them which only caused more pimples. They disfigured my face so that I was ashamed to go out. The trouble lasted about a year.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and within two weeks there was a great improvement. I continued using them and within a month my face was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Katherine Klassen, Box 59, Conquest, Sask.

DISCARDED TUBES USEFUL.

Old inner tubes of automobile tires provide excellent lifebelts for non-swimmers. Their use as such has become very popular at Inverlea Park this year among the children who find them a great aid when inflated and wound about the body. The swimmer with one of these on presents a very grotesque appearance but nevertheless the new-fashioned preservers perform their duty even more satisfactorily than the patent water-wings specially made for the purpose, as they can be used in such a way as to support the entire body in the correct swimming position.

WISH DECORATIONS LEFT.

The attractive ceiling decorations that were placed in the Armouries for the big dance Old Home Week have not yet been removed. It has been suggested that they be allowed to remain until the 'Kiwanis' Made in Canada Fair' in the fall. The authorities in the Armouries state that they are at present offering no inconvenience. The decorations are still in excellent condition as they were put up securely.

CHEMONG REGATTA

An outstanding regatta in the list that are scheduled for the next two weeks is that of the Chemong Park Cottagers' Association which will be held tomorrow afternoon. Sailing races for dinghys, sloops and canoes will have a big place on the program, along with swimming, paddling, rowing and tilting. The committee has gone to great lengths in the preparation of the long list of events and a greater day than ever before is looked for.

CELEBRATION PLANNED

The Catholic people of the city of Peterborough and the adjoining parishes of the dioceses are planning a hearty welcome to Archbishop O'Brien on his return from the newly created papal state, carved out of the city of Rome. Strings of colored lights are being placed around St. Peter's Cathedral and banners of welcome hung over the streets.

REMOVE POLICE SIGN,

Some person with a peculiar taste in souvenirs has made away with a sign which J. A. Stewart, manager of the Capitol Theatre, placed in position on Saturday in front of his theatre. It read: "Police Order—No Parking Between Signs," and was raised on an iron standard above a malleable iron base. The whole thing weighed about three hundred pounds and the person who made away with it must have been a strong-arm gent.

WIND CAUSES DAMAGE.

The stiff wind that visited this city on Sunday did not pass without doing some damage. Evidences of a couple of trees and a number of tree-limbs that were blown down are to be seen in various sections locally and also about the district. The wind was especially severe to the north of the city in the region of the Kawartha Lakes.

CUPS ON DISPLAY.

The cups to be competed for at the McCracken's Regatta on August 10 are on display in the window of Grafton's store on George street. The group of silver trophies includes three large trophies for dinghy sailing, canoe sailing and open sailing donated by the Peterborough Canoe Company, C. G. Porter, and W. T. Hale. There are more than fifty smaller cups for the various events of the regatta.

The regatta promises to be one of the leading events at Stoney Lake this year. A great variety of events have been planned for both the senior and junior regattas at McCracken's. The success of the affair has been made sure by the untiring work of the committees under the direction of H. F. Choate, C. G. Porter, Doug. Hall, Bruce Fraser, Terry Hall, Edith Mills and Mar. Strickland.

REGATTA DANCE.

The regatta dance at the Chemong Pavillion will be the closing feature of one of the biggest days that the Cottagers Association of that popular resort have planned and will round up to-morrow's events in famous fashion. The Wright Brothers eight piece band which was initiated at Sunday night's frolic which took place after twelve o'clock and which won a great reputation from the start will be on hand. Favors, novelties and everything to make the dance one of the most spectacular and fascinating that has been held have been arranged.

Children's Ailments

One of the most useful and dependable remedies a mother can have in her medicine cabinet is ABBEY'S. It is helpful in correcting the little troubles of childhood. When little stomachs get upset—when little heads ache—when little breaths are heavy—when little bowels become irregular—mothers can always rely on ABBEY'S to set the matter right. And little folk take ABBEY'S so willingly. For ABBEY'S, with its gentle sparkle, is like a glass of soda water. And its slightly tart flavour is like mild lemonade. It's not medicine at all to the children—it's fun. And ABBEY'S does them so much good — cleans stomach and bowels—and cools the fevered blood. The directions on every bottle enable mothers to regulate the dose to suit children of every age.

FIVE BIG SHIPS SHIFTED OVER TO ATLANTIC FLEET

British Fleet Becomes Greatest Single Fighting Force in World.

14 CAPITAL VESSELS.

Mediterranean Fleet Is Reduced On Account of Lack of Harbour Facilities.

LONDON, Aug. 7 (C.P. Cable).—The Atlantic fleet becomes the greatest single fighting force in the world by the decision of the Admiralty to recall five battleships of the Queen Elizabeth class from Mediterranean waters to home ports and the Atlantic fleet.

The transference of the battleships, not only an important change in distribution of the navy, but an entirely new departure in British naval policy, means the balance of power is removed from Malta and Gibraltar to the Atlantic.

The Atlantic Fleet will consist of 14 capital ships, among them the two most powerful vessels in the world, the Nelson and Rodney, and the largest battle-cruiser in the world, H.M.S. Hood.

Joins Two Nelson Class

The Queen Elizabeth vessels are approximately 30,000 tons, armed with eight 13-inch guns. These five will join the two Nelson class vessels, the Hood, the four Iron Duke battleships and the battle-cruisers, Renown and Repulse; to make the most formidable fleet assembled on peace-time duties in the world.

Officially the lack of adequate harbor accommodations is the reason for removal of the battleships. But there is more behind the decision than a mere question of detail. One suggestion is that the Admiralty is influenced by the fact that these big ships will now give the British dockyards a great deal of maintenance work to compensate for the loss by reduction of the replacement program.

The British Fleet in the Mediterranean will be cut to five capital ships and four of the newest "Washington," 10,000 ton cruisers.

BRAZEAU FOREST FIRES DYING DOWN WITH RAIN

Worst Blaze in Years Subsiding In Great Hunting Ground.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 7.—(C.P.)—A more hopeful situation in regard to the forest fires which have been raging in the Brazeau Forest for the past ten days, is reported by C. H. Morse, Calgary, District Inspector of Forest Reseves for Alberta.

Rains fell during the week-end at most of the points where fires have been raging, helping the exhausted rangers and their crews to bring the blazes under control. Most cheering of all was the report from the Brazeau Forest Reserve, where the worst forest fire in ten years has been eating its way through stands of valuable timber and destroying some of the best hunting territory on the continent. Seven hours' rain fell in this area on Saturday and there was more rain Wednesday.

CITY COUNCIL SCORES C.N.R. FOR NEGLECT

Alderman Hamilton Declares Railway Refuses To Co-operate With City.

ENDORSES DAYLIGHT SAVING

Old Age Pension Board For Peterborough Appointed By Council.

Declaring that the Canadian National Railway authorities had failed to co-operate in any way whatsoever, the city council at its meeting last night authorized City Engineer Parsons to close the Bethune street bridge between Murray and Brock streets. For several years the city councils of Peterborough have been asking the C.N.R. authorities to aid in rebuilding the bridge which at the present time is unfit for traffic but all that the city fathers have received is that the matter would be considered. At last night's council meeting Alderman Hamilton declared that the bridge was unsafe for traffic and moved a resolution seconded by Alderman Stocker that the bridge be closed. Sir Henry Thornton will be advised of the city's action and also the attempts of the council to have the bridge repaired. Until a few years ago the railways had always looked after the bridge but recently through an order of the Railway Board, it is believed, the city council was made responsible for part of the bridge. During the past few years it has been sinking and at present is in a most dilapidated condition. The railway has repaired its part but what the city is wanting is the bridge raised so that the water in the spring will not be dammed back.

Last 55 Minutes.

Last night's meeting of the council was one of the shortest on record only lasting fifty minutes. An old age pension board for the City of Peterborough was appointed as well as the authorization of certain sidewalks in different parts of the city.

Alderman Walter Stocker, F. Fairen, J. T. Stenton, Frank Adams and J. T. Metheral were appointed members of the Old Age Pension Board and the necessary by-law authorizing the appointment passed. S. R. Armstrong was appointed secretary of the Board and the members will elect their chairman. Daylight saving was again heard from. The municipal council of the city of Stratford has passed a resolution asking that federal government make it dominion wide. Alderman Hamilton in moving a resolution that the motion of the Stratford Council be endorsed said that the only way daylight saving could be a success was to make it dominion wide. Alderman McIntyre said that he believed if the by-law went to the Peterborough citizens again it would be defeated. Alderman Stocker interjected to say that in England the law covered the whole country. The motion was seconded by Alderman Huffman and carried unanimously.

A motion was passed that the city provide sanitary conveniences in 138 Maria street providing the owners sign the necessary agreement.

By-law 2854 authorized the building of sidewalks on Benacord street

TWO NATIONS ABLY DEFEND YOUNG PLAN

French and Italian Ministers Answer Charge of Philip Snowden.

NO BACKING DOWN.

France Has Reached Her Limit M. Cheron, Finance Minister Declares.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—The Young reparations plan, which came in for heavy attack by Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, at yesterday's opening sessions of the reparations conference, had two defenders to-day in the delegates of France and Italy.

Henri Cheron, French Finance Minister, and Senator Masconi of Italy, both took the position that the new system of reparations payments and the new schedules of annuities were elaborated by the experts at Paris with great care after the greatest difficulties and must be approved if the present conference want to get on with its mission of taking the thorns out of European politics and liquidating the last problems left over by the Great War.

The French Finance Minister insisted that France had made repeated sacrifices in order to facilitate a compromise on the reparations problem and had reached a limit which she could not pass.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—Henri Cheron, French Finance Minister, to-day presented his Government's endorsement of the Young reparations plan to the conference of the Government's meeting here. His contention was the Young plan must be considered as a whole, and either accepted or rejected in its entirety.

He was the first speaker, taking the floor shortly after Henry Jaspar, Belgian Premier and temporary chairman, called the meeting to order. M. Cheron's speech was regarded as the French answer to the contention of Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, yesterday that modifications in the plan were necessary.

Senator Antoni Masconi followed M. Cheron, for Italy, and declared in reply to Mr. Snowden's speech yesterday that Italy received under the Young plan only what was due her.

M. Titulescu of Rumania and M. Ulrich of Portugal spoke next, pleading for the smaller reparations creditors, asking a change in the provisions of the Young plan to allow them to meet their external war debts with what they received from Germany.

Find Western Cities' Blind Pigs Get Supply Through Short Circuit.

REPORT TO U. S. SECRETARY

WINDSOR, Aug. 7 (C.P.).—"Short circuiting" of export beer and liquor is a flourishing business throughout Western Ontario, American Federal "undercover" agents have reported to Secretary Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of Treasury at Washington, it is learned here today.

United States secret service operators who have covered the Western Ontario peninsula by their investigations during the current major offensive against the international rum runners, report the "blind pigs" in Windsor and other Ontario cities are being supplied with liquor ostensibly consigned to American destinations but "short circuited" back into Ontario.

The Prohibition agents have reported to Lowman that "A considerable portion of the liquor consigned from Canadian ports to the U. S. is being "short circuited" and returned to the Dominion for illicit sale there.

SWEDE STILL DETERMINED TO FLY NORTH ATLANTIC

Many Believe Ahrenberg Will Abandon Proposed Trip

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 7 (C.P.)—Despite a cablegram from Captain Albin Ahrenberg received here yesterday saying that he intends to continue his flight from Ivigtut, Greenland, to New York, it is believed here that the Swedish airman will decide within a few days to return to Sweden and abandon his effort to fly the Atlantic by the far Northern route.

To-night (Wednesday) the Graf Zeppelin will attempt around-the-world flight, leaving Lakehurst, New Jersey, about midnight. The flight will be made in three stages: first to Friedrichshafen, Germany, the airship's home port, which will probably be reached on Sunday. A stay of four or five days will be made in the home port, and then the airship will take off for Tokio, and from Tokio jump to Los Angeles. The above lay-out shows: (1) The Graf Zeppelin. (2) Dr. Eckener, commander of the airship, whose transatlantic achievements of last year made history. (3) The commodious quarters provided for the passengers in the forward cabin.

PHILIP SNOWDEN DETERMINED TO REVISE SCHEME

British Chancellor Announces Stand to the Press at The Hague.

PUT UP TO DELEGATES.

British Opposition to International Bank Plan Is Gaining Ground He Claims.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 7 (C.P.)—In the face of increasing firmness by France and Italy in favor of the present apportionment of German reparations among the Allies in the Young plan, Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, to-day reiterated his government's determination to obtain revision of the Young plan.

Mr. Snowden's speech yesterday in the first business session of the 1929 conference of The Hague for putting into effect the Young plan, put the issues between Great Britain and the other creditor powers over their shares squarely up to the delegates After Finance Minister Henri Cheron of France and Senator Masconi of Italy had stated their attitude this morning. Mr. Snowden reaffirmed his standpoint in an interview with the press.

Opposes Bank Scheme

The British Chancellor made more definite the British opposition to the scheme for the Bank of International Settlements as it was elaborated by the financial experts of the Young committee.

He said that opinion in the London "City", headquarters of British banking, had in the past few days turned against the International Bank idea because of its projected plan to buy and sell gold.

Mr. Snowden said there was a fear in the city that intervention of such a bank as the International Settlements institution in the market would intensify a scramble for gold, which was contrary to British interests.

RAINS IMPROVE PATRICIA FIRES

Finlayson Claims Situation Improved With No Loss of Life or Property.

ONE BARN BURNED.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 7 (C.P.)—Heavy rains in the Patricia and Thunder Bay districts of Northern Ontario has lessened the fire hazard in these sections considerably, said Hon. William Finlayson, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests yesterday. The situation in the Kenora area is worse, said the Minister, due to lack of rain and high winds of Sunday and Monday.

"Taking conditions on the whole, we have been very fortunate," he said. "The situation is very much improved and we have had no loss of life or great damage to property. As far as is known, only one building, a barn, has been destroyed by the fires."

Several fires have been checked and a large number of dormant outbreaks have been extinguished by the rains in the Patricia and Thunder Bay areas, he said. Some new fires have been reported in the Kenora district where lack of rain and high winds is proving a severe handicap to the fire fighters, the Minister said.

Police and Fleeing Car Do Sixty On Queen Street

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 7 (C.P.)—A hair-raising chase between a police auto flier and high-speed roadster, alleged to have been stolen, ended this morning in the arrest of Joe Vickery, 20, Detroit, Mich., and Joseph Barn, 22, London, Ont.

Queen street was turned into a speedway and milk wagons patrolling the streets in the early hours of the morning were threatened as the roadster reached a speed of 60 miles an hour with the police flier in hot pursuit. The pursued car was finally forced into the curb and its occupants arrested.

Police say that the prisoners will be viewed to-day by witnesses of the robbery of a local candy store Monday night.

LINER FAILS TO BEAT BREMEN

Mauretania Will Fall Far Short of German Liner's Record.

ANDS THURSDAY.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 7.—(C.P.)—The Cunard Liner Mauretania, deposed queen of the seas, will have broken her own record for the westward crossing of the Atlantic when she appeared to-morrow, but radio advices from the ship indicated she will fall several hours behind the speed of the Bremen, new ocean champion.

From noon yesterday to noon today, Captain S. G. S. McNeil of the Cunarder reported the vessel steamed 676 miles at an average speed of 27.04 knots, notwithstanding bad weather that forced curtailment of speed for several hours.

Since leaving Cherbourg Saturday the Mauretania had steamed 2,541 miles at an average of 27 knots up to noon to-day. Bad weather has interfered with progress, however, and Captain McNeiel said he would not reach Quarantine until 11 a.m., one hour later than his original estimate.

This being so the Mauretania will better her own record of 5 days, 2 hours and 34 minutes, but will still be far behind the Bremen's run of 4 days, 17 hours and 42 minutes.

GRAF ZEPPELIN READY TO START WORLD VOYAGE

Big Airship Plans To Leave Lakehurst, N.J., At Midnight (Wednesday).

TO MAKE THREE STOPS.

Will Arrive Back in New Jersey About September 3, Pilot Claims.

LAKEHURST, N.J., Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—A company of adventurous souls prepared to embark to-day upon a history-making voyage, circum-navigation of the earth in the German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship, ordered passengers to be at the hangar at 4 p.m. to-day, although the actual start on the first leg of the journey was not expected to be made before midnight.

Some of those who have booked passage from here will not make the flight around the world, but will disembark at the first stop, Friedrichshafen, Germany, the Graf's home port.

Woman On Long Flight.

Among those who expect to remain aboard the airship until she arrives here again a month hence, flying out of the West are: Commander Charles E. Rosendahl U.S.N.; Lieut. J. C. Richardson, U.S.N.; William B. Leeds, son of the late tin plate king; Sir George Hubert Wilkins, explorer; Lady Grace Drummond Hay; Karl Von Weigand, newspaper correspondent, and Joachin K. Rickard, writer.

Forecasts indicated that weather conditions would permit the start as scheduled. Cloudy weather, with possible showers, were in prospect, but Lieutenant S. F. Reichelsdrfer said there would be no high wind to prevent the take-off.

Stop-Over Five Days.

Hans Von Schiliern, one of the pilots of the Graf, said he expected the airship would reach Friedrichshafen early Sunday. The ship will be grounded there for four or five days, then set out for Tokyo. The jump to Tokyo and to Los Angeles each are expected to take four or five days, with lay-overs of the same duration at each stop. The trip eastward across the United States is estimated to consume two or three days, which will bring the airship to her starting place here about September 3rd.

FEDERAL AGENT FOUND IN RIVER WITH HEAD BATTERED FOLLOWING FIGHT WITH MISSING MECHANIC

WIFE TELLS STORY.

Says Husband Hiding Because He Fears Violence On Questioning.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—The body of Richard J. Sandlands, Federal prohibition agent, was found in the Detroit River at 8 a.m. to-day. The body was found by special inspectors of the Treasury Department who have been dragging the river since Monday night. Sandlands disappeared early Saturday after he had boarded a cruiser in the river.

It was reported to Inspector Fred W. Frahm, head of the police homicide squad, that Sandlands' head was battered as if by blows from a club.

Investigate Injuries.

An autopsy will be held at the Wayne County Morgue to-day to determine whether the head injuries could have resulted in the agent's death.

Jack Heath, Detroit elevator mechanic and skipper of the cabin cruiser Sandlands boarded just before his disappearance, now is the object of a search by Federal investigators and Detroit police. Heath yesterday failed to keep an appointment to meet Gregory H. Frederick, chief assistant district attorney.

Mrs. Heath's Story.

According to the story told authorities by Mrs. Maxine Heath, who was aboard the cruiser with her husband at the time Sandlands fell into the water while struggling with Heath after the former had refused to show his credentials following the boarding and searching of their boat. Mrs. Heath appeared before Customs officials Monday night with her attorney and gave her version of the affair. She told Mr. Fredericks yesterday that her husband had communicated with her and expressed a fear he might meet with violence if he appeared for questioning.

Had Been Left on Guard.

The official version of the affair was that Sandlands and Milton Larson, Customs border patrol inspector, seized the cruiser early Saturday and that the latter went to report the seizure, leaving Sandlands to guard the boat and its occupants. When Larson returned Sandlands, the Heaths, and the cruiser were missing.

Royal Family Anxious About Youngest Prince

LONDON, Aug. 7 (C.P.)—The Daily News to-day says that it learns the Royal Family is somewhat anxious about the health of Prince George, youngest son of the King. The Prince left the navy because of his health and went into the Foreign Office. This was said not to have benefitted him, but rather to have caused his present indisposition.

The Prince, who is 26, was prevented by illness from keeping an engagement on July 19, and his brother, the Duke of Gloucester, said that he might have to go away and take a brief cure.

STRIKERS CLASH WITH SOLDIERS

Thirty-two Are Dead, With Eighty Others Seriously Injured in Rumania.

3,800 ON STRIKE.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Clashes between troops and striking miners in the Lupeny district which have resulted in heavy loss of life, quieted down this morning while fresh military reinforcements took control of the situation.

Officially the dead are numbered at 32, with 80 others seriously wounded, but it is generally believed that the number of dead will be larger, present estimates going as high as 58.

The electric work shops from which the mines are pumped out fell into the hands of the strikers who damaged the engines but later gendarmes recaptured the buildings.

The number of strikers has been placed at 3,800, but apparently miners from other shafts are prepared to join the movement.

WRITER FLAYING IMMIGRANTS ROUSES PROBE BY AUTHORITIES

Hughes, Former British M.P., Creates Passengers Wrath On Liner to Australia.

ASKED TO LEAVE SHIP.

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's)—Premier Stanley Bruce has ordered an investigation into the truth of remarks alleged to have been made by Collingwood Hughes, former member of the British House of Commons, on arrival at Fremantle on the P. and O. liner Bendigo a few days ago.

Hughes is alleged to have charged that among the immigrants on the liner were "degenerates, criminals, loafers, unemployables, and weak-minded children." He is well-known as a writer on naval defence, Empire migration and settlement, and social and economic subjects. He seconded the address in reply to the King's Speech in Parliament in 1923.

Premier Bruce said the allegations were so obviously extravagant as to create considerable doubt of their accuracy. Passengers on the Bendigo were reported to have been so incensed at Hughes' statements that they held an indignation meeting and resolved that Hughes should leave the ship immediately at Fremantle or otherwise a deputation would ask the captain to remove him.

Plane Falls Into Alley Killing Three Persons

CAMPBELLUVILLE, K.Y., Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—A re-built plane piloted by a youthful unlicensed student pilot and powered with a motor of a type declared obsolete by the War Department, fell into an alley in the centre of the town late yesterday, and the pilot and his two passengers met death as the wreckage was consumed by flames.

The pilot was Francis Mitchell, 25, of Louisville, and his passengers Carl E. Carter, 23, drug store owner, and Flave Courts, 23, a clerk in the store.

They were discovered on a little used road, miles from a telephone or garage, with their auto broken down.

SHAKE UP IS EXPECTED IN CHINESE CABINET

Crisis Is Expected In Government of China—Minister Resigns.

SHANGHAI, August 7 (Canadian Press).—Reports were current in Shanghai to-day that a Cabinet crisis impended at Nanking as a result of the resignation yesterday of T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance. The native papers, said Chiang Kai Shek, President of the Nanking Government, arrived here to-day to urge M. Soong to reconsider.

It was said here other resignations probably would follow shortly.

The second Nanking troop disbandment conference adjourned to-day without adopting financial estimates proposed by M. Soong.

His resignation was explained as resulting from his inability to maintain a proper financial background for the Nationalist Government when its resources were depleted so constantly by heavy military burdens.

The heaviest rainfall in Los Angeles was in 1884, when more than 38 inches of rain fell.

WOMAN AND TWO BOYS DROWNED AS BOAT TIPS IN LONELY HARBOR

Three Year Old Baby Boy Clings To Craft and is Saved.

MOTHER ONLY WITNESS.

NANAIMO, B.C., August 7 (Canadian Press).—A woman and two children were drowned in a boating accident at Boat Harbor, eight miles south-east of Nanaimo, last evening, according to meagre advice reaching here.

Mrs. E. J. Mines of Island Park, Burnaby, B.C., an eight-year-old boy, whose name was not given, were the victims. They were boating about fifty yards from shore when the boat upset, throwing them into the water.

A three-year-old child, the fourth member of the party, did not fall out of the boat and was picked up safe in the craft some time later.

The only witness to the tragedy was Mrs. Cummings, the mother of one of the children. She was in a state of collapse and could give no information.

Boat Harbor was the shipping point of the defunct Pacific Coast Coal Mines Company. Mrs. Cummings and her husband, who was watchman at the property, were the only residents of the place, but Mrs. Mines, sister of Mrs. Cummings, was visiting the family.

PHILIP SNOWDEN SCORES YOUNG REPARATION PLAN

BRITAIN'S STAND IS OUTLINED BY CHANCELLOR OF EXCHEQUER AT CONFERENCE OF 12 NATIONS

British Declaration Comes As Surprise To Other Nation's Representatives.

OPPOSITION EXPECTED.

Minister Declares Great Britain Is Not Committed To Adopt Scheme.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—Frankly and firmly outlining Great Britain's attitude, Right Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, yesterday opposed the Owen D. Young plan of reparations payments by Germany, arrived at during the recent conference of economic experts, under the chairmanship of Mr. Young, at Paris.

The British Chancellor laid his Government's view before the conference of representatives of twelve nations, assembled here to consider the Young plan and to liquidate the last outstanding financial tangles of the Great War, at the first day of its sessions.

Opposition Expected.

The British declaration came as a surprise, for, though it was expected that Mr. Snowden would oppose the Young scheme, it was not thought that he would announce his attitude so early in the conference. In the House of Commons, during the regime of the late Conservative Government, Mr. Snowden criticized the policy embodied in the Balfour note, which had been the basis of Great Britain's attitude toward war debts up to that time; he claimed the Government had not properly safeguarded British interests. Yesterday he declared that not only Premier MacDonald and his colleagues in the Labor Government, but all parties in Great Britain, were united in opposition to the Young plan. In fact, he said, the experts who framed it themselves had made no attempt to justify, defend or explain it.

Not Committed to Scheme.

The British experts at the Paris conference were not Government servants, said Mr. Snowden, and the British Government was in no way committed to adopt the Young scheme. His Government believed the annuities fixed by the conference were not beyond Germany's capacity to pay, but he objected to the division of the annuities into conditional and unconditional portions. As long as the conditional portion of the annuities was paid, nothing would matter very much, because all the nations would be getting their money; but the unconditional portions carried the right of mobilization, and therefore these attained greater security than the conditional annuities. He objected to the proposed division under which France got five-sixths of the unconditional annuities and Italy a very considerable annual sum, amounting to about $10,000,000, which was much larger than her revenue under the Dawes plan, while Great Britain had to content herself with the conditional annuities, the security for which was considerably lower.

The "perfectly negligible part" of the unconditional payments remaining to be divided among the other creditor nations, including Great Britain, was utterly indefensible, the British representative continued. The experts themselves had made no attempt to justify, defend or explain it.

AUTHOR DIES IN LONELY ROOM

Mary Maclane Is Found Dead in Bed in Chicago Hotel.

BORN IN WINNIPEG.

CHICAGO, August 7. (C.P.)—Mary Maclane, a successful author 15 years ago, died last night in a lonely room on the fringe of Chicago's black and tan belt. She was born in Winnipeg, Man., in 1881.

She was the author of "I, Mary Maclane," "Men Who Have Made Love to Me," and other romantic writings. Miss Maclane had virtually disappeared. It was some time after her death before it was realised she was the Mary Maclane whose own romantic adventures as set forth in her books, had stirred the imaginations of the reading public of a few years ago.

No one was at her bedside as she died. Her body was found by the proprietor of the small hotel where she had lived for the last four years. Her death, a doctor's certificate said, was due to natural causes.

Miss Maclane's retirement about six years ago was believed to have been caused by disappointment. It came after the sale of her books had fallen off and financial reverses set in. Ill-health added to her troubles.

Her family moved when she was young to Fergus Falls, Minn., and later to Butte, Mont., where she graduated from the high school.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

Mr. Howard Davidson was admitted to Nicholls Hospital yesterday, where he will undergo an operation.

Mr. J. M. Ferris is spending a brief vacation motoring to Montreal, Quebec City, and other points east.

Miss Loretta Sarginson has returned from a two weeks' vacation.

CHARGED WITH NEGLIGENCE JOHN BURNS, BUFFALO, ARRESTED FOLLOWING INQUEST IN TWEED

Jury Recommends Installation of Gate at Railway Crossing.

NO EVIDENCE OF LIQUOR.

Arrest Follows Inquest Into Death of Havelock Boy in Tweed.

TWEED, Ont., Aug. 7 (C.P.).—John Burns, 23 years old, Buffalo, was arrested at the close of the inquest here last night into the accident July 29, when his car collided with a Canadian Pacific Railway freight extra running between Havelock and Smith's Falls and resulted in the death of Arthur Ross Brown, front-end brakeman, at the Victoria street crossing here.

Burns was charged with criminal negligence in connection with the death of Brown, who was killed when the train carried the motor car into a switch pole, breaking the switch band and derailing the locomotive and 10 cars. The brakeman was pinned under a freight car.

The jury's verdict said: "Arthur Ross Brown came to his death as the result of injuries received when Canadian Pacific Railway train No. 902, eastbound, upon which Brown was engaged as front-end brakeman, collided with a motor car driven by John Burns, Buffalo.

No Blame to Crew

"We find no blame is attached to the train crew. We recommend that gates be installed at the Tweed railway crossing."

Burns, in his evidence, said that he had looked up and down the track as he approached the crossing, but did not see the train. In answer to a question, he said he had not been drinking. The witness admitted having purchased 28 quarts of beer on July 27, but this had all been consumed that day and night, he said.

Dr. M. G. Dale, Tweed, who examined Burns after the accident, said there was no evidence of liquor about him then.

Harry Parsons, Smiths Falls, engineer of the train, said he had slowed down to 10 miles an hour on approaching the crossing. He was told by the fireman to apply the brakes 30 feet before contact with the car, he said. The train stopped within a minimum distance, witness continued, but the auto was carried into the switch. The engineer said he saw no reason why Burns did not see the train approaching.

Edward Taylor, fireman, said he thought the car was approaching too fast. When it was 15 feet from the tracks the driver seemed to make an effort to turn aside, said Taylor.

OBJECT TO YOUNG PLAN.

RT. HON. PHILIP SNOWDEN
British Chancellor of Exchequer, who was most outspoken in his opposition to the Young Reparation Scheme, at the conference of twelve nations being held at The Hague.

BENNETT DENIES CONSERVATIVES OPPOSED AUSTRALIAN TREATY

Dumping Duty Placed, Only To Have New Zealand Given Same Rights By King Govt.

DAIRY INDUSTRY DESTROYED

POWELL RIVER, B.C., August 7 (Canadian Press). — Emphatic denial was made by Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader in his speech here last night that his party had opposed the Australian agreement of 1925.

"Sometimes you have heard," Mr. Bennett explained, "that the Conservative Party opposed the trade agreement with Australia. That is not the case. The Opposition had, he explained, pointed out that the effect of the treaty in the form sanctioned by the present Government, while beneficial to certain industries, was detrimental to the dairy industry of Canada.

"Strange as it may sound," Mr. Bennett observed, "the Government afterwards realized it was so, and so they placed the dumping duty on dairy products of Australia which were subsidized at home."

The result was that last year we purchased only a small quantity of such products from Australia. But what did the Government do? Mr. Bennett proceeded. In 1925 Premier King, in a speech at Woodstock, Ont., had said that if the Australian treaty were destroying the dairy industry notice would be given by Canada of its revocation.

Only a week after this speech, the Government, of which the Prime Minister was the head, extended the provisions of the Australian treaty to New Zealand by Order-in-Council. The consequence of the Order-in-Council was that 28,000,000 pounds of butter were imported into this country last year. "Canada now has 101,000 fewer cows as a result, the Conservative leader declared, and New Zealand has 64000 more cows. Our dairy industry was destroyed, and the Dominion depends on New Zealand for her butter supply."

JURY CLEARS DOCTORS OF BLAME FOR BOY'S DEATH IN OPERATION

Mysterious Internal Ailment Baffled Medical Science For Three Centuries.

PECULIAR TO CHILDREN.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Testimony last night at the inquest into the death of Robert Douglas Fenn, 7, who died in a hospital here July 20 while under an anaesthetic showed that it had been administered in the regular way but that the boy was suffering from an undetectable ailment which might cause sudden death to follow the slightest shock. Experts said it was a mysterious internal condition peculiar to children and had baffled science since the 17th century.

The jury, under Coroner Dr. H. W. Burgess, returned a verdict absolving the attending physicians from any blame in connection with the boy's death. They found that his death was caused "from a condition known as status lymphatious, while under an anaesthetic."

Dr. R. C. Coatsworth, the anaesthetist, said he had administered more than 1,000 anaesthetics. He outlined how he had given the boy a small dose of ethyl chloride and then switched to ether. He had examined the patient's heart throughly 10 minutes before. No ether had been given after the first tonsil was removed.

TO WITHDRAW BRITISH ARMY FROM EGYPT

Far-Reaching Reforms For Country On Suez Are Announced In London.

CONCESSIONS MADE.

Protection of Foreigners Recognized As a Matter of the Egyptian Government.

LONDON, August 7 (Canadian Press). — British military occupation of Egypt, except for the Suez Canal zone, is abandoned and other important and far-reaching reforms agreed to in the new Anglo-Egyptian draft treaty, details of which were issued yesterday from Downing Street by the Foreign Office.

The proposals are a great advance on anything hitherto offered as settlement of the Anglo-Egyptian problem, being considered even more favorable than was the draft treaty of 1927, which was rejected by the Egyptian Parliament under the influence of the followers of the Nationalist leader Zaghoul Pasha. The agreement which Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary, has negotiated with the Egyptian Premier, Mohammed Mahmoud Pasha, in a general way follows the lines of the abortive treaty of two years ago but makes important concessions to Egypt.

Withdrawn to Canal Zone.

The British occupation will cease and British troops will be withdrawn to the Suez Canal zone.

The British Government will use its influence to induce other Powers to consent to the abolition of the capitulations, or extra territorial rights, and will assist Egypt to become a member of the League of Nations.

Further, Great Britain recognizes that the protection of foreigners in Egypt is a matter devolving solely upon the Egyptian Government.

The protection of minorities was one of the four "reserved" points by the British Government two years ago, but it is now admitted that this will be exclusively the concern of the Egyptian Government.

No Inspector-General.

The variations from the treaty of 1927 will give Egypt a greater measure of real independence than ever before proposed. Some points not mentioned in the draft proposals are made clear in accompanying explanatory notes.

Thus the British Inspector-General of the Egyptian Army will cease to function completely and all British personnel will be withdrawn from the Egyptian forces.

Similar concessions in other respects are foreshadowed in the notes exchanged. For instance, Egypt retains the right to engage Egyptian officials in various advisory capacities where British officials hitherto were employed.

TONG LEADERS SIGN TREATIES ON ULTIMATUM

Quiet Reigns After U. S. Attorney Sends Out Word, Peace or Pack Up.

FIVE KILLED

Poaching in Commercial Fields Claimed By Each Tong Was Cause.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press). — Peace reigned throughout the United States again to-day between the On Leong and Hip Sing Tongs after three days of warfare in which five Chinese were killed and several wounded.

A new treaty was signed here today by national leaders of the rival Tongs after they had been served with an ultimatum by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle 'to make peace or pack up."

Word of the signing of the treaty was telegraphed to Tong leaders in Chicago, and Boston, where killings had occurred and also to Philadelphia and San Francisco, and other cities having large Chinese settlements.

Before word of the signing of the peace had been sent out and while negotiations were pending another shooting occurred in Chicago where Joe Wai a Hip Sing Tongman was severely wounded.

George J. Mintzer an assistant United States Attorney said that the warfare which broke out in Chicago last Sunday and resulted in the killing of one Chinese there two in Boston one in Newark, N.J., and one here was the result of poaching on commercial territory claimed by each of the rival Tong.

AERIAL POLICE SOON IN FRANCE

Pilots Must Obey Smoke Puff Signals of Police and Follow To Earth.

AIR TRAFFIC HEAVY.

PARIS, Aug. 7 (C.P.)—The air traffic in France has grown to such proportions that it has been considered necessary to organize an aerial police force.

Pilots are warned that they must obey the regulations of air traffic in the same way as motor car drivers are required to obey their rules. In case of a breach of rules a signal will be made to the erring airplane. If no notice is taken of the signal a fast airplane, with a traffic policeman aboard, will be sent in pursuit.

Police airplanes will carry apparatus for emitting puffs of smoke resembling anti-aircraft shells with which to signal traffic planes. With these puffs of smoke the air police will make the offending pilot understand he must follow the police airplane to the nearest landing ground.

Patricia Ann Leason

A sunny little sprite is this plump, rosy-cheeked daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Leason. She's a real Lifebuoy baby — healthy and happy!

"Patricia has never been sick a day in her life

.... and frequent washing of her hands and face with Lifebuoy has been a big factor in keeping her healthy"

"OUR little daughter, Patricia Ann, is two years and five months old and she's never had a sick day in her life, nor even suffering a cold.

"She's so chubby and bright, she just seems to radiate health. The constant use of Lifebuoy soap for her bath and frequent washing of her hands and face with Lifebuoy has been a big factor in keeping her healthy, I believe.

"In fact, I attribute the splendid health of my whole family in large part to our habit of washing with Lifebuoy many times every day and getting rid of germs that we simply can't help getting on our hands.

"Lifebuoy is a marvelous soap for the skin, too, it's so mild. And at the same time, it's so invigorating that my husband calls it his 'pep' soap. We certainly do think Lifebuoy is the best soap ever!"

Guard your family's health!

Mrs. Leason's letter is typical of the way millions of mothers rely upon Lifebuoy to help them keep sickness out of their homes.

Your own family has to wash with some toilet soap anyway. So why not use Lifebuoy? Its gentle, antiseptic lather removes germs with dirt. And because it purifies the pores Lifebuoy is a perfect soap for the complexion.

You'll quickly learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant extra-clean scent, which tells you it purifies and which vanishes as you rinse. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

LONG PANEL IN FRONT OF BLOUSE FEATURES THIS ENSEMBLE.

By Yteb.

This simple frock in beige cloth makes part o an ensemble in beige, and is worn with a straight coat trimmed with summer ermine. The interesting features of this dress which I have created is in the long panel applied to the front of the blouse and extending from the shoulders to a notched line below the waist. The same effect of stitching and of applied pieces is also carried out on the side of the skirt, which has a very slight flare at the bottom. The cuff is treated similarly.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

THE ACCESSORIES which one uses nowadays to complete one's wardrobe are so numerous that it would almost be impossible to name them, but one which I think is most useful to all of us is the coat-hanger.

* * * * * * *

All the possibilities which are found in coat hangers as utility accessories of the wardrobe are beginning to be found out; these are no longer used solely for holding garments in proper shapes.

* * * * * * *

They are used to conserve space in closets, serve as travellers' aids in supplying covers and bags to keep articles from contacting others in suit cases and trunks, and later couple such purposes with that of coat hanger when luggage is unpacked.

* * * * * * *

They enter in the field of laundry accessories also; and they can be used to keep rainy day outfits assembled.

* * * * * * *

It surely is hard to find something in which the coat hanger cannot be of use during vacation time as well as at home.

* * * * * * *

There are those that can be adapted to dual or triple uses—those having a bar connecting the two ends. Sometimes the hangers and bars are of wood, sometimes of metal.

* * * * * * *

Then there are hundreds of ways in which the hanger can be fashioned to be of even greater use. One ingenious method of supplying additional utility is to make an envelope bag of cloth and secure it to the rod. The bag can be any desired length, although eighteen to twent four inches is usually favored. The width of course suits that of the hanger rod. The bag is duplex; one part is as large as the above measurements and has a flap that falls well over the opening.

* * * * * * *

Another portion consists of two pockets. It is seamed to the lower edge of the larger bag, and along the sides as well as down the lengthwise centre. It looks something like a shoe bag; in fact it can be used for a shoe bag if desired although it is better suited to holding flat articles.

* * * * * * *

Such a bag as the one described above, is marvellous in its useful capacity. A dainty frock can be folded and tucked into the large envelope bag portion and be kept immaculate when packed. Then it can be taken out and put on the hanger at the end of the journey—and the bag can become a laundry container.

* * * * * * *

Use for the other pockets is not hard to find—they can hold lingerie, neckwear, handkerchiefs, scarfs, etc., while travelling, and then at the end of the journey the garment hanger can hold a negligee, the large bag the nightgown and bed jacket, while the boudoir slippers can be slipped into the open pockets.

* * * * * * *

But, of course, these are merely suggestions since each person can use the fitted hangers as suits her best.

* * * * * * *

Often while on vacation it is difficut to get laundry done—but while the bigger things can wait, it sometimes becomes necessary that one has stockings laundered—that's just where the hangers come into use once again.

* * * * * * *

To the hanger string clamp paper clips on ribbon or taps and fastening the ribbon at intervals to the covered hanger. After the stockings are washed they are held in the clamps to dry. In this way several pairs can be washed at night—the hanger with hosiery suspended as described can be put in a draught from some open window, and in the morning the wash will be dry.

* * * * * * *

There are, too, I have noticed, women who like to have their hosiery aired after taken off, and if the hanger is thus used, they can be suspended from the clamps at night, or whenever taken off.

* * * * * * *

I have been in homes as a guest, when many grown-ups, as well as children, have a merry hunt for all their rainy day outfits—there is another use right there.

* * * * * * *

A coat hanger which is used for a macintosh or raincoat can have a rubberized bag suspended from the rod for the rubbers, and there will be no difficulty in finding the entire outfit when it is needed.

* * * * * * *

For Christmas—one can hardly realize it will not be many months before it is upon us—coat hangers can be covered so daintily that they are exquisite accessories suitable for gifts. A silk envelope bag accompanying the hanger, makes it even more attractive and something more unique.

* * * * * * *

While some bags may be of silk, others made of chintz or of plain colors may be used for vacation with less danger of destroying the pretty ones more suitable for home use.

* * * * * * *

If you haven't gone on your vacation yet, make one of these bags and you will be surprised what a comfort they will be to one while away from all the conveniences of the home.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

DON'T SCRATCH.

Mosquito bites itch. When a child itches he scratches. When he scratches he irritates the skin, breaks it, and sometimes, frequently indeed, infects himself. Better not scratch.

When a child is bitten, teach him to let the thing alone. Teach him to say to himself "I'd better forget it. If I forget it and try to repeat the truth, a mosquito bite is nothing, it cannot harm me if I allow it to be nothing. It will fade away."

It is truly wonderful what control children will develop in this matter. Once they get the idea that scratching and digging the bites is what makes most of the trouble, they soon lose all fear of them, forget them, and the bites do fade away.

But if the child begins hoping about slapping his legs and arms, calling out, Ouch another one bit me. I'm all eaten up. Aren't they awful? Gee, I can't stay here, etc., etc., the bites will worry him into a fever.

I have seen boys and girls form the habit of not noticing bites until they truly did not affect them. The children brushed the mosquitos off and ignored them and the creatures chosed to be important. And I have seen children in the same group work themselves and their elder into a frenzy about the mean little insect.

Provide a solution of bi-carbonate and teach the children who are trouble with the itching to go to the place where this solution is kept and bathe the spot without saying anything about it. Pat it with the cooling lotion and think of something pleasant.

All windows and doors should be screened against the pests. The camps where the children stay in the summer ought to be screened. It is not right to permit children to be tormented by mosquitos while they vainly endeavor to sleep. They will get enough training in self-control by winning mastery over the unavoidable bites. There is no need of any extra allowance.

Teach the children that it is better not to speak of the matter. Nobody is to go about proclaiming their sufferings. Mosquitos bite the just and the unjust and the soul who is suffering in silence resents with a deep resentment the one who makes loud outcry about his few inconveniences.

Nobody likes to listen to fussing mosquito-scratchers. They have no friends. No scratching, no discussion, nothing but silence, a patting with the bi-carbonate solution if necessary is demanded. No use magnifying the little things that make life miserable. Avoid them. Guard against them. Meet them in silence and deny their power to annoy you.

If you can teach a child that attitude, a mosquito bite can be a highly useful experience. I can think of no other excuse for their being and we can manage without that if the swamps are drained as they ought to be.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WITHSTANDING THE HEAT.

When the weather is hot and you are endeavoring in every way to keep cool you naturally think about food. You know that the whole source of heat in the body is the food you eat, and you perhaps wonder if there is anything you can do about your diet that will give you strength and yet lesson the amount of heat created in the body.

In fact the heat may so effect you that you are not interested in food, have no appetite.

It is just at this point that you make a mistake. You eat and drink "cold" combinations that are not the usual kinds of food you eat, and you find your stomach upset, and perhaps, pain and tenderness in the intestine, followed by diarrhoea.

If this persists for two or three days you feel very miserable, and the hot weather then has you feeling weak and languid.

Sometimes these unusual combinations of food will cause the hives, or burning of the skin which is so itchy and irritable that you are unable to sleep. And loss of sleep further prevents you from withstanding the heat to any extent.

You will be greatly tempted to drink much water.

Don't be afraid to drink, even to drink often but just take a small amount at a time.

Often so much water is taken at one time that the stomach is distended and drops downward so that the food material has a hard time climbing up to get out of the stomach into intestine.

This delay in emptying often means that another meal, or more food, is taken into the stomach before it has emptied the previous meal into the small intestine.

This means discomfort, pain, and loss of appetite.

The thought then is that during the hot weather that the usual articles of food be eaten cutting down somewhat on all foods and particularly on fats and pastry. Water or liquids to be taken only in small quantities.

The meals should be kept well apart, so that you will be hungry, you have a natural appetite and eat the usual articles of food instead of being tempted to eat combinations of unusual foods that may upset your digestion, and cause you to be in poor shape to withstand the heat.

"WHEN I SAW SWEET NELLY HOME"

In the sky the bright stars glittered,
On the grass the moonlight fell,
Hush'd the sound of daylight bustle,
Closed the pink-eyed pimpernell;
As adown the moss-grown wood path,
Where the cattle love to roam,
From an August evening party,
I was seeing Nelly rome.

Chorus—
In the sky the bright starts glittered,
On the grass the moonlight shone,
From an August evening party
I was seeing Nelly home.

When the Autumn tinged the greenwood,
Turning all its leaves to gold,
In the lawn by elders shaded
I my love to Nelly told;
As we stood together gazing
On the star-bespangled dome,
How I blessed the August evening
When I saw sweet Nelly home.

White hairs mingled with my tresses,
Furrows steal upon my brow,
But a love smile cheers and blesses
Life's declining moments now;
Matron in the snowy kerchief
Closer to my bosom come,
Tell me, dost thou still remember
When I saw sweet Nelly home?

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 7, 1929

HON. J. R. COOKE'S SPEECH.

For thirteen years Belleville has been the headquarters of the Hydro-Electric administration of the Central Ontario power system. The executive officers are there, and the engineers and numerous other employees have their homes there.

Of all the municipalities in the Central Ontario system surely Belleville and its people should be best acquainted with the operation and the advantages of this branch of Ontario's Hydro-Electric service. Up to the present, however, Belleville has been either indifferent to the merits of the Hydro idea or unimpressed and unmoved by them. For, thirteen years have passed since the Central Ontario system was acquired by the Ontario Government, and Belleville remains a virtual outsider. It has so far declined to buy from the Provincial Government the local transmission lines and plant, as Peterborough did in its hurry about thirteen years ago.

So, Belleville must be brought into the Central Ontario camp, and as the ratepayers are about to vote in a few days on their belated purchase, the Hon. J. R. Cooke, Cabinet Minister and member of the Hydro-Electric Commission, in his speech in Belleville Friday night, window-dressed the Central Ontario system with all the art of persuasion of which he is capable.

The reports of Hon. Mr. Cooke's address show that he made no rash statements, although the gentlemen who write the headings in several of the larger newspaper offices apparently fancied that Hon. Mr. Cooke was announcing the "cutting of a melon" of which the Central Ontario cities had not previously heard.

To Peterborough's taste the Hydro scheme is even more citric than it was thirteen years ago. That period has given us all plenty of time to savor the fruit we grabbed for then, and its tartness suggests nothing of the honeyed delights of the melon. For that we have no one to blame but ourselves. We could have bought local power resources for our own use, and applied to the Hydro for any additional power we needed.

We decided otherwise, and so infatuated was Peterborough by the Hydro scheme that as the key city of the district we were first to climb aboard the Hydro band waggon. Oshawa and Lindsay have joined us recently. Belleville will likely be with us in a week or so. And for our loyal co-operation with the Hydro-Electric Commission we have received nothing that even faintly resembles a "melon."

This district did demand for a time that the Ontario Government should squeeze out of the cost of power some of the worthless utilities that were raked up with the Central Ontario purchase. That was a fair request.

Why should the power rate to a Peterborough industry or householder include the cost of utilities and industries that were so unprofitable they had to be scrapped by the Hydro-Electric Commission? And they have not all been unloaded yet.

That wasn't much of a "melon" to ask for; nothing like the $15,000,000 mentioned in Saturday's headlines. But it would be unexpected and fairly substantial. It would at least look like a "melon."

Hon. Mr. Cooke has often heard the rumbles of discontent from Central Ontario, especially from Oshawa, when the question was bluntly asked why these municipalities should have to pay in their power charges for a cement plant, various gas works, a pulp mill, street railway, and so on. The Hydro Commission has certainly made some progress in gradually getting rid of much of this "junk," but why shouldn't the Government and not this district absorb the loss?

Central Ontario conventions used to insist upon this demand, but they failed to budge the Hydro-Electric Commission, and seem now to realize that their petition has no chance in the Hydro court of equity.

Premier Ferguson himself accomplished the Central Ontario power purchase. Since then he has seen the district expand, and the Province as a whole share in the fruits of that expansion. Why, then, should not the Government wipe off the losses involved in the original $8,300,000 purchase?

The comment that Hon. Mr. Cooke made no rash statement in his Belleville speech is simply in line with promises which have been made to the Central Ontario municipalities at conventions of their representatives. It assumes that in the latest declaration to that effect the Hon. Mr. Cooke, as member of the Hydro-Electric Commission, is more accurately informed of the plans of the Government and the Commission than is Mr. F. A. Gaby, the Commission's chief engineer, who asserted in an interview on Saturday that Hon. Mr. Cooke's statement was "all wrong."

Mr. Gaby is reported as having said that the Commission is urging the Central Ontario municipalities to buy their local distribution plants from the Government, paying approximately $2,000,000 collectively for these plants.

But the Central Ontario towns have been assured in the past, and now by the Hon. Mr. Cooke, that when all the local distribution plants have been acquired by the respective municipalities, these municipalities jointly will be the owners of the entire Central Ontario system.

Mr. Gaby seems to be presuming considerably upon his position as engineering adviser to the Commission when he publicly contradicts the deliberate statement of the Hon. J. R. Cooke, who as a member of the Hydro-Electric Commission and also a Cabinet Minister, must know the mind of the Commission and also of the Ontario Government.

PREMIER COMING TO LINDSAY.

When Premier Ferguson visits Lindsay on Friday, where the Conservatives are holding a picnic at the Fair Grounds, it is unlikely that his expected allusion to the rumors of an early provincial election will be in a more serious vein than his humorous evasion of the subject in his speech at Jackson Point on Monday.

On the holiday, Hon. Mr. Ferguson said that the question of a possible election had not even been discussed by him or his Cabinet colleagues. "However, I can promise you," he added, "that if any big issue arises, an issue requiring the voice of the people, we will not hesitate to go before the electors."

Well, the Province is not at present perturbed by anything that faintly resembles a political crisis. So that's that. Of course, Hon. Mr. Ferguson may consider that he has sufficiently replied to the rumors of an election in his statement that the Cabinet has not yet discussed it. But he has not positively denied the intimations in the Conservative press of Toronto that the Premier intends to consult the electorate in the autumn. And a major issue serious enough to crystallize Hon. Mr. Ferguson's doubts and hesitation may arise before Friday.

"ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT."

Many a Canadian soldier undoubtedly possessed the qualifications of literary talent and experience in trench warfare to have written such a book as "All Quiet on the Western Front," the narrative of a young German, Erich Maria Remarque, who was called to the colors of his Fatherland at the age of eighteen.

None of them, however, attempted it, probably for reasons which only the ex-service men understand. And they thereby passed up the fortune which has amazed the German author as much as the phenomenal sale of the book has astonished publishers in the United States, England, France and Germany who had believed that public interest in "war stories" was dead. It has been for months a best seller in many languages, with a score or more of editions mounting to the million mark and probably now exceeding it.

This book has been described as the story of the universal soldier in the war of 1914-18, the epic of the infantryman of the English and French armies as well as of their enemy in the opposite German ranks. One review referred to it as "so dreadful that it ought to be read by every man and woman who is doubtful about the need of preventing the next war."

For the civilian it lifts the traditional veil of martial glory and exposes the ghastly horrors of the trenches, relieved only by the comradeship of the men whom the grim business bound together. And it casts a revealing light upon the silence of the men who survived the carnage, and who must have smiled among themselves at the absent chapters in Sir Phillip Gibbs' "Now It Can Be Told," and other timely but pretentious volumes that excited public interest "when the boys came home."

From the standpoint of the commercial success of Remarque's book its appearance is particularly opportune by reason of the heightened effect of the contrast which the intervening years have somewhat clarified—the world of suffering and death and utter destruction on the one hand, and on the other an increasing sense of the futility of it all as the satisfactions of victory tend to fade out of the common memory and some of the hopes such as "the war to end war" and "making the world safe for democracy" seem to have entirely escaped the hands that bled for these ideals. For peace to-day is precarious and democracy on more than one sector is actually on the defensive.

The following is a paragraph that illustrates the realism of the ironic "All Quiet on the Western Front":

"Haie Westhus drags off with a great wound in his back through which the lung pulses at every breath. I can only press his hand.

The sun goes down, night comes, the shells whine, life is at an end.

"'It's all up, Paul,' he groans and bites his arm because of the pain.

"We see men living with their skulls blown open; we see soldiers run with their two feet cut off, they stagger on their splintered stumps into the next shell-hole; a lance-corporal crawls a mile and half on his hands dragging his smashed knee after him; another goes to the dressing-station and over his clasped hands bulge his intestines; we see men without mouths, without jaws, without faces; we find one man who has held the artery of his arm in his teeth for two hours in order not to bleed to death."

PETERBOROUGH COUNTY'S HARVEST.

While the value of Canada's grain crop has yet to be appraised in a market that presents many factors of underlying strength, the local prospect is generally satisfactory throughout Central Ontario and especially in our own Peterborough County.

Alderman D. J. Holland, through his connection with the Peterborough Cereal Company, summed up the results of this year's crops hereabout with the remark that our farmers would be able to pay their way. And Ald. Holland is usually conservative in his estimates. The hay crop, he says, has been above the average, fall wheat will return a good average yield, the harvest of oats is light, and barley only fair.

On the whole this summary is quite encouraging in view of the promise of favorable prices. It recalls a remark once made by Reeve Morley Smithson, of Otonabee, that the industrious farmer of Ontario may never become rich, but he will at least attain a fair measure of independence. And incidentally he is not harrassed by the uncertainties of the weather which carry the Western farmer close to "easy street" in one season and perhaps thrust him back upon his credit in the bank during the next season or two.

Peterborough farmers may have their worries, some of which they seem at times to magnify, but they are definitely progressing, and many of them have reached secure prosperity. Their labor is a large asset to this community, and their increasing interest in this city is an agreeable and encouraging sign.

The returns to local agriculture this season are another evidence of the fertility of the district, and renew our conviction that few sections of this Dominion compare with Peterborough as a desirable place to live and work.

What To-day Means To You.

AUGUST 7th "LEO".

If August 7th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 6 p.m. to 7.15 p.m., and from 11 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are rom 6 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The signs indicate that an unsettled atmosphere will prevail on this date, and that there will be an unusual amount of travel taken. Plans may be begun for a voyage of considerable distance, which, if taken, will bring some unexpected good fortune to you.

The child born on this August 7th will have a kind and equitable disposition. It will be patient and long-suffering, and care should be taken that it is not imposed upon by the thoughtless and selfish. It will be passionately fond of flowers, and a sincere nature lover.

If a woman, you possess all the "hauteur" and all the poise that one could expect from a queen. Your caustic wit and fighting nature, however, make for you more enemies than your natural charm dissolves. Your personality is dynamic and magnetic, but it is lacking in sweetness and warmth. You know how to put people in their place, but you exercise this accomplishment too much for your own popularity. You have a brilliant mind, and you love to exploit your knowledge and cleverness. You do not need to depend upon "headlines" for your remarks. You can discuss books, literature and problems in philosophy with no degree of embarrassment. Intellectually, you are a boon companion. Emotionally, you are a "wash-out". You will be drawn into marriage by position or wealth, instead of a passinoate love.

If a man, you also have considerable self-confidence and self-possession, but you are less vain, and more human. You use your talents to advantage, but not for deliberate exploitation. Your extraordinariness consists in your successful ordinariness, and in the unobtrusive skill with which you accomplish the usual. Life is an adventure to you, and you are able to conquer those doubts and difficulties which depress others, and to carry through your work cleanly, gayly and successfully.

A Thought

RESPONSIVENESS

There is one quality which, if we could be well liked by those about us, is the most winsome of all that can be named, and that is responsiveness. . . . It is not what we say, but what others desire to say to us, that interests them most. . . . It takes quick perception and real kindness of heart to be responsive. Some of the most gifted and cultivated men and women that we meet have not this quality, they are too much absorbed in their own thoughts, or else in self-reflected acts of admiration, but nothing will atone for a plain face, or an ill-furnished mind like the power to pay to those we meet, the choice compliment of a continuously interested attention.

CAN'T HURT HIS HEAD

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 7 — An old saying is that you cant hurt a colored person by hitting him in the head. A recent instance of this is shown in the following dispatch: "Robert Lee, Negro, is being held for assault to murder. He is charged with having shot another negro in the mouth last night. The negro was not seriously injured. The bullet went through his teeth and came out his jaw.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 10.

"Hugh," she said, resolutely changing the subject, or, rather, reverting to a former one, "do you remember telling me that you'd like to build a whole Spanish village some time? I don't mean just detached Spanish houses, but a monastery and a church and a castle, and masses of quarters, all grouped together on a hillside—"

"I don't remember saying that I thought I could do it," he amended, as she paused. "But I think I said that it seemed to me surprising that nobody else does it—that one of those Western architects doesn't design the thing on a grand scale. Roofs, you know," continued Hugh, warming to the subject as he went along—"roofs all massed together, on a hillside, above the sea, jagged little streets, eucalyptus trees: they grow like weeds—"

"Would it be horribly expensive, Hugh?"

"Oh, yes, it would be expensive. None of this five hundred down and sixty-seven-fifty a month!" he said, with his pleasant smile.

"I was wondering how a college like that would be, Hugh?"

"A college, eh?" he asked, not following her.

"Well, yes, Like the Kreutzmann Memorial?"

"Oh, I see!" he said, widening his eyes as he looked at her, and returning his gaze to the fire. "I see—" he said musingly, fitting his finger tips together in a fashion that always indicated he was really thinking.

"What about your auditoriums and assembly-rooms, Bee?" he asked presently. Beatrice roused herself from the idle turning of magazine pages nad laughed, and frowned in a business-like manner as she concentrated.

"Oh, well. Oh, well—you'd have them like old village churches and bi Spanish barns, and all that," she explained hopefully, timidly, after a moment's thought. "It isn't to be a very large college, is it, Hugh?"

"No, as it happens it's going to be a definitely restricted small college," he said.

"Well, then—" she offered, with an eloquent shrug.

Hugh's finger tips were together again; he was still considering it.

"It would be a freak experiment—" he mused aloud.

"But fun!" Beatrice urged.

"Oh, yes, fun. It would be lots of fun!" Hugh agreed.

"Could you do it in the office, Hugh?"

"No." He had evidently thought of that already. "No, I'd do it here. I'd take that take and keep the sketches—" His eyes traversed the room; Beatrice's bright green-gray eyes followed their course.

"You mean work on it here, evenings?" she asked.

"If you don't mind."

"Oh, mind! Oh, I'd love it. I'd help you," she said boldly.

"You help me? No, I'd be helping you. I'd be working out your suggestion, remember."

"Hugh Challoner! You were the one—months ago—?? Beatrice began accusingly. But the delighted color was scarlet on white cheeks, and her eyes shone.

"No, I thought of a village. I never should have remembered it again or dreamed of applying it to this. If we did this, Bee," Hugh went on, with a most unusual animated in his dark, handsome face—" if we did this, dear, I'd insist upon your having your share of it. 'Plans by Beatrice and Houston Challoner, of the firm of Challoner, Fairfax & Flint, North Underhill'—that's the way it would read!"

"Oh, Hugh, no! I don't know one thing about drains and cross-sections, of rear elevations and all the rest of it! I don't know even how doors ought to swing, on those little dotted fans you make!" she protested radiantly.

"You don't have to. It's ideas—ideas that count. How to manage doorways and steps, and how many rooms to put into dormitories—all that," he said.

"And where to put little Della Robbia Madonnas, Hugh, and red tiles and balconies!" Beatrice chanted exultantly.

"Well, exactly."

"Oh, Hugh, but oughtn't you have someone better—like Joe Fint?"

"Let Joe Flint make his own try, if he wants to."

He came over to her couch and knelt down and locked his arms about her slim waist, in the thin, white, fluffed dressing gown.

"Do you know how I love you, Bee?"

"I hope you do," she answered, smiling at close range and smoothing one of his eyebrows with a cool finger.

"No, but, my dear—I'm so stupid; I'm so old and stiff and silent for my lovely, lovely girl! Do you know how happy you make me? Do you know that never in my life have I been so happy?"

"Oh, I hope so, Hugh."

"What can I do to make you happier, Bee?" he asked suddenly. "'Its such a quiet life for a girl your age; my friends are almost all older persons. What do you miss—what would you like—?"

"Well, I miss having to put quarters into the gas meter," she said whimsically, as he hesitated, looking at her with anxious eyes. "And, of course, I miss dishwashing. I miss going to the butcher for three chops, and finding that lamb has gone up, and standing there, with my old shoes wet and my back aching from the office, and seventy-two cents in my purse, and wondering if Mummy and Marsh would stand for chopped meat again, or whether kidneys—or—liver—"

"Then you are happier, Bee?" the man asked wistfully, when her half-grave, half-teasing voice stopped, and she laid her cheek affectionately against his.

"Well, Hugh, use your senses! Mummy and Marcia growing absolutely gross at that LaCrescenta place, wherever it is, and myself simply lapped in luxury—here. Everyone lovely to me, millions in the bank for me to draw checks against—"

"Only you don't draw them, Bee."

"Well, give me time, mister. Cars and servants and position and clothes—"

"And me, dear," he reminded her, as she paused, staring into space.

"You, of course, the beginning and end of everything."

"Then you do love me, Bee?"

"Hugh, don't you know it?"

"I suppose I do. But it always seems so astonishing!"

"After all you have done—all you do, for me?"

"But that"—he said, looking up to shake his head slowly—"that wouldn't make you love me."

"Wouldn't! Why, Hugh, what would I be made of not to love you?"

"Perhaps somebody younger, nearer your own age—" he began, with uncertainty, watching her.

"Oh, what utter nonsense!" Beatrice commented easily. There was no constraint, no self-consciousness in her clear laugh. "What more could I have, in this world, than I have?" she demanded.

"Your baby, perhaps," he said quickly, in a low voice. "If only I could have saved her for you! You seem such a little girl yourself, to have to face that!"

Her face whitened suddenly, and the gray shadows deepened in her eyes, but she did not move her steady gaze from his.

"You've taken it so magnificently, Bee!" the man muttered.

"Hugh, can you imagine my distressing you about it? Can you imagine my making a fuss?" she asked quickly. "Isn't it enough that you do all you can,much more than you need-t-o make me happy? Some day that sorrow—that little, little sorrow that was just yours and mine—" Her voice thickened, and she stopped speaking, her eyes suffused and her trembling lips pressed firmly together.

"Bee, if I could help you!"

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

The Campbellford band is not only to be congratulated for their work during Old Home Week, but also to be publicly thanked. It must be remembered that the bandsmen began the week with the memorial and decoration service Sunday afternoon. They got a thorough soaking that time. There was a band concert that night. Tuesday afternoon they turned out in uniform and were in the parade. They were there again Friday and at the fight that night. During the rest of the week they appeared as a clown band, and kept the town lively morning, afternoon and night. Even on Friday night, or maybe it was Saturday morning early, they led the nightshirt parade. Another little duty they attended to was the street dancing Monday night.

All week the councillors and others have been hard at work putting Old Home Week over the top. It was only natural last night that after the Council meeting they should stroll up to the midway and try their skill at the various games. Cupie dolls were the centre of attraction, but none of the city fathers won one.

COUNCIL MEETS.

Routine Business Transacted At Meeting of Dummer Council.

The Municipal Council of the Township of Dummer met in the Town Hall, Warsaw, on Friday, August 2. Members present were Reeve James R. Hawthorne, Councillors Ernest Baptie, John Drain, Ernest McDonald, and Richard Tedford.

A resolution was passed amending By-law 981, in order to increase the appropriation made for road expenditure. Pay list voucher No. 32, showing an expenditure of $1,789.16 for roads, was accepted and signed by the Reeve.

A by-law to prohibit certain animals from being at large upon the public roads within the boundaries of the township was read and passed. The provisions of the by-law are to prohibit all cattle, horses, sheep, and pigs from being at large, and any such animals found at large may be placed in a pound, and the same to be dealt with accordingly as specified by the regulations of the pound by-law, the said by-law to be in effect from this date.

Council adjourned to meet on September 6.

Skunks Most Numerous In Stoney Lake District

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 7.—Summer resident of Stoney Lake report that skunks are extraordinarily tame this year. There has never been a scarcity of skunks about Stoney Lake, but they have never evinced such tameness as this season. Several cottagers of late have gone out to investigate the origin of the characteristic odours to discover that the stripped four-footed visitor was rummaging in the garbage containers at the back. One claims that a skunk spent the night under his cottage, while some campers state the belief that the other night in their absence one of the scented kittens entered their tent and spent the night, rendering it inhabitable for some time.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Amulet is again the center of attention with the drills rapidly approaching the points were ore is expected to be found. Despatches state that the drill to the west of the prevous successful holes (No. 221 most likely) was somewhat delayed in the last few hours owing to water trouble similar to that experienced in the last hole. The formation appears very similar to that of that last and it is anow believed that ore will be encountered this afternoon.

Shareholders of the Kirkland Premier Mines, Limited have been notified by the directors that the deal with the Tangier Mining Company, Limited has been cancelled by mutual consent of both companies. Norman Fisher, consulting engineer of the Kirkland Premier, recently visited the property and has mapped out a program of work on the 1,050-foot level. Eight weeks development is expected to reach the objective—a body of commercial ore, nine feet in width. This work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

Arno has again come in for attention on the Standard Exchange. Interest centers around the company's Coxheath property in Nova Scotia where old reports indicate important possibilities. No news regarding the latest activity is available. Andrew Walz, M. E., consulting engineer for the property is out of town at present. Head office is in Ottawa and any information will have to come from that center.

Boston Creek reports are to the effect that good results are being obtained at the 1,500-foot level of the Barry-Hollinger. The ore shoot is now reported to be over 135 feet long of good grade and wider than the usual run of the mine's ore.

Associated Securities, Limited, of Moose Jaw, a promoting and exploration company on a large scale, has obsorbed several Saskatchewan companies, and has approximately 100,000 acres of petroleum and natural gas leases, situated in Saskatchewan and Alberta, it is announced. Details of the organization were outlined by W. R. Bennett, president of the company. The company has holdings in the Readlyn Valley, the Blood Indian Reserve, the Duncan structure, the Riverhurst structure, the Kenaston structure, the Riverhurst structure, the Kenaston structure and the Turner Valley. In addition the company has holdings comprising 160 acres in the Wainright field, 80 acres in the Mannon, Sask. field, 640 acres in the Herschel, Sask. field and 80 acres in the Ribstone field.

No further news regarding Newbec development has been heard. The company is still drifting along the contact of the diabase at the 250-foot level. Results are expected shortly as the company was in good mineralization at last word.

MARKET GAINS UNDER LEAD OF STEEL ISSUES

Drop in Call Money Rate Accounts For Rally At New York.

NEW RECORDS SET.

Heavy Liquidation of Utilities During Early Morning Session.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 7. — The stock market rallied briskly under the leadership of the steels to-day, when call money dropped from a renewal rate of 10 to 8 per cent. The upturn, however, was not until after further liquidation of the utilities. The market turned dull on the decline, but activity picked up rapidly when the list started upward.

Speculative confidence in the market was restored by private London cables, indicating that no change would be made in the Bank of England discount rate tomorrow, by the cessation of selling pressure against some of the public utility stocks, and by the announcement that freight car loadings in the week ended July 27 had set a new high record for the season.

U. S. Steel Common regained its old role as the market leader by moving up 5 points to a new high record at 216½. Crucible advanced 4½ points to a new peak at 109, and gains of a point or two were registered by some of the other so-called independent steels.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 7 (Canadian Press). — Foreign exchange steady; demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Great Britain 4.84 9-16; France, 3.91 1-16; Italy, 5.22½; Germany, 23.81; Canadian dollars, ⅛ of 1 per cent. discount.

TORONTO LIST REMAINS FIRM

Trading Quiet Without Any Definite Trends During Morning Session.

WHEAT GROUP IRREGULAR.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange during the morning session was quiet without any definite trends. There were a few isolated strong spots.

British Columbia Power "A" made a strong showing with an advance of 5¼ to 50¼. Brazilian failed to continue yesterday's advance, declining slightly to 67 3-8, while Bell Telephone was steady at 180. International Nickel was active to gain fractionally at 51½, and Ford of Canada was also slightly stronger at 45¾. Canada Gypsum was up ½ to 118 and Page Hersey receded the same fraction to 138½. Famous players added a point at 64 on low demand.

The wheat group reflected the general irregularity. Canadian Pacific at 227 regained 1 to the 4 points lost yesterday, while Massey-Harris was off fractionally at 55½. Cockshutt Plow dropped ⅛ to 33½, and Great West Saddlery was firm at 15. A two-point rise to 42 was registered in Alberta Pacific Grain.

Imperial was active among the oils with a slight advance to 29½.

WHEAT SCORES EARLY ADVANCE

Higher Liverpool Quotations Influences Rise On Chicago Market.

CORN AND OATS STRONGER.

CHICAGO, Ills., August 7. (C.P.)—Wheat scored sharp early advances in price here to-day. A leading influence was that the Liverpool quotations failed to reflect in full yesterday's big break in values on this side of the Atlantic. There were also indications of overnight export business in wheat from the United States.

Opening 3-8c to 3 and 5-8c higher, Chicago wheat afterward continued to point upward. Corn and oats were alo stronger, with corn starting at 3-4c to 2 3-8c gain, and subsequently reacting somewhat. Provisions kept steady.

THREE CHARGES FOR ABDUCTORS

Three Youths Carry Young Wife Screaming Down Highway.

ROUSES FARMERS.

CHATHAM, August 7. (C.P.) — On blanket charges alleging abduction, intoxication in a public place, and having liquor in an unauthorized place, Eugene Demars, Ernest Renaud and Alvin Langlois, Windsor young men, were arraigned before Magistrate S. B. Arnold in the county police court to-day. They were not asked to plead, the case being enlarged until to-morrow. Meanwhile the Crown expects to lay specific charges.

The arrest of the trio followed complaints that on Sunday they attempted to drive Mrs. Kennard Clark, 19, to Windsor, against her will.

The screams of the woman as she was being driven along the highway attracted the attention of farmers who notified the police. The party was stopped near Wheatley, Ont., by Constable Dawson. The three men managed to escape but were later apprehended.

Relatives Seek Police Aid in Finding Missing Youth.

PLANE ON SCENE.

TIMAGAMI, Ont., August 7. (C.P.) —The provincial police have promised additional aid in the search for Peter D. Mack, the missing New York bond house employee, and brother in law of Maurice E. Young, a Toronto broker. Though most residents here think that Mack met with an accident in the canoe which was found last Tuesday after his disappearance, his relatives have communicated their suspicions of foul play to the police.

Provincial Constable Consodine is already on the case and Pilot Dingwall of the National Air Transport, has been engaged in the search since yesterday.

Power Interests Gain On Montreal Stock Curb

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 7 (C.P.).—Sweeping advances in power issues on the Montreal Stock Exchange this morning with a sensational 11-point rise in Shawinigan and the continued strength in Montreal Power is taken by many local financial men as confirmation of the theory that some arrangement with the Beauharnois interests so far as these two issues are concerned, is pending. Quebec Power which is also closely allied with Shawinigan reflected this opinion also by advancing six points to 95. The advance in Shawinigan to 105' is the highest the stock has gone since May, 1928.

The Nash Simington and Moose Grocery are retaining their wholesale fruit business but will discontinue their grocery business at both points.

While Western Grocers have for many years had a branch at Moose Jaw the entry of the firm into Calgary is a new venture prompted, it is said, mainly by the rapid development of Red and White Chain Grocery Stores, which the Western Grocers are sponsoring throughout the West, and of which there are now approximately 500.

Power Corporation's Activity Due Partly to Good Business of Subsidiaries

Power Corporation of Canada continues to reap the benefits of the various acquisitions of utilities it made and the wide range of utility and other classes of investments it purchased during the past four years. When the company was formed in 1925, on the eve of the beginning of the great financial, business and industrial recovery, which has since graduated into an era of unprecedented prosperity, Power Corporation made many of its comprehensive investments and secured stock ownership of utilities at relatively low prices. The result has been that the equities behind its securities have grown amazingly. Both subsidiaries and companies in which it holds large interests, have increased their earning-power substantially and consistently. Interest and dividend revenues have mounted, while market values of securities held have multiplied.

Boston Interests Form Investment Trust

The methods and data of this organization, which cover the leading companies of this country, particularly the common stocks, will be at the service of the General Capital Corporation.

Acme Gas and Oil Company's Issue Oversubscribed

It is understood that the offering of 100,000 shares of The Acme Gas and Oil Company, issued at 50 cents a share have been oversubscribed. The properties of the company consist of 240 acres in Dover Township, 1,000 acres in Colchester Township, about 1,000 acres in Norfolk County and 400 acres near Thamesville, all of which appears to be amongst the most promising structures of the southwest field. The company, according to E. P. Rowe, vice president of Acme Gas and Oil Company and managing-director of Ajax Gas and Oil Company, contemplates drilling its first well on the property lying between the large producing well of the Union Natiural Gas Company on the west and the famous No. 4 well of Ajax on the east. The contract for the sale of gas when produced on the property has been negotiated for by the Union Natural Gas Company.

JUNIOR FARMERS MAKING PROGRESS

Better Agriculture is Outcome of Young Men's and Women's Associations.

The Junior Farmers' Association and Junior Women's Institutes are the outgrowth of courses in agriculture formed to hold the classes together and keep up interest of the young men and women in the community in better agriculture, to help themselves, and to better their community.

The reports from the local agriculture office shows a wonderful growth since it was first organized in 1914 wher it was started practically from nothing until now it has attained a membership of 4,112, with 171 branches.

In eleven counties, country organizations have been formed and are playing an important part in encouraging the planning and carrying on of a balanced program in their respective branches.

That their program is many fold and broad in aspect is attested by the following list of their activities: Leader projects, stock and seed judging competitions, plowing competitions, public speaking contests, debating leagues, musical festivals, dramatic contests, profit competitions, community projects, athletic contests and field days, social activities, educational tours and excursions, educational exhibits at fall fair, and experimental and demonstration work.

Meets Distributed.

For the past few years the junior farmer conferences have been held in certain parts of Ontario in order that they might discuss their problems and benefit from an interchange of experience.

The constructive programs carried out by these organizations are very effective from a community standpoint and have been very influential in developing leadership among the members of the association.

A movement of great significance to the junior farmers was the inaugurating of a special trip offered to 500 farm boys to the Royal Winter Fair. These boys were selected by county or district judging competitions. Nothing has so stimulated interest in the junior farmer movement as has this Royal party, and it has received the unstinted approval of the rural people themselves.

Much the Same.

The activity of the Junior Institutes are closely related to those of the Junior Farmer Association. The aims as described by Ethel M. Chapman, formerly assistant superintendent of the Women's Institute, are: "To develop the girl personally; to contribute to a happy and satisfying life in the country, and to turn her influence to the good and betterment of home life in the country generally." Both of these organizations are most successful when they work in co-operation. There are eighty-eight of the Junior Institutes, with an approximate membership of 2,000.

TRENT RIVER UNITED CHURCH.

Rev. W. R. Archer addressed the usual afternoon service at the United Church Sunday, taking his text from John 3:8, "Ye must be born again." The minister especially alluded to things out of date being superceded by things up to date. The up to date highway is simply wonderful. We are living in what is called a fast age. The world is born again with many changes. There is a power in our lives which tend to make men better. We must have our power derive from high up to the foothills of peace. There is a power among us that may not make a tremendous noise, but all the greatest forces are silent forces, for example the sun's power. America could never grow on slavery, it must be abolished. Growth is bad if we are wrong. The most unloved boy is a selfish one—a boy you cannot rely upon shows growth of a very noxious weed—needs grafting—a man's life cannot be changed by the Boy Scouts' motto, "Do a good turn to some one each day." He must be born again." We must have a newer and wonderful life. We ought to aim high to be master Christians. The minister concluded by beseeching the congregation to try to be like Jesus in the days that are to be. There is for us all a "vision splendid" and for us to build according to the pattern shown us. We must be very careful to be born again to the newness of life.

A large card has been placed on the church wall for the benefit of the Sunday school scholars, entitled "Our Aim." There follows six rules—

1—Every member present every Sunday.
2—On time,
3—With his own Bible,
4—A liberal offering,
5—A studied lesson
6—And a mind to learn.

Canada's Premier Horse Show will be held at night during the 1929 Canadian National Exhibition.

Was In Bed All Summer

"I have to work in the store and do my own housework, too, and I got nervous and run-down and was in bed nearly all summer. The least noise would make me nervous. I was told to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken seven bottles. It has made me stronger and put more color into my face. I am looking after my store and housework and my four children and I am getting along nicely now." —Mrs. J. Malin, R. R. No. 5, Barton St. East, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada.

LOUGHBOROUGH KILLED BY FALL

Jury Returns Verdict of Sucide While Temporarily of Unsound Mind

WAS GREAT WAR VET

LONDON, Aug. 7 (C.P.).—Suicide while of temporarily unsound mind was the coroner's jury verdict yesterday at the inquest on Lord Loughborough, 36-year-old Great War veteran, who died after falling from the window of his house in Holland Park.

Loughborough had played cards with friends at the house Sunday night and after the party retired to bed sounds of groans led to his discovery in the back garden under the window. A medical friend testified that Loughborough was a healthy man. They had lunched and dined together on Sunday. On the way to a friend's house in a taxicab Loughborough had a distressing attack of coughing which the doctor said was due to excessive smoking.

Later the doctor saw Loughborough and he was described as being in an extremely nervous condition, for which there seemed to be no explanation except that he had had a breakdown last March. After the fall from the window Loughborough was taken to a hospital where he underwent an operation and died five hours later.

ANGLICAN CHOIR STAGES PICNIC

Happy Afternoon Is Spent By Members of St. George's Choir At Cobourg.

HOLD RACES.

Members of St. George's choir and organist, accompanied by the rector and Mrs. Hughes and Messrs. A. Cuff and A. Sims, wardens, motored to Cobourg on Saturday afternoon and spent a very enjoyable afternoon and evening there. Though a steady rain was falling on reaching Cobourg, no one seemed to be dampened in spirit, and by the time a walk had been taken along the sands and a few amusements indulged in, the showers had passed over.

Chilly Swim.

Two of the party braved the rough waves of Lake Ontario and had a "dip," the remainder deciding that the white caps on the lake did not look very inviting. A baseball game, captained by the wardens, warmed everyone up, one side getting so many runs that they finally lost count. The races had some keen contestants, the results being as follows:

Girls' race, Marjorie Sims; ladies' race, Mrs. R. King; boys' race, Harry Henwood; men's race, Mr. A. Sims.

Visited St. Peter's Church.

At 6 o'clock the party adjourned to the Lakeview Hotel where dinner was served, this being a much appreciated part of the program. A visit was paid to St. Peter's Church, followed by a walk through the town. The cars were then boarded, and the return trip made as far as Port Hope, where another stop was made for about half an hour before returning home.

Those who kindly undertook transportation of the party were: Rev. J. L. Hughes, Messrs. Arthur Hall and Jack Cuff.

Roseneath

ROSENEATH, Aug. 7 (Examiner Correspondence).—A goodly number of Indians and a few white friends gathered together in the council chambers at Alderville on Saturday evening to show their sincere appreciation to Rev. and Mrs. Harold Wilding and family who are leaving the Indian reserve to continue their mission work at Thamesville, Ont., situated near Moravian Town.

A delicious supper was served by the ladies of the congregation, after which Chief Norman Marsden called the gathering to order and appointed Mr. F. J. Slade, the Indian Agent, as chairman for the evening's program. After a short address Rev. and Mrs. Wilding were asked to come forward when Mrs. Norman Marsden read the address and Mrs. Ernest Crowe presented Rev. Mr. Wilding with a beautiful ring and to Mrs. Wilding a three-piece set of pearls on amber with the charming "opaline" finish.

Mrs. Wilding responded briefly in a few well-chosen words, expressing her thanks, and also her regret in leaving her work with the ladies of the Mission, and said she trusted that the members of the W.M.S. would continue in making the society successful and other organizations which she had started would not fail, then she would be pleased to learn that her work among them had been fruitful and appreciated.

Rev. Mr. Wilding first thanked his people for their extreme kindness given to himself and family. He continued by saying: "Five years ago tonight when my family and I landed in Alderville, I felt my charge was going to be somewhat difficult; perhaps it was the rough ride I had out from Cobourg with Mr. Crowe, the road seemed so long and very rough. However, my impression of the people of Alderville is decidedly different tonight than it was on August 3, 1924." Mr. Wilding made mention of the many improvements, the building of the war memorial, the school fair and other experiences that had taken place during his stay at Alderville.

A chorus was sung by Mrs. Norman Marsden, Sarah and Charlotte Marsden and Ellen Loukes entitled, "When We Say Good-Bye," with Mrs. Marsden at the organ.

Instrumental, violin and old time dance music was given by Mr. Albert Crowe, accompanied by his sister, Charlotte.

Short addresses were given by Chief Norman Marsden; Rev. Mr. Battersby of Hastings Anglican Church; Mr. F. J. Slade, Alderville, Indian Agent; and Mr. G. Black. The evening was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

Driven From His Haunts: Deer Appears Near Village

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Aug. 7.—Apparently driven south because of the serious forest fires to the northward of this section of the province, a deer ran out of the wood on James H. Might's farm last Friday, chased by the dog which had accompanied the children to the field where the men were at work at the rear of the farm, and near to the stretch of woodland. The frightened animal made its way across W. T. Donaldson's farm and so to the highway, running northward. Its ultimate fate has not been learned, as no report has yet been made of its having been either encountered by passing motorists, or killed.

CRIPPLED CRAFT STANDS STORM

Three Men Land Safely After Wild Night On Lake Nipissing.

WASHED ASHORE.

NORTH BAY, Aug. 6 (C.P.).—Buffeted all night on the angry bosom of Lake Nipissing, Adam Terrance, veteran collector of customs and excise; his son, Thomas H. Torrance, druggist, and George W. Leach, retired railroader, all of North Bay, early yesterday were washed ashore in their disabled gasoline launch, thus allaying fears that their small craft would not ride out the storm. Although on the verge of exhaustion after a furious battle with one of the worst storms ever experienced on the treacherous lake, the trio were little the worse for their experience and were able to leap ashore when a handful of Lake Nipissing cottagers pulled their craft to safety.

FORMER DAYS ARE RECALLED

Days of Martin Martyn Brought to Mind During Old Home Week.

OWNED NOTED RACERS

Many memories of Peterborough's pioneer settlers were revived by the re-unions of their descendants during Old Home Week. Among these, Old Home Week recalled the memories of one of the oldest of Peterborough's old pioneers, Martin Martyn, who settled in this district very early in the last century.

When Mr. Martyn settled here he entered the milling business and ground the first wheat for flour in Peterborough. The business grew and flourished and the Martyn mills became known all over. The dam where the old mill used to stand is still known as Martyn's dam.

His two sons, John and Richard, later entered the business with him. These boys were very fond of horses and exppert riders and drivers. The earlier residents easily recall these boys. They owned 'Molly Sophy" and "Molly Williams," the fastest horses of the time in this district, and Mr. Martyn and his sons took great pride in driving these horses.

There were also five daughters, Selma, Ida, Ipsa, Mimi and Hattie, whose married names were Mrs. John Mowry, Mrs. Sid Johnston, Mrs. Joseph Huston, Mrs. L. Fisherand and Mrs. C. Brown, respectively.

Mrs. Richard Martyn is the only surviving member of the older branches of the family. For her Old Home Week called up a wealth of old memories that have long since been forgotten or sealed in the grave.

Her sons, Jack, Maxwell and Charlie, are still residents of Peterborough, as well as a daughter, Mrs. Spilsbury. Mrs. Martyn makes her home in Toronto where her two daughters reside.

TORONTO CATTLE

TORONTO, Ont., August 7. — The fresh supply of cattle for sale at the Union Stock Yards early yesterday was 400 head heavier than the combined receipts of Monday and Tuesday last week and there were a few stale cattle over from last week. In addition there were 1,400 cattle, mostly western stockers and feeders on two billings.

Trade opened very slow with less than 200 cattle weighed up in the first two hours. These consisted of the pick of the run, including a few choice heavy steers at a top of 11½ cents a pound and some good to choice cows from 7½ to 8 cents.

The calf supply was fairly heavy, including receipts for two days. Good to choice veals sold steady from 14 to 15½ cents a pound. Grassers were the considerable proportion of the run and bids on this class were downward to 6½ cents a pound.

Sheep and lamb supply was a little heavier than last week with a cent a pound advance on lambs, which closed last week at 15 cents for ewes and wethers and 13 cents a pound for buck lambs. No sales were made up to 11 o'clock.

Packers were bidding 13¾ cents f.o.b. for select hogs. The market was unsettled. Yesterday packers introduced an increase in the spread between f.o.b. and w.o.c. hogs amounting to $1.50 a hundredweight in the case of hogs shipped in a distance of over 50 miles. This would make bids on select w.o.c. 14½ to 14 cents. The bid on select hogs off trucks was 14 cents a pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Unnerved by whirlwind selling that without warning overtook the wheat market yesterday numberless traders in a semi-panic let go of wheat in wholesale volume. Prices for wheat suffered an almost perpendicular fall of as much as 7½c a bushel here, compared with Mondays finish, reaching a level fully 18c under recent current figures. The selling that started the smash of values was generally ascribed to Canadian sources.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were feverish at virtually the day's lowest point, 6c to 7c net lower. Corn closed 1¾c to 2c down; oats 1¾c to 1⅞c off, and provisions showing 2c to 10c setback.

A tumble of 10c a bushel in wheat prices at Winnipeg added to the force of the selling storm which overwhelmed the Chicago wheat trade. Besides, the selling orders from Winnipeg came at a time when the Chicago market was apparently without much if any, of the aggressive buying support that of late had been so conspicuous.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—Conditions on the local wholesale produce market yesterday continued to be steady with all prices holding firm and general trends unchanged. Although the butter market was of a not very active nature, and both sellers and buyers showed no strong disposition to get together, prices were firm at from 39¼c to 39½c per pound for the No. 1 grade and from 37½c to 38c per pound for the No. 2 grade; arrivals continued to be quite sufficient to answer all demands satisfactorily and dealers stated that the market was in a very good condition.

There was a good demand in evidence on the local wholesale egg market yesterday with all supplies offered taken freely, especially in the extra and first grades; warm weather continues to curtail production to a great extent, and as a result of a fairly strong call for the product, prices were strong. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs delivered and cases returned were as follows: Fresh extras, 31c to 33c per dozen; fresh firsts, 30c per dozen; fresh seconds, 22c per dozen.

The cheese market remained quiet yesterday under a very limited amount of buying, and the price of the No. 1 large colored paraffined and Government graded cheese was quoted at from 17½c to 18c per pound.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—Spring wheat flour was reduced 50c per barrel, the greatest single drop in years, on the local grain market yesterday. This reduction, caused by the weakness in Chicago and Winnipeg wheat markets, was followed by similar reductions on the cash grain market, wheat selling down 3c a bushel, oats down 1c and barley down 2c.

Cheese prices were lower, No. 1 Ontario white and colored selling at 17c and No. 1 Quebec, white and colored, at 16 5-8c per lb. Receipts were 1,416 boxes, as against 7,296 boxes on the same day last week.

The butter market was quiet, with prices unchanged. Receipts were 758 boxes, as compared with 623 boxes on the same day last week.

Egg prices were improved. Ontario fresh, on spot, delivered, sold at 38c per dozen for extras, 31c for firsts, and 26c for seconds. Western fresh eggs, f.o.b. Saskatchewan points, were 33c for extras, 28c for firsts and 23c for seconds. Retail prices were: Fresh extras, 43c per doz.; fresh firsts, 36c, and fresh seconds, 28c. Receipts were 1,257 cases, as compared with 1,940 cases on the same day last year.

The potato market was steady, with prices holding at $1.75 per 80 lbs. for new potatoes locally grown.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, August 7. — Wheat prices shot downward yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as offerings poured into the pit by traders eager to realize their profits. At noon October wheat was 11 1-8c lower than Saturday's close. Final quotations showed the market to have suffered losses of 10 1-2c to 9 5-8c.

Monday's weakness at Chicago and Buenos Aires was to a large extent responsible for the break in prices. Weather conditions in the west had little effect on the market. Showers were general in Manitoba and light rains were reported in the two other Prairie provinces.

Cash Trade is Heavy.

Cash wheat trading was extremely heavy, with prices displaying weakness. Wheat delivered to country elevators, Saturday and Monday, totalled 50,731 bushels, compared with 163,056 bushels on the same days last year.

Coarse grain prices declined in sympathy with wheat. Oats dropped 2 1-2c, barley and rye about 4c and flax about 5c.

OTTAWA, Ont., August 7. (C.P.)—Application of the Canadian National Railways for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court against the 18.34 cts. grain rate from the head of the lakes to Quebec City was refused by the Board of Railway Commissioners in a judgment made public yesterday.

TORONTO BREAKS KEYS' WINNING STREAK

Rally To Win 6-4 Tilt

Toronto Stages Batting Rampage To Score Four Runs in Ninth Inning.

WINGS TAKE FIRST GAME.

Homer By Bopl in Ninth Enables Orioles To Beat Royals 9-8.

READING, Aug. 7.—(C.P.)— The Toronto Leafs opened their final invasion of the southern end of the International League with a 6 to 4 victory over Reading here this afternoon.

They rallied for four runs after one man was out in the ninth and the charge shattered the Keys' winning streak, which had reached 11 straight games. The Bisons earlier in the season scored 10 consecutive victories.

The Keys went into the ninth inning leading 4 to 2, having driven Page, youthful Toronto southpaw, to cover in the third, but the Leafs, battling to keep pace with the leading Red Wings, were not to be denied.

Four straight hits off Pete Fowler, left-hander, broke up the Reading defence, and before Sterling Stryker finally retired the side the Leafs had won the ball game.

WINGS TAKE FIRST GAME.

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 7.—(C.P.) — Rochester opened the four-game series here yesterday with Jersey City by taking the first game by a score of 16 to 4.

Gordon Rhodes opposed Paul Derringer on the mound and the former was nailed for a total of 21 hits.

George Watkins banged out his 15th homer of the season in the first inning with two aboard.

Rochester turned in its 160th double play in the first frame, tying Montreal's record of last season.

ORIOLES BEAT ROYALS.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—(C.P.)—The Orioles rode to a 9 to 8 victory in the opening game of the series with Montreal here yesterday on the wings of a home run by Al Bool in the ninth inning.

The Royals staged a four-run, five-hit rally in the ninth to knot the count and chased Andy Chambers from the mound.

Herb Thormahlen, starting pitcher for Montreal, was not as effective as usual. He allowed 13 hits in seven innings, and gave way to Pomoroski in the eighth.

Urbanski and Haines both hit homers for the visitors, the latter leading at bat with a triple and two singles, besides his four-base knock.

BEARS RALLY TO WIN.

NEWARK, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Newark put on a late rally to snatch the opening game of the series from Buffalo yesterday, 9 to 8. The Bears pushed over five runs to tie the score in the eighth inning, and rapped home the winning tally with none out in the ninth.

It was a free hitting affair, each team collecting 16 blows. Buffalo used three pitchers and Newark four. Al Mamaux pitched the final stanza for the Bruins and was credited with his fifteenth victory of the year.

Max West, Bruin centrefielder, led both sides at the bat with four hits, including his fifteenth homer.

PICTORIAL GOLF

LONG ARC MEANS LONG DISTANCE

Bobby Jones obtains a tremendous distance from the tee, mainly through the aid of a very long arc which the clubhead describes. The hands are responsible for this as they are held very high at the top of the swing and at the finish, too. This permits the straight left arm, so noticeable in Jones's swing. Having a longer arc thehub of the swing can definitely be located at the left shoulder.

Using a long swing produces distance, but unless it comes and natural to one much trouble will be encountered in learning it. Jones being short in stature prefers this swing to a flat swing which so many small men must use to gain length. The small man with the ordinary upright swing must necessarily be a short driver.

ROBINS DEFEAT CHICAGO CUBS

Take Second Victory of Season From McCarthy's Crew By a 5-4 Win.

GIANTS DOWN PIRATES.

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 7 (C.P.)—Baseball enthusiasm reached new record heights here yesterday when 65,000 fans stormed Wrigley Field to bid the Cubs farewell and forced officials of the club to lock the gates upon 10,000 of their number. It was the first time since the enlargement of the park that the gates had been closed for a mid-week game.

Although Brooklyn shaded the home forces by 5 to 4 for the second Robin victory over the men of McCarthy in 16 games this season, the spirit of the fans remained high and noisy.

The defeat was the less bitter as the Giants obligingly defeated the Pirates, permitting the Cubs to go East with their lead of seven and one-half games intact.

The Bruins won 14 out of 16 in their home stand against the East.

SECOND WIN FOR GIANTS

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7 (C.P.). — The Giants made it two straight wins from the Pirates by taking yesterday's game, 5 to 3, behind the fine pitching of Bill Walkerm the New Yorkers won out by reaching Jess Petty for two runs in the eighth.

Walker kept the ten Pirate hits scattered, and allowed only one earned run.

He ended the game by forcing Traynor to hit a weak grounder in the ninth after the bases had been filled on three singles.

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

Old Home Week is over. Civic Holiday is a thing of the past for another year, and now the Curling Club is beginning to stir around for another season. As usual, the finances of the club are not a superfluous quantity, and the executive is planning ways and means of improving the situation. It is expected that a meeting will be called immediately to discuss an "At Home" early in the season.

Things are beginning to look up at the Woollen Mill. There was a night shift working last night.

Just what the financial success of Old Home Week was, will not be known for a day or two till the executive meet. The president G. A. Kingston, is out of town at the present time, and no meeting is expected till Thursday.

The decorations and lights are still up, and there is a rumor afloat that the colored lights are to be left burning for another month, but the cloth decorations are to be taken down at once.

WILDCATS DOWN TECO IN EIGHTH

Brilliant Fielding Features Fastest Game of Season in Softball.

THREE DOUBLE PLAYS.

After leading the Bridgenorth Wildcats by one run on the long end of a two to one score the Teco team went up into the clouds in the eighth inning of last night's softball game at the Central School Grounds and allowed four counters to be scored against them, finally losing the game by a count of 6-3.

The game was one of the fastest that has been played in the league this year and scintillated with fielding that in some respects was nothing less than phenomenal or perhaps we should say, "Lady Luck" supplied all the players with horseshoes, but whatever it was, there has not been a game yet that the twirlers worked better or that the team behind them gave them better support.

For eight innings it seemed inevitable but that the strong aggregation from the north should meet with anything but defeat when a couple of errors by Frick, who played a sterling game with this sad exception, allowed Forsythe and G. Dormer on bases. H. Dormer bunted safely to fill the sacks. Galbraith then did his best to bring them all in and drove deep into centre field but Miller got under it. However before he could throw home, Forsythe and G. Dormer scored on the play and H. Dormer went to third, scoring on Weese's neat single who finally chalked up the fourth tally himself when he went to second on Baker's single and scored on errors. The score then stood 5-2 in the Cats' favor, four runs having been scored in this hard luck frame for the Teco and a good break for Bridgenorth nine. H. Dormer had scored the initial counter in the sixth for the Wildcats.

Three Double Plays.

Each team celebrated the honors of a double play. The Teco aggregation pulled themselves out of a nice hole in the first when Carruther's threw Weese out at first and Frick passed the sphere on to Haskell at home to catch H. Dormer before he reached the plate.

The Bridgenorth team picked the sixth innings out for their first double killing when G. Dormer stopped Jones' hot liner that nearly knocked him of his feet but recovered in time to toss to H. Dormer at first to catch Westbrooke on his way to second on what looked like a sure hit—but proved not to be. Again in the eighth they came through with another two-ply killing when Galbraith snared Stanley's long drive to right and doubled Crary going into third with a perfect peg to Baird.

Galbraith Stars.

Galbraith in right field was the star of the game when he made two spectacular catches deep into his territory. The first came in the fourth innings when he caught White's long drive and the second in the eight after Stanley connected with Forsythe's offering to give the ball a long ride into the right garden. His perfect peg to third on this hit completed a great double play.

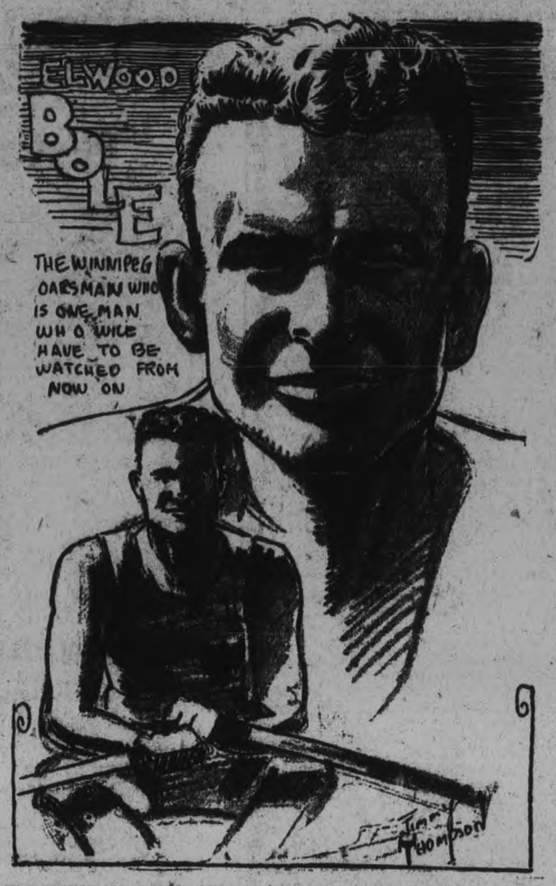
Bridgenorth—G. Dormer ss; H. Dormer, 1b; Galbraith, rf; Weese, 2b; Gillespie, cf; Baker, lf; Baird, 3b; Connors, c; Forsythe, p.

Teco—White, 2b; Westbrooke, ss; Jones, lf; Frick, 1b; Crary, 3b; Stanley, rf; Miller, cf; Haskell, c; Carruthers, p.

Score by innings:

Teco	000200000—2
Bridgenorth	000001041—6

Umpires—Woodhouse and Mahood.



Elwood Bole, the new Canadian Association singles champion, has made his mark in the hall of fame so far as eastern oarsmen are concerned. The 'Peg boy showed that he has everything that makes a champion, although he was hopelessly outclassed in the big race with Guest and Wright. He leaped into national fame in his race against Brett of St. Catharines, a sculler of no mean repute. The Winnipeg crack came from behind to win in record time.

ANNUAL REGATTA NEXT SATURDAY

Event Promises To Excel Previous Years in Keen Competition.

STONEY LAKE, August 7 (Examiner Correspondence). — The annual regatta at McCracken's Landing will be held this year on August 10, and bids fair to excel previous years, which is a very ambitious aim, as McCracken's Landing regatta has always been successful, and each year has added lustre to its reputation. The regatta of 1929 might be termed a double-header, as the sailing and junior events are to be run off in the morning and the senior regatta in the afternoon. Both programs offer special attractions, and there is no doubt that success will attend the efforts of the committee of the weather man does his part.

The Peterborough Canoe Company has given a handsome trophy for the dinghy sailing. The trophy is to be competed for annually, but will become the permanent possession of the person who wins it three years in succession.

The cup for the open sailing race, donated by W. T. Hall, and that for canoe sailing, donated by C. G. Porter, become the property of the winners, and are handsome pieces of silverware.

The prizes for all the events are silver cups, and are on display in Grafton's window, George Street, Peterborough, and are in themselves a silent but eloquent advertisement for the regatta.

In order to facilitate transportation, Fontaine's bus from Peterborough will make a trip up in the morning and also in the afternoon, both before and after the regatta. Mr. C. E. Strickland of Wantasa Inn will serve a buffet luncheon on the grounds of his hotel in the afternoon. Ferdy Mowry's Orchestra will provide music for dancing in Wantasa Tea Room, where afternoon tea will be served.

The regatta dance will be held on Saturday evening, August 10, in the pavilion at Juniper Island, and special arrangements have been made to enable a large crowd to attend. Fontaine's bus will make a trip up and the steamer Empress will make trips at 9 and 10 o'clock from McCracken's to Juniper. Also one may motor to Young's Point and take the evening boat, which returns at midnight to the Point.

The committee have spared no effort to make this year's regatta an outstanding event, and granted favorable weather conditions, there is no doubt that their efforts will be crowned with success. The executive committee is as follows: A. F. Choate, honorary president; H. G. Choate, honorary vice-president; C. G. Porter, president; Douglas Hall, vice-president; H. E. Ringel, secretary.

Judges: J. M. R. Fairbairn, Col. Sandford Smith, A. L. F. Hall.

Starters: W. T. Hall and F. Porter.

N. Y. Commission Wins Over Carey; Negotiations For Schmeling-Sharkey Heavyweight Bout Broken

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The New York State Athletic commission won a rousing victory in the long-drawn-out struggle to impress upon Max Schmeling the majesty of the boxing law. With considerable satisfaction, the fistic fathers brought Big Bill Carey, president of Madison Square garden, before them yesterday morning and received his assurance that all negotiations for a match between the German heavyweight and Jack Sharkey had been broken off. Carey said that he "might dispose of the property rights to Schmeling's contract," but was advised not to under penalty of disciplinary action by the board.

Carey's action came as a distinct surprise inasmuch as the garden had indicated that it would defy the wishes of the commission and attempt to stage the match outside of New York, where Schmeling had suffered suspension and revocation of his boxing license for refusal to go through with a contract to fight Phil Scott for Hubert J. Fugazy, promotional rival of the garden.

The commission told Carey that his problems could be solved by bringing Sharkey and the retiring light heavyweight champion, Tommy Loughran, together or pairing Sharkey and Scott in an elimination contest this fall. Under no circumstances, the father reiterated, must Schmeling be considered in any heavyweight program until he has fulfilled the Fugazy contract, negotiated for him by the boxer's deposed manager, Arthur Buelow. This Schmeling so far has refused to do.

DOUBLE BILL AT ROSENEATH

Homesters Winners Over Harwood Crew 8-6 in Tight Battle.

ALDERVILLE WINS 8-7.

ROSENEATH, Aug. 7.—(Examiner Correspondence).—In spite of the heavy rain in the early part of the afternoon on Saturday Roseneath was full of excitement.

Two baseball games were scheduled to be played, although late in the afternoon Alderville played Precious Corners with a score of 8-7 in favor of Alderville.

Immediately after their game Harwood team were waiting to play the home team. Without exception this was the best game of the season when the home team defeated Harwood by a score of 8-6.

Although "King" Young of Harwood pitcher real good ball, the best pitching of any league game of this season was displayed by Roseneath's new hurler, Rev. M. R. Brown, who had seventeen strike outs to his credit in the seven innings that was played.

The game was fast and furious at times, and the continual cheering gave evidence of an enthusiastic crowd who gathered to witness this special game.

The Roseneath A.A.A. are planning a baseball tournament in the near future.

RE-UNION IS BIG SUCCESS

Good Program Provided At Outing Held in Mount Julian.

OLD BOYS' ASSOCIATION.

MOUNT JULIAN, Aug. 7 (Examiner Correspondence).—The efforts of those in charge of the arrangements in connection with the fifteenth annual reunion of the Old Boys' Association of Mount Julian, which was held on Friday August 2, met with success. The weather was ideal for the occasion and those who attended enjoyed the day to the full. The committee in charge of the arrangements was comprised of Messrs. He demonstrated how to walk on the gunwale; how to re-enter a capsized canoe; how to empty a swamped canoe; how to hurdle another canoe, and he brought his exhibition to a fitting climax by running the bow of the canoe up on the dock at Mount Julian and calmly walking out. In his demonstration he was ably assisted by Mr. Donald Fitzgerald of Lakefield.

There was a large crowd in attendance on the gaily decorated grounds of the Mount Julian Hotel, among whom were noticed the following: Mr. G. A. CALIFORNIAN GIRLS ON TENNIS LINE-UP

Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs To Play Leading Roles in Singles.

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 7 (Canadian Press). — The line-up for the Wightman Cup tennis matches at Forest Hills on Friday and Saturday, so far as it has been determined, presents the unique spectacle of a series between California and Great Britain. With one doubles team still to be selected, the American squad is composed entirely of California girls.

Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs, America's first and second ranking women players, had been selected some time ago to play the leading roles in the singles. Yesterday Edith Cross, of San Francisco, was added to the list. She will pair with Miss Wills in the doubles as she did in winning the title at the Maidstone Club invitation tournament at Southampton on Monday.

The two Helens each will play two singles matches while Miss Cross will take care of the fifth solo encounter in the series of seven matches on Saturday. One doubles match will be played each day.

LOCAL CRICKET CLUB LOSERS TO TORONTO

Absent Players Weaken Line-up and Visitors Lose 153-143 Decision.

The Peterborough Cricket Club journeyed to Toronto last Monday for their return game with St. Edmunds with a vey much weakened team as at least four of their regular team were unable to make the trip. However they made a good fight of it and at one time looked as if they were going to pull off a victory.

The fielding on both sides was good but special mention must be made of Coombe and a fine catch in the outfield by Stanger.

Thorpe gave a particularly fine exhibition for his sixty runs and was the recipient of many most complimentary remarks from his opponents and spectators. His bowling was also very fine taking six wickets for thirty-three runs. Hamilton also batted very well for his score as also did Orr and Devonshire.

Daring Break for Liberty is Made by Prisoners at Lansing Prison.

LANSING, Man., August 7. (C.P.)—A daring break for liberty at the state penitentiary here late yesterday cost two long term prisoners their lives and sent a third to the prison hospital with a fractured skull. One guard was wounded.

The dead were: Willam Webb, 39, and Robert Collin, 30; J. B. Knight received a fractured skull in a hand to hand encounter with R. H. Hudspeth, deputy warden. W. L. Heslop, the guard, was shot in the left leg in an exchange of shots with the convicts.

Three other prisoners who made the break for freedom, were captured two hours later in the Lansing stockyards, less than half a mile from the prison.

MACKS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL TO HOLD LEAD

YANKS BREAK EVEN.

Cleveland Indians Rally Twice To Take 6-5 Victory From the Tigers.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7 (C.P.).—The Athletics preserved their lead of 11½ games over the Yankees by dividing a double-header with the Browns before 20,000 fans here, yesterday.

The St. Louisans hit Bill Shores and Yerkes hard to win the opening by 8 to 3, but the Macks turned loose their heavy guns against Ogden and Coffman to take the nightcap by 11 to 3.

Jimmy Foxx hit a home run in each contest, running his total for the season to 26, and entering a tie with Lou Gehrig for second place in the American league.

TIE WITH ST. LOUIS BROWNS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7 (C.P.).—Two Cleveland rallies against Vic Sorrell gave the Indians a 6 to 5 victory over the Tigers in the series' opener here yesterday.

Wesley Ferrell, young Cleveland right hander, got credit for his sixth victory by holding the Tigers safe after he relieved Hudlin in the seventh.

Joe Hauser, pinch hitter in the seventh, got a home run.

The victory moved Cleveland into a tie with St. Louis Browns for third place.

YANKEES BREAK EVEN

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 7 (C.P.)—The Yankees worked hard to get better than an even break in two games against the Washington Senators here, yesterday, and as a consequence remained 11½ games behind the Athletics as they prepared to invade Philadelphia for three games in two days.

Washington punched four New York pitchers hard to win the opener by 13 to 9, but Freddy Heimach hurled back the invaders with just three hits to give the champions the second by 8 to 0.

The high note of the two games was the performance of Babe Ruth, who reached Burke for his 26th and 27th home runs in the night cap.

OAK RIDGE CAMPS.

Oak Ridge Camps for Boys, situated on the Burleigh shore, near the mouth of Eel's Creek, has already this season justified its existence as an ideal place for a summer vacation. The surroundings are picturesque and healthy and the camp routine pleasant and in no way irksome. It is capably supervised and the boys are given expert instruction in swimming, in managing a canoe or skiff, and in every way comporting themselves on the water that serious accidents may be avoided. "He could not swim" has headed many a tale of tragedy, and Canadian parents are waking up to the responsibilities in fitting boys and girls to face life physically fit and in training as well as mentally equipped with a good schooling.

On Friday, July 26, three of the Oak Ridge Campers were successful in passing their Royal Life Saving examinations, two taking their proficiency awards and one the next highest award, the bronze medallion. Also, every boy in camp can do the "shake out" of a 16-foot canoe, which is no mean undertaking, as all who have tried can testify. All the boys can swim well and one little eight-year-old makes remarkably good time on the crawl stroke.

The Oak Ridge Camps, Limited, have a strong board of directors, with Rv. A. W. Mackenzie, headmaster of Lakefield Preparatory School for Boys, which has an enviable record during the past half-century, since it was opened, is president of the camp; A. M. "Don" FitzGerald, who is a renowned swimmer and canoeist, is secretary-treasurer, and Reginald Bloomfield, who has won a name and fame as a canoeist of exceptional skill, is manager of the camp. The advisory board consists of Mr. Justice Hodgins, C. A. Bogert, and Britton Osler, K.C.

French Airman Loses Life While Preparing For Schneider Cup Races.

HOLDS SPEED RECORD.

BORDEAUX, France, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—France's attempt to gain a victory in the impending Schneider Cup air races at Calshot, England, has ended in tragedy before it began.

Lieutenant Florentin Bonnet, 35, was killed yesterday afternoon when the aeroplane in which he was training for the speed test crashed in leaving the air field here. The commander of the naval station at Hourtin, where Bonnet was stationed, said he was stunting.

Bonnet was the holder of the world's speed record for land aeroplanes.

THREE STATE FIRES ARE LOSING GROUND

Weather and Fire Fighters Control Fires Which Destroyed Timber and Ranches.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press)—The fire demon which for two weeks has resisted an army of fighters in the northwest seemed to be facing defeat to-day on fronts that extended through parts of three states.

After having ravaged thousands of acres in Montana, Idaho and Washington, several hundred fires in the National Forests of those states were being subdued by a combination of weather and efforts of Forest Department crews, Timber Protective Association men and volunteers.

While the total area of these fires was unknown, reports indicated that it would be considerably more than 35,000 acres, with losses running into millions of dollars. Many ranches and much valuable timber has been destroyed.

Jim Perry, killed in an aeroplane accident, owned both the Indianapolis club and Quincy of the Three-I League.

HORNE MADE HEROIC EFFORT TO ASSIST FRIENDS IN NEED

The finding of Shorty Horne's body about 350 feet from shore, late on Monday evening, showed how close the former Maple Leaf player came to being successful in his heroic effort to assist his friends when they were capsized from their canoe in a northern Ontrio lake last Thursday. Owng to the remote district where Horne was drowned, few details of the tragedy were secured, but as soon as the announcement of the drowning became known, several members of the Maple Leaf club, including Manager Conn Smythe, went to the scene of the fatality to aid in the search for the body. This was carried on by a number of the friends of the deceased, but operations were hampered by storms, and it was late on Monday when the search was ended. The body was taken to Sudbury by airplane yesterday and the funeral will be held to-day.

* * * * * *

Upon his return to the city yesterday, Smythe was able to amplify the meagre details which had previously been received. It appears that Horne had organized the party for a two months' trip through the bush in order to prepare himself for the start of the hockey training season. They were only two days out from Sudbury and were crossing one of the larger lakes when a storm blew up and the canoe shipped so much water that it sank in the middle of the lake. The four of them hung on to the canoe, but the weight was too much, so that two of them decided to swim to shore. Before starting out they endeavored to take their clothes off, but with the weight of the four of them on the boat, it was impossible for them to do this, so that Shorty said that he would strike out alone, and the other boy stayed and took off his clothes.

Shorty was equipped with knee-high prospectors' boots and heavy clothing all the way through. He swam for practically a mile, when the second boy who had taken off his clothes, reached him, and although he was in bad shape, he told this lad to go on to the shore and bring him a log and he would float till the log came back. However, they were only about 100 yards from shore, when the chap who had gone in for the log looked out, Shorty was nowhere to be seen. People in Sudbury said he was the best all-round paddler and swimmer in that district, and that, along with his gameness, is probably what cost Shorty his life.—Mail and Empire.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

ESSAY ON LUCK.

Just lately I read that a diamond was found
In the craw of a Muscovy duck,
And all through my life I've been looking around
For that kind of wonderful luck.
But though in the poultry I meet by the road
Hidden treasures may possibly lurk
That would buy me a yacht and a noble abode
I am still, as you notice, at work.

Every day in the newspaper items I find
About men long accustomed to toil
Gaining blessed relief from the hard daily grind
By discovering large tracts of oil.
But though in the ground I have trod with my feet
Pent gushers may pulsate and throb
I still am aware that in order to eat
I must stick at the old daily job.

I know a young man whose great aunt, twice removed Passed on just a few weeks ago
And left him a third of her fortune, which proved
To be four or five millions or so.
I have had rich relations who now are no more
Who owned real estate, coal mines and stocks
But I still have to bend to the laboring oar
Or my boat would be cast on the rocks.

I know it is idle to envy the rich,
Or the favorites fortunes may choose;
I should not be peeved at the luck stories which
I frequently find in the news;
I ought to sit back, puff my five cent cigar
And, when I reflect on my lot,
Observe to myself: "That's the way that things are."
But somehow I wish it was not.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"Fox Movietone Follis of 1929" opens at the Capitol tomorrow. 200 musical comedy performers, will be seen in the first Fox musical revue.

The William Fox Movietone Follies of 1929, first Follies of the talking pictures, is to have its local premier at the Capitol Theater tomorrow and it is safe to say that it is awaited with more interest by moviegoers than any of the other audible productions shown so far, because of its unusual nature.

The scope of the films in recording action and voices being so much greater than that of the legitimate stage, the Fox Movietone Follies is expected to provide totally new precedent for entertainments of its nature. Pre-viewers say without reservation that for size, speed and other qualities it far exceeds the limitations of stage technique.

Nine young screen and stage favorites head the list of principals and serve not only to interpret characters in the story, which concerns backstage life, but lead the many singing and dancing numbers. They are Sue Carol, Lola Lane, Sharon Lynn, John Breeden, Dixie Lee, David Percy, David Rollins, Frank Richardson and Stepin Fetchit.

Miss Carol often has portrayed the role of a jazz mad flapper on the screen. When the talkies came along she was not found wanting, for she has a fetching voice and can dance as well as the most talented Broadway "hoofer." Her chief specialty in the Fox Movietone Follies is "The Breakaway," a new song-and-dance number of distinct originality.

Miss Lane was the girl in the Fox Movietone all-talking feature, "Speakeasy." She came to pictures from Broadway, where she was in the Greenwich Village Follies and later was George Jessels leading lady in "The War Song." She sings the "Big City Blues" in the Follies.

Miss Lynn was in the Fox Films, "None But the Brave" and "Red Wine," and in the talkie, "Speakeasy." She has a highly pleasing voice and plays the piano well, having composed several pieces for that instrument. Her main number in the Follies is "That's You' Baby."

Young Breeden entered theatrical life in Vienna, and later was in a Max Reinhardt company in Berlin. He also was in various stock companies and was a Theater Guild player in San Francisco before becoming a screen actor. He is the owner of the show in the story the Follies tells.

Miss Lee is the girl who scored so tremendously on Broadway singing the "Varsity Drag" number in "Good News." In the Follies she is heard leading the "Why Can't I Be Like You?" number.

SOFTBALL.

To-night's softball game between K. of C. and Harrisons should be a real battle. Both teams are sailing right along and playing stellar ball. K. of C. in their last four starts have turned in brilliant performances and with their full team on hand to-night should give a good account of themselves. Harrisons are playing right up to the mark of late and they will have to win to-night's game to keep in the running.

This game will start at 6.30 and will be played at Central School Grounds.

On Thursday night C.G.E. and Bridgenorth will be the opposing nines. Bridgenorth defeated Teco on Monday night in one of the best softball games of the season, and played real ball to do it. C.G.E. will have their full team out for tomorrow's game and that should mean something. In their last start they were short four of their regulars and lost out to Harrisons. Tomorrow night they will be at full strength and will give the Cats a real go. The game will start at 6.30 and will be played at Central School Grounds.

LAKESHORE LOOP PLAYOFFS DRAWN UP.

The Raybestos ball club play Oshawa Arabs for the championship of the Lakeshore League, and the playoff series has been drawn up. Friday the Rays travel to the Motor City to play a twilight game and the return is billed for Exhibition park on Monday evening. If a third game is necessary it will be staged on Wednesday, the place not yet being settled, but it will likely be some neutral grounds.

Athough the Rays were well out in front in this League, they had only one more run than Oshawa in their four games with that team. "Hank" Kohen's aggregation gave them heavy opposition in all the games, and the playoff series will have to draw out the best the Rays have.

The Brakeliners had a good workout last night playing an exhibition game with Crescents. The pitching staff is in great shape for a hard tussle, and the Rays should overcome Oshawa in this series.

FINALS IN BANTAM SERIES.

Champions have been declared in every group of the City League but the bantam, and to-morrow evening at James Stevenson Park, the first game for this title will be decided. Two of the greatest little nines ever developed here, Grafton's and Maple Leafs, clash in the finals. Grafton's have had comparatively clear sailing, but last week the Leafs, in a thrilling eleven-innings encounter, trimmed them 6 to 5. This game will be well worth the fans' attention.

The Deloro youngsters on Jule Ether's juvenile team will be glad to learn that Grafton's team have arrange dto play them in Deloro on Monday evening. The return game will be staged here at some later date.

CHICAGO CUBS FAR IN LEAD.

The Chicago Cubs are pennant-bound, and with good reason. A brief scrutiny of the National League records reveals many exceptional features in connection with Mr. Wrigley's club, and while there is a chance that they will be overhauled, many experts are inclined to believe that it is just a question of how far they will win by. One reason for the success of the club is that Rogers Hornsby is the leading run-scorer of the league, with .101, and another is that Cuyler is the leading base-stealer of the loop. All down the list there is a similar story, and the leaders in the American league, with the top batter, the leading triple hitter, the leading pitcher, and leader in runs batted in, have similar claims to outstanding ability.

With these teams battling in the world series, what an epic set of games they will be!

* * * * * *

The strength of the Kingston entry in the Central Ontario league was indicated yesterday and the Oshawa team will know just what they are up against (providing they reach the desired position in the race ahead of Deloro who is running them a close heat for the second place) when they visited Kingston for a morning and afternoon bill winning both of their games. Pitching efforts of the local moundsmen and the hitting of the Motors batters, both weak and heavy, featured the games.

There has been plenty of tough luck dogging the local pitchers on the senior ball team and they have lost games when they did not deserve to have a loss chalked up against them; the reason for this is only clear to the ball players themselves, and they well know that they have not during the past season been supporting their pitchers as well as they can. With the season fast drawing to a close and the race for a playoff berth the closest in many seasons, the players are now convinced that their hurlers will get all the backing that is coming to them as they are all of them going to play ball, and after seeing the erstwhile "dark horses" in action they now think that they will not only be able to get to them, but will do nothing else.—Oshawa Times.

SERVICE HELD IN LITTLE CHAPEL AT STONEY LAKE

Rev. A. L. Richards, of Oshawa, Conducts First Service of Season.

CHRIST IS THE DOOR.

A little white chapel, nestled among the woods of Kawartha Park, just off Hiawatha avenue, called the cottagers of that district to an hour of worship on Sunday for the first time this year as Frank Adams, of Peterborough, rang the bell and welcomed the first comers to the open doors of the church.

Situated as it is, in the midst of a forest of young maples, a rustic road winding past its doors and lost in the trees, and not a sound that is harsh or disturbing to the worshippers conveys in itself a message of the divine that no elaborate cathedral could possibly teach.

The Rev. A. L. Richards, B.D., of Whitby United Church, conducted the service, taking a very simple manner of delivery quite suitable and eloquent within itself, in the rustic little chapel.

In the quietude of the surroundings he spoke to the congregation of cottagers about Christ and ourselves, taking his text from the 10th chapter of St. John and the 7th verse, "I am the door," and then from the 14th chapter and 6th verse, "I am the way, the truth and the life."

"Christ meant when He said that, I am the door, that it was a way of entrance, the birth of the expression dating back to a ministry of three years that has been unsurpassed when Jesus proclaimed a new message of God. The words were actually uttered the night before the fatal Friday, but might as well have been uttered on the cross when Christ was crucified as God, bearing the sins of the world. If Christ is like God we can surely love and trust Him without reserve.

"In Jesus we see a way of life revealed that effects not only the individual but the nation, a way of forgiveness, passionate pity and love. He has lit a fire in cold rooms and we can thank God that some of those fires have never gone out. In all crises, we see Him always revealing a way of love.

"Fifteen years ago to-day war was declared, and think of all that has happened since then! Then League of Nations, the Kellogg Peace Pact and the treaty last week when forty-four nations signed a paper to outlaw war. It is a daring attempt to centralize Christ in the nations.

"In any dictionary the word truth has an alternative meaning, real or reality, and so the original scribes might have used that meaning that Christ was a reality and not a vague personage, but a historical figure.

"Through Jesus we come into contact with the consciousness of God. Thank of Him as Christ—that he is seal. Christianity is a life communicated, and we can be linked with Him in His great strength. Ruskin said that the proof of genius is what can be done with the meannest material. So Christ was a real genius and the greatest in the history of the world.

"That is what He means when He said that, He is the life, and is adequate reason to believe in Him and that there is a new life in us."

The little chapel, which reminds one so much of the way in which the pioneers of the country went to worship, is rich in history and owes its erection to many famous personages. The late R. B. Rogers, famous engineer on the Trent Valley system, gave the land where it now stands, and the late Dr. J. H. Edmison, of Toronto, was one of the first, with C. Budreo, to take steps in order that a permanent church be built for the summer dwellers.

The present church officers are: C. Budreo, as chairman of the finance committee, which consists of Messrs. Morphet, Glover, Blackmore, Stephens, Adams, Zimmerman, H. Rogers and Williamson; the treasurer is Mr. Eldro, and F. Adams and C. Budreo is the supply committee.

Eleanor Stephens, of North Carolina, was organist for the Sunday.

WATCH THE POISONS.

When you swallow Carbolic Acid or Tincture of Iodine, by mistake, you at once become alarmed and say, "Send for the doctor, I have been poisoned." For one person poisoned from these preparations, there are thousands of persons poisoned daily from faulty elimination of poisons produced by the body itself. When the kidneys or the liver are not working well, they fail to carry away these dangerous poisons and the result is that you wake up in the morning with a headache, a stiff back or stiff joints, caused by poisons that remain in the system. If you wish to correct this condition, procure a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will enable the kidneys to eliminate these poisons from your body and will make you feel fit and active for any kind of work.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills are for sale at Lynch's Drug Store, and if they fail to do what we claim for them, your money will be refunded. w.s-7673

Many players fail to take into consideration the position in which an original bid is made and consequently either fail to assist a Third or Fourth Hand bid with but the average expectancy of support or else they grant an immediate and unsound assist for First and Second Hand bids with but such a holding; in other words, the opposite of correct procedure.

In this deal at Contract the North player makes a Third Hand bid and his partner, although holding slightly less than 1½ Quick Tricks, has good reason, distributional and otherwise, for granting an immediate assist in an effort to arrive at a game contract.

Salient Points of Bidding.

Auction: South and West passing, North bids one No Trump (Third Hand) holding 3¾ Quick Tricks with all four suits stopped. East passes, his high card strength insufficient to overcall a Third Hand No Trump on right.

Contract: Following North's Third Hand No Trump, South holding 1½ Quicks and a 4-3-3-3 distribution bids two No Trumps. Had his partner bid one No Trump originally, as Dealer or Second Hand, South would have no sound assist.

The bidding passing back to North, three No Trumps becomes the final declaration as North holds greater strength than the minimum required for an original Third Hand bid an therefore has a sound rebid.

Salient Points of Play.

East opens his fourth-best Spade, he 4, North plays the 2 from Dummy, West the Jack and Declarer wins with the King. Declarer now plans the play of the hand. He figures on establishing the Diamond suit as this is the suit of which he holds the most cards in the combined hands, but before doing so he lays down the Heart King to drive if possible the Ace of Hearts and thus kill any immediate entry for either East or West for the establishment and bringing in of what is either a four or five card Spade suit in the East hand.

To the lead of the Heart King, East plays the 3 refusing to cover, and North follows with the Heart 3 driving the Ace and setting up the good Queen and Jack of Hearts in Dummy.

East now lays down the Spade Ace, hoping his partner may have held three Spades to the Queen-Jack originally and thus North held but two, the King-10, in which case West would be expected to play his Queen on the Ace to unblock the suit. A small Spade next led by East clears the suit and establishes two Spades if they can be brought in. West showing out on the third round of Spades marks East as having held five originally and therefore with the two remaining cards of that suit. Declarer, in with the Spade Queen, leads a small Diamond, playing the 9 from Dummy and permitting West to win. He dare not chance the possibility of East winning the third round of Diamonds, should East hold three to an honor. On the other hand, there is no danger in letting West win the trick as Declarer is not afraid of any lead from that quarter.

West has no alternative but to return a small Heart as he cannot soundly lead away from the King-Jack of Clubs.

There are no more salient points to the play as two more leads pick up the outstanding adverse Diamonds and Declarer makes the balance of the tricks laid down, winning in all two Spades, three Hearts, four Diamonds and one Club trick.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write to him, care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Take a vacation that will benefit all the family alike—a place where there are no annoying little chores or the everlasting housekeeping routine to attend to—a place surrounded by the wild beauty of the northern woods, yet having the convenient facilities and comfortable accommodation of the city home.

Nipigon Bungalow Camp, situated on the east shore of Lake Helen in the Nipigon River district, is easily reached by Canadian Pacific Railway or Great Lakes Steamers.

French River Bungalow Camp, located on the beautiful French river a mere 200 miles from Toronto, is also served by the Canadian Pacific.

In these camps one enjoys the privacy of a cozy bungalow, comfortably furnished and electrically illuminated, with maid service to take care of details. Charges which are very reasonable are "American Plan" and meals are served in the big dining room of the Club House, or, in hot weather, out on the wide, screened, cool verandas.

Both camps have every facility for outdoor recreation such as tennis, swimming, boating, and hiking. Fishing, for which these camps are famous, is perhaps the most popular pastime. French River also boasts an excellent nine hole golf course.

For further information enquire from any Canadian Pacific Agent. He will be glad to help you.

LONDON DAILIES SCORE IDEA OF EGYPT BECOMING FREE AGAIN OF BRITISH RULE BY WITHDRAWAL

Express Asks if Italy Will Stand Aside if Egypt Heads Into Anarchy.

RIDICULES LEAGUE IDEA.

Believe Maintenance in Canal Zone Far From Sufficient.

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Although there are signs in to-day's newspapers that the British press as a whole has not fully made up its mind on what it ought to say about the Egyptian proposals, it seems likely that opinion will fall rather to the conventional party viewpoint.

In brief the proposals call for withdrawal of British troops from Egypt generally, but maintenance of a British garrison in the Suez canal zone; Great Britain will recognize that the protection of foreigners is a matter solely for the Egyptian government; Great Britain will assist Egypt to become a member of the League of Nations, and Great Britain will endeavor to induce other powers to consent to abolition of the extra-territorial rights or capitulations.

The proposals are contained in the new Anglo-Egyptian draft treaty, which goes much farther than the abortive draft treaty of 1927.

The Liberal Chronicle to-day heads its editorial, "The Generous Way." On the other hand Conservative journals like the Telegraph and the Morning Post betray serious disquiet.

Astonishing Proposals.

The Daily Express says: "Lord Lloyd's resignation needs no further explanation than these astonishing proposals. Mr. Henderson's first considerable act as Foreign Minister is to sever the last strands of British authority in a country which we redeemed from bankruptcy, set on its feet and endowed with such security and prosperity that it has waxed fat and kicked against the ropes."

Scorns Alliance

Alluding to the termination of the military occupation of Egypt The Express asks: "What takes its place? An alliance, if you please, with Egypt proposed for membership in the League of Nations by Britain and with Mr. Henderson running around the Chancelleries of Europe trying to get them to agree to abolition of the capitulatory system and transference of all responsibility for the lives and properties of foreigners.

"A fine arrangement and a proud errand for a country that once regarded its administration of Egypt as a title to the respect and gratitude of the world. If we move out and the country falls back into corruption and disorder, does anyone imagine another power will not step in and do the job we shirked? Does anybody imagine imperialist Italy, moved by the Mussolini spirit, will quietly stand by and see Egypt rushing into its old anarchy?"

Not Asked to Sacrifice

The Laborite Daily Herald, commenting upon the heavy and special responsibility lying upon the great Egyptian Nationalist party, known as The Wafk, says: "Their unswerving devotion to ideals in the past has led them to adopt positions which have brought accusations of extremism and impossibilism; but to-day no one is asking them to abate one jot of their ideals or principles. They at the moment are suffering under a deep sense of wrong and regard Monhammed Hahmoud Pasha (Egyptian Prime Minister) as a man who has overthrown constitutional government.' (This refers to the fact that Mahmoud Pasha defeated the former Prime Minister, Agloul Pasha, strong Nationalist leader.) There is clearly a danger that their judgment of the proposals may be colored by the fact that they are necessarily made through his medium. We trust he will consider the proposals which are made to the Egyptian people and to the new Parliament, on their merits."

Egyptian Press Pleased

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 7 (C.P. Cable)—The press of Egypt believe the new Anglo-Egyptian proposals are the best that have yet been offered, calling as they do for withdrawal of British troops in Egypt to the Suez Canal zone and placing on the Egyptian Government responsibility for the safety of lives and property of foreigners.

The draft treaty embodying the proposals should be examined in the most careful and non-partisan spirit, it is agreed.

The vernacular newspaper Al Ahram says: "Egypt gains a real advantage by these proposals." It points out that the proposals only bind Egypt politically and therefore she is entirely free regarding her economic and financial projects.

"The only really weak point is the question of the Soudan," the newspaper adds, "But anyhow this question has also made a step forward."

TOURIST BOOTH MOST POPULAR

In Two Days Seventy-five Parties Sought Information at Bureau.

WANT GOOD FISHING.

The tourist information bureau operated on the corner of Charlotte street and Monaghan road by the Peterborough Automobile Club has now been open about ten days and has proven very popular amongst the visiting tourists. Every day many parties have been assisted regarding routes, local directions and accommodations. About forty-five parties stopped during Sunday and more than thirty on Monday.

The information most asked for by these inquirers is how to get up to the waters in the Stoney Lake region. Nearly all express the desire for good fishing and a surprising number have the intention of "roughing it" instead of putting up at one of the hotels where they can get all the conveniences. At the same time many demand good golf facilities as well as a district where they can "rough it" and thus sorely perplex the willing attendants of the booth.

Since the opening many tourists have been found accommodations in the city for over-night stays. A list of the accommodations available is maintained by the bureau attendants and tourists inquiring for such are readily looked after.

Arrange Trips.

Numerous trips have been arranged for local people outward-bound. The courses of these trips are of a divers nature, some north, east and west, but mostly to the south.

The inquirers from outside the city hail in most part from Toronto and western cities of Ontario but Ohio comes a close second. The States of New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois also yield many. Several have registered at the booth from points as distant as Regina, Saskatchewan.

The booth has been stained a natural brown colour and is very attractive in its representation of a log cabin. Two large flags, one American and the other the Union Jack, are flown in front. A sign is placed to catch the eye of approaching tourists on the highway without being so large as to disfigure the site. The bureau has been equipped with electric lights and a telephone.

Large maps have been framed in handy positions in the room. They are maps of the continent, Ontario, Eastern Canada and United States, and the city of Peterborough.

Pease "Economy" FURNACE

For a furnace to give entire satisfaction it must heat perfectly with a minimum of attention and with the greatest economy. Read how these achievements have impressed the writer of this letter.

"I am using a Pease Furnace, and I have used a good many, and I have found none to compare with the Pease. It is wonderful and very easy to operate. I would advise anyone to have a Pease Furnace."

Indicative of the great attention paid to detail in the design of the "Economy" Furnace is the Dust Pipe which draws up dust from the ashpit into the combustion chamber. There are many similar exclusive features. Write for details about them, or come in and let us tell you about them.

AMBASSADOR C. T. DAVIES TALKS AGAIN WITH RAMSAY MACDONALD

New Developments Expected On Naval Disarmament From Meet.

PREMIER MEETS ALEXANDER

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—New steps in the series of Anglo-American conversation on naval disarmament were taken yesterday when Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes and Premier MacDonald conferred at No. 10 Downing street yesterday afternoon.

Two attaches from the United States Embassy accompanied the Ambassador to the Premier's official residence.

During the morning Premier MacDonald had a talk with First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander. He also received Lord Thomson, Minister of Air.

LONDON, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Ramsay MacDonald returned yesterday from a holiday at his old home, Lossiemouth, Scotland, to see General Dawes, American Ambassador. While the subject of their discourse was not announced, it was supposed to be a continuation of naval reduction conversations.

Replying to questions put him upon his arrival at King's Cross station early yesterday, the Premier said: "Yes, I have come back to London to see General Dawes. I expect I shall be seeing him today."

He planned to return to Lossiemouth later in the week.

BIG RECEPTION WELL PLANNED

Loud Speakers Will Be Used For Civic Reception Monday Night.

PARADE TO-NIGHT.

Elaborate preparations have been made for a fitting reception for the latest of Peterborough's sons to bring honor to his native city. When Archbishop O'Brien arrives at the C.P.R. station at eight o'clock (standard time) this evening, he will be met by a huge assembly of the men of the city and district parishes. Escorted by the band of the Peterborough Rangers, he will then proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, where the grounds, as well as those of his own residence and of the rectory adjoining, have been profusely decorated with dozens of overhead flags, pennants and long strings of colored lights, as well as several large "Welcome" signs.

In the cathedral, also decorated with flags and flowers for the memorable occasion, loud speakers have been installed, so that all may hear the Archbishop's words and the addresses to be read by Monsignor McColl of Lindsay and J. R. Corkery of Peterborough.

Loud speakers, which are such a convenience to the audience at any large gathering, will also be installed on the grounds of St. Mary's Convent next Monday evening, when the civic reception to the Archbishop will take place.

PRINCE THINKS SHOT ACCIDENT

Brother of Dead Chinese Prince Makes Decision After Talk With Chang.

TAKES BODY TO DAIREN

MOJI, Japan, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Chang Tsung-Chang, former Chantung war lord, appeared here with his suite yesterday morning and met Prince Hsien Lung, brother of Prince Hsien Kai, youthful Manchu, who was shot and killed while visiting Chang last Friday.

The two, Chang, the former coolie, and Lung, the fourteenth son of the Manchu Prince Su, talked for a while, and then left together for Beppu, where Lung will secure his brother's remains and take them back to Dairen.

Hsien Lung upon his arrival aboard a Dairen steamer told reporters he believed his brother's death accidental. Kai, he said, was an ardent advocate of the re-establishment of the Manchu monarchy in Mukden. He participated in a number of intrigues in that direction at the time of Chang Tso-Lin's assassination, but Lung insisted there was no connection between this and his shooting.

Chang Not Arrested.

TOKYO, Aug. 7. — (Canadian Press).—Chang Tsung Chang, former Shantung China war lord, and his secretary are being examined by the procurator and preliminary judge of the Beppu, Kiushiu district, in connection with the fatal shooting Friday of Prince Hsien Kai, cousin of the former Boy Emperor of China, P'u-Yi. Chang claims the shooting was accidental.

However, they have not been arrested and no action corresponding to a formal charge or an indictment in United States law has been taken against them. Extradition of China was regarded as highly improbable since Japan has no extradition ready with China.

BORDER TRANSIT TO ADD NEW BUS

Parlor Type Coach Will Soon Make Its Appearance On City Streets.

NEW UNIFORMS ORDERED.

A new addition to the Peterborough Bus Lines of the Border Transit Company, in the form of a parlor type coach will soon make its appearance in the city. This is the second bus to be added to the transportation system of this city this year and seems to point to the fact that the company is doing all in its power to make the bus service in Peterborough as modern and as adequate as is possible.

There is some difference between the coach type car and the bus body. In the latter it is possible for one to walk erect to the seats but in the coach the passenger has to bend slightly in entering. It has been found that the lower type is much more satisfactory for longer trips as the seats are usually slung lower and are in a more restful position.

The seats on this new coach will be wicker and fitted with pneumatic cushions. This new vehicle combined with sight seeing bus that was received at the local bus headquarters earlier in the year, adds two entirely different types to the Peterborough Bus lines and places at the disposal of their patrons a fleet which contains a car to meet every whim.

Soon the operators of the Bus lines will appear in new uniforms. The Tip Top Tailors were successful in receiving the contract for these and delivery is promised in the near future.

NOVELTIES TO BE KEYNOTE AT DANCE

Lucky Number Prizes At Melody Inn To-night.

Eric G. Roberts, much rather known by nickname as "Rick" Roberts, born and raised in Peterborough, is a young man with ideas in the amusement game of about ten years ahead of the times and just about the time that most everybody thinks that there is nothing new under the sun, Rick Roberts goes and does it, and like shrewd managers, is like the diamond merchant who realizes that the most precious jewel, uncut and unmounted, appears as worthless glass to the unknowing, but subjected to the skillful cutting operations of the lapidary and expertly mounted in a proper setting its sparkling beauty is revealed to fascinate all. So with dance pavilions, even the best featured ballroom remains an empty-like room without color effect. Color is the magic, the attraction, and without color, entertainment is cold and unattractive.

Rick Roberts has brought the latest invention of the amusement world to Melody Inn at a great expense in keeping with his policy to make Melody Inn the best in this section. The Crystal Myriad Reflector now installed is a novelty unlike anything ever seen, sending forth thousands of small reflections— dancing, changing, chasing one another into every nook and coner, the dancers, audience, in fact, every person in the place is actually in the novelty, the reflections so produced create an effect so indescribably beautiful that words fail in telling the story. The Myriad Reflector is a magnificent dome, thirty inches in diameter, one of the largest of its kind, completely covered with more than 2,000 special made mirrors. It is suspended from above and rotated slowly by a small driven mechanism. While thus in motion, four spot lights (with colored slides if you will) are focused upon it from different angles and properly accompanied by good music against an ever changing background of effect lighting.

McCORMICK-DEERING NEWS

Good equipment makes a good farmer better

Vol. 1, No. 20 Peterboro Wednesday, August 7, 1929

Watch for the "News" each week. Suggestions and news items invited.
W. Burns, Editor.

Yankee: "I see Babe Ruth walked twice yesterday."

Englishman: "Really, she should be more careful with whom she rides."

Picking up potatoes dug by a McCormick-Deering Potato Digger is like picking them up off a barn floor. The thorough agitation shakes all the dirt loose and a special arrangement deposits the potatoes in a neat, easily gathered row.

The keyhole is frequently a fine test for sobriety.

All-steel construction, mounted on a durable steel frame, is fireproof and not subject to damage from vibration. If you need a new threshing rig this fall, don't fail to see the McCormick-Deering.

"Now doctor," said the patient, "all I need is something to stir me up—put me in fighting trim, you know." "Wait until you get my bill," said the doctor. "That will do it."

A hot spark? And how! The magneto of the McCormick-Deering Tractor Engine specializes in the kind of a spark that turns fuel into economical power in the coldest weather.

Reputation is a personal possession seldom discovered until lost.

We sell the best line for the best farmers in the best country on earth.

"There is a big tomcat that scratches my plants, then sits and actually defies me." "Why don't you throw a brick at him?" "That's what makes me mad—het gets on top of my greenhouse."

Ball and roller bearings at all points of friction make the McCormick - Deering Binder the easiest running machine of its kind.

The average man's life is now divided between worry over two tubes — radio and inner.

So Long. See You Next Week.

W. BURNS—The Farm Equipment Man.

80 BOYS UNDER QUARANTINE

PARTY OF BOYS ARE EXPELLED FROM BELGIUM

German Lads Calling Themselves Boy Scouts Cause Trouble at Nieuport.

ARE ARRESTED.

English Immigration Officials Refuse To Allow Boys To Land in England.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Aug. 8 (Canadian Press).—A party of 124 German lads from Rhine provinces who call themselves Boy Scouts, has been expelled from Belgian territory by order of a magistrate after a noisy passage across Belgium to England and back again.

The boys scandalized the population of Nieuport early this week by singing the German National Anthem and, it is alleged, threatening the local police with daggers.

The boys said they were going to the Scouts' Jamboree at Arrowe Park, England, but when they crossed to Dover the chief immigration inspector there would not allow them to proceed on their journey. It is stated he considered them undesirables.

The party returned yesterday to Ostend and took up quarters on the Dunes, where Belgian gendarmes arrested all of them. They were sent home last night, after their cameras had been confiscated. The leaders of the group protested to the German Minister in Brussels.

GRAF ZEPPELIN SPEEDING HOME

Giant Airliner Is Averaging 100 Miles Per Hour Over Atlantic.

RECORD SPEED.

WASHINGTON, D.C., August 8 (Canadian Press). — The Graf Zeppelin reported to the Navy Department to-day that its position at 11 a.m. (eastern standard time) was 40.12 north, 60.35 west, approximately 630 miles east of New York.

Messages from the world-girdling dirigible Graf Zeppelin herself and from ships that sighted her at sea indicated to-day that the queen of the ocean skies was roaring over the first part of her Atlantic flight at a clip of approximately 100 miles an hour.

Within a period of about two hours from 5.40 to 7.35 (eastern standard time), this morning, the Graf Zeppelin reported her own position, and two steamers, the Commercial Trader and the President Roosevelt, reported sighting her at given positions.

Record Speed.

The three positions and their times made possible the computation that during these morning hours the Zeppelin was beyond Nantucket Shoals and proceeding practically due east at a rate some 15 miles an hour faster than her maximum cruising speed, presumably due to strong tail winds although none of the three messages mentioned existing weather conditions.

Prior to these reports her average speed from Lakehurst, which she left at 11.40 (eastern standard time) last night, was only about 60 miles an hour, although this slower speed was no doubt largely due to the fact that considerable time was spent circling New York.

The Weather

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, Toronto, Ont., Aug. 8 (C.P.) — The weather has been fair throughout the Dominion, warm in the West and moderately warm in Eastern Canada. Pressure continues low over Hudson's Bay and high over the Lower Lakes and North Atlantic States.

DISEASE HITS Y.M.C.A. CAMP AT OTTAWA

Boys' Camp Authorities Report One Case of Infantile Paralysis.

SITUATION WATCHED.

No Alarm Is Being Felt Over Cases Reported in Capitol City.

OTTAWA, August 8. (C.P.) — Infantile paralysis, breaking out in a Y.M.C.A. boys' camp at Shirley's Bay, just outside the city, has brought a quarantine which will keep 60 boys under canvas for some time longer than the camp authorities planned, despite the fact that only one case has been reported from the camp.

Authorities at the Strathcona isolation hospital stated to-day the case from the boys' camp makes the sixth which has come under the notice of the authorities.

City health authorities hastened to secure a supply of the blood serum used in fighting the disease as soon as the first case was reported to them. At the present time no alarm is felt over the situation, although the authorities admit that the number of cases is unusually high.

Dr. A. L. McKay, deputy myologist for the Ontario Department of Health, conferred this morning with Dr. P. J. Maloney, District Medical Officer of Health. He stated that although there were only a few cases in the district he and Mr. Maloney were keeping in close touch with the situation.

MANCHESTER, England, August 8 (Canadian Press). — A definite move to settle the wage dispute which resulted in the great Lancashire cotton industry stoppage affecting more than 500,000 workers, was made today by representatives of the Council of the Trades Union Congress, who investigated the whole situation this morning.

After interviewing operatives and officials they called meetings for tomorrow. The weavers' leaders at one hotel and the spinners' and cardroom leaders at another in hope of healing the breach in the unions, and presenting a united front to the employers.

BRITAIN WILL AGREE TO PLAN OF EVACUATION

Briand Has No Objections To Leaving Rhineland Inside Three Months.

DIFFER ON CONTROL.

Britain's Attack On Reparations Settlement Divides Hague Into Two Camps.

LONDON, Aug. 8 (C.P.)—The Exchange Telegraph Company to-day said it had learned on good authority British delegates to The Hague Conference had made it clear to France and Germany that in the event of their coming to an agreement between themselves on evacuation of the Rhineland Great Britain would accept such an agreement unconditionally.

Lay Cards on Table

THE HAGUE, Aug. 8 (C.P.)—French and German views on evacuation of the Rhineland were stated flatly today to each other by Premier Briand of France and Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, in a private conversation at the Hotel Des Indies.

While the French Premier and German Foreign Minister were in accord on the central principle of evacuation of the occupied district, they were at complete variance on the measure of control which is to be substituted for military forces.

Has No Objections

M. Briand raised no objections to Dr. Stresemann's contention that evacuation should be concluded within three months, after adoption of the Young plan except such objections as material difficulties of removing the men might present.

He told Dr. Stresemann, however, he could not acquiesce so readily in his refusal to consider the setting up of a commission on the left bank of the Rhine to oversee armament activities.

Divided Over Question

THE HAGUE, Aug. 8 (C.P.).—With the nations at The Hague conference for putting into effect the Young plan thrown into two camps by Great Britain's attack on certain features of the reparations settlement, the work of the conference was yesterday divided into two sections in the interests of prudent diplomacy. Germany took a third position a little apart from the argumentative Allies.

Separate commissions were named to deal with the political and financial sides of the discussions, a division which it was not necessary to make at the non-political Paris conference which formulated the Young plan.

GARMENT MAKERS STRIKE.

AUSTRALIA OBJECTS TO TACTICS ADOPTED BY BRITAIN IN EGYPT

British Chancellor Will Press Demand

THE HAGUE, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared categorically today in the financial committee of The Hague conference to put into effect the Young Plan that Great Britain would not give way on her demand for an increased share of German reparations and that his government regarded the point as a fundamental one.

Claims Empire Is Committted To Debatable Policy Without Asking Dominions.

SUEZ TROOPS NOT ENOUGH.

MELBOURNE, Australia, August 8. (C. P. Cable.) — Judging by the leading newspapers there is much anxiety in Australia over the proposed Anglo-Egyptian treaty which will restrict British troops in Egypt to the Suez Canal zone, and will place on the Egyptian government, instead of the British, responsibility for the safety of lives and property of foreigners in Egypt. As the Suez Canal is a vital link in communication between Great Britain and the Southern Dominions, Australia is intensely affected by the British policy in Egypt.

The Melbourne Herald says Premier MacDonald has virtually committed the Empire to a debatable policy, without consulting the Dominions. It refers to the unpublished messages which went forth from Premier Stanley Bruce of Australia to Premier MacDonald, presumably emphasizing Australia's interest in the future control of Egypt.

"A changed Egyptian policy is precisely such a case as the Imperial Conference intended should be submitted for discussion by tribunals, but this is precisely the state of affairs against which foreign residents in Egypt complain," the Herald says. It cites the trials of the murderers of Sir Lee Stack, Sirdar of the Egyptian Army, six years ago, which led to the resignation of Judge Kirshaw as a protest against "a gross miscarriage of justice."

The Herald also refers to the Egyptian government's introduction of the Assemblies bill, which would have encouraged malcontents to engage in anti-foreign demonstrations and would have discouraged the police from suppressing such demonstrations.

Premier Bruce would be doing less than his duty if he did not protest most strenuously against the manner in which the British undertaking has been forgotten or ignored, the Herald concluded.

The Sydney Herald considers the provisions of the proposed treaty are likely to cause most anxiety in so far as they affect the capitulations. That, is, the new treaty will bind the British government to induce other powers to consent to abolition of extra-territorial rights in Egypt. The existence of the capitulatory system is tantamount to an assertion that foreigners would not be fairly treated by the Egyptian authorities, the Sydney Herald points out.

SIR PERCY LORAINE IS WELL ABLE TO FILL DIFFICULT POST IN EGYPT

Appointment Meets With General Approval of British Diplomatic Corps.

LONG SERVICE.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Sir Percy Loraine, new British High Commissioner to Egypt, was the logical successor to Lord Lloyd in the opinion of those well-informed in diplomatic circles. In view of the fact that Sir Percy assumes office at perhaps the most important point in the history of British relations with Egypt, when a new treaty is being promulgated, it is interesting to note that he has adopted diplomacy as his sole profession, whereas Lord Lloyd had experience not only of diplomacy but of adventurous war service, work in the great bank bearing his name and eight years in parliament.

The appointment of Sir Percy, announced last night, will certainly be popular among the permanent staff of the foreign office, and it is notable that Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, in one of his earliest and most important appointments as foreign secretary, should select a member of the regular diplomatic service, for service in Egypt. The proposed new treaty provides for an ambassador in Egypt in place of the high commissioners, so that Sir Percy will almost certainly succeed to this office in the event of the treaty being ratified.

Sir Percy, who is 49 years of age, entered the diplomatic service by competitive examination and was appointed to the Constantinople embassy in 1904. In the following year he was granted a special allowance for his knowledge of Turkish and later went to Teheran, also earning a special allowance for his knowledge of Persian. He then served in Pekin, Paris and Rome. He was British minister to Persia from 1921 to 1926, and since then British Minister to Greece.

Police On Returning Home To Find Three Dead in Bed

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—The wife of a Yonkers policeman and two boarders at their home were shot to death early to-day, apparently while they slept.

Patrolman Michael Reagan said he discovered the bodies upon his return home from a tour of duty shortly after 1.30 o'clock. He said two shots were fired over his head as he backed his automobile into the garage in the rear of his home, and upon entering the house he found his wife dead in bed with their two children, who were asleep. The two boarders, Patrick Flynn and Richard Kehoe, were found dead in an adjoining room. Reagan said he could assign no reason for the slayings.

TWO LOCAL MEN BUY AIRPLANE

Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman and Gerald Wood Buy New Gypsy Moth.

LATEST EQUIPMENT.

Another airplane is owned locally and will make this city its flying base. Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman and Gerald Wood two weeks ago bought a new specially designed Gipsy Moth.

This plane was built by DeHaviland and is designed for long flights, having a cruising radius of four and a half hours, with extra gas tanks. It has a metal fuselage and a metal propellor with the latest in navigating equipment.

It has only been in this vicinity during the past week, and at the present time Chemong Lake is serving as its base, Little Lake being dangerous for landing because of logs and dead heads. This plane has a yellow body with black wings.

Already the plane has carried Lt.-Col. Ackerman on several long trips. A week ago he flew from Montreal to Amos in the most northern mining region. The full course of the Ottawa River was followed, and the plane passed over Rouyn, doing the long journey in 6½ hours of flying time. A week ago last Sunday, during the high winds and storms, Lieut.-Col. Ackerman flew from Point-au-Bar-

Thousands Greet Peterborough's Son On Return to City

With Strains of "Home Sweet Home Played By the Rangers Band, Archbishop O'Brien Stepped On To Peterborough Soil Once More After Journey To Rome.

LARGE PROCESSION ESCORTED HIS GRACE FROM STATION TO ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL — ADDRESSES WERE READ

In His Address Archbishop O'Brien Referred With Great Satisfaction to the Concordat Now Existing Between Holy See and Italian State.

A royal welcome was extended to Archbishop O'Brien last night when he came back to the city which gave him birth, which has seen his successful career of thirty-two years as a priest of God and sixteen years of that time as a bishop, and which now sees him with fresh laurels in his recent appointment as Coadjutor Bishop of Kingston, with the right of succession to the See.

With the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" sounding in his ears, the Archbishop stepped on to Peterborough soil once more last evening from the special coach placed at his disposal by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company after an absence of several months abroad, and found hundreds of his fellow townsmen of various creeds gathered to meet him.

Walking down the station platform with a slight limp, a souvenir of his recent accident in Rome when he slipped on a stone and tore the ligaments of one leg, the Archbishop was accompanied by the Rev. Dr. Burns, of Kingston, who came with him from Rome, and the three priests, the Rev. J. J. O'Brien, the Rev. K. Corkery and the Rev. J. McAuley, of Ennismore, who went to New York to meet him on his return from the Holy City. A large number of priests from the diocese also were assembled to greet the Archbishop, who still retains his title of Bishop of Peterborough until such time as his successor is appointed. Entering a motor car, he headed the procession of men on foot who made their way up George and Hunter streets to St. Peter's Cathedral, accompanied by the band of the Peterborough Rangers, playing Gounod's "Marche Pontificale" and other appropriate selections. With their bright music and their snappy red uniforms, they made a brave showing, while the police of the city, in their trim blue suits, marshalled by Chief Newhall, gave splendid and efficient service in looking after the crowds and the dozens of motors at the station.

Grounds Decorated.

The Cathedral and its grounds, as well as the grounds of the episcopal residence and the priests' house were elaborately decorated for the occasion. Strings of overhead colored lights cast a bright radiance, while hundreds of pennants and little Canadian flags were used in conjunction with the yellow Papal flags and shields which decorated the church, inside and out. Large signs which bore "Welcome" and "God Save the ..ing" lettering were stretched across the way, while the pillars of the Bishop's palace were wreathed with the yellow bunting which was used profusely inside the church, on the choir and side galleries and the pulpit. Dozens of little Canadian flags also fluttered at the windows in the interior of the big edifice, which was filled to capacity last evening. The high altar was blazing with lights and fragrant with flowers.

On the expanse of green lawn at the Cathedral stood hundreds of the children of the four Separate schools of the city. The junior classes were represented in these little lads and lasses, in their white dresses and trig little black suits. They waved small flags and, led by the Rev. Father Finn and marshalled by several of the Sisters, they sang the welcome hymn to a beloved pastor returning to his flock, "Vivat, Pastor Bonus." On the lawn also, while the Archbishop's car stopped on its way to the Cathedral, a lovely bouquet of roses was presented by two girls in white, little Lucy Marocco of the Convent School and her small companion, Cecelia La Plante of the Lake Street School.

While the Cathedral bells pealed forth their welcome also, the Archbishop, who vested in St. Mary's Convent, entered and knelt at the Prie-Dieu placed in readiness at the front

OTTO GLIDDON WINS SAILING CHALLENGE CUP

Chemong Residents Hold One of Finest Regattas in History of Park.

EVENTS KEENLY CONTESTED

"Cuddy Lark" Beat Out the "Skiddy" By 100 Yards For Gordon Cup.

(By Staff Reporter.)

Never in the history of the Chemong regattas has the affair been favored with more propitious weather than it was yesterday. The sun graced the scene during the entire course of the gala event and the sparkling waters with looming white sails, humming outboard craft and busy canoes and skiffs on the surface presented a true holiday appearance. A breeze of just enough strength to make the sailing events interesting was present throughout the afternoon.

The regatta was successful from every standpoint, attracting a large crowd to the banks of Chemong Lake which thronged the natural grandstand that the banks of the lake provide at the scene of these annual events. The various events were run off with a promptness rarely attained on such occasions and the entrance lists were well filled. The regatta committee had made its arrangements well and was good-natured enough to arrange the races to suit the wishes of the contestants, so that no one was crowded out of any of the events.

A special feature that was greatly appreciated by the audience was a demonstration of canoemanship by one of the world's greatest exponents of the art, Reg. Bloomfield. Near the close of the afternoon, Mr. Bloomfield took his canoe to the foreground and demonstrated a number of feats with the craft in a manner that drew great applause.

Among the stunts was one for which he formerly held the world's record, namely flipping the canoe and getting back into it. In his demonstration yesterday he managed this feat in little over five seconds comparing favorably with the record of three seconds attained a great many years ago. He opened the show by riding the canoe from a standing position on the rear deck, propelling it without using paddle or hands in the water. Following this he filled the frail craft with water and accomplished the task of emptying it entirely of water in about fifteen seconds. Mr. Bloomfield showed his audience the true meaning of balance in a canoe by distributing his weight in such a fashion with the aid of a paddle that he was able to walk along the gunwale on one side of the canoe.

The crowd was frightened at one point during the demonstration by the sight of a canoeist upsetting and sending forth cries for help. How-

Two More Police Officers Begin Search For New York Youth Missing Over Week

TORONTO, Ont., August 8 (Canadian Press).—Alfred Cuddy, Deputy Commissioner of the Toronto Police, has instructed two more officers to go to Temagami, in Northern Ontario, and assist in the search for Franklin D. Mack, 19, formerly of New York, who has been missing a week. He disappeared after attending a dance in Temagami and has not been seen since, though his canoe and coat have been found.

Maurice E. Young, brother-in-law of the missing youth, left Toronto after a few hours' visit yesterday to continue his search for the boy.

Provincial Officer Comfordine, who has been investigating the case, said in his report that Mack had returned to his camp following the dance at Temagami, left his rowboat and its outboard motor, then started for a neighboring camp in a canoe. The following day the canoe was found floating right side up, with the young man's sweater and cap in it. The paddle, however, was missing.

Mauretania Fails To Beat New German Liner But Breaks Old Record By Nearly 4 Hours

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 8. — (Canadian Press).—The Cunard liner Mauretania passed Ambrose Lightship at 10.36 a.m. (E.D.T.) to-day, completing the crossing from Cherbourg in 4 days 2 hours and 44 minutes. The time was 3 hours and 50 minutes better than her own record, but 5 hours and 2 minutes behind the time of the champion North German Lloyd liner Bremen.

The liner was not observed at Ambrose because of a haze, but Captain S. G. S. McNeil of the 22-year-old Cunarder messaged the time to his New York offices.

The old Mauretania, for years queen of the seas until she was recently deposed by the new Bremen, made a valiant effort to equal the record. On three days of the voyage she equalled or surpassed 676 miles, her previous high daily run, but bad weather Tuesday and yesterday forced curtailment of speed. The Bremen's high daily run on its recent maiden voyage to New York was 713 miles.

FLYING CLUBS WILL ORGANIZE CONTROL BODY

Plan Huge Meet of All Clubs At Fort William in November.

TWO MEETS HELD.

Association Great Help To Civilian Flying and Bring Clubs Together.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—With the approval of officials representing practically every Flying Club in the Dominion, a coast-to-coast organization has been formed with the avowed purpose of stimulating interest in civilian flying throughout Canada and of providing a central body having control over the flying activities of all the clubs. The first annual meeting of this National Association is to be held in Fort William on November 1.

Decision to form the Association was reached as two separate conventions of flying men were held simultaneously at Regina and Ottawa on Monday and Tuesday of this week. The Toronto Flying Club was represented by the President, Captain Earl Hand, Director Jack Keens and Chief Instructor Carter Guest. There were also delegates at Ottawa from London, Ont., Hamilton, Kingston, Montreal, St. John and Halifax.

Keep Each Club.

Captain Hand felt the formation of a national organization in the interests of civilian flying would be of considerable value to each club in the Dominion, especially as the flying club development is expanded. The organization would provide for unified action in the interests of all the clubs, he pointed out, and would also serve to bring the various clubs into closer contact with each other.

One of the first duties of the association will be to form a committee that will handle the arrangements for all air meets. This is only an example of what will be done by the association, according to Captain Hand.

CANCER IS STILL MOST BAFFLING

Eminent Physician States Little Progress Has Been Made in Finding Cause.

RECOMMENDS OPERATION.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 8.—(C.P.)—Professor W. Wright, chairman of the examining board of the Royal College of Surgeons which has been sent from London, England to conduct at University of Toronto this week the first primary Fellowship examinations ever held outside of Great Britain, said yesterday that the cancer problem was almost as baffling a secret now as it ever was.

With a knowledge of all the latest medical research, since Great Britain, like Canada and other leading countries, has concentrated on the disease, professor Wright said medical authorities "are still in the dark" as to what caused cancer.

"If I had a cancer myself in any accessible place, I would have it removed by an operation," he said.

Professor Wright said radium is used very effectively in many cases. "There have been some fine results from radium with cancer of the tongue," he said.

The professor emphasized the attention being paid to diet by British people now than formerly.

709 TAKE SUMMER COURSE

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 8 (C.P.).—Summer classes of the University of Toronto have been the largest in its history. There were 709 enrolled in the teachers' course. The majority of the latter will continue their studies in the night classes throughout the fall and winter. Some 102 teachers will write examinations in September.

In the courses in Pedagogy at the Ontario College of Education there are 75 teachers taking courses.

Five Desperadoes With Two Machine Guns Line Up Diners on Floor.

$20,000 TAKEN.

All Jewelry Is Stolen Except One Lone Valuable Ring.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8. — The wealthy and fashionable golf element of the Flosmoor and Olympia Country Clubs were compelled by the convincing appeal of machine guns and automatics to contribute some $20,000 in cash and jewels to the pockets of six bandits. A goodly number had entered the Richland farm, a large roadhouse at 110th Street and Richland Avenue, for dinner. An automobile drove up and five men, carrying two sub-machine guns, hopped out one remained in the driver's seat and kept the engine running. One bandit went to the rear door. One to the side door, at which they took post. Two walked in the front entrance with the two machine guns.

"This is a stick-up and everybody must sit on the floor," were the first words that fell on the ears of the guests. Many thought it was a new form of entertainment invented by Robert Holmes, the host, and they talked back with laughter.

"Get down and get down quick," was the command, and the guests obeyed. Servants and guests who tried to escape by back and side doors were taken prisoners. One man was knocked down with a tap on the head from a gun.

Only one woman succeeded in saving a ring and she slipped it off while arranging her short dress under her in sitting on the floor.

C.P.R. EMPLOYES OFF TO ORILLIA

Over Four Hundred From Peterborough Attend Annual Picnic.

TWO SPECIAL TRAINS.

This was a great day in the lives of the Canadian Pacific Railway men, the day of their annual picnic. Approximately 2,500 persons passed through this city on two special trains this morning to Orillia where the field day was held. About 400 people from Peterborough and the surrounding district boarded the train here this morning to join the merry makers.

The first train consisting of twenty-four coaches passed through the city at 8.50 o'clock while the second one of 15 cars on which the Peterborough delegation travelled arrived about 9.30 a.m.

All the railway men and their friends take advantage of this annual outing and flock from Havelock to Orillia, the division which holds the affair, to the picnic grounds.

Then again it is a cheap day, the trip only costing adults the sum of one dollar and the children are allowed to travel free with all the ice cream that they can eat supplied by the company. A few envious persons unable to leave their duties stood on the station platform as the specials pulled out and one said: "If it had have only been last week when I was off", and as he was uttering these words a hatless individual dashed out of a taxi onto the platform only to see the picnic special's smoke disappearing on the horizon.

Each year the affair grows larger. Last year there was only one special train but the crowd this year required two.

COTTON DEADLOCK EASED

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Daily News to-day says the deadlock in the cotton industry has been relieved. Announcement or arbitration was expected which would restore peace before the end of the week. The stoppage is now in its second week with more than 500,000 operatives idle.

E. W. BEATTY IS CONFIDENT OF THE FUTURE

Take More Than One Crop To Break Canada, Declares C.P.R. President.

RAILWAYS WILL LOSE.

Company Is Not Bringing Out Any Harvest Immigrants This Year.

TORONTO, August 8. (C.P.) — "It takes more than one short crop to break Canada," said E. W. Beatty, the president and chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railway / when queried last night regarding the western Canada wheat crop situation.

"Of course the railways will lose," he said, "but only on that one source of revenue. Mining, lumbering and other industries have developed to such an extent in the past year or two that we will more than make up."

Mr. Beatty said the railways will lose, but not to any great extent, but lose nevertheless through not bringing out farm laborers from Great Britain. The Canadian Pacific Railway will only transport harvesters from the east to the prairies, and probably no more than 10,000 will be needed, he said.

"We only bring the men out for the harvest from the old country because every one of them is a potential settler, and may make his home in Canada," said Mr. Beatty.

"But when we see Canada does not need them we will not urge them to come. We will not bring any out this year."

"He said the C.P.R. was not considering any new developments in its service such as an aviation branch.

GOV'T STUDIES LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Premier King Indicates Announcement On New Plans in Suppression Soon.

CO-OPERATE WITH U. S.

OTTAWA, August 8. ((C.P.) — The Dominion Government is studying ways by which it can more effectively co-operate with the United States in the suppression of liquor smuggling. The question was again before the cabinet at its meeting yesterday.

At the conclusion of the meeting Premier W. L. Mackenzie King said: "Since the United States officials have become more active themselves in preventing liquor smuggling it seems appropriate that further measures of co-operation should be considered by the Dominion Government."

The Prime Minister indicated there might be an announcement in a few days of new regulations in the way of co-operation in suppressing the traffic.

Brakeman Catches Trout With Bare Hands Alone

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 8 (C.P.).—William Mitchell, a brakeman on the Algoma Central Railway, had the unusual experience at Hubert, north of the Sault, of catching a three-pound trout with his bare hands. While engaged in throwing a switch he heard a splash in the lake beside him, and looking around he saw the speckled beauty. Quickly he reached down and seized the trout just behind the gills, and carried it off with him.

ZEPPELIN TAKES OFF ON ROUND WORLD FLIGHT

Leaves Lakehurst Early This Morning With Twenty-two Passengers.

21,700 MILE VOYAGE.

Trip Looked On As One of the Greatest Adventures of Aviation.

LAKEHURST, N.J., Aug. 8 (Canadian Press).—Sweeping up into an overcast sky on the longest trip ever attempted by a dirigible, the Graf Zeppelin took off at 12.40 o'clock this morning, bound on her 21,700-mile voyage girdling the globe. Like a monster whale she rose from her moorings and pointed a gleaming nose toward the Atlantic, already spanned by her on three occasions.

Her silvery radiance was dimmed to a dull slate in the shadows of midnight. From under her sides twinkled the yellow cabin lights, indicating the whereabouts of 22 passengers—one of them a woman—and the duty posts of the 41 members of her crew, embarked on one of the greatest adventures of aviation.

TWO YOUTHS ARE DROWNED

Companion Has Narrow Escape in Attempted Rescue—Fall From Log.

AT WELLAND.

WELLAND, Ont., Aug. 8 (Canadian Press)—Two boys were drowned when they fell from a log on which they had been playing in the canal here yesterday, while a third boy who went to aid his chums had a narrow escape when the treacherous undertow pulled him under several times.

The victims were George Colangelo, 16, and Maurice O. Goldsmith, 16. They had gone down to the canal to see Alex. Gabodi, 16, swim, but after watching him for a while had grown tired and had secured a log to play with. They were standing on it and pushing themselves along the canal bank when one pushed too hard and the log moved out into the current and both youths were thrown into the water.

Gabodi immediately swam to their aid and had managed to reach Goldsmith when the undertow pulled him under.

The bodies of Colangelo and Goldsmith were recovered half an hour later and a pulmotor used on them without success.

After the second bottle of TANLAC, I had gained eleven pounds and felt like a new person. This was two years ago, and I have never had a sick day since."

YOUTH SURRENDERS TO POLICE FOR FIRING PARLIAMENT DOORS

Johnson Gives Up After Police Had Failed To Find Clues.

FACES ARSON CHARGE.

REGINA, Aug. 8 (Canadian Press).—Donald Johnston, 21-year-old Regina youth, walked into the police station yesterday and confessed that he set fire to the doors of the Legislative Buildings on the morning of June 30. Johnston appeared in Police Court, charged with arson, and was remanded without pleading until August 14.

The main front doors of the Saskatchewan Legislative Buildings were badly burned in the early morning of June 30. A passing motorist noticed the flames and sent in the alarm. Damage was not heavy. Written on the walls of the building beside the doors was: "Gardiner and Crime." Until the arrest yesterday of Johnston, police had announced no clues as to the persons who set the doors on fire.

MISSING YOUTHS RETURN

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 7 (C.P.)—Fears for the safety of Robert and Percy Soutar, and two other young fishermen of Ottawa, were relieved when they returned home last night, with their disabled automobile in tow of a repair car. When the youths failed to return on Monday from a week-end fishing expedition in the Gatineau Valley, a search for them was started. They were discovered on a little used road, miles from a telephone or garage, with their auto broken down.

Figures on the liquor traffic in Canada covering sales in eight of Canada's nine provinces were released yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Government control is in effect in all Provinces excepting Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

FIRES STARTED BY PYROMANIAC

Nine Fires in Sierra National Forests Believed To Have Been Set Deliberately.

SEARCH FOR CULPRITS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—A pyromaniac said to have used improvised firepots made of candles, oil soaked rags and tin cans, was blamed by forest service officials here yesterday for nine fires in the Sierra National Forests in Mariposa County, Cal.

Rangers declared the candles had been of varying lengths so the fires would break out simultaneously after the firepots had been placed miles apart. A hunt for suspicious characters was started.

The forest service officials said a fire burning under control near Jersey-Dale had swept 3,000 acres both inside and outside the Sierra Forest. This was one of the alleged incendiary fires.

Girl Learning To Drive Kills Two Boys in Cart; Novice Confused As Youngsters Appear in Wagon

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—A 17-year-old girl learning to drive, ran down and killed two small boys at Fort Hamilton Parkway and Eighty-third street, Brooklyn, last evening.

The girl, Miss Margaret Schmonsees, of Brooklyn, told police she had become confused when the boys, riding in a home-made wagon with a soap-box body and roller-skate wheels, appeared before her.

The dead: Nicholas Amendola twelve; William Tapte, ten.

The girl said she sounded the horn, but then became confused, and thought the boys were out of her way. Witnesses told police the Tapte boy was hurled across the street and young Amendola dragged by the car, which shot up onto the sidewalk and ran across a five-foot embankment beyond.

The Amendola boy's body was pinned down by the crank case of the car. Ambulance Surgeon Brandewein of the United Israel Zion Hospital, crawled under the machine. He crawled out again with word the boy was dead.

The body was under the car for an hour and a half, until a wrecker lifted the automobile. There were four occupants of the automobile, including the driver, Miss Schmonsees.

Police detectives, who took the four to the station house for questioning, said all were hysterical for more than an hour after the accident.

According to the detectives, McCoppin was teaching Miss Schmonsees to drive and that she had no license. She and McCoppin will be charged with technical homicide, the detectives said. Both were still being questioned several hours after the accident.

ARCHBISHOP O'BRIEN WELCOMED HOME BY LARGE AUDIENCE

entrance. The long line of men from the city and district, marshalled by Harry Gainey and Samuel Hoolihan, who had marched in procession from the railway station, filled the central pews, and the hundreds of people who had been waiting for some time filed in and took their seats until the big church was filled to capacity.

The address from the laity of the diocese was read by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl, of Lindsay, surrounded by clergy from the surrounding district. It was followed by an address from the laity, read by J. R. Corkery, who was accompanied into the sanctuary by a representative body of men. The purse of gold which accompanied the latter address was presented by Sylvester Shaughnessy.

His Grace Replies.

His Grace, replying to both addresses, spoke in the warm, eloquent, friendly fashion which is characteristic at all times of his pulpit utterances, and which has endeared him to the hearts of his people. He reiterated, more than once, the heartfelt gratitude he felt at the public demonstration of friendship from all classes in the community, and spoke of the request he had made, when in Rome, in audience with the Pope, that the Holy Father bless, not only the Catholic people of Peterborough and the diocese, but also the non-Catholics in residence there.

Manifestly somewhat fatigued by his long journey and the pain of the recent accident, His Grace managed, nevertheless, to give his people an idea of what had transpired since his departure on April 13th, accompanied by the Rev. Dean Crowley, of Sault Ste. Marie, and the Rev. J. McAuley, of Ennismore.

"This wonderful welcome and the extent of the goodness and kindness of the people of the city of Peterborough is so overwhelming that I am at a loss what to say. I want to answer both of these addresses in which you attribute to me a character I do not possess but which is just a reflex of the kindness you have always shown me, both as priest and bishop," His Grace, referring to the address read by Monsignor McColl, spoke of the years in which he had been curate under "the wise administration" of the Monsignor, and of the loyalty which the latter, as well as all the priests of the diocese, had shown towards himself at all times. He then went on to thank the Rev. Father Costello for the splendid organization shown in the welcome arranged for him, also the people, the children who sang, and the Sisters who trained them.

His Grace reviewed briefly the visit made by him to Rome, his stay at Lisieux, the birthplace of the little Saint Therese of the Holy Face, known as the "Little Flower"; the time spent at Lourdes and Marseilles, at Genoa and at Rome.

He spoke of the great surprise to himself experienced in the announcement of his appointment to the Kingston diocese and of his conversations with the Holy Father over the matter.

Refers to Concordat.

He referred with great satisfaction to the Concordat now existing between the See of Peter and the Italian State and to the benefits which will naturally ensue from this change in conditions in Italy. He also alluded to the necessity of more religious education in the schools of the land, as evidenced by an increasing desire in this regard manifested by many sections of the community.

Speaking of the address from the laity, read by Mr. Corkery, he alluded to the reference to his part in the task of promoting the Total Abstinence Society in this city, and said that, coming from a country where wine was used as a daily drink, he considered that the best means of prohibition of drink was through voluntary abstinence.

Concluding his talk with another expression of gratitude, His Grace imparted the Papal Benediction to the congregation. This was followed by the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, the music for which was sung, by the pupils from St. Peter's High School, who also sang "Ecce Sacerdos," the hymn which draws to the attention the presence of a beloved prelate. Benediction was solemnized by His Grace, assisted by the Rev. J. J. O'Brien and the Rev. J. McAuley, of Ennismore. The Rev. P. Costello and the Rev. J. Finn acted as masters of ceremonies, and Master John Burke was train-bearer for the Archbishop.

Priests in the sanctuary included Monsignor McColl, of Lindsay; Monsignor Kelly, of Cobourg; Dean O'Sullivan, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception; Dean O'Leary, of Bracebridge; Rev. K. Corkery, Rev. C. Maloney, Rev. Peter McGuire, Rev. J. McGuire, of Douro; Rev. James McGuire, of Hastings; Rev. John McGrath, of the Chinese Mission at Scarboro Bluffs; Rev. Dr. Burns, of Kingston; Rev. P. Butler, of Cobourg; Rev. J. Guiry, of Port Hope; Rev. V. McFadden, of Trout Creek; Rev. Father Lynch, Rev. Father Black, of Lindsay; Rev. Father Collins, of Parry Sound; Rev. Father Garvey, of Lakefield; Rev. Father McCarney, of Trout Creek; Rev. Father Walsh, of Lindsay; Rev. Father Fuller, C.S.S.R., of Brockville; Rev. P. McCarthy, of Norwood; Rev. V. Corkery, of Bracebridge; Rev. G. Maher, of Huntsville, and Rev. Father Power, of Kearney.

On Behalf of Clergy.

The address read to His Grace by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor W. J. McColl, of Lindsay, formerly of Peterborough, on behalf of the clergy of the diocese, was as follows:

"May It Please Your Grace:

"We, the priests of the diocese of Peterborough, have come here tonight to welcome Your Grace back to Peterborough after your visit to His Holiness Pope Pius XI. Though your residence here may not be long, whatever its duration we are delighted to have you, and will do our best to make your stay pleasurable.

"We were grieved when we learned of the accident you met with while abroad, but now rejoice to witness the splendid recovery you have made.

"Sadness and joy seem to be necessary accompaniments of life in this world, but a kind Providence invariably arranges things for the best. We were saddened to learn of your appointment to another diocese, but delighted to know that the head of the church recognized your ability and worth by promoting you to a higher sphere and conferring upon you the dignity of archbishop.

"Our own diocese under your able and kindly rule has made great progress. You were no stranger to us when you became our bishop, and we expected great things from you, but our expectations have been more than realized in the development which has taken place, both spiritually and temporally, during your regime. As our spiritual head your indefatigable labors and zeal, your loyalty to the vicar of Christ, and your exactitude in carrying into practice the decrees of God's Holy Church, have been a great inspiration to us, and we believe the underlying principles of your success.

"Every feature of God's work has enlisted your fatherly care and attention. Mindful of our blessed Redeemer's injunction, 'Suffer the little ones come unto Me and forbid them not for such is the Kingdom of Heaven,' you have been especially solicitous for these innocent beloved of Christ. You have so facilitated the frequent reception of Holy Communion that a large proportion of the children may receive daily their Lord and Saviour. Ample schools have been furnished for their higher as well as primary education, and orphanages supplied for those bereaved of their parents. No portion of your diocese has been forgotten. You have given us ample church accommodation for the people as a whole, hospitals for the sick, and a refuge for the poor. But churches and institutions are useless without the personnel to manage them. Therefore, you fostered vocations to the priesthood in order that we may have a sufficient number of clergy to minister to the religious wants of your subjects. You also have encouraged young women to join the Sisters, who teach our schools, tend our sick, become daughters to our helpless aged and mothers to our orphans.

"But why continue to enumerate? The task would be too long. We can simply say, we cannot think of any duty either to clergy or laity, to child or adult, whether they be rich, poor, sick or bereaved, that you have not faithfully endeavoured to fulfill.

"God's Church is guided by the Holy Ghost. She acts for the good of her children as a whole. A bishop with less experience than yours can guide this diocese. Hence the vicar of Christ appointed you to a greater field of labor, and Kingston is to be congratulated on account of that appointment. We hope you may have many years yet of useful labor for Christ our King. We thank you for the kindness you have always shown to us, and the many favors granted, and we fervently pray that Almighty God, in the future as in the past, may bless all your undertakings."

On Behalf of Laity.

The following is the address read to His Grace the Archbishop by J. R. Corkery, on behaf of the laity of the Diocese of Peterborough:

"May it please Your Grace:—

"The Catholic laity of the Diocese of Peterborough have assembled here this evening to salute you on your advent to this cathedral from your ad limina visit to the Vicar of Christ and we, their representatives approach your episcopal throne to give sincere expression of that welcome. It was with great regret that we learned that Your Grace met with an unfortunate accident while in Rome which confined you under the physician's care for some two months, and it is now with great pleasure and satisfaction that we are aware that you have completely recovered and for that we express our gratitude to Almighty God for delivering you safely home.

"But this occasion has an added significance. Some three months ago you departed from your Episcopal See to present in person to Our Holy Father the Pope your report on the affairs of your diocese and you now return to us as Co-adjutor Archbishop of the See of Kingston. It is therefore eminently fitting that we should also offer to Your Grace our felicitations and express our joy for the honors that have been bestowed on you by the Holy See.

"To the laity of this diocese, and especially to those of the City of Peterborough to whom you have endeared yourself as a youth, student, priest and finally as bishop, to those of us who have intimately known you for your deep and sincere human qualities and as well for your thorough spiritual and sacerdotal qualities, your promotion has not come as a surprise. There are many among us who remember your early childhood, your diligence in school and your zeal for religion, which, fostered by the loving care of true and devoted parents, in the natural order of things culminated in the call by Almighty God to you to labor in His Vineyard. Thirty-two years ago you were ordained a priest of God, thereby realizing the pious hopes and aspirations of your youth, and you went forth with the sacred oils fresh upon your hands to discharge the duties of your sacred office in this Cathedral parish. We are cognizant of the intense zeal and devotion shown by you during your early priesthood, especially as the spiritual adviser of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society, to which office you brought an untiring energy that made that organization famous throughout the continent and to the accomplishments of which the whole community bears testimony. Success likewise attended your efforts and labors when to you was entrusted the first pastorship of the important Sacred Heart Parish in the City of Peterborough. Truly may it be said that the fruits of your labors during your early priesthood still live and flourish.

"Your possession of the necessary qualifications of true leadership and great executive ability were so evident that promotion became inevitable, and when Almighty God called to his eternal reward our late lamented Bishop He chose to call you as his successor, and now for the past sixteen years you have been occupying with dignity this Episcopal See of Peterborough. Throughout these years success has crowned your administration. Within the limits of your own immediate jurisdiction the Church has made remarkable progress. Vocations to the Holy Priesthood have increased. Education and especially higher Catholic education which is inseparable from religion always found in you a noble and zealous champion. The various institutions concerned with the caring of the sick, the orphan, the infirm and penniless old age have had your constant solicitude. Your achievements along these lines are well known and bear witness to your foresight and religious zeal and to your supreme devotion to the service of your Heavenly Master and to the spiritual and temporal welfare of those of the flock of Christ committed to your care. Aside from matters immediately concerning the Church in this diocese but in those concerns affecting Holy Mother Church in our Province you have taken a deep and abiding interest. The movement of the last few years having as its object the interests and rights of the Catholic Separate Schools of Ontario has had in Your Grace an eloquent and fearless exponent and leader, and when the people of this Province come to realize that a minority are now and have been suffering an injustice in matters of education and a just and equitable solution agreeable to all classes has been found, the rights obtained will be in a great measure attributable to your efforts.

"The Holy See has now seen fit to accord to you further promotion in nominating you to the historic See of Kingston, one of the oldest Catholic Dioceses in Canada, thereby giving recognition of your possession of eminent qualities both as a churchman and as an administrator. The success which has attended all your undertakings in the past gives us assurance that in the new sphere of your endeavors Your Grace will display the same burning zeal and devotion for religion. You bring to the exalted position to which God has called you a matured judgment seasoned by years of successful administration which will stand by you in maintaining the traditions of your illustrious predecessors.

"Your Grace, while on this occasion it is most fitting that joy should swell our hearts, yet it is but natural that our gladness is shadowed when we realize all that is implied by your elevation and translation from this diocese to the See of Kingston. For the moment our grief is assuaged by the knowledge that you will be with us for a short time at least, but in the course of events the Shepherd must bid farewell to his flock. That your departure from the Diocese of Peterborough will leave a void in the hearts of the people is stating it mildly, especially in the hearts of the faithful of this city and this cathedral parish wherein you have so long labored. However, realizing the infiniteness of God's wisdom whose depths we cannot fathom and knowing that your worth to Holy Mother Church will be greatly enhanced in your enlarged sphere, we humbly submit and pray that Almighty God may long spare and bless you to continue the work of your episcopal office, and that the years may be fruitful of great and lasting benefits to His church for His greater honor and glory.

"In conclusion, Your Grace, we ask you to accept this gift from the members of the laity of your diocese. From the fullness of our hearts we offer it as a token of our affection and esteem and as an assurance of our unwavering loyalty. May we be permitted to ask your blessing that we may always follow in the paths of righteousness which we know will lead to the greater prosperity of this diocese and the happiness of its people."

TRIBUTE TO A NATIVE SON.

The Aylmer street boy who as Michael O'Brien used to play around his father's home opposite the present site of the Nashua Paper Company, a studious, thoughtful boy in whose budding character appeared the unmistakable evidences of his vocation, returned again to his native city last night with the new and exalted dignity of Archbishop of the Catholic Church.

His life has been an open book to his fellow citizens, and although a great many of them are separated from him in his episcopal office, nevertheless there has always been a general admiration not only for his public interest and desire to co-operate in the city's affairs, but also for his high sense of duty as a curate, parish priest, bishop and henceforth as the Archbishop of Kingston. One of the earliest evidences of his sincerity to the solemn trust as a cure of souls was his dynamic, inspired leadership of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society. So conspicuous was his success in that labor of sobriety, of which he was spiritual director, that the society was awarded the banner for increased membership at a temperance convention in Milwaukee. The example of the old T.A.S. was an influence for good in the whole community, a spiritual aid that likewise assisted many men to a higher plane of temporal happiness.

Archbishop O'Brien in the latter years as Bishop of Peterborough bore the dignity and responsibility of his position with the same simplicity that was the promise of his youth and the fulfilment of his manhood and priesthood. His home-coming last night with all its affectionate greeting was a reminder that his days in this city are indefinitely numbered, and that the honors he received in Rome require his removal to the city of Kingston. This is a new occasion of congratulation to a distinguished native son, whose advancement has been so manifestly due to his ability and deep sense of duty. His future will extend in a nearby, but still another, field

THE PENSIONS BOARD.

The appointment of an Old Age Pensions Board by the City Council Tuesday night sets up a new piece of social machinery. Its actual operation will probably be deferred for several weeks or even until the holiday season is over, and for a time its progress will be chiefly the adjustment of a new instrument to the work for which it has been fashioned.

The Council's choice of members will be generally approved by the public. All of them have had more or less experience in those personal contacts and human relations which will be met with in their official deliberations, and which should equip them in a special manner of efficiency and sympathy for the inception of the Act in this city. The conditions pertaining to the granting of old age pensions seem to be clearly defined, but unusual circumstances may attach to some of the applications which will be received from time to time. These divergencies and their proper consideration will require the eleemosynary experience which nearly all the members of the board have gained in public trusts similar to those of the Pensions Board.

The appointment of City Clerk Armstrong as secretary of the board is an excellent choice. He will strengthen it in every respect of head and heart with a trained eye to the legal aspects of special problems within the Act. At the same time it means additional work for Mr. Armstrong after years of valuable service, which many ratepayers feel should be recognized by a generous superannuation arrangement that would leave him practically free to enjoy a well deserved rest with his optional assistance in the City Hall department which he has so long and so capably guided.

ALBERTA OIL FIELDS.

Memories of the Calgary oil boom of 1914, in the spring months that preceded the outbreak of the war, are brought back by a recent special edition of the Calgary Herald that is entirely devoted to the oil industry in Alberta, its present development and potential expansion and production.

The Herald declares its confidence that "within the next five years developments of extraordinary scope will place Alberta in the forefront as one of the world's greatest producers of oil."

This prediction is based upon the substantial progress and successful explorations that have been made during the last five years. Forgotten are the frenzied days of 1914 and the bursting of the beautiful "black gold" bubble. To-day in the Turner Valley, forty miles south-west of Calgary, there are at least 27 producing wells, and 30 wells in process of drilling. The report for the month of May presents an output of 88,302 barrels of crude naptha and light crude oil. It is also stated that these wells are producing approximately 222 million cubic feet of natural gas a day.

With the completion of the additional thirty wells next year, it is a conservative estimate, says the Herald, that within the next year the Turner Valley will be producing—AND WASTING—in the neighborhood of 400 million cubic feet of gas every day. A photograph of Calgary which is reproduced in the Herald shows the reflection in the southwestern sky over the city of the flaming gas from the wells in the Turner Valley. The rose-colored clouds at midnight give the impression that a large prairie fire is burning at some distance from the city. The lurid glow is from the natural gas flares forty miles away.

The Herald also says that during the summer nearly 200 million feet of valuable gas fuel is wasted every day, equivalent in heating value to more than eight thousand tons of the best anthracite coal. These are prodigious figures of a prodigal waste of one of Nature's great gifts to man. The price of gas in Calgary is from 33 cents net to 15 cents per thousand cubic feet as compared with the average price throughout Canada of 58 cents.

The Herald suggests the future possibilities of the oil industry in Alberta from the fact that explorations from the international boundary to a point four hundred miles northward show that there are twenty structures in this area, each of which may prove to be a container of oil in commercial quantities. The Turner Valley is only one of them.

THE DANGER OF LIGHTNING.

The tragedy at Montreal, where a golfer and two caddies clustered under an umbrella on the links were struck and killed by a bolt of lightning repeats an incident of which every summer brings numerous examples. No one can help noticing the high percentage of each year's lightning deaths in which the victims were in some open space like a field, golf links or a beach. The umbrella was not a factor. Merely to be a person standing in such an open space during a storm is dangerous. If everybody knew why this is so and remembered the information the year's toll of tragedies would be far less than it is.

Lightning does not strike erratically, like the thunderbolts of a drunken Jove. It's path through the air, the spot at which it hits the ground, most of the other characteristics of the average flash, if not of every flash, are determined by simple rules obeyed by all charges of electricity. One thing that fixes the path is the electrical conducting power of the air, which is why lightning is especially likely to strike haystacks or barns with new hay in them. Bacterial changes taking place in the hay produce streams of heated electrified air rising from the barns. This provides a conducting path along which electricity from the clouds is especially likely to descend. The danger of golf links and similar open spaces is due to another law of electricity—the tendency of the earth electricity to accumulate on any object which lifts itself even a little above the ground.

It is for this same reason that lightning strikes steeples and trees. The earth electricity attracted by the opposite electric charge on the clouds, crowds into such elevated objects and electrifies them. That provides attraction for the opposing flash, the same thing is true of a man standing still in an open field. He is not so tall as a steeple, but he is taller than anything close by. Lightning resembles fate; it prefers to hit the highest heads. To stand close under a tree in a thunderstorm is dangerous because the tree may be struck and damage you, too. To stand in the middle of an open space is even more dangerous, for you are then in the place of the tree. The safest outdoor place in a thunderstorm out-of-doors is some yards away from a tree or tall building, far enough not to be killed if it is hit, close enough to make it effectively higher, so that the stroke will seek it instead of you. If the middle of the field is the only available spot, the safest position is lying down flat on the ground.—New York Herald.

THE WEAKER SEX?

When George Bernard Shaw wrote his brilliant play, "Man and Superman," he intended to show that in a battle of wits woman was sharper than the mere man. Since that time, woman has undoubtedly made great intellectual strides.

Now she is making great strides of another sort—actual strides on the running track.

Women's sports are so common nowadays that there has even been a women's Olympic games. Women have swum the Channel, they pilot airplanes, and at least one woman is the holder of an automobile speed record. Miss Helen Wills completely outclassed an Englishman who was considered good enough to compete at Wimbledon

There were some women's sports in old London the other day. There were young ladies who covered an eighty-yards hurdle course in twelve seconds, walked a mile in a fraction over eight minutes, ran one hundred yards in eleven and a half seconds, quarter of a mile in fifty-nine seconds, half a mile in two minutes and a quarter, and took a running jump of nearly twenty feet.

Some of these figures were world records, but we know our own Canadian girls can do around these times and distances. Ethel Catherwood, for instance, can leap five feet three.

Time was, a matter of twenty-five years or so, when girls were not expected to participate in general sports. It was considered "unladylike" and "indelicate" for them to do anything but tap a croquet ball with a mallet, or bat a tennis ball across a net. A few played an effeminate game of golf.

In all these games they were trammelled with skirts and petticoats down to their heels. If they went in the water to swim they wore more clothing than they do now when going shopping.

So far as other sports were concerned, they had to be content to sit on the benches and watch the young men.

Some people decry women's athletics as being injurious to their physical well-being. Undoubtedly women can overtax their physique, but can it be said they do so any more than men? The keenness to win is common to both sexes in competitive sports, and therein lies the danger.

However, it is only a few men and women who overdo things. The universal participation of girls and women in games is one of the most beneficent advantages of the modern emancipation of women, and if games improve their health, that is all to the general good.

Anyway, we'd like to see a few of our flaming youth who burn up their energy walking to the garage to get the car out after sitting on an office stool all day, try to equal some of the records mentioned in the preliminary part of this article.—St. Thomas-Journal.

What To-day Means To You.

AUGUST 8th "LEO".

If August 8th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8.30 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 15 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m., The danger period is from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The astrological influences in control for this date are neither stimulating nor disturbing in character. The general atmosphere and mental state, are both favorable for those who wish to study or to do work requiring careful and detailed attention. There may be trivial disappointments of a personal nature in regard to family affairs.

Children born on this August 8th will have very positive natures, and will sometimes be precipitous in their actions. They will be carried away by their impulses, and will often do things that are contrary to their better and usual actions. Their emotional side will be well developed.

There is nothing mean or paltry about your dreams or desires. Ambitions can never be pitched too high—the stars should be their lowest limit. Do not, however, make the mistake, when looking upward, of ignoring the things that lie immediately around! Keep your eyes on the stars, your feet on the ground, and your heart in the work of the moment! You have got to "dig in," however, before you get out of the depths, and this is what you are not willing to do. You hate the day after day, week after week, and year after year, monotonous grind, which is essential to make the dreams of most of us come true. You hope to "arrive" by some less arduous and shorter route.

As a student, you are quick, but not thorough, and as a result, your foundations in any study are weak and uncertain. They will not stand the pressure of practical usuage.

You have almost hypnotic power over others, and you are not slow in using this influence to your own benefit. There ar many who are your willing and cheerful slaves.

You have absolute control over your own emotions, and it is difficult for others to know your real feelings. From choice you have but few intimate friends, to whom you give your best self.

A Thought

OUR BEST MOMENTS

Sometimes I think that when God judges us poor mortals He will judge us only by our best moments, and will sedulously forget our worst. When a man gives a cup of cold water to a child out of pure sympathy, it is one of his best moments, and we are told much of it. It seems as though God were always watching for that rare and special moment when a pure kindness masters us; and when we do indeed touch this happy mood of love and mercy. He is glad. If the devil judges the world, no doubt he would measure us by our worst moments; but it is part of the magnanimity of God to take account only of the best hours in the lives of his creatures.

PRACTICAL JOKERS PAY

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 8.—After attending a stag party Francis Dolan and Harry Fuller visited the home of a friend and played a practical joke on him by upsetting his furniture and placing a skunk's carcass on the dining table. The friend, playing a return joke, had them arrested for burglary. They are sentenced to prison for three years, and were only freed by the intervention of former State Senator J. Henry Bennett.

"She was only a washwoman's daughter," says facetious Florence, "but she knew where to draw the line." By Gettler.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 11.

But she was herself again, smiling. "Bee," he said, "it seems to me that you are the most wonderful woman in the world."

"Perhaps I am the happiest," she answered soberly.

"Yes," Hugh nodded, "it's partly that. I know you're happy. And it's partly that you—that you are playing a part, like a little girl playing house."

"Oh, Houston Challoner, how insulting. How belittling to the lady who fills the proud position of your wife."

"The time may come when the little girl will find out it isn't all a game, and what then?" he asked.

"But it is, and the nicest game I've ever played." Beatrice persisted drowsily and affectionately, with her red head butting gently against his cheek. "If having a husband, and wanting a baby," she went on, in a singsong voice, "and running a house and calling on your mother-in-law and going on boards of directors for one sister-in-law and engaging nurses for the other, seems like a game, why, what is there to find out—what's 'pretend' about that?" she demanded.

And immediately hearing a noise in the hallway outside the door, she straightened up and called peremptorily, "Bert."

The door had been left a crack ajar; now Bert put his handsome fair head into the room and said reprovingly, "For Heaven's sake, are you people going to sit up all night?"

"Bert, did you close the ice box? Helen spoke to me about it," Beatrice said.

"I did. I mashed my finger to hell, and that's how I know."

"Mashed it! Ought it to be bandaged?"

"Oh, no; it only hurt for a minute. I raked out some pie and some cold kidney stew—"

"Loathsome!" Beatrice shuddered

"Delicious. And I found some jammy stuff; sort of like pickled pineapple—"

Hugh had left her side and was at the mantel, smiling at her Bert smiled at her too; her radiant look went from one to the other of her two men; warm and beautiful and young and fragrant, she stretched her slender young body sleepily among her cushions and pointed a finger at the clock that was striking midnight.

"Want me to carry you to bed?" Bert asked, yawning undisguisedly.

"Oh, no, no—Hugh'll fix me beautifully!" Beatrice answered. Her stepson bent down, kissed the ruffled red top of her head, and went on his way.

"Nothing to find out, nothing to find out," Hugh said, in his soul. She had long forgotten their interrupted conversation and her last question: he knew she would not understand. After she was soundly, sweetly asleep, with her disheveled, fragrant young head resting against his arm, the phrase went on and on in his mind: "Nothing to find out, little girl playing lady. Nothing to find out!"

"Did the cat walk in here?" Beatrice asked, at Bert's door.

"Come in, come in!" the tall boy invited her cordially.

"Oh, a million million pardons! You're dressing—" said Beatrice.

"I'm dressed. Except this—damn collar—" Bert gritted, at his mirror. "You've seen me in less than this," he reminded her.

"Your swimming suit, certainly," Beatrice conceded sedately. "Every time he dresses your father does that," she commented, seated now on the edge of his desk and watching him thoughtfully. "I wonder why men have gone on so many years wearing such uncomfortable things!"

Bert tore off a collar and dropped its remains into his wastebasket.

"Hugh does that too, every time we dine anywhere," Beatrice observed, unimpressed.

"Which means that she's done it twice since last August," Bert said disagreeably.

Her innocent eyes were fixed wonderingly on his face, through his mirror.

"W hat dinner parties," she admitted. "We don't make any bones about that."

"He does," Bert muttered, having better success with a second collar.

"And I hate them worse than he does," Beatrice added, puzzled.

"Well, because they're all given by old fogies like Aunt Min and Granny and their kind!" he said scornfully.

"And I suppose we would have a better time at the Belfry," Beatrice suggested amusedly.

"Ever been to the Belfry?" Bert asked, finishing his tie.

"No, but I've been to places like it," Beatrice said, tipping her head sidewise to study his handiwork critically. "Saxaphones—dust—noise—perspiration—crowds—racket—tips—trays being rushed about everywhere—and twenty square feet for one hundred couples to dance in!"

"Say, lissen—say, lissen—" Bert protested, a little nettled in spite of himself, "how do you get that way? I'm four years older than you are, you know, and I'm crazy about the Belfry!"

"Well, that has nothing to do with it," Beatrice assured him serenely.

Bert was stunning in his evening dress, she reflected idly. That deep ripple in his chestnut hair—hair so bright in color as to be almost yellow—and the clean-cut hard line of his freshly shaven cheeks, and the firm jaw—no wonder the girls liked Bert, and telephoned shamelessly to him all day long.

"I could take you to the Belfry, my dear young lady," he said now, with a negligent side glance, as he carefully placed a monogrammed handerchief in his breast pocket, "and you might decide that it wasn't such a bad place after all. You dance, don't you?"

"Of course I dance!"

"Then that's all I need to know," Bert remarked briefly.

"You might take me some night when you haven't anything else to do," Beatrice suggested after a pause. "But I warn you in advance, I won't like it!"

"No! I won't take you, madam," Bert told her. He snapped open a cigarette case—a heavy, beautiful affair of enamel and gold, inspected its contents, slipped it into a pocket.

"Why not?" Beatrice asked, genuinely curious.

"Isn't that enough reason, that you warn me in advance that you'd not enjoy it?" he asked in reply.

"Well—but I might, after all," she confessed with her artless smile.

"Then that would be worse!" Bert said, in that authoritative business-like male manner that impressed her in spite of herself. Her color came up; she appreciated suddenly that he was right. It would not do to form a habit of going to places like the Belfry with one's stepson.

"Bert, have you a girl."

"Here, in North Underhill, d'you mean?"

"Well—" She laughed ingenuously. "Here, or anywhere," she said. And a nod of her red head indicated a photograph on his dresser. "Is that your girl?"

"In a way—yea," he said indifferently. "That's an English girl who was studying in Paris."

"Studying—architecture?"

"No, music. She had a delightful personality and a fine figure and no voice—poor kid. She was always getting herself photographed as Carmen, or Brunhilde, or somebody, and telling us how she could sing it—"

"Did she like you, Bert?" Beatrice, with a faint accent on the pronouns, asked a little shyly, as he fell silent in mid-sentence.

"Oh, kinda. She really liked a man who died, a dirty, lousy Pole who wrote music—"

"Bert, what horrible word."

"I assure you he was all of that, and then some." Bert crossed the room, and took an oblong, loose-leaved black book from his desk, and put it into her hands. "That's Alekowski," he said.

"The woolly-looking one?" And what a fascinating place."

TECK-HUGHES SHOULD EARN 1.00 PER SHARE NEXT YEAR

The end of the current fiscal year of Teck-Hughes comee at the close of this month. It is estimated that the company will show a production of approximately $5,200,000 for the full period, as compared with $4,584,000 in the period ended August 31, 1928.

Last year costs, after allowing for all charges, including depreciation and taxes, amounted to $6.32. While it is not possible to forecast costs for the current year closely, because of the fact that the policy of the company is to pay for extraordinary mine development as it progresses, having regard to the larger tonnage treated, average costs should be lower this year than last.

Basing calculations at $6.25 per ton, over all, total costs would work out at $1,971,000 and profits would be $3,229,000, or equal to 70 cents per share on the 4,747,144 shares of $1 par value outstanding. The current dividend, therefore, which is at the rate of 60 cent per share per annum should be earned by a substantial margin.

Teck-Hughes management are elated about results obtained already at ivels between 2250 and 3000 feet, notably at 2975 feet, where in a mineralized zone 80 feet wide, wide high grade sections have been revealed.

On the basis of these results, another addition to the mill of at least 300 tons appears assured, which would make total capacity 1300 tons daily. Allowing for average recovery of $16 and costs, over all, of $6.00, on a larger tonnage, the company may be expected to earn during the second half of its next fiscal year, $4,747,000 from a total output of $7,592,000, and this would be equal to approximately $1 per share or 100 per cent on the stock.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

THE LETTERS OF A MODERN FATHER

My Dear Daughter:

Your idea about you and your new husband separating and setting up independent establishments is fine and I would say go ahead, except for one drawback. I can't afford it. Your pen must have slipped when you wrote of two independent homes; what you meant was dependent. When Wilfrid and you were married, I agreed to support him in the manner to which you had been accustomed by your two earlier husbands; but what I had in mind was an old-fashioned home with a single overhead.

I notice you say in your letter that so many famous writers and artists find their souls demand separate apartments. You do not explain what that has to do with you and Wilfrid. As a matter of fact, your soul and his could expand in the kitchen of a dining car during the second call to luncheon.

I try to be a good father. You used to say that heaven gave you Wilfrid, but you knew perfectly well it was me all the time. But I won't maintain him apart from you. Besides, I am going to have some extraordinary expense. Your brother Sheridan writes from college that he is engaged to a girl who is specializing in English. He says they like the same things.

So you and Wilfrid be good children, at least until I see what those things are going to cost me.

Your Affectionate Father.

SACRIFICE!

Show me that Goal I must reach first;
Name me that Labor you'd have me do.
In all my soul I am a-thirst—
I would play Hercules for You.

I will go now and remove you mountain;
Build this molehill to monstrous size.
I will play dolphin in yonder fountain—
Dearest, you may select my ties!

—R. E. Alexander.

Vipond Closes Fiscal Year—Higher Production Is Shown By Porcupine

Vipond Consolidated Mines closed its fiscal year last Friday, one of the most successful in some time. In latter months production mounted sharply while developments, minewise, also took a favorable turn. June production reached $75,500, with expected output for July about the same. This is at the rate of $900,000 per annum. As the output earlier in the fiscal year, before the rich No. 9 ore body was opened up, was smaller, production for this year will be below $900,000, probably about $800,000. This is indicated for the record for the first nine months officially announced and the new records established in the final quarter. With the fourth month estimated, the year's output is as follows:

Output: First quarter, $179,800; second quarter $189,000; third quarter, $209,500; fourth quarter, estimated $225,000. Total $804,200.

Recovery per ton, $7.78, $7.96, $7.90.

Average costs last year, before depreciation and income tax and production costs redeemed were $5.44 per ton. It may be assured that with higher output, costs for the year just closing will work out at about $5.25. On approximately 100,000 tons treated and with a profit per ton of $2.65 (the difference between $7.90 and $5.25) the amount of profits would be $265,000. No pre-production charges are left to be redeemed. Allowing $61,000 for depreciation, the same as last year, and $6,000 for income taxes, the residue would be close to $200,000, or equal to 9 cents per share, as against 6 cents earned last year.

Production during the coming year appears assured at the rate of $75,000 to $80,000 per month, so that profits at well over 10 per cent on the stock is anticipated for the 1929-30 period Net working capital stood at $400,000 a year ago. By the end of this month it should be increased to better than $6,000,000.

MARKET BRIEFS.

THE WESTERN CROP

In Free Press report, R. M. Scott, in a report filed at Empress, Alberta, says:

In the territory from east end to Shaunavon, Gull Lake and Swift Current to Empress, fields generally speaking, over this whole area the cleanest they have been for many years and while not all of the district covered carries a good crop, conditions are much better at most points than a great many reports would have one believe. Many of the fields are still quite green and no cutting will be done for two weeks or more. A real good yield from summer fallow may be expected in some of this territory if the green gets leave to finish.—Stobie Furlong wire.

GRANADA.

Official information on Granada is to the effect that average grade, over an average width of five feet, on the 625-foot level, will run at least $30.00 per ton, throughout entire 400-foot length now opened up. Drifting is still continuing in this high grade.—Stobie Furlong wire.

Chicago Wheat Drops After Early Advance

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 8 (Canadian Press).—Scantiness of future delivery offerings did much to turn the wheat market upward to-day after a wavering start. Reports of large business in flour south-west tended noticeably also to strengthen wheat values. Opening unchanged to 7-8 off, wheat later scored a material advance all around. Corn and oats went higher also, with corn starting ¼ down to 1 1-8 cents up, and subsequently showing a decided general rise. Provisions kept steady.

HUDSON BAY SHOWS GAIN

Movements Irregular During Morning Session on Standard Mining Exchange.

RESTRICTED TRADING.

TORONTO, Aug. 8. (C.P.)—Movements were irregular on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning and fairly restricted in scope.

Interest aroused in developments undertaken by Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting continued to strengthen this issue which passed the twenty dollar mark and reacted to 19.90 for a gain of 40. Another notable advance was made by Calgary and Edmonton in the oil list which showed a gain of 1.20 at 9.00. Noranda was up 25c to 62.25.

Sherritt Gordon dropped 10 to 7.75. Pend Oreille 15 to 6.20, while B'Wana was up 10 to 5.25, and Ventures 5 to 8.15. The irregularity was continued in the precious metals accompanied by easing in the higher priced issues. Hollinger advanced 10 to 6.95; Wright-Hargreaves receded 5 to 8.15; McIntyre 25 to 16.00 and Lake Shore 30 to 25.70.

Cotton Future Down On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 8 (Canadian Press). — Cotton futures dropped about $2.00 a bale on the New York Cotton Exchange to-day, on publication of the government crop estimate. The calculation of the crop at 15,543,000 bales was larger than had been generally expected, and caused heavy selling.

Memorial Garden Planned To Celebrate Long Peace

TORONTO, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press). — Five hundred gardeners from Canada and the United States proposed to create a magnificent 400-acre garden on the border between the two countries. It will be called "the International Peace Garden," if the gardeners carry out their plans, and will stand as a memorial to the 100 years of peace between the two countries.

Details of this ambitious project were broached and discussed at length at the first annual convention of the International Association of Gardeners now in session in this city.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Underground work was resumed on July 23rd in the Kicking Horse group of the Base Metals, at Field, B. C. Operations had been suspended for want of dumping ground, as the drifts and other workings were filled with ore. On completion of the ore bins and the tramway thereto, enough of the stored ore was removed to make passage for new ore as broken The new strike of a parallel ore body is regarded by mining men as very important.

Samples from the new strike at the 1,000-foot level of the Harker Gold Mines, Lightning River, Ont., have been sent down to Toronto and are now at the company's offices. These showings constitute some of the most sensational to ever come out of the north country. The formation is identical with that of Kirkland Lake. In the samples sent down, bands of free gold, about one-half inch thick, run through the basalt and form almost solid gold stripes. This new find is greatly encouraging to the Harker management. Lateral work is now proceeding apace.

Diamond drilling is about to commence on the Towagmac holdings in the Goudreau district in order to ascertain the extent of the ore body and to determine values at depth. The drilling machine arrived at the property on August 1.

The diamond drill for the Sudbury Crater operations at Bellevue, Algoma district, is now on the ground and will be set to work at once.

M. B. Huston, Philadelphia, and F. M. Connell, Toronto, members of the board of directors of the Mandy Mines, Ltd., are now inspecting the company's property in the Flin Flon district of Manitoba. Mandy has a shaft down to 1,000 feet and considerable ore developed from earlier operations. This was the first producing property in Manitoba.

It is reported from Kirkland Lake that fifteen feet of high grade ore has been cut by Lake Shore in the cross-cut south from the main shaft on the 2,000-foot horizon. This is believed to be the downward extension of the high grade shoot opened for 500 feet at the 1,800-foot level.

S. G. Blaylock, general manager of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada has again been honored. This time he has received a testimonial of appreciation, signed by 2,520 employes of the company.

Reports from the north state that the Huronian Belt Option in the Crow River district is looking important. Pioneer, Keeley and Vipond are understood to have an interest in this.

OIL GOSSIP.

McDougall-Segur

McDougall-Segur announced Roy Widney taking charge of field operations immediately. Work now starting on No. 1 well, which is to be cleaned out and deepened if possible. With casing badly damaged, it is possible company will drill new hole entirely from surface twenty to thirty feet from No. 1.

Baltac

Baltac down 2,247 feet and made 300 feet last week, approaching point where it must be reckoned with soon. Other good Home wells No. 3 and No. 4 going down close to Baltac must bring attention to Baltac's eighty acres and Imperial Oil drilling contract.

Sterling Pacific

Sterling is losing no time as now at 2,410 feet and only spudded in near end of June. "Lime in ninety days" is the coming slogan in Turner Valley.

Lowery Pete

Lowery Pete well on the way with 603 feet made, 400 of which was drilled last week.

Wabash

Wabash well on Morley structure 45 miles west of Calgary on the Banff Trail, down 2,464 feet, or 982 feet in the lime. Gas pressure struck week ago being maintained and flame from waste pipe eight to ten feet high. Drilling proceeding.

Eastcrest

Eastcrest cemented during week-end to prevent caving. Now drilling through cement at 4,139 feet. Eastcrest No. 2 boilers due August 6th or 7th and hoping to spud in by contract date of August tenth.

Freehold

Freehold No. 1 in north end of Turner Valley, now making new hole past 2,800 feet. Freehold No. 2 in south end of Valley adjoining Home is at 2,800 feet and drilling.

Okalta

Okalta has three wells drilling. No. 2 and 3 underreaming and carrying casing and have been carried back some distance to make sure hole in perfect condition and casing hangs free. Okalta No. 4, recently spudded in, is between 300 and 400 feet and plans are going ahead for No. 5.

Turner Valley Output

July production Turner Valley, 91,840 barrels. Hot weather was harmful factor and cut output to 282 barrels below June.

Home No. 3

Home 3 drilling steadily over 70 feet in lime with no change in gas flow since 7,000,000 cubic feet struck. Footage only fair owing to hard formation. Soon as this is passed, faster drilling will be possible. Not expected that further gas flow will be reached for several feet, if well runs true to Home 1 and Home 2, both of which went nearly seventy feet between the first gas flow and the next producing horizon. Official depth now 5,094 feet.

Calmont

Calmont Oils has a well past 3,000 feet within a stone's throw of Home No. 2. Calmont No. 2 is reported at 3,024 feet Monday. No. 4 is at 2,455 feet and No. 6 at 2,035 feet. All these wells are drilling steadily with giant rotaries. They are only yards apart and stand in a group with the Home and Associated wells. Calmont No. 5 recently spudded in the north end, is down 650 feet. Pipe still being run past whipstock in the No. 1 well on original Calmont lease adjoining Okalta. The old Seneca, now Calmont No. 9, is still being cleaned out.

Cooler Weather Helps Home

Flames of Home 1 and 2 wells indisputably greater during week-end, indicating greater gas flow. Colder weather may be responsible as unusual heat during entire month of July reduced production from these wells due to greater evaporation of volatile naphtha. With cooler weather they are sure to show greater production.

Royalite No. 6

Royalite No. 6 reported as partially back on production Monday morning. Work of recovering tools and pipe being going on for several weeks at this well. Some of tools and damaged casing removed during week-end, with resulting return of part of flow. This well has made 200 barrels per day and its return to production would make a substantial increase in the field's production.

Foothills

Foothills No. 2 now about 216 feet in the lime at 4,673 feet. Increased gas flow at this well could be anticipated between present depth and 300 feet in the lime, judging from adjoining wells.

Mayland

Mayland No. 2 has struck good showing of splendid dark crude oil at about 1,700 feet. A barrel full of the oil has been brought up with the bailer and is considered as significant and highly encouraging. Mayland No. 2 was originally Royalite No. 25 until Royalite oils merged 260 acres adjoining Mayland, making 560 acres for Mayland oils, with Imperial Oil holding a half-interest.

Commonwealth

Commonwealth, delayed a few days owing to shortage of water, now piped to adequate supply from spring and resumed drilling at about 2,500 foot.

1929—NORANDA MINES LIMITED—1930

Shareholders of Noranda Mines Ltd. are speculating as to what the company will show in earnings for 1929. Daily ore treatment has ranged from 1,000 to as high latterly as 1500 tons per day, from one unit of the smelter. The unit that operated all 1928 was closed down when the second unit was brought into operation, for adjustments. The experiences last year gave the management ideas, whereby, with minor changes and additions to various parts that make up the smelter system, much more ore could be treated daily.

The performance of the smelter already has been a wonder to engineers. It should be recalled that when the present smelter was designed, the two units were rated to treat 500 tons each, or 1000 tons daily. The management have been able to build up the load so that as much as 1500 tons for the one unit now in operation has been treated. This suggests that when both units are placed in operation simultaneously early in October next, a maximum daily treatment of 3000 tons will be possible, although the average may run about 2500 tons.

Work in the new shaft is being pushed aggressively. Following sinking to 1000 feet, crosscuts at various levels are being run to connect this shaft with the "H" ore body and other ore bodies found at depth, so that completion of this work will syncronize with bringing the whole smelter capacity into operation.

In 1928 Noranda treated 271,926 tons of ore, an average of 780 tons daily. It is estimated that nearly 450,000 tons will be treated in 1929, or an average of approximately 1200 tons daily.

The price of copper has ranged this year from 24 cents to 18 cents per pound, and it may be expected that the current price of 18 cents will be maintained for the rest of the year.

Ore averaging 7 per cent copper yields 140 pounds to the ton, which at 18 cents per pound makes $25.20. Allowing $5.00 per ton for gold content, a value of $30 per ton is pretty conclusively indicated.

An average of 1,200 tons a day, with recovery of $30 per ton, suggests a total output of $13,100,000 for this year, and if 50 per cent profit, over all charges, is allowed, the amount available for dividends would be better than $6,000,000, or nearly $3.00 per share, against $1.35 per share in 1928 on the present capitalization.

In the above calculation, the big increase in the smelter in the final quarter of 1929 has not been considered. It is reasonably assured, therefore, that actual profits will be over $3.00 per share.

What of 1930? With treatment at the rate of 2500 tons daily, and allowing $30 per ton recovery, (drawing ore from "H" ore body in a big way should increase average recovery) production would be approximately $26,000,00. With the larger tonnage treated, profits should be more than 50 per cent. By allowing 50 per cent profits, over all, the amount of profit suggested would be $13,000,000, or equal to approximately $6.00 per share.

Now that the bonds are retired and interest and sinking fund charges eliminated, nothing stands in the way of substantial dividends being paid. Will directors base dividends on profits in the first nine months, at the rate of about $3.00 per share, or on profits assured for the final quarter of 1929 and for 1930, on a basis of close to $6.00 per annum? The company could easily start with dividends at the rate of $3.00 per annum.

Noranda's ore reserves at the end of 1928 based on 15 cent copper were estimated at $79,340,000. At 18 cents per cound, they would be worth $95,000,000. The increase of $52,000,000 during 1928 was due to the development of the "H" ore body. This year immense ore resources have been located between the 975 and 1500 horizons and it is unofficially estimated that when these are fully developed and known ore in other parts of the mine are added, ore reserves will approach $200,000,000. Hence Noranda is assured of prosperous operations for many years to come.

Sprucolite Corporation's First Financial Statement Is Sent to the Shareholders

The first financial statement of the Sprucolite Corporation has been mailed to shareholders along with a letter from President L. J. Ollesheimer in which it is announced the company has completed an exclusive sales agreement with the American Pulley Company of Philadelphia as sole distributor in the United States for Sprucolite pulleys.

The president points out that this contract puts the company in an enviable position giving a sales outlet second to none. American Pulley will carry large quantities of Sprucolite pulleys, orders for which are already being executed through 350 odd dealers.

No profit and loss account is contained in the statement but the balance sheet shows a surplus deficit of $80,873. Speaking of the year's operations Mr. Ollesheimer says in part;

"The expense in connection with the sale of pulleys in the first year was, naturally, very high owing to the fact that a new, even though better article, was being introduced into a highly competitive market. Our own sales expense is now completely eliminated. This means that our general overhead has been reduced by more than 50 per cent. In addition, a general increase in the schedule of pulley prices, has been effected through The American Pulley Company, and will add substantially to the earnings of your company. If only the minimum sales figure should be reached, your company will still be operating on a profitable basis on the yearly turnover. In my opinion, however, the sales figure for the ensuing year will be largely in excess of the minimum.

Referring in detail to your company's balance sheet, you will notice that our patents which are exceedingly valuable, are shown at the nominal value of $1.00. To maintain this figure, we have written off in our first year's operation, the sum of $12,763.22, spent in government, legal fees and other expenses necessary to secure new patents. Depreciation on buildings and equipment is deducted at a figure of slightly in excess of 6 per cent.

The amount due from International Sprucolite Limited which has not been paid, but which represents a cash sum due your company as rights are sold under the foreign patents by International Sprucolite Limited, is not shown as an asset but as a deferred credit. The machinery and equipment at the Bloomfield plant is given at actual cost. All our initial expenditures for development have been written off in the first year. This method of assembling our balance sheet, as evidenced in the foregoing remarks, has been embanked upon because it is in accord with the best financial practice, and I feel certain it will meet with your approval."

Total assets are valued at $691,791 of which $361,733 are represented by fixed assets, and $142,102 by current assets, patents, goodwill, etc., are included at one dollar. Investments are shown at $8,541.

Current liabilities are shown at $88,971 leaving net working capital of $53,130. Capital stock is included at $526,350 less surplus deficit $80,873 for a total of $445,477.

Farquharson Enters Tennis Semi-Finals

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y., August 8 (Canadian Press). — With a smashing straight-set victory over Berkeley Bell, national inter-collegiate champion, Norman G. Farquharson, of the Cambridge University tennis team crashed into the semi-final round of the Meadow Club invitation tournament to-day. The British collegian, who hails from South Africa, and plays on that country's Davis Cup team, won by scores of 7-5, 6-3.

ROSZIKA DOLLY IS PLACED UNDER ARREST IN FRANCE

Famous Dancer is Charged with Securing Pearls and not Paying for Them.

PARIS, August 8. (C.P.) — Roszika Dolly of the dancing Dolly sisters, and 7,000,000 francs (approximately $280,000) worth of pearl necklaces she is accused by two Paris jewellers of buying but not paying for, were found by the police to-day at Abron, near Fountainbleu, at the home of Rosszika's sister and dancing partner.

Roszika was brought to Paris, and the pearls were brought along too, while things were talked over with the judge and the two jewellers who assembled at the Palais de Justice to identify both the dancer and the necklaces.

On Tuesday Roszika Dolly, in a suit filed in the Seine Tribunal, was charged with swindling two Paris jewellers out of the pearl necklaces valued at 7,000,000 francs. The jewellers, both located in the aristocratic shopping district in the Place Vendome, asked that a trustee be appointed to keep the necklace until the case had been decided, but the complainants admitted they did not know the whereabouts of Rosie's ropes.

The Polish note delivered to-day stated an answer is being made to the Lithuanian note solely out of respect for the League of Nations.

GENERAL LIST IS IRREGULAR

Utilities Only Group To Show Much Strength—Brazilian Shows Gain.

MASSEY-HARRIS DOWN.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 8.—(C.P.)—The morning passed quietly on the Toronto Stock Exchange with activity restricted to a few leaders, outside of which price movements were dull and irregular.

Utilities were the only group to produce much strength. Brazilian was strong and active to reach 70½, an advance of 3½. Power Corporation added 1¼ at 124¼ and British Columbia Power 'A" rose 2 to 52¼ on small demand.

International Nickel was active at 52, an advance of ½. Loblaw "A" at 23 showed fractional improvement. Canada Gypsum was off 1½ to 116½. Steel of Canada a point to 61 and there were slight recessions in Ford at 45, Canada Dredging, 64½, and Walker's, 18¾. Carlings also lost, dropping over a point to 12¾.

Canadian Pacific Railway rose four dolairs to 231 on sales of 25 shares but there was no particular optimism among the Farm Implements group. Massey Harris was off 1 to 54, Waterluco up 1 to 21 and the others were quiet.

COMPANIA SWIFT INTERNATIONAL S A

Compania Swift International S. A. was formed under the laws of Argentina in 1918 to carry on the South American and Australian business of Swift and Company, packers. The company has Argentine, Uruguayan, Paraguayan, Brazilian and Australian subsidiaries with slaughtering and freezing works, meat canning and dried meat plants and selling agencies.

Of the 9 plants owned, 7 are on tide water. The company produces and sells, chilled and frozen beef, some cured pork, canned meats, beef extracts, hides, skins, tallow, wools, oleo oil, fertilizers and blood. The hides, skins, wool and fertilizers are mostly shipped to the United States and other products to Europe.

Net earnings doubled in 1928 reaching a total of $4,605,021 as compared with $2,005,205 in 1927. The prices paid growers in 1928 were favorable and it is believed this will lead to an increase in the output of the company.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding totals $22,500,000 in Argentine gold divided into shares of $15 par value each. The company paid dividends in Argentine gold at the rate of 8 per cent or $1.20 a share in 1926, 1927 and 1928. In February, 1929 the rate was raised to $2 a share payable semi-annually. At the end of 1928 profit and loss surplus was $14,237,268 in Argentine gold.

As of Dec. 31, 1928, total assets were held at $53,400,113. Book value of the $15 par stock was $25.15 a share in Argentine gold.

RUMOR THAT EASTCREST HAVE STRUCK OIL NOT CORRECT.

Rumors on the street to the effect that Eastcrest have struck oil are without foundation, the Financial News Bureau is informed. They are still 40 feet from the lime with the hole cemented in and further drilling under way. The strength on the market is perhaps due to accumulation by insiders who feel that the stock warrants a higher price than $2.00 in view of the conditions of the well.

CHAIN SYSTEM BUYS SHOE STORE.

Yarmouth, the long established boot and shoe firm of Porter & Robbins, Limited, has sold out to the Agnew-Surpass Shoe Stores, Limited, head office in Brantford, Ont., which is now operating a chain of forty-two stores in the Dominion. The late Leslie T. Porter and J. J. Clarke Robbins established the business which has just been sold, over twenty years ago.

LAKE SHORE.

Important mining developments are taking place on the Lake Shore property. Drifting on the 1,800-foot level has duplicated the results encountered on the 1600-foot level. So far length of 1,600 feet has been opened up, part of which is high-grade. Short diamond drill holes are to be used to determine widths quickly. On the 1,600-foot level there are several cross-cuts from the drift, which shows widths of sixty feet. The cross-cuts are put out at 100-foot intervals, drift on the thousand-foot level is said to have advanced 70 feet in good ore.—Stobie, Forlong Wire.

Police Discover Scheme In Bucharest To Put In Power Exiled Prince Carol

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 8.—(C.P.)—A great sensation has been created in Bucharest by the discovery of an alleged scheme for the reinstatement of former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania who is now in exile in France.

This morning the police summoned M. Ostinescu, Chief of Premier Manu's political cabinet in the foreign office, and M. Saicu, a senator of the Government party, to answer a charge of attempting to procure a passport for M. Barbujonescu, an intimate friend of former Prince Carol. Darbujonescu, it was believed, desired to return to Bucharest from a self-imposed exile in London for the purpose of perfecting a plot to reinstate Carol.

Another minor official in the Foreign Office was arrested in the same connection. Barbujonescu's Bucharest lawyer was reported to have received a huge fee to cover the expense of procuring a passport for his client.

ever, it was only a part of the show and Mr. Bloomfield was immediately at the scene to demonstrate the proper method of taking care of such an accident victim. He expertly pulled the swamped craft over his canoe emptying it completely of water and enabled the victim to regain his place.

Mr. Bloomfield is at present acting as one of the camp directors at Oak Ridge Camp on Stoney Lake.

Sailing Race is Big Event

The sailing events provided the feature races of the day, being closely contested. The open view to the course gave the watchers the opportunity of following the progress of all the boats. Although the breeze was not as strong as would have been most suitable for these races, it was enough to put real sport into the contests. Earlier in the day it died to nothing several times, but revived to steadiness later.

The six-mile Dinghy Sailing for the Kawartha Lakes Championship Cup was a close heat between two old rivals, Reginald Dixon and Otto Gliddon. From the start the two craft ran neck and neck, one getting an advantage over the other by a clever tack or a well-executed turn, only to lose it a moment later. However, on the home stretch Gliddon managed to nose out the Dixon craft thereby gaining the cup for this year.

Only three contestants entered the Canoe Sailing event. Gaining a lead early in the race, Eric Westbye of Chemong Park led Tom Lyman in by over half a mile. This race was for the W. H. Bradburn Trophy.

With the G. N. Gordon Trophy at stake, the Open Sailing featured the sailing program. With a lead of more than a hundred yards, the "Cuddy Sark," owned by Flavell, beat out Gordon Matthew's craft, the "Skiddy." The start of the race appeared unpromising for the "Cuddy Sark" as the wind died to almost nothing, giving some of the other craft the advantage as they appeared to act better under still conditions than the larger Flavell boat. But early in the event the breeze livened to give the "Cuddy Sark" the lead. Clever manoeuvring that was appreciated by the audience was evidenced in this race.

Result is Dead Heat

The final on the sailing card for the day, a six-mile Dinghy race, for Peterborough Canoe Challenge Cup resulted in a dead heat between Dixon and Gliddon, the winners of the first dinghy event. After six miles of nip-and-tuck racing these two boats crossed the line so closely together that the judges were unable to agree, necessitating another lap by the two tied boats. In this lap, the Dixon craft easily nosed out Gliddon's.

Two outboard motor boat races were staged—an open event and a four horsepower and under event. Only three entries showed up for the Open and it was won by Frank Low of Bobcaygeon with a utility craft powered with an Evinrude 16 horse-power motor. Ira Moore in the "Marie-Dot" ran a close second with a smaller-powered outfit. Ralph Clark far outdistanced Eric Westbye in the light-class outboard race.

Much interest was taken in the long distance swim from the bridge to the finishing line, there being eight entries, of which several were girls. The distance was covered in fast time by Don Fitzgerald of Stoney Lake, followed by Jack Bennett, who crossed the line six feet behind Fitzgerald. Jimmy Pierdon finished third and was immediately followed in by Ruth Sutton. Gwen Hewitt was the second girl entrant to finish. The long-distance event was for a silver challenge trophy.

The tilting tournament on the program elicited the usual enthusiasm from the gallery. After a short scrap, Jopling and Pat Hall eliminated Gemmel and MacFarlane and met Doug. Hall and Bradburn, who had quickly put out Dunsford and Best. Jopling's craft swamped in the ensuing fight, leaving Doug. Hall and Bradburn to meet Terry Hall and Wadds. The two brothers handled the sticks and were evenly matched. After a long contest Terry Hall was thrown completely out of his canoe, giving victory to Doug. Hall and Herb. Bradburn.

Prizes were presented during the regatta dance held in the evening at the Chemong Park Pavilion where a hugh crowd gathered for the event.

POLICE SEARCH FOR SLAYER OF FEDERAL AGENT

Heath, Still Hiding, Sends Word To Officials Through Attorney.

SANDLANDS NECK BROKEN.

Wife, Maxine, Held As Witness, Tells Same Story As Husband.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 8 (Canadian Press). — Federal and local authorities to-day redoubled their efforts to find John M. Heath, whose struggle with Richard J. Sandlands, Federal prohibition agent, aboard a cruiser in the Detroit River early on Saturday is believed to have caused the agent's death.

Another step taken by Federal officers was the detention of Heath's wife, Maxine, as a witness. She is held at the Women's Detention Home.

Sandland's death was found to have been caused by a broken neck, according to Dr. Frederick D. Newbarr, Wayne County medical examiner, who performed an autopsy yesterday after the body was found floating in the Detroit River.

Heath, through his attorney, Max H. Finkelston, has related how he struggled with Sandlands aboard the Heath cruiser, Maxine, when the agent refused to show his credentials. Mrs. Heath has gone before Federal authorities and related substantially the same story. Heath, however, continues in hiding, having failed to keep appointments to appear before Federal authorities for questioning.

Jail Break Prevented By Finding of Hack Saw

WHITBY, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—An alleged attempt to smuggle a hack saw in the county jail here was frustrated through the strictness of Governor H. Lucas in refusing permission to Frank Schaefer of Oshawa, sentenced to two months for violation of the Liquor Control Act, to bring magazines into his cell. In examining the magazines, the prisoner had brought with him, Gov. Lucas found a piece of a hack saw concealed in the binding of the publication.

Losses On Soldier Settlement Scheme For Australia Amounts To $117,000,000.

PURCHASE OF LAND.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—The losses on the Soldier Settlement scheme for Australia, amounting to about $117,000,000, will be shared equally by the Commonwealth and the State Governments, under the report of Mr. Justice Pike. Premier Stanley Bruce has accepted the recommendations of the report.

Advances being made up to 60 per cent of the value of the land, and also are due to the unsuitability of some of the settlers through the effects of war service. A drop in the value of primary products also contributed to the losses.

About 70 per cent of the original settlers remain on the land and compare favorably with civilian settlers in regard to industry, and perseverance. The report recommends provision of home maintenance areas, giving the settlers enough land around their homesteads to enable them to support themselves on their own produce.

PASSENGERS ASSAULT HUGHES

tralian Government is investigating the charges.

Hughes, who was sitting in a deck-chair at the meeting, was knocked down. When he arose he was surrounded by a score of excited men, whose behaviour was menacing. Hughes however remained unperturbed and argued quietly with the spokesman of the demonstrators. Finally two policemen escorted Hughes away.

Meanwhile delegates from the meeting interviewed Captain Wyatt of the Bendigo and the Captain told Hughes the passengers desired him to leave the ship. Hughes however was unwilling to disorganize his arrangements and said he would proceed aboard the Bendigo to Adelaide.

Official Government circles at Canberra are not inclined to take seriously the alleged statements of Hughes, though Premier Bruce has asked for an investigation and the Minister of Migration has asked the development and migration commission to prepare a report on those immigrants brought by the Bendigo.

BAY OF QUINTE HIGHWAY ASKED BY DEPUTATION

Fifty Representatives of District Present Idea to Hon. Geo. S. Henry.

FARMERS' ROADS TOO LONG

Will Consider Road When Present Program is Complete Minister Says.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 8 (C.P.).—Another highway through one of the most picturesque portions of Ontario skirting the Bay of Quinte and Lake Ontario from Trenton to Kingston, was pressed upon Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, by a deputation of about fifty representative men from the counties of Frontenac, Lennox, Addington, and Prince Edward, Kingston, Trenton, Picton and intermediate points.

The big deputation was introduced by P. S. Coliver, M.P.P. for Prince Edward, and Col. Thomas A. Kidd, M. P. for Kingston, both of whom stressed the necessity for road improvement in this district on account of the long hauls of from 20 to 30 miles in some instances to enable the farmers to place their produce on the market.

Noted Petitioners

The speakers favoring the project were Mayor J. F. Fraser of Picton, Warden W. P. Montgomery of Prince Edward County, C. B. Calnan of Picton Gazette, Dr. P. S. Northmore of Bath, Fred Newman, President of the Chamber of Commerce, Kingston; Reeve J. B. Elliott of Lennox; Reeve Miller of Ernestown; G. M. Loyst, Reeve of Bath; Ex-Warden H. D. Clemenson, Picton; J. Hughes, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Kingston; John S. Howard, Kingston, and others.

Beautiful Historic Section

They all pointed out the natural beauties of this section and claimed that in that neighborhood settled the first United Empire Loyalists, and there the first Methodist church in Ontario was erected. On these shores too, they said, was built their first ship that sailed the Bay of Quinte, and plied between the historic points that were eagerly sought by the many thousands of American tourists who come over in increasing numbers each year. This year over 2,000 American tourists registered at the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and only about 25 per cent of them registered who came. This registration on a basis of four to a car would be 8,000.

John S. Sword, addressing the Minister of Highways, said: "If I were Minister and a deputation of representative men waited on me and asked for road improvements as badly as this road is needed, I would say the road would be built and finished before the end of 1929."

Will Consider Proposal

Hon. Geoorge Henry stated that he was pleased to have the deputation and gratitfied at the representation so ably made by the speakers. He recognized that while this district was excellent from a standpoint of natural beauty and inviting because of it, there were other districts whose claims had been pressed for similar undertakings. The yearly program of the Highways Department, he said, called for building of 230 to 240 miles of highway every year, and when the point was reached for a general expansion of the building program this road would receive the sympathetic consideration of the Government, particularly in view of the fact, as some of the speakers had mentioned, that it was one of the ambitions of the late Tony Rankin when he represented Frontenac in the Legislature, to have this road. Just as soon as the roads designated by the Government for improvement have received attention, this road with others will be taken into consideration.

Col. Kidd expressed his thanks and assured the Minister that the road was bound to be built, either by this or some succeeding government.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO CATTLE

TORONTO, Ont., August 8. — The cattle offering at the opening of the market yesterday morning was again heavy due to a holdover of 2,100 head from Tuesday. The stale cattle consisted largely of common butcher and western stores. Trade was slow on anything but good cows and bulls arriving in the fresh supply which sold at steady prices. Other grades of killers were bid 25 to 60 cents lower for the week.

Common stockers moved at reduced prices from as low as 6½ cents a pound. While a few fairly good active feeders sold to a top of 9 cents.

Baby beefs were firm at 11 to 15 cents a pound with very few offered.

Good cows in the early sales made from 7½ to 8 cents a pound with a few choice at 8½ cents.

The calf market was firm at Tuesday's gain of 50 cents a hundredweight. Good veal calves sold from 14½ to 15 cents a pound, with a few choice at 15½ cents. Prices paid for common grassers were no more than steady. Sales in that class showed 7 cents a pound.

The market for lambs held steady at Tuesday's advance with good ewes and wethers off cars selling at 15½ cents with bucks at 13½ cents a pound. Good lambs off trucks were worth 15 cents a pound. Sheep sold steady from 6 to 6½ cents for good light ewes and downward to 5 cents a pound for culls.

The packer's bids on hogs were unchanged at 13¼ cents f.o.b. for select. Bids on w.o.c. hogs at a range from 14½ to 14¾ cents according to the length of the haul. The top quotation being for hogs coming over 50 miles to market. The market was unsettled with salesmen asking a half higher than the packer's bids.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 8. — Indications that farmers' haste to rush wheat to market is abating, and that exporters are buying more freely, helped turn wheat values suddenly upward yesterday. Unlooked-for relative strength of wheat prices in Europe attracted widespread notice and there was renewal of anxiety concerning the crop outlook south of the equator.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 3c to 4¼c a bushel higher than Tuesday's finish. Corn closed 2c to 3⅝c up, oats ⅞c to 1⅜c advance, and provisions varying from 40c decline to a rise of 2c to 5c. From the very beginning, the wheat trade here was keenly alike yesterday to word that the Liverpool market had failed to reflect but little more than half of the acute weakness shown yesterday by American and Canadian prices. Liverpool closing quotations yesterday were at only 1¾d to 2¾d decline, notwithstanding that based on action of the Chicago market the Liverpool market was due for 5¾d to 5⅞d break.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Aug. 8.—Trading on the local wholesale butter market was of a much quieter nature yesterday, with little enthusiasm in evidence either among buyers or sellers. Conditions throughout the country remain practically unchanged and arrivals on the local market were quite sufficient to answer all demands; the market might well be described as quiet but fairly firm. The No. 1 grade creamery butter was quoted at from 39c to 39¼c per lb., with some reports heard of a price of 39½c per lb, while the No. 2 grade was quoted at from 37½c to 38c per lb.

There was very little action on the local wholesale egg market yesterday, although it retained the levels of the last two days. Dealers stated that only limited arrivals of eggs were reaching the Toronto market, and that as a result there could be no true estimate of the market formed as yet; it was thought, however, that by the end of the week eggs should be reaching the local market in quantities sufficient to furnish a fairly satisfactory idea of conditions; yesterday dealers were quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs delivered and cases returned as follows: Fresh extras, 31c to 33c per dozen; fresh firsts, 30c per dozen; fresh seconds, 22c to 23c per dozen.

The local wholesale cheese market was again stagnant and the price of No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government-graded cheese was quoted at 17¾c per lb.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, August 8. — No changes were announced on the local grain market here yesterday.

Wholesale egg prices were higher with British Columbia fresh selling at 39c per dozen for extras and 36c for firsts, f.o.b. Vancouver. Western fresh eggs were 34c for extras, 31c for firsts and 25c for seconds, f.o.c. Saskatchewan points. Ontario eggs spot delivered were 38c for extras 33c for firsts and 26c for seconds. Retail prices were unchanged. Receipts were 1,034 cases compared with 643 cases on the same day last week.

The butter market was steady with prices unchanged. Receipts were 332 boxes as compared with 1,285 boxes on the same day last week.

Cheese prices were also unchanged, with receipts at 88,867 boxes as compared with 3,222 boxes on the same day last week.

The potato market was weaker. New potatoes selling at $1.10 to $1.40 per 80 pounds.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, August 8. — Values held firm throughout yesterday's wheat market and prices were 1c to 1 3-4c higher for the day at the close. Offerings were easily absorbed.

Light and scattered showers experienced on the prairies over-night were believed to have done little good to growing grain and the traders ignored the weather conditions in their operations yesterday.

Prices on the cash wheat market were unchanged, with the exception of No. 6 wheat, which advanced about one cent. No direct export business could be confirmed. Wheat delivered to country elevators Tuesday totalled 43,016 bushels, compared with 82,978 bushels on the same day last year.

Coarse grain trading was dull and featureless. Oats advanced about 1¼c and barley was 2c higher. Flax spurted about 6c in a quiet market and rye also scored a gain of 4c.

CHARLES WIGHT.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, August 8. — This vicinity was deeply shocked on Tuesday afternoon when the news was received of the death of Charles Gilson Craighead Wight, youngest son of the late Andrew and Mrs. Wight of Trent River. The deceased was taken to Havelock hospital about ten days previous, to undergo an operation for appendicitis, when it was found other complications of a serious nature had set in, although the patient rallied from the effects of the operation, and was able to see members of the immediate family, and it was thought he would recover, but two days previous to his death a change had taken place for the worse, and despite all medical aid could do he passed away on Tuesday afternoon, about 4 o'clock. He was a great favorite among his associates and hosts of acquaintances and his sudden passing will be deeply regretted.

Besides his mother there are left to mourn his loss three sisters and four brothers, as follows:

Mrs. P. Logan (Mary) of Havelock, the Misses Laura and Agnes of Peterborough; Thomas and Melville, at home, and William and Norman of Peterborough. His aged grandfather, Thomas Wight, Sr., also survives. The funeral takes place on Thursday from the residence of Mrs. P. Logan, King street, Havelock, at 2.30 p.m. Interment at Maple Grove cemetery.

(Examiner Correspondence)

The members of Bethany church (Macklin's Settlement) held a social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Macklin, on Friday Aug. 2, when Rev. and Mrs. H. Wilding of Alderville were guests of honor.

Mr. Wilding who is leaving Alderville for Moriavaintown, has for the past two months been conducting service at Bethany church and the congregation presented him with a purse containing a substantial sum of money in appreciation of his ministry among them.

An orchestra consisting of the Misses Gertrude and Ruth Knox and Miss Murial and Bruce Macklin, contributed music that added much to the evening's enjoyment.

Lunch was served and a social time enjoyed by all.

RABBIT SWIMS ACROSS TRENT

Havelock Fishermen Catch Wee Cottontail Making Way Over River.

WAS NEARLY TO SHORE

HAVELOCK, Aug. 8 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Saturday evening, as Mr. P. McCann and Mr. Leon Breen, Havelock, were fishing in the Trent River near Mr. Garrett's cottage, they saw an unusual sight in the form of a rabbit swimming towards the mainland. It had apparently started from Brown's Island, and was swimming strong. They could scarcely believe the evidence of their eyes. Mr. McCann has been around water all his life, and had never before seen anything of the kind. However, they succeeded in catching the rabbit, a cottontail, and it is now in the possession of Master Fred Breen.

SPEEDER DERAILED TWO MEN INJURED

Section Men Taken to Doctor by Freight After Bad Throw on Tracks.

HASTINGS, Aug. 8 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Tuesday morning, while patrolling the railroad track near Hope's Siding, on the C.N.R. line, the speeder on which the section men were riding left the rails, through some unknown cause. Robert Douglas and David McColl, two of the men, were injured.

The injured men were brought to Hastings immediately on a freight train and received medical aid from Drs. Campbell, King and McDonald. Douglas was able to be removed to his home at once, but McColl, on examination, was found to be badly bruised and cut about the face and head. On receiving aid he was removed to his home at Birdsalls.

INSTITUTE OPENS SHORT COURSE CLASS

Home Nursing Course Conducted Under Auspices of Havelock Women's Society.

HAVELOCK, August 8 (Examiner Correspondence). — The short course in home nursing conducted by Mrs. Lowe, of Toronto, under the auspices of the local Women's Institute, opened in the Council Chamber on Monday afternoon at two o'clock. There were twenty ladies present, all of whom are quite enthusiastic, and expect to derive a great deal of benefit from the two weeks' course. The instructress explained that it is just as easy to teach a hundred as twenty and will be pleased to see a great many more in attendance at future lessons. On account of Thursday being a holiday, when the members all wish to attend the picnic at Orillia, it was decided to hold a class on Saturday afternoon of the first week. The program for the course is as follows: Home nursing, care of the patient, keeping a chart of the pulse, respiration and temperature, how to bathe and turn a helpless patient, changing the bed with the patient in it, massaging, splinting, bandaging, what to do in emergencies, how to make hot and cold packs, feeding for health, poulticing, value of fresh air and exercise in preserving and maintaining health, food values. All these subjects will be dealt with in an endeavor to give a good idea of how to care for the sick at home.

Havelock Gospel Mission held their annual basket picnic at McCutcheon's Landing, Round Lake, on Tuesday afternoon. The members were taken there in two truck loads. The races for the children and grown-ups were managed by Mr. Alexander Smith, and the prizes awarded by Mrs. Kinnaird. The winners of the various races were as follows:

Girls, 14-10 years—Eveline Dafoe, Jenny Chard.

Girls, 10-6 years—Geraldine Dafoe, Charlotte Edwards.

Boys, 14-10 years—Gordon Vance, Everett Chard.

Boys, 10-6 years—Charles Chard, Carl Edwards.

Married women's race—Mrs. Rolly Edwards, Mrs. L. Southward.

The children who were six years and under ran together, and all received small gifts. Everyone present reported a most enjoyable time.

A bulletin of the National Geographic states that 94 per cent of recorded earthquakes occur in two narrow, clearly defined belts—one called the Mediterranean, with 53 per cent; the other the Circum-Pacific, with 41 per cent. All the rest of the world has only 6 per cent, widely distributed.

W. M. S. Meets

The Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church met in its regular meeting in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Blanchard occupied the chair and conducted the opening exercises.

The devotional leaflet on 'Tithing' was read by Mrs. Reuben Bradley, followed by prayer by Mrs. W. Brandon. The last chapter of the study book "Drums in the Darkness" was divided into four parts and taken by Mrs. Blanchard, Mrs. C. L. Morcombe, Mrs. F. G. Sandy and Miss Lillian Race.

The president announced that the new study book "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem" would be completed for the next meeting. A solo, "When I Walk in God's Clear Sunlight", sung by Mrs. C. Rutherford was much appreciated.

The September meeting will be devoted chiefly to sewing.

A social half-hour brought the meeting to a close when Mrs. H. Bradley, Mrs. H. Laidley and Mrs. C. Rutherford made efficient hostesses.

Trinity Church Picnic

Trinity United church Sunday school scholars and parents motored to Thurston's park on Wednesday afternoon for their annual picnic outing. The weather was ideal for the event and the water was the enticing spot for the younger generation. The softball game was the attractive sport for the male members of the party and many a cheer went up as numerous home runs were made. A picnic supper was thoroughly enjoyed after which the jovial party broke up with everyone well pleased with the afternoon's program.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne Wilcox:

You will wonder why I have not written to you before—but I've been so awful busy. I'm sure that's why the other neighbors aren't contributing, too.

Canning and preserving season is a very busy time. Especially picking berries takes up a lot of time and then it's hard work, too. I have picked all my own raspberries myself. I picked all wild raspberries as we have no tame ones.

I do suppose you are busy with your work, too. I hope you will enjoy reading all the neighbors' letters. I know there will be a lot more letters come to you as soon as this very busy season is over. It won't be long now until we farm people will have threshers and silo fillers with us, too. Then, too, we have to plan ahead for their coming.

I wish to thank S.S.S. for her recipes for canned raspberries and raspberry jam.

I wonder if Marion is still reading our letters. I hope she has not gone too far away.

Well, Anne, I guess I will close for now. Wishing you every success,

Yours sincerely,

"Diana."

Thank you, "Diana," I did enjoy reading your letter very much and hope we may have many more from you. Picking raspberries does take up quite a bit of time, but isn't it great to get out in the open and be able to pick them? I think the wild ones are so much sweeter than most of the tame ones. One usually thinks of fall when the threshers start moving about; surely it isn't upon us already! I'm sure all of the neighbors as well as myself will be delighted to hear from you again soon.

"Dear Anne:

Welcome to our page! I know you are going to be just as good as Marion was, and she was perfect in my eye.

Will you please send me the helps marked, I hope you are not out of the ones I want most for I am rather late in sending for them.

The page looks rather sick without the letters but I suppose that most of the neighbors are like myself—hard at work canning and pickling and minding a new baby. That is two boys, but big brother is a lot of help, and little brother is too small to hinder for he is asleep most of the time yet as he is twenty-four days old to-day.

Must close as he is getting ready to know he is in the land of living. So bye-bye and best of success to you.

Sally II."

Thank you for your welcome and good wishes, "Sally II" and let me congratulate you upon the arrival of baby brother!

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

THE WOMAN who, through business or other duties, is unable to give special attention to the making of her own clothes, often has enough time to add to the ready-made garment of moderate cost, some touch which will distinguish it from others or its kind.

* * * * * * *

To any person of taste it is something of a shock to behold the exact counterpart of her own costume making its way down the street. The beauty of the frock, even if it has been a costly one, seems to have been lost.

* * * * * * *

I remember once when a lady of my acquaintance was attending a tea, and another lady whose tastes had been apparently equal to that of my friend, appeared with the exact costume! The tea was practically spoiled for both of them—some man if reading this will say it would be absolutely foolish to have one's enjoyment spoiled simply because some one else appeared with the same frock on—but it's true, nevertheless!

* * * * * * *

So often when we buy a frock which we are afraid may have been duplicated—some little hand trimming, either in beads or embroidery, will make it appear quite unusual.

* * * * * * *

The vogue for figured georgettes this year has been pronounced, and such is the similarity between many of them that the discriminating woman seeks for something to set her costume apart from the rest.

* * * * * * *

This was done in an unique way by a friend to our fair city from across the border. It was a beautifu touch as well as practical, and was some very simple beadwork outlining occasional portions of the pattern.

* * * * * * *

The places where such embroidery is of most value are those where it will not only show to advantage but serve to weigh down a fabric inclined to be too easily windblown.

* * * * * * *

Excellent for such bead embroidery are the edges of motifs which occur near the lower hem of the skirt, a few on the sleeve, perhaps not more than one or two on each, should also be thus adorned. Then, too, if there is a scarf or collar with ends that are free and inclined to fly, their beauty as well as the 'set' of them will be improved by the addition of a bead embroidery in outline.

* * * * * * *

Such work is not at all hard; it consists of nothing more difficult than a running stitch. Every thread on the upper side securing a bead!

* * * * * * *

The frock which I spoke of was of a black and white printed georgette, and white beads were used. Another pretty effect would be a white georgette with a green figure, the edges of which could be given beads of white, green or pale yellow to whatever extent the wearer wishes.

* * * * * * *

A few steel beads on a many colored georgette of almost any kind lends charm and character.

* * * * * * *

But while we wear these pretty frocks, it becomes a necessity sometimes to have a pretty apron or smock to cover them while preparing a dainty meal for the family.

* * * * * * *

Many of the expedients for keeping frocks clean during the performance of kitchen duties have to be varied in winter and summer. For instance smocks so favored for such use during days that are cool, become oppressively hot when worn in summer, as also do the rubberized aprons, which are excellent for kitchen use at other seasons.

* * * * * * *

It is amazing how much protection can be afforded by even the thinnest of aprons. Material so sheer that it would suggest transparency, may be sufficent to prevent damage to the gown underneath in the ordinary course of kitchen duty. A very pretty apron becoming to the wearer, is of figured lawn, piped in some bright color which occurs in the pattern, or in grey or a netural tone.

* * * * * * *

Aprons in modernistic mode are made of a plain thin goods with striking colored pockets appliqued. An excellent way to use up various pieces of cloth, none of them, in themselves, large enough to make an entire apron, is to combine them into a square of which each section is a different shade.

* * * * * * *

This looks real charming when finished!

* * * * * * *

This should be large enough so that when it is suspended by one corner, from a position a little above the waistline of the wearer, the opposite corner will reach to the bottom of the skirt. Streamers from each side secure it when tied in the back, and the checkerboard effect is very pleasing if the colors are well combined.

* * * * * * *

It is really nothing more than a large "patchwork" square turned diagonally, and tied.

* * * * * * *

Don't forget we are finishing up the helps which Marion gave us permission to use—look over the coupon and check them before the supply is exhautsed!

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

JOKES.

What is a joke? If one could explain that to children they would be saved a great deal of unhappiness. But jokes differ according to the sense of humor of the individual. What is a great joke to one is a deadly affront to another. How is the child to know? What is all in good fun one time may be quite out o order next time. May not be regarde as funny at all. How is a child t understand?

Mother tells father a story and h looks startled. He asks a question or two and looks more and more worried until suddenly mother laugh and says "I was only joking. He said nothing o the kind. Just called up to say I hoped you would be able to run ov this evening and plan for the new rou so as to start next week instead of t week after. Just thought I'd tease you.

Very good. Everybody laughs an little Peter laughs loudest. He know now what a joke is. He'll do one. He comes home next day or so with excitement in his voice and in his eyes. "Mother, what do you think? Old seventy-nine jumped the tracks and everybody's killed." Mother gives him a strange look and faints away. Well, how was Peter to know that one story was not as good as another? He likes wrecks and things.

One afternoon the family was inspecting a house about fifteen miles away from home. Just for a joke grandpa shut Peter in a closet and made believe lock the door and go away. When Peter, after pounding upon the door like a wild man and ye ling like an Indian, discovered the door to be unlocked, he didn't appreciate the joke as much a hi elders did.

The family strolled along through the fields and the orchard for about a quarter of an hour without grandfather and somebody asked where he was? Nobody knew. Peter looked as though he might burst with the grandeur of his knowledge and importance, shook his head and said, "He'll be along all right He'll come along pretty soon."

But he didn't come and mother, sensing a cause for Peter's strutting, shook him by the arm and sternly demanded that he tell anything he knew about grandfather. "I played a joke on him. When he went into the coal bin I locked the door. He'll come out all right."

The coal bin happened to be no coal in at all, but an ice house built into the ground and you can imagine poor grandfather shut in that dark damp hole. But Peter did not understand all that when he turned the wooden button across the door.

Children have no discrimination in such matters. Pins on chairs, chairs pulled from under folk, salt in coffee, chemical powders blown into rooms, frogs in beds, wires cut, false alarms, seem to them to be all right. They are jokes. Grown people have said so. How are they to know unless we teach them that horse play, coarse behavior and personal jokes of any sort are all wrong? Example is better than precept here as everywhere.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

RECIPE FOR A DELICIOUS UNCOOKED SALAD DRESSING

To add tastiness to the salads and green vegetables which are both cheap and healthful at present, the following salad dressing recipe is much prized:

2 eggs beaten until light.
1 teaspoonful salt.
1 teaspoonful mustard.
1 cup vinegar.
1 can Eagle Brand Milk.

Beat vigorously all the ingredients, except vinegar, for a few minutes. Add vinegar, stir well and set aside for a few hours to thicken. This dressing will keep for weeks.

WHINING AND COMPLAINING.

A woman, discussing a mutual acquaintance with a friend said, "I like Mrs. Blank all right, but she gets on my nerves with her constant complaining. I hate a "whining" woman. How Mr. Blank puts up with her and with the worries of business, is beyond me."

Now this whining business is not confined to women; it is often a part of the make up of many men.

The cause of this whining or constant complaining can usually be put down to one of two things.

First, the way the individual was allowed to develop in the home, or to the fact that the individual is always tired.

Youngsters, who are not very robust physically, who have had numerous childhood ailments during which they are petted, pitied, continue to look for this pity and petting when they grow up. They look for it and if it is not forthcoming, or even if it is forthcoming, complain or whine just the same. It has become a part of them.

However, there are other individuals who whine or complain who may have some underlying reason for it. And this reason is usually fatigue, either physical or mental.

As you know every physical action, every mental action—thinking, worrying, studying and so forth—takes oxygen from the blood and gives back carbon dioxide.

If there is a continual physical or mental exertion then the amount of carbon dioxide and other wastes become so abundant in the blood, that the individual is really in a poisoned condition.

This makes him irritable and every effort a burden. It makes him whine or complain.

Any little infection from bad teeth or tonsils, or a slow moving intestine, acts upon the individual in the same way.

Where the individual was not originally a whiner, but becomes one, it is only fair that he or she got an overhauling from the family physician to find out if there is any cause for the tiredness that causes the whining.

Often the regulation of the diet and intestinal habit, with a daily rest of few minutes at 11 and 4 o'clock, will be sufficient to get rid of this tendency to complain or whine.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"Bright Eyed Little Nell"
(Contributed by "Beatrice").

Full well do I remember,
My boyhood's happy hours,
The cottage and the garden
Where bloomed the fairest flowers,
The bright and sparkling water
O'er which we used to sail,
With hearts so gay, for miles away,
Before the gentle gale.
I had a dear companion,
But she's not with me now,
The lily of the valley
Is waving o'er her brow;
And I am sad and lonely,
And mourning all the day,
For bright eyed, laughing, little Nell
Of Narraganset Bay.

Chorus

Toll, toll the bell at early dawn of day,
For lovely Nell so quickly passed away;
Toll, toll the bell, a soft and mournful lay,
For bright eyed, laughing, little Nell, of Narraganset Bay.

I loved the little beauty,
My boat, it was my pride,
And with her close beside me
What joy the foam to ride.
She'd laugh with tones so merry,
To see the waves go by,
As wildly blew the stormy wind,
And murky was the sky;
Tho' lightnings flashed around us,
And all was dark and drear,
We loved to brave old ocean
And never dreamed of fear;

The Arrow bounded forward,
And darted through the spray,
With bright eyed, laughing, little Nell
Of Narragansett Bay.

One day from us she wandered,
And soon within the boat
The cord was quickly loosened
And with the tide afloat;
The treacherous bark flew lightly
And swift before the wind,
While home, and friends, and all so dear,
Were many miles behind.
Next day her form, all lifeless,
Was washed upon the beach.
I stood and gazed upon it
Bereft of sense and speech;
'Tis years since thus we parted
But here I weep today
For bright eyed, laughing, little Nell
Of Narragansett Bay.

IDEAS FOR THE DYE-WISE

PRIZE LETTER FOR WISE DYEING

"No Dye to Compare with Sunset"

Says Mrs. Chandler

"Having a peach coloured linen dress to darken, I obtained Navy Blue Sunset Dye, but made the solution weak as I desired a lighter shade than Navy. It came just what I wanted. I still wear the dress and it has been laundered all winter.

"Delighted with my first Sunset experience, I dyed a flat silk crepe of soft blue and white with tiny checks of black. I used Old Blue Sunset making the dye bath stronger than called for in order to cover the black thread. It came out darker than Old Blue, a smooth, even colour. I dyed a light gray figured wool dress, simply darkened it about two shades with Gray Sunset, and it looks like new material.

"I dyed a heavy, white wool sweater using Dark Brown Dye, and the result was perfect. My latest venture was a tan silk dress, the bottom heavily embroidered. I used Black Dye, and the result is highly satisfactory, a perfect black with a beautiful lustre.

I have never found any dye that compares with Sunset. They give maximum results with minimum labor, are so clean and free from discolouration of the hands, utensils, pressing board, etc., they are a joy to use, directions are so simple yet comprehensive."—Mrs. J. S. Chandler.

For fast dyeing use Sunset Soap Dyes, 15 cents a cake. For beautiful tinting use Dytint, wonderful new tint in a big box, 10 cents. Made in Canada.

Parisian Foibles

The combination of rose and black in this frock of black cloth, with chemisette and cuffs in hemstitched georgette, is a particularly good one this season. This is an Yteb model.

ROSE AND BLACK A POPULAR COMBINATION.

By Yteb.

I have used a combination of rose and black in this frock, is one which is greatly liked this season. The frock is made of a black cloth, with a simple full blouse, and an intricately designed skirt, with a smart rectangular effect in front, from which fall the loose folds which give the skirt fullness. The chemisette and the tiny cuffs that slip out under the sleeves are made of rose georgette exquisitely hemstitched. I have named this dress "Passe-Partout".

ELLA TAMBLYN HEADS JUDGING

Headed List of Eighteen in Household Science Judging Competition for Durham.

HAD 567 POINTS

MILLBROOK, Aug. 8.— (Examiner Correspondence.) — The annual Household Science Judging Competition for the girls of Durham County took place in the Town Hall, Orono, on Tuesday, August 6, under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, opening at 9 a.m., and reaching its conclusion at approximately three o'clock in the afternoon, with Miss Ella Tamblyn heading list with 567 points.

Previous to the competition, coaching classes were held at Millbrook, Welcome, Bowmanville and Black stock, this arrangement covering the county so well that no girl had a distance of more than ten miles to drive to attend the instruction periods.

The classes were conducted by Miss E. Hopkins, of Lindsay, whose territory for several months past covers five counties: Victoria, Peterborough, Durham and Northumberland, and Hastings, and who, by the understanding manner in which she deals with her students, and the thoroughly capable way in which she imparts information on the various subjects of study, has won for herself a warm place in the estimation of the girls throughout the district which she serves.

No Age Limit.

There was no particular age limit upon the students enrolling in the coaching classes, provided a girl had entered her 'teen years, and any girl was eligible to attend the competition on Tuesday, even if there had not been the advantage of the previous study groups. The judges, at the final competition, included Miss Berth. Duncan, M.A., of Toronto, who had school lunches, and wardrobes; Miss Gertrude Gray, of Toronto, whose section was living room, and menus; Miss Mollie Gordon, of Dixie, who covered the church parade, and the kitchen plans; both Miss Duncan and Miss Gray are members of the staff of judges serving in connection with the team competition at the Canadian National.

Three Class Division.

The competition was divided into three classes: (A) Nutrition, including school lunches, which were displayed on a table for judging, and family menus, which were printed; (B) House Furnishings, sub-divided into farm living-rooms, judged from colored charts; and kitchen plans, sketched in black outline; (C) Clothing, the initial subdivision being a dress parade, those acting as models being Misses Margaret Dixon, Dorothy Rowe, Helen Powers, and Margaret Allin; the contestants were asked to determine which was most suitably dressed for going to church in the country on a Sunday morning; a country girl's wardrobe was the second section, and placings in this were by means of colored charts, suggestions as to the correct number and kinds of shoes, hose, gloves and undies being written at the bottom of each large card.

District President There.

As the judging competition is in connection with the Women's Institute Branch of the Department of Agriculture, this organization was represented on Tuesday by Mrs. J. R. Cooper, the district president for West Durham; and by Mrs. T. Cowan, of Orono, second vice-president of the local branch; other officials interested were Mrs. A. Henry, president of the Orono Institute, and Mrs. James Dixon, first vice-president. In order to secure lists of girls likely to attend the coaching classes, and enter in the final competition, every president and secretary of the Institutes throughout the county had received a letter from the office of the Department of Agriculture at Port Hope, asking this information and co-operation in carrying the undertaking to a successful conclusion. School teachers had also been communicated with for similar lists of names, the age limit mentioned being from 16 to 35, thus allowing the young married women to have the advantage of the course if they so wished.

Eighteen in Finals.

In spite of all that had been done only eighteen girls were on hand for the finals on Tuesday, and Miss Hopkins was keenly disappointed, feeling that the class should have been two or three times that size. Possibly the fact that the work is new, having been initiated last year when forty-four were present at Millbrook for the competition, and that parents, teachers and community welfare organizations have not yet been fully seized of their obligation in the matter, and the excellence of the opportunity afforded for acquiring a very useful form of knowledge, together with the holiday season, may account for the small number enrolled.

No Fee For Coaching.

No fee is charged for the coaching classes, but the small sum of twenty-five cents is asked at the final competition. Girls enrolling for open competition at the Canadian National, or at the Peterborough Exhibition, pay a fee of fifty cents, but the three chosen for the judging team at Toronto receive five dollars toward expenses, and free entry to the grounds and grandstand; this latter privilege of free tickets also applies to the girls taking part at Peterborough, and the cash prizes are tempting.

Leaders Announced.

At the conclusion of the competition the judges in the several classes gave the correct placings, and the reasons therefor; Miss Hopkins, in announcing the total standings, stated her personal pleasure in the very fine grasp of the subjects of study which the girls had shown through their judging and reasoning, and stated particularly the fact that the marks taken by Ella Tamblyn, who headed the list when totals were added, were the highest she had known in any competition she had conducted in the five counties where her territory lies. High percentages in all the classes were features of each girl's work for the entire competition. The list of totals for the ten highest was as follows:

Ella Tamblyn 567, Ruth McKessock 540, Marian Allin 538, Dorothy Allin 530, Ada Allin 527, Iva Gilbank 525, Mabel Dowson 525, Ruby Dewell 524, Helen Baker 515, Grace Bragg 506.

Nutrition—1 Marian Allin, 196; 2, Iva Gilbank, 193; Ruby Dewell 188; Anna Rowland 178; Grace Bragg 178.

Clothing: 1, Ruth McKessock, 178; 2, Dorothy Allin, 176; Helen Baker, 169; Marion Earle, 169; Martha Earle, 163.

House Furnishings: 1, Mabel Dowson, 192; Ada Allin, 180; Sadie Rowland 171; Evelyn Tink, 167; Jessie Armstrong 166.

The prizes ranged from $5.00 down to 50 cents in each class, but no girl might take more than one prize; hence, in some cases, names had to be struck out, and the one next highest to the girl who had already won in some other class was listed for the prize money.

The girls chosen to represent the county on the judging team at the C.N.E. were: Ella Tamblyn, Ruth McKessock, and Dorothy Allin; alternates: Iva Gilbank and Mabel Dowson. Miss Hopkins will conduct the final coaching classes for entrants at the Toronto and Peterborough exhibitions on August 21 and 22, at Newcastle.

Petes Lose 4-2; Keen Competition at Bewdley

LOCAL SENIORS LOSE CHANCE TO COP SECOND POSITION IN CENTRAL LEAGUE STANDING

Fail To Take Advantage of Scoring Opportunities in Opening Frames.

HALL ON MOUND.

Petes Play Good Brand of Ball in Field, But Are Weak at the Bat.

Deloro has had the hoodoo sign on the Petes all season and that was again most apparent yesterday afternoon when in their own ball park the Smelter crew took them 4 to 2. The loss jilted Manager Swanston's squad of a glorious chance to cop second place in the fast-concluding league race, and leaves them only with an outside chance of getting into the play offs.

The Petes had ripe opportunities in the second, third and fourth innings to score runs and win the argument, but for some unaccountable reason they could not connect with Ibey's slants for the necessary hit. It looked like a landslide in the eighth when with one run across and three men on and none out, but Inky Wood was called to the mound to replace the wobbling Ibey and the Petes' chances crumbled away, although they did succeed in sending another counter over.

Jake Hall appeared in a new role when he mounted to the hilltop in the fifth and twirled the remainder of the game in faultless style. Angus Macdonald drew the pitching assignment and until the fifth he kept the Deloro batters well subdued, allowing but one run, which came in the second. In the fifth he lost some of his power and Deloro touched him for two sound hits to score two runs with but one out. Hall was then placed in the breach and he turned back the onslaught without another score. He breezed them across with plenty of steam keeping the runways absolutely barren until the seventh, when he made the fatal error of throwing a slow one to Art Quinn. Quinn cocked the crippie to deep centre for three bases to score on Scott's hot grounder to second.

The Petes played a great brand of ball in the field accepting every chance without an error, but they were woefully weak with the willow.

Both brigades in the outer garden romped around like big leaguers. Red Legon in the fateful fifth gathered in Quinn's fly that looked labeled for a hit and Jim Hall made a one-hand stab of Hughes' foul fly after a long chase.

The Story.

Although the Petes secured a hit in the first innings it went begging. Rose, first up, rolled out to Ibey. H. Hollingsworth was robbed of a hit when Brown came in fast to take his low fly into left. Swanston singled cleanly into left but Jim Hall filed out to centre.

For Deloro Buck was retired on strikes. Elliott hit over short and Quinn drew a walk. Both runners stole, but were left stranded when Scott fanned and Hughes filed to Legon.

The Petes had an opportunity in the second, when Legon, first up, got a life on Regan's low throw to first on his roller. He advanced two sacks on Ash's sacrifice to Hughes and Beavis' grounder to Elliott, but Macdonald fanned.

Deloro scored in their half. Brown was thrown out by H. Hollingsworth on a hard hit ball. Regan hit a sizzler over third for a single and stole second. Ralph struck out, but Ibey hit over second, Regan scoring. Buck filed out to Beavis.

A fast double play spoilt the Petes' chance in the third. Sweetman was safe at first when Scott erred on his grounder. Rose was hit by pitcher. Hollingsworth on his roller to the box got to first when Ibey choose to get Sweetman at third and failed. Swanston bunted and Sweetman was out at the plate, Quinn completing the play by throwing the batter out at first. Jim Hall grounded to short.

Elliott grounded to first, but Quinn drew a walk and advanced to second on Macdonald's wild pitch. Scot sacrificed with a roller to Ash. Hughes' long foul was taken on the run by Jim Hall.

The Petes got another runner to third in the fourth. Legon drew a walk and stole second. Ash struck out. Beavis rolled to first, Legon going to third, but Macdonald fanned.

A double to centre by Brown went begging when Regan was tossed out at first by Swanston, Ralph struck out and Ibey flied out to Jim Hall.

The Petes went out in order in the fifth with Sweetman rolling to third and Rose to first. H. Hollingsworth's fly was caught in left.

Deloro then did their scoring. Buck singled and Elliott was walked. Both runners stole. Quinn was out when Legon smothered his fly. Scott hit into centre scoring Buck. Jake Hall then entered the box. Hughes rolled out to Sweetman. Brown hit a line drive to first which Ash grabbed but had to drop. Elliott rounded third on the hit and Ash threw to the plate but too late to tag him. The side was retired when Regan fanned.

The sixth saw Jake Hall draw a walk but nothing came of it. Swanston was tossed out by Elliott but Hall was passed. Legon filed to left and Ash rolled to third.

For the first time Deloro went out in order, when Ralph rolled to the pitcher. Ibey grounded to second and Buck was tossed out at first by Jake Hall.

In the seventh Jake Hall's hit over short failed to alter conditions after Beavis had cracked a fly into right which Ralph nabbed. Len Hollingsworth, hitting for Sweetman, fanned, and Rose rolled to Ibey.

After Elliott had struck out Quinn cocked a slow ball into centre for three bases to score on Scott's hot grounder to second. Hughes struck out.

With Ibey weakening the Petes scored two in the eighth. H. Hollingsworth was hit by pitcher and took second on a passed ball. Swanston, for his second hit, singled into left Hollingsworth going to third, and he scored when Quinn dropped the ball when Regan threw to the plate to nab him on Jim Hall's grounder. Legon hit a weak one down the third base line and all were safe when Ibey confusedly did not throw to any of the bases. Ash popped a fly to first. Swanston scored when Beavis tapped a roller to short, Legon being thrown out at second. Jake Hall filed to short.

Deloro did nothing, Brown striking out, Regan popping to Rose and Ralph to Hollingsworth.

Johnston and Rose struck out and H. Hollingsworth ended the game when he was thrown out at first on his roller to second.

Cats Stop Wings For 3-1 Victory

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 8.—(C.P.) Maurice Bream's sensational pitching stopped the League leading Rochester team here yesterday.

Bream held the Wings to two singles, and the Black Cats broke their losing streak of 12 straight to win by a score of 3 to 1. Julian Wera, the Yankee farm hand, came through twice in the pinches, and as a result batted in two of the Jersey City runs.

The Rochester team scored its lone tally in the fourth inning, on a walk, error and a single.

WATER SPORTS TAKE BIG PART ON PROGRAMME

Many Participate in Events At Annual Regatta at Bewdley.

CAPABLE JUDGES.

Crab and Sea Flea Races Provide Thrills For Spectators.

A crowd of approximately two thousand people lined the shores at Bewdley, Rice Lake, to witness the aquatic spectacle of the famous annual regatta held yesterday afternoon. A perfect day for such sports, with a cooling breeze that just seemed to be made to order, greeted those who spared no pains in getting everything in ship-shape form and drew a large crowd.

The ever interesting crab race which always draws a hand from the spectators was made more interesting by the stiff breeze. The wind was a better judge of the direction that the frail craft should take than their skippers, and many took a weird course for a race which is supposed to be the shortest distance between two points. It seemed that many of them believed in the old saying that the longest way around is the shortest way home.

No regatta now is complete without its quota of sea fleas, and four were present cutting capers across the blue waters. Don Wood in his bullet-shaped hydroplane, powered with a quad Johnston Seahorse 32 horse-powered motor, drew gasps from the spectators as he unleashed the pent-up power in his little craft which actually jumped out of the water and stood on end as it got under way and scooted over the lake at a speed not far under the mile-a-minute mark. It was a tough break for him, however that there was no other boats as powerful as his at the regatta, so no race resulted, which proved a keen disappointment to the spectators.

However, they got it in another form when Alfred Rockwell, rounding the last buoy in his sea flea during the Class C race, did as neat a flip as any acrobat in a circus, which landed him in the water where he stayed until Dr. Gilionnas' speed boat rushed to the rescue and towed the half-submerged craft and the infortunate driver to safety. Neither boat nor youth suffered any serious complications from the upset.

Close Competitions.

The finish of the men's single canoe race was very close between two of the residents from Hiawatha, when Jack Simpson crossed the finish line about a quarter of a length ahead of his nearest rival, William Smoke.

But probably the most keenly contested race was the girls' swimming event when Miss McClung won from Miss Hayden by the proverbial nose reaching the wharf just a split second ahead of the second lady.

The events were all an example of keen sportsmanship which was demonstrated in the highest degree during the Class B race for outboard motors when Alfred Rockwell, the unfortunate victim of the upset in the Class C race, missed the buoy that was far out into the lake on the second lap, disqualifying him from the race. The other two contestants consented to going over the course again and giving Rockwell another chance, allowing him by virtue of the speed of his boat to take second place.

The regatta was full of high lights, but perhaps the most outstanding one was when V. Craig poughed through the waters with machine-like precision to win the men's swimming race. G. Veneable, who came second in this race, is only a youngster, but a pretty swimmer, carrying off the first honors in the boys' swimming event as well.

W. E. Purdy was chairman of the regatta committee which was very capable, with special mention going to the judges for their fair decisions. The personnel of the committee was: W. E. Purdy, chairman; Messrs. McIntyre, Gowan, Gould, Kennedy, Holdaway, Goldring, Outram, Mayhart, Thompson, Horgan, Neil, Davis, and Rev. Crissall. The starters were Messrs. Thompson, Neil and Horgan. The judges were Groshamm, Goldring, and McIntyre. Rev. F. W. Davis, of Bewdley, was announcer-in-chief, and Rev. J. M. Crissall, of Whitby, assisted.

Attractive Scene.

The park at Bewdley was the scene of many booths, fish ponds, fortune-telling booths, and fancy work booths which were examples of a thriving Ladies' Auxiliary. Special mention should be made of the sumptuous supper that was served on long tables under the trees.

This by all means did not end the day. The Durham Regimental Band, under the leadership of M. J. Tamblyn, arrived during the afternoon to furnish music for the remainder of the day and the evening.

The presentation of the prizes came later when the Rev. J. W. Crissall of Whitby, who for so many years was stationed at Gores Landing and is well known to everyone at Bewdley performed the honors. The final scene of the day was a dance in Kent's Tea Rooms.

The prize winners were:

LONE ERROR AT FIRST BASE IS COSTLY FOR HOME TEAM; DROP 1-0 DECISION TO COGS

Game Is Spectacular Exhibition of Summer Pastime From Start To Finish—Hurlers Prove Too Good For Opposing Batsmen.

SECOND GAME OF SERIES WILL BE PLAYED HERE NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

An error at first base, a stolen base, a passed ball and an infield out gave Cogs a million dollar run at Bethany last night, and put them one up in the battle for the East Peterborough League championship. The counter was the only one of the contest, which was in many respects a rattling fine exhibition of the summer pastime. Masterson and Ralph were too good for the hitters, Masterson holding Bethany to a pair of singles, while Cogs got only three hits. There were numerous fine fielding plays, both sets of infielders turning in a championship brand of baseball. Cogs fielded faultlessly but the homesters were not so good. It was a costly muff for Rex Dawe in the first frame that paved the way for the winning run.

The second game in the series will be played at Exhibition Park next Monday evening, the Rays having moved their home game with Oshawa to a later date. Peterborough fandom will no doubt give these two teams a record crowd. In the event of a third game being necessary, it will be played at Exhibition Park.

Last night's battle was a thriller from start to finish and wound up in a spectacular last stand by the Bethany team in an attempt to get back that one run. The heavy end of the batting order was up and when Philips opened proceedings with a single out to Cripps, the Bethany crowd roared in glee. Everything looked promising with Ryley at bat, but Masterson struck him out and Philps remained at first. Dawe with an opportunity to atone for his slip in the first inning sent up a high foul fly that looked to be out of reach, but Ross went into the crowd for the ball and made a remarkably fine catch. Philps was still at the bag when Johnston smashed the ball face high at the pitcher, who retired the side and ended the game.

Cogs had one or more runners on base in six of the seven innings, and Ralph had to turn in a smart pitching performance to stop runs. Bethany were retired four times in order and only three of the homesters saw first base. Walton was the only Bethany player to make second. In the third, after he had passed Smith, Masterson fanned the side.

Crary, first up for the Cogs, drew a walk, only to be caught going down to second on a throw from the pitcher. Cripps was safe when Dawe dropped the ball on a good throw from Philips. He stole second and took third on a passed ball. Ross was passed. Rooke lined to Ryley and Cripps scored, the play to first getting Rooke. Ryley drew a hand by going over behind short to take Masterson's fly.

For Bethany, Walton fanned; McGill was thrown out by Corbett, and Philps flew out to Billingsley.

In the second, Billingsley lined out to Dawe. Corbett filed to Philps. Hillier hit through Ryley and stole second. Grant drew a walk and Crary fanned swinging.

Ryley struck out, the third one being called. Dawe was pegged out by Ross, who fielded his short tap, and Johnston also went out at first on his grounder to Corbett.

The third saw Cripps tossed out by the pitcher. Johnston came in to take a high fly from Ross and dropped the ball, Ross taking second. Rooke beat out a grounder to Ryley, Ross going to third. Masterson lined out to Ryley, who caught Ross at the plate. Ralph threw out Billingsley.

Smith waited and walked. He failed to progress when Masterson struck out Reynolds, Ralph and Walton.

Cogs got a runner to third in the fourth but could not connect. Ryley threw out Corbett. Hillier, who was dead-headed, took second on a passed ball and went to third when Reynolds dropped the third strike on Grant and threw to first. Crary struck out.

McGill fanned, and Philps was tossed out by the pitcher. Ryley popped to the box.

Cripps punched a clean single through short in the fifth and stole second. Walton threw out Ross, Cripps going to third. Rooke struck out. Johnston took Masterson's long fly at the fence.

Masterson threw out Dawe, Crary stopped Johnston, and Smith lined to Rooke.

Nothing developed in the sixth. Billingsley's fly was taken by McGill. Corbett lined out to Dawe and Ryley threw out Hillier.

Reynold's hard drive was copped by Hillier. Ralph struck out. Walton singled between right and middle for the first hit off Masterson. A passed ball advanced the runner. McGill fanned.

The Cogs packed a lot of action into the seventh, but failed to tally. Grant struck out but had to be thrown out. Crary's fly was dropped by Smith and McGill failed to hold Cripps' fly after a run. Then the Bethany centrefielder took a long fly from Ross, and Rooke went out at first.

Bethany rooters came to life when Philps singled into middle, and with Ryley up, the long-hoped-for rally appeared to have arrived. But Ryley's bat remained silent as he struck out. Bob Ross went to the fence and into the crowd to take Dawe's foul, and Johnston slapped the ball into Masterson's glove to end the game.

NEW YORKERS BREAK EVEN

Ruth Crashes Twenty-eighth Homer As Yanks Beat Athletics 13-1.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—(C.P.)—The Athletics cracked in the first game yesterday and the Yanks the second, and the result was that their "crucial" double header, played before the biggest and wildest crowd that has stormed a ball game here this summer, saw only an even break.

The Yankees' steam roller thundered over three Athletic pitchers in the first game and they won 13 to 1. Ruth crashed his twenty-eighth home run of the year with the bases full, Koenig, Meusel and Lazzeri adding other four baggers. The "A's" looked very sad and ragged in this before the fine pitching of George Pipgras.

But in the second— a tough duel between the burly George Earnshaw and the slender boy, Roy Sherrid. With the Yankees leading by a run in the eighth inning, the Mackmen put on one of their furious rallies and a costly fumble by Tony Lazzeri paved the way for long hits by Al Simmons and Bing Miller to bring home a victory to the home club 4 to 2.

LEAFS BEAT READING 10-3

Toronto Club Gains On International League Leaders By Reason of Victory.

SWAMP KEY HURLERS.

READING, Aug. 8 (C.P.)—With the veteran Walter Leverenz pitching steady baseball in the pinches, the Leafs defeated the Reading Keys 10 to 3 in the second game of the series.

It was the second success for the Leafs since taking to the road and the victory, coupled with the downfall of Rochester at Jersey City, enabled the second placers to draw to within five games of the league leaders.

Eddie Lautenbacher, the youthful Reading righthander, who was given a trial by the Cubs last Spring, and Don Hankins, former Toronto pitcher, were treated roughly by the Leafs, who showered 13 hits of all sorts and sizes around Laurer Park.

HERD TAKES SECOND GAME

NEWARK, Aug. 8 (C.P.)—The Buffalo Bisons batted two Newark pitchers for 16 safe hits yesterday to win the second game of the series from the Bears by the score of 9 to 3.

George Fisher, one of the leading sluggers in the league, poled his twenty-ninth home run of the season into the right field stands with two men on the bases in the eighth inning.

Faulkner southpawed the Bruins into submission, allowing only seven hits, three in the first inning, when Newark scored two of its runs.

As far back as 3800 B. C., there were in Babylonia maps which were based upon land surveys, and which were used for purpose of taxation.

Orioles Take Second Game From Royals 5-2

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Orioles made it two straight over the Montreal Royals here yesterday when they won a tight duel by a count of 5 to 2.

Elon Hogsett, sensational Indian hurler, opposed Stuart Bolen on the peak and there was little to choose between them. Hogsett held the Flock to six hits, while Bolen allowed two more.

A big fourth inning was the deciding factor in the Bird victory. Four runs were garnered here on a single and double by Loepp and James, Bool's walk and a homer by Harry Layne.

No more than three men faced Hogsett in six of the eight innings.

Kremer Hurls Pirates To Victory Over Giants

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Ray Kremer halted the Pirate losing streak yesterday by downing the New York Giants in the final game of the series, 4 to 3.

Stuart Clarke's single with one out in the ninth drove in the winning run. Kremer pitched splendid ball up to the ninth when he weakened after allowing but four hits.

The Giants tied the score with a three-run rally.

Tigers Get 19 Hits To Beat Indians 14-4

CLEVELAND, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press).—The Tigers pounded J. Shaute and Jimmy Zinn for 19 hits, and walloped the Indians in the second game of the series, 14 to 4, here yesterday.

Dale Alexander batted in six of Detroit's runs, with a homer, two doubles and a single.

Owen Carroll alowed the Indians 13 hits, but was effective in the pinches.

C. G. E. FIVE BRINTON TWO; PHELAN CUP

After Two Hard Fought Games C.G.E. Now Play in Final.

DARLING BRILLIANT.

Last Twenty Minutes Brought Winners Three Goals Rapidly.

Canadian General definitely decided that they meet the Canadian Packing in the final of Phelan Charity Cup on Saturday afternoon when they eliminated the Brinton team last night by the score of five goals to two on King Edward Park before a fair attendance.

Half an hour late, Brinton team kicked off against the sun minus a full eleven. Corner kicks at the respective citadels made play interesting, while the custodians were the masters against the attacking forwards.

Wade Picked the Corner

Eventually Curtis had to concede defeat when the C.G.E. forwards concentrated in their opponents' area. From an accurate centre by Rankin, the defence covered the forwards to allow the half-back ample time to pick the corner of the upright with a low grounder.

Sharman Equalized

Within the next five minutes, Darling, on the left wing, dribbled his way towards goal where his partner beat the custodian with a left-footer. On an even basis again, the C.G.E. halves initiated the long passes that left their forwards in an offside position on many occasions.

An Offside Goal

While Brinton appealed for the offside ruling, McMaster touched the ball into an open goal. The referee awarded a goal, despite the legitimate claim. Exchanges were even thereafter, with both elevens endeavoring to get inside the goal area.

Half time arrived with the C.G.E. leading two goals to one.

Half Time

After the customary respite, the Brinton boys set a fast pace against the more confident leaders at the time, but to their surprise, Darling dribbled right into goal to even up the count again.

C.G.E. Got Lead Again

Repeated attempts to get the lead again by the Electric boys finally arrived when B. McMaster deceived the goal-keeper with a positive shot that bulged the net. A little later, a foul against the Brinton proved costly. Figg put Mitchell in possession of the ball in front of goal to allow the latter to make the total four to two. Not long after, the C.G.E. increased the score through J. McMaster.

LOCAL RINK WINS TROPHY

Captures First Prize At Annual Cobourg Ladies' Tournament.

KEEN COMPETITION.

One of the largest ladies' lawn bowling tournaments in the history of this district was staged at Cobourg yesterday with twenty-four rinks entered. The weather was ideal for bowling and the greens were very keen. Six rinks of ladies from the local club motored down and won honors for themselves as well as their club by bringing home the Cobourg trophy as well as the first prize of Kenwood blankets. They had three wins with a plus of 25 pomts. The rink was composed of Miss Mary Sedgwick, skip, Mrs. N. Henry vice, Mrs. H. Staunton second, Mrs. R. J. Martin lead.

The second prize of silver pyrex pie plates was won by Mrs. Hindle's rink of Tweed, who had three wins and a plus of 21 points.

The third prize of cut glass cream and sugar sets went to a Cobourg rink skipped by Mrs. Alexander McKinnon, who had three wins with a plus of 17 points.

An interesting feature of this tournament was that prizes were given to the rink having two wins with the highest plus and to the rink with one win and highest plus. This kept up the interest for those who had lost one or two games until the last of each game.

Mrs. McLeod of Cobourg, won the prize, raw fruit dishes, for the rink winning two games having a plus of 20 points.

The prize for highest points for one win had to be played off, Norwood, Lindsay and two Cobourg rinks being tied.

The tournament was opened by Mayor J. F. McArthur, who warmly welcomed the visiting rinks of ladies.

Mrs. Skitch, president of the ladies' club, made a few remarks before the close of the tournament, expressing her appreciation for the very large entry and hoping all had enjoyed a good day's sport and would return next year.

During the afternoon a delightful afternoon tea was served on the lawn. The table was lovely with a central silver basket of pink gladioli and baby-breath. One of the ladies proudly pointing out that that was the basket she won as first prize at Peterborough tournament.

COGS ONE UP ON FINALS.

Cognawagas secured the jump on Bethany for the championship of the E. P. L. by taking the first game of the series right in the mountain village. The game will be long remembered by the fortunate fans who saw it. Ralph and Masterson hooked up a pitching duel, and strengthened by faultless fielding, the hits were few and far between. An error, the only one of the game on either side, by Dawe, usually a reliable first sacker, paved the way for the lone counter that gave Cogs the verdict.

In spite of their defeat, Bethany have still almost an even chance for the championship and many fans favor them to turn the tables on the Cogs at Exhibition Park, on Monday evening. Doc Hamilton's lads have no preference for their home diamond, and they have already walloped Cogs on Mayor Denne's agricultural grounds. The game should test the capacity of the big stands, and what a bout it should prove!

PETES HAVE SLIM CHANCE FOR PLAY-OFFS.

Although the Petes lost to Deloro while Oshawa was trimming Belleville in Oshawa yesterday, they still have an outside chance to get in for the play-offs. Oshawa and Deloro by their wins are tied for second place, and the Petes are at present sitting in the bottom berth.

Saturday evening may see the three tied for second honors again. If the Petes down Oshawa here on Friday evening—the team is confident they will—and if Belleville runs true to form and defeat Deloro, another deadlock will be the result.

The Deloro jinx that has been hounding the Petes all season, was ramping in the game yesterday, and although the Swanston crew were in a position to sew up the contest in three early innings, the scoring punch failed. It was their fourth loss of the season in the Smelter Town, and the sixth out of eight games with Deloro.

JAKE HALL IN NEW ROLE.

The Hall brothers, Jim and Jake, are admired here, and all the way around the circuit, for their baseball ability and never-say-die spirit, but yesterday it was a strange sight to see young Jake twirling on the rubber for the Petes. He was called into the fray in the fifth to relieve Angus Macdonald and he smoked them across for the remainder of the game, allowing but two hits. With more of the same fighting spirit and willingness on the part of some of the rest of the squad, nothing could keep the Petes away from the flag.

OSHAWA HERE ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

Oshawa will play a twilight game at James Stevenson Park Friday evening, the game being changed from Saturday on account of the General Motors' picnic. This important fixture will get underway at 5.45, and Al. Heckman will handle the pitching assignment.

SPECTATORS THRILLED AT BEWDLEY REGATTA.

Rice Lake was in holiday spirit yesterday for the big Bewdley regatta, and from far and near the cottagers and residents gathered to view the sport. The Indians carried off a big share of the paddling races. Mrs. Blaker and J. Smoke, a skilled middle-aged couple, came from behind to win the mixed tandem canoe race, over youth and brawn. Every event was featured by the same close competition but good sportsmanship was ever most evident, and the losers were the first to congratulate the winners.

KNIGHTS LOSE TO HARRISONS

Bad Third Frame, With Runaway by the Northenders, Spoil Game.

SCORE OF 25 TO 4

Harrison boys last night staged another of their runaway games at Central School grounds when they trounced the Knights of Columbus by a score of 25 to 4.

The Knights got away to a good start in the first, grabbing in two tallies to the Harrison's one. The second resulted in a blank for both outfits. Then the cloud burst, and the runs began to shower in for the Grocers, who evidently didn't know when to stop. In that awful frame, eleven runs were taken home to Papa Harrison. It seemed as if nobody on the Knights team could do anything right, everybody muffed the pill, everybody threw it wild, and all the time the doughty old twirler Simmons was getting more and more discouraged as the stream of Harrison sweaters galloped around the sacks, shoving any hopes the Knights might have farther and farther down. Smith started it off, only to get nipped off at third. However, after that everybody had a crack at the ball, everybody scored once, and Clarke and Dundas outdid themselves by scoring twice. After the smoke had cleared away, Simmons quit in disgust, and Sylvester took his place to pitch his first game of the season.

The whole crew tightened down after the showing up they received, and things went along fairly smoothly for the next few innings. Harrisons grabbing off three in the fourth, while the Knights made a feeble attempt at a rally with a single counter. The fifth was short, with both sides retiring in order, the sixth and seventh the same. In the eighth Harrisons sort of tore the roof off again and tallied six, through a series of hits and several bad breaks on the part of the Knights.

The ninth was featured with two home runs, Dundas driving one to right field and chasing in Dorrington. For his crew, LeBar drove one into the same spot as Dundas and galloped home with ease, bringing in the final run to bring the Knights' score to the grand total of 4.

The features of the game were the home runs by Dundas, who gathered in two, one in the wild third frame, which accounted for three runs, and one in the last, which added two more to the list. LeBarr drove one to the same place as Dundas, for the third of the session. Smith, Dorrington, and Caladine each flapped out two-baggers, while Brown pulled off a double in the seventh when he caught Dobson off the sack at second, and McGraw threw Caladine out at first.

The line-up:

K. of C.—Bennet, 2b; McGrath, c; Brown, 3b; Griffin, 1b; Simmons, cf; LeBarr, ss; Sylvester, lf; Jones, rf; W. Simmons, p.

Harrisons—Dorrington, 3b; Dundas, p; Ward, 2b; Dobson, c; Caladine, rf; Montgomery, cf; Vinette, ss; Smith, 1b; Clarke, lf.

Sylvester replaced Simmons in the fourth; Woods replaced McGrath in the sixth; McGrath replaced Bennet in the sixth.

Score by innings:

Harrisons .. .. 10(11)301063—25
K. of C. .. .. 20(0)100001— 4

Umpires—Weise and Frick.

The Athletics started their losing streak with Cochrane out with a broken rib, Boley wincing from a charley horse, Bishop's eye weakness, George Hasa' weakness from his recent sickness and Cronin, the infield substitute, limping on a twisted ankle.

Referee Is Shot Watching Duel Between Two Men

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Miguel Martinez accepted an invitation to act as referee at a duel between two of his friends.

The duelists fired at 20 paces, both balls piercing the referee's chest.

Martinez is dying. Both duelists, unhurt, fled.

MOTOR CITY IN SECOND PLACE

General Motors Hammer Three Belleville Hurlers For 11-7 Win.

FREE HITTING FRAY.

OSHAWA, Ont., August 8.—General Motors of Oshawa took a firm hold on second place in the Central Ontario Baseball League when they defeated the league leading Belleville Nationals 11 to 7 in a twilight game here yesterday.

Oshawa showed a complete reversal of form from the last time they met the Nationals here, and timely hitting gave the team the victory. Two homers, by Young and Rowden, both coming with men on bases and a triple by Quinn, and double by Matthews, helped considerably to give the Motors nine their six-run lead.

Belleville used three pitchers in an effort to stem the Oshawa tide, but all three were ineffective. Shea started, going five and one-half innings, Utronki lasted one and one-third innings, and A. Weir finished the game. Jack Ogden went the route for Oshawa, and while he wavered in the seventh when Belleville scored four of their five runs, he recovered and held the visitors closely in check for the rest of the game. Ogden struck out eight men.

Oshawa scored first in the fourth, successive singles by Elliott, Matthews and Young scoring one tally. In the sixth, Belleville evened it up, Scott getting a triple and scoring on Grey's error. The locals came back in their half of the inning to pile up a four-run lead. Matthews walked and scored on Young's homer, Rowden singled and scored on Quinn's triple. Utronki relieved Shea and Quinn scored on Little's sacrifice.

The Nationals came right back in the first half of the seventh, and again tied the score. W. Mills walked. Blakely singled, A. Weir walked. Quinn made a wild throw over first that let in Mills and Blakely. M. Green singled, scoring Weir and scored himself on a wild pitch of Ogden's after advancing on E. Green's pop fly. Ogden held the visitors in the last two innings, however, and to show his superiority, struck out two batters to retire the side in the ninth.

Oshawa's six winning runs came in the seventh and eighth. In the seventh McCallum walked, Elliott singled, and both scored on Matthew's double. Young popped out, but 'Rowden hit a homer, scoring Matthews. Utronki was replaced by A. Weir, the National's centre fielder who retired the side without a run despite Quinn's single. In the eighth, with two out, McCallum singled, Elliott got a life on M. Green's second error, and Matthews singled, scoring MacCallum and Elliott.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

Big musical comedy "The Fox Movietone Follies" opens at the Capitol today—Come prepared for the best screen entertainment of your lives.

Prepare for the best entertainment of your lives tonight when the William Fox Movietone Follies of 1929 will be presented in all its splendor at the Capitol theater.

Imagine a complete musical comedy—pretty girls, snappy dances, gorgeous settings, numerous song hits—linked into an appealing story of the stage enacted by an all-star cast — then you have an idea of the treat in store.

Music lovers will enjoy the irresistible new tunes written especially for the Follies by famed song writers of Broadway. In "The Breakaway," for example, Sue Carol sings a specially composed melody and dances a newly devised dance, assisted by the entire ensemble. "Big City Blues" is sung by Lola Lane; Dixie Lee sings "Why Can't I Be Like You?" and the enchanting ballad, "Pearl of Old Japan," is sung by David Percy. Then there's "Walkin' With Susie" and other numbers.

Besides the music you'll admire the amazingly impressive fashion pageant; you'll laugh at the screamingly funny blackouts; you'll join with interest in the back-stage adventures of the show folk in which Sharon Lynn, Stepin Fetchit, David Rollins, Frank Richardson and John Breeden also take part.

William Fox Movietone Follis of 1929 is designed for your delight!

Healthful Cleanliness in Every Particle

The extraordinary efficiency and superior quality of Old Dutch make its usefulness unequalled. For all uses listed on the label and many others—cutlery, refrigerators, mirrors, stoves, stone steps, etc., there is nothing else like Old Dutch.

Old Dutch keeps everything spick and span and assures that most important feature of good housekeeping, Healthful Cleanliness. Old Dutch does this by removing the unhealthful invisible impurities as well as all visible dirt.

Old Dutch is composed of a natural detergent of distinctive character, free from harsh, scratchy grit, acid and caustic. To the eye a fine powder—the microscope shows that its particles are flaky and flat shaped. Like thousands of tiny erasers they remove all uncleanliness without scratching. Scratches are catch-alls for dirt and impurities.

As Healthful Cleanliness is the safeguard to health, so Old Dutch is your safeguard to Healthful Cleanliness. There's nothing else like it.

The Auction bidding of this deal presents no problem but at Contract the North player is faced with the necessity of deciding upon the correct response to an original two No Trump bid by partner.

There is a well established convention at Contract as to the requirements for an original two No Trump bid, namely at least 4 Quick Tricks with all four suits stopped, three of which are doubly stopped. Thus, it may be seen that an original two No Trump shows a tremendously powerful hand and that partner should assist if holding anything that even looks like a high card trick, and must take out if, lacking any high cards, he holds the probability of two long card tricks. The procedure of the North hand in this deal will clarify the question of weak responses to original two No Trump bids.

Salient Points of Bidding.

Auction: South bids one No Trump and neither opponents nor partner have any sound reason for an over call or take out.

Contract: South bids two No Trumps originally holding the requirements for such bid as outlined above. West passing, North considers whether he should take-out with three Diamonds or assist the N. Trump. With two Queens, North's preferable procedure is to bid three No Trumps. His partner, having shown double stoppers in three suits, must hold a double stopper in either Diamonds or Clubs, or both, and therefore it is safe to conclude that at least one of these suits is practically solid as to tops.

Salient Points of Play.

West leads initially his fourth-best Spade, the 5, a fortuitous opening for South as it obviates the necessity for his taking a possibly losing Spade finesse. South wins the first trick with the Queen of Spades and stops to count the hand. He figures his tricks as follows: two Spades, the Ace of Hearts and five Diamond tricks, or eight in all plus either the King or Queen of Clubs.

Declarer's best procedure therefore is to play his Ace and King of Diamonds at once to find out the adverse split of this suit. Both adversaries following to these two leads, South is now assured of his five Diamond tricks, and shifts to Clubs to set up the needed game trick in that suit rather than run down the Diamonds and force discards from his own hand.

Accordingly he leads the King of Clubs, which places West in a most embarrassing position as, should he win this trick, he has no sound lead. West, therefore, allows the King to hold following which South must now take in his Diamonds as he cannot be sure but what East may hold the Club Ace-Jack over Dummy's Queen.

On the three round of Diamonds, South and West have two discards to make and South's continuation of play thereafter will depend wholly upon West's discards. He has seven tricks already in and holds the Ace of Hearts and Ace of Spades which must surely make giving him game and the only question is whether or not West, by his discards, will be forced to give up one or two extra tricks when thrown in the lead.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write to him, care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

MODERN MERCHANDISING.

Where is the peddler who used to come 'round
With stuff that is now out of date
Such as hair cloth divans and queer Japanese fans
And knick-knacks of wood and tin plate?
You will find him far out on the rural high way,
He is put to no trouble at all
He merely stocks up an old farm house to-day
And waits till the purchasers call.

Where is the farmer who drove through the streets
His old fashioned wagon piled high
With scallions and beans and tomatoes and grees
Which he sold to whoever would buy?
He piles up his garden truck outside his gate,
For though he's still husky and strong
Why drive into town, when he only need wait
Till the townspeople motor along?

However far scattered the husbandme a are
Their quaint rustic wares are display d
Before their abodes on the elm shaded roads
While they wait for the motorist trade.
They purvey all the spoil of the sweet earthy soil,
Such as sundaes and strawberry ice,
And each couple of weeks stock up fresh on antiques
Which they buy at the factory price.

And what of the poor retail dealers at home?
Are they bitter and loud in their wail?
Do they moan that the way things are going to-day
They never can make a good sale?
They have simply adjusted themselves to the times
And have little cause for alarm,
When their stuff gets so old that it cannot be sold
They just send it out to the farm.

It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

PILES DISAPPEAR

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at McDermid and Jury, Bond's Drug Store, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

SOVIET AIRMEN ON NORTH ROUTE

Popular Subscription Plane To Try Route Mastered Only Twice Before.

12,000 MILE TRIP.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—(C.P.)—An Exchange Telegraph Company despatch today from Berlin said the Soviet airplane Land of the Soviets, with a crew of five, took off at Moscow today on a trip to New York by way of Siberia and Alaska. The first stop will be Omsk.

The aviators are Boris Sterligof, navigator; Semyon Shestawof, pilot, Philip Bolotof, alternate pilot; A. Shestakof, mechanic and D. B. Xoofafef.

The first lap, Moscow to Omsk, is 1,800 miles.

The aeroplane of the five men is an all-metal amphibian biplane with two 600-horsepower engines. It was built by popular subscription from millions of members of the aviation and chemical society.

Their route covers about 12,000 miles, roughly across Siberia, the Aleutian Islands, Alaska, Seattle, San Francisco, and Chicago. The Northern Pacific section of their itinerary has been flown but twice before, once by English aviators, one who met disaster, and again in 1924 by the first United States army world flyers, when one of the four planes had to turn back before reaching Japan.

NEARING COMPLETION.

The Kresge store, which is nearing completion at the corner of George and Simcoe street, was revealed to the passers-by this morning and the barricade from the front of this new place of business was removed.

FLOWER URNS.

Service stations on Charlotte street are now trying to compete with each other in the line of making their place more beautiful than another. Two of them have placed hanging flower urns in front of their stations, which lend an attractive appearance to them.

RECORD AT BEWDLEY

The largest number of cars that ever gathered in the village of Bewdley congregated at that point yesterday carrying spectators who had come to witness the regatta. Traffic Officer Hinchliffe of Peterborough, was on hand early in the afternoon, keeping the parked cars off the highway and patrolling the road to make sure that at all times everything was safe. Later in the afternoon he was assisted by Traffic Officer Hallick of Port Hope. It was estimated that there were over 1500 cars parked during the afternoon without a single mishap.

CYCLES FROM MONTREAL.

George Simons, son of the proprietor of the Lake View Hotel, at Young's Point, cycled home from Montreal last week. He left the city at half past four o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday, July 31, and arrived in Young's Point at ten o'clock in the morning of Saturday, August 3. The total distance covered was 342 miles and in one day he cycled 140 miles.

BUILDING STARTED.

The space where the old fish market stood on George street oposite the Y.M.C.A. has now been levelled off and building operations on the new gas station have been begun by the McColl-Frontenac Oil Company.

STREET DARK AT 3 A.M.

Tourists entering the city at 3 o'clock this morning must have got the impression that Peterborough is another of those small towns that rolls up the sidewalks and pulls in the lights about 9 o'clock in the evening for not a light was visible on Charlottee street west at that time. Through an accident the street lights were cut off at the power house and impenetrable darkness pervaded the section.

HARD ON TIRES.

Peterborough's automobile population is hard on its footwear. A heap of discarded tires went down George Street to-day on a large truck, the sight of which caused many a passing motorist a thoughtful moment. The load appeared to be above five tons in weight, and made a pile on the truck many feet in height, containing thousands of the worn out articles. What an opportunity for one of those insidious statisticians who is always figuring how many miles such and such a thing would reach if laid out in so and so a way!

PULMOTOR OUT.

At 3.54 p.m. yesterday afternoon the firemen received a pulmotor call to 717 George Street, where the 19-month-old child of Kenneth Sine was in a serious condition with whooping cough. However, the pulmotor was not used, as the child was aided by artificial respiration applied by a member of the St. John's Ambulance Corps. Dr. Murray Fraser was in attendance.

CLEAN-UP DRIVE ON.

The Fire Chief announces that a drive is being made to clean up long grass and weeds in vacant lots about the city. All people who have vacant lots with long grass must have it cut immediately, as such conditions create dangerous fire hazards. Those who are delinquent in this matter will be forced into action under the Fire Prevention By-laws of the city.

Italian Expedition Searching For Italia

MOSCOW, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press)—The Soviet icebreaker Sedov, which is engaged in Arctic exploration, reports having received a wireless message from the Itlian expedition searching for traces of the ill-fated dirigible, the Italia.

According to the message the Italian searchers are among heavy icefields off the northeast coast of Spitzbergen where they are encountering considerable difficulty.

An Italian expedition headed by Giannini Albertini sailed from Bergen, Norway, on May 15, for the north to search in the vicinity of the Spitzbergen Archipelago for the six members of the crew of the dirigible Italia whose fate has never been ascertained.

GREAT NATIONAL FORESTS SUCCUMB TO FOREST FIRES

Four States Losing Millions As Blaze Eats Valuable Timber.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 8.—(C.P.)—The Northwest's vast timberland was the fire box of the continent today with major conflagrations roaring through valuable forests in National Preserves of Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

Forest service officials were unable to estimate the size of the area that had been ravaged, but unofficial compilations indicated that upwards of 50,000 acres of timber and ranch holdings valued at millions of dollars had been consumed in the last two weeks.

CHAMBERLAIN FOR EGYPTIAN TREATY

Had Negotiated Similar Pact With Late Sarwet Pasha.

BELFAST, Aug. 8.—(Canadian Press Cable).—"I am wholly in favor of such a treaty," Sir Austen Chamberlain, former Foreign Secretary of Great Britain, said in a speech here last night in reference to the proposed Anglo-Egyptian Treaty. "I myself had the honor of negotiating such a treaty with that great patriotic Egyptian, the late Sarwet Pasha," he said.

"While I reserve final judgment, I confess to some apprehension over the prospect of the early removal of British troops—I will not say from the City of Cairo—but from the neighborhood of Cairo and from the City of Alexandria," Sir Austen concluded.

GIANT TANKER EXPLODES, MAN IS KILLED

RATEPAYERS OF BELLEVILLE TO BUY OUT PLANT

Purchase of System For $176,000 Is Approved By Majority of 110 Votes.

ONLY 523 CAST.

Expect Control Be Taken Over At Once With Same Staff in Charge.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Belleville ratepayers yesterday approved the by-law to purchase the local Hydro distributing system for the sum of $176,000. The vote was surprisingly light, due to the fact that the plebiscite occurred in the midst of the holiday season and little interest was evidenced in the result. It has been obvious for some time that the taxpayers would sanction the move, and the pendulum of public opinion swung in favor of the purchase.

Only 523 votes were cast at the various polling sub-divisions and 413 of these favored the by-law. In only one polling division was there a majority opposing the move.

No Staff Change.

It is expected that the Corporation will assume control of the local system at once, and it is not believed that there will be any change in the present staff.

It was felt by many ratepayers that the by-law should have been submitted in December at the regular municipal elections. However, those who proposed the move feel that yesterday's vote is an indication that the people are strongly in favor of a municipally-owned plant.

The small vote yesterday was, of course, governed by the restriction of the ballot to owners of property. The question as to purchase of supply of power was decided on an even smaller scale than the by-law as was the experience in Oshawa some time ago, the vote being 428 to 94.

FEDERAL POLICE CHASE RUNNERS

Liquor Boat Escapes After Pistol Battle Down Detroit River.

NO CASUALTIES.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 9 (C.P.)—Coastguards and rum runners engaged in a spectacular pistol and revolver battle in the Detroit River early to-day with crafts of the rival forces racing down the centre of the river less than 100 feet apart. No casualties were reported although two of the guardsmen had narrow escapes.

The rum runners escaped to Canada with their cargoes.

The Federal forces were under command of Jonah T. Hagglove, chief boatswain's mate. While patrolling the river they sighted a speedboat towing a loaded row boat coming out from behind one of the small islands off the Ecorse shore. Hagglove hailed the three men in the speedboat, ordering them to halt. A volley of shots was his answer. Hagglave and the two coastguardsmen under his command emptied their pitsols twice before the runners escaped toward the Canadian shore.

The Duchess took off from Lympne on August 3, in a monoplane piloted by Captain T. D. Barnard, with Bob Little acting as engineer and second pilot. The plane arrived at Karachi, India, on August 5, and left early on the morning of August 6.

He hiked from New York to Buffalo, but failed to satisfy Canadian immigration officers and was sent back to the United States, where he is being held for deportation.

BRITISH LAW IS OUTLINED TO KIWANIANS

Joseph Wearing Explains Law By Which Joseph Singer Is In Jail.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Whole Question Revolves About Liberty of Subject, Says Speaker.

"Only parliament and the King's judges now have the right to imprison a man for contempt," said Joseph Wearing to-day in addressing the luncheon of the Kiwanis Club at the Empress Hotel. In explaining the law by which Louis Singer, Toronto lawyer of note, is now imprisoned for contempt of court, Mr. Wearing graphically traced the history of the British right to imprisonment.

The Kiwanis Club was favored by several solos sung in sweet voice by Mrs. Helen Davies Sherry, of Saskatoon, formerly soloist of St. Paul's here.

Prominent Member Of Bar

"Louis Singer is a very prominent member of the legal profession of Ontario, and his annual income of $100,000 places him in the very front legal rank," said Mr. Wearing. "I propose to tell you what powers there are to imprison a man for something else but crime. Mr. Singer is absolutely innocent of any crime, but yet he is in the Don jail, and may remain there for some time.

"It all revolves around that old question of the liberty of the subject, which is the foundation of constitutional government. A man has three inalienable rights; life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Described in the oft-quoted words of Patrick Henry: 'Give me liberty or give me death.'

"In early times even up to the time when the British peoples were highly civilized there was no such a thing as imprisonment. There was no crime as we know it to-day. The committing of murder left no moral stigma but it left a debt to the dead person's family. The family valued the man's life in goods and the murderer had to pay them or they would wreak revenge in a like manner.

"Later there grew up the idea of imprisonment for crime. It became a wrong to violate hospitality. This was especially true in the King's house and it soon grew to be a crime to break the peace of the King's court and the custom of the King imprisoning such an offender grew.

"Later the scope of the "Pax Regis" grew and the King declared the right to keep peace in the realm and he would imprison those who broke it. Thus in the case of theft, to maintain the peace, the man committing the offence was imprisoned.

"This led to the idea of criminal jurisdiction and the Crown Attorney still prosecutes for the King, and the perogative of pardon still rests with the King."

Mr. Wearing explained that there was no set time in regard to crime, although there was a period of six years in regard to debt. A murderer can be punished for his crime 50 or 60 years after his crime. The reason is that it is still the King who prosecutes for crime and time doesn't run against the King.

Trouble With Church

"Collision arose between the King's perogative and the Church. A criminal for many years had the right to take sanctuary in the church and by

BLAST SHAKES HARBOR FRONT; EIGHT INJURED

Body of Deckhand Is Found 200 Feet Out in the Water.

SEA OF FLAMING OIL.

Boatswain Mate Fights Flames and Drains Large Oil Tanks.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 9 (C.P.)—An explosion aboard the giant oil tanker William Rockefeller to-day rocked New York harbor and caused the death of one man and injury to eight others, one man was missing.

John Ward, a deck watchman, was killed in the blast and his body was found 200 feet out in the water from the Bayonne, N.J., pier, where the vessel was being unloaded of a cargo of crude oil.

A spectacular fire followed the explosion. As the fire started a tug pulled the ship from the pier and with the help of the other tugs and two fireboats, which manoeuvred through a miniature sea of flaming oil, the tanker was beached on the Brooklyn shore in the lower bay. For several hours a dozen boats poured water onto the flaming ship and after the fire was extinguished the vessel was towed back to Bayonne for resumption of unloading. The offices of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, owner of the tanker, said the ship was not badly damaged, as the flames evidently fed chiefly on the cargo.

Fire broke out in the tank and engine rooms and spread rapidly over the ship. While others of the crew of 42 who were aboard were sent scattering by the blast, Edward Coulson, a boatswain's mate, remained on the ship and possibly saved it from complete disaster. After one tank had blown open, Coulson fought his way through the flaming oil and drained other tanks to prevent further explosions. Coulson later was taken to a hospital, his left hand badly mangled.

BRITISH SCOUTS STOP LYNCHING

Communists Distributing Literature At Jamboree Are Badly Mauled.

PUBLIC INCENSED.

BIRKENHEAD, Eng., Aug. 9 (Canadian Press Cable).—How Communists distributing literature at the great Boy Scout Jamboree at Arrowe Park here were saved from serious injury by some of the English Scouts, was revealed in court to-day. Four men were charged with distributing Communist literature and were bound over to keep the peace. "If it had not been for the Boy Scouts these men would have been lynched by the public," declared the Police Superintendent.

A witness, a Boy Scout, supported this statement, whereupon one of the defendants asked, "Why do you think that?"

"You would have been pretty badly damaged by the Dominion Scouts alone, who probably did not understand you as well as we did," the Scout replied.

Some comment had arisen here over the absence until yesterday of definite recognition of the Jamboree by the British Government. Yesterday, however, Hon. George Lansbury, the old-time fire-eater in East End London's politics, who is now the First Commissioner of Works, had a thoroughly happy day among the Scouts. He conveyed the Government's congratulations and best wishes for the work they were carrying on throughout the world, "which will help to remove man-made evil," he said.

POLICE ARREST HEATH AT TRAIN WIFE BEING HELD

Hiding Since Death Struggle On Saturday, Wanted Man Is Questioned.

FINED IN ONTARIO.

Mrs. Heath Fails in Petition For Writ of Habeas Corpus.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 9.—(C.P.)—Dismissal of a petition for a writ of Habeas Corpus for Mrs. Maxine Heath and plans for her arraignment on charges of assaulting and interfering with a federal officer and taking away a seized boat were the government's moves to-day in connection with the death of Richard J. Sandlands, Federal prohibition agent.

John M. Heath, Mrs. Heath's husband, was arrested by special customs agents as he alighted from a train from Chicago this morning after he had been missing since early last Saturday when Sandlands disappeared following a fight on the Heath cruiser in the Detroit river.

The petition for the writ for Mrs. Heath was dismissed by Federal Judge Edward J. Moinet a short time after Heath was taken into custody.

Heath, a Detroit elevator mechanic and skipper of the cruiser "Maxine," had been missing since Sandlands disappeared. Monday night he gave his version of the affair to Federal authorities through his attorney and made an appointment to appear in person the next day. When he failed to appear search was instituted for him by Federal and local officers who redoubled their efforts after Sandlands' body was found floating in the Detroit River early Wednesday.

According to Heath's story, Sandlands boarded the craft and began a search without properly identifying himself. In a struggle which ensued both men fell overboard. Heath swam back to the craft and saw no more of the agent, he said.

Mrs. Heath, whose story was similar to her husband's, was taken into custody as a witness after it was established Sandlands died from a broken neck and was not drowned.

Ontario Provincial Police report that Heath was arrested at Riverside, Ont., July 7, and charged with illegal possession of a case of beer. He was fined $100 in East Windsor police court.

THOMAS STARTS TRIP TO CANADA

Minister Hopes To Increase Trade Volume and Migration To Dominion

IN EXCELLENT SPIRITS.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—"There is no aspect of our economic relations that I am not ready to discuss," said Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas to the Canadan Press representative before leaving for Liverpool to board the Duchess of Atholl for Canada.

The Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Employment, who is accompanied by his wife and two daughters, declared himself in excellent spirits and he certainly looked it.

"There will be no section of the people I am not anxious to meet," Mr. Thomas added. "I do not want to be too optimistic but I hope for the best."

Increase Trade.

He hopes to not only increase the volume of trade between Canada and Great Britain, but also to stimulate the movement of migrants from the British Isles to the Dominion.

Sir Horace Wilson, permanent secretary of the Ministry of Labor, was to have accompanied Mr. Thomas but at the last moment decided to stay in England until the cotton strike was finished. Consequently he is busy in Manchester.

Also aboard the Duchess of Atholl when she sailed to-day were Lord and Lady Cromer, their son and two daughters, going to the Dominion on a holiday trip. Lord Cromer is the British Government's director on the Suez Canal Company.

Lord Hanworth, Master of the Rolls since 1923, also sailed for Canada. He will deliver the principal address at the meeting of the Canadian Bar Association at Quebec.

Lady Curtis Bennet, wife of the noted counsel, was another passenger.

Exports of wheat in the United States decreased about 56,000,000 bushels during the past nine months.

Nine Days In Oxygen Tent Saves Baby; Tent Cost $500 And Oxygen $5 Each Day

TORONTO, Ont., August 9 (Canadian Press). — Expected to die when brought to the Hospital for Sick Children, on July 25, three-months-old Alexander Agnew is now out of danger as the result of being kept in an "oxygen tent" for nine days.

The child was suffering from complications of whooping cough and bronchial pneumonia. He was absolutely blue in color, his limbs twitched, and his breath came in gasps. Whenever he was taken out of the tent he became blue again, and recovered when put back. Finally on August 5 he was fit to be brought out to the ordinary atmosphere.

The oxygen used cost five dollars a day and the tent is worth $500. Hospital officials stated that if there had been four more tents available, many more lives would have been saved.

TAX COLLECTED AT DISTILLERY

Gov't Loses Nothing On Short Circuiting of Liquor Back To Canada.

U. S. REPORT INCORRECT.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 9.—(C.P.)—The Dominion Government loses nothing if liquor cleared for the United States is "short-circuited" to Canadian soil and sold by bootleggers, J. H. Bertram, collector of customs and excise, said to-day. He said it is the practice, without exception, to collect the excise and sales tax before the liquor leaves the distillery.

"If, after the shipment is cleeared from a Canadian port, it is brought back into this country the Federal government has nothing whatever to lose. It is entirely for the Provincial authorities. The excise and sales tax is refunded only after the National Revenue Department is satisfied that a legitimate landing in a foreign country has been made.

Reports from Washington recently quoted Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman as stating "short-circuiting" of liquor was being done along the Detroit-Windsor border with the object of avoiding payment of sales and excite tax.

MANY MEN ARE SEEKING WORK

Industry Throughout Province Is Said To Be Quiet.

LIST IS INCREASING.

There are a great number of men out of work in the city for this time of the year, according to local Employment Bureau officials. In the past this is the season when all of the average men are employed, but for some reason or other the list of applicants seeking employment at the local Employment Bureau has grown in the last week to a surprising degree.

The cause of this is attributed to the fact that industry throughout the province is rather quiet and that especially the automobile industry in Oshawa and Windsor has taken such a great slump that numberless men have been thrown out of work, leaving a great number of drifters who travel from place to place looking for some kind of work.

Big Demand for Domestics.

There is still a big demand for domestics, with few applicants. Most of the girls are employed in summer hotels at present and there will be a scarcity of them until the vacation season is over.

The situation on the farms is the same as ever. A great number of jobs of this nature are open with few desiring to fill the vacancies, even though there are a larger number of applicants for work now than before there seems to be only a very few who are willing to farm. However several were placed in the country last week.

The list of vacancies are scattered far and wide over Ontario, and include the following openings for skilled workers: Auto mechanic, furniture trimmers, furniture finishers, cabinet makers, textile color designers, stonemasons, cleaners and pressers, domestics, farm hands, and some laborers.

COMMANDER ACQUITTED.

LONDON, August 9. (C.P.)—Lieutenant Commander H. P. K. Oram, commanding officer of the Submarine L-12 at the time of its collision with the H-47, on July 9, resulting in the loss of more than a score of lives today was found not guilty of negligence and acquitted by a court martial.

Officers Shoot Chief In Roadhouse Brawl

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Chief of Police Theodore Schutte, 45, of Elmwood Park, Ills., a suburb, was shot and killed early to-day by County Highway Police, who had been summoned to suppress a disturbance in a roadhouse across the street from their station. Shutte, police reported, was drunk and threatened the highway policemen when they entered the place.

GRAF ZEPPELIN EXPECTS RECORD

Splendid Progress Is Being Made By Airship On World Cruise.

LAND SATURDAY.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Zeppelin officials to-day believed Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Europe-bound Graf Zeppelin, would turn somewhat north-east from his southerly course to-day and fly over Northern France instead of retracing his eastward journey by Gibraltar and the Rhone Valley.

Dr. Eckener, in a message regretting his inability to fly over Berlin on Sunday, informed the Ministry of Communications he hoped to reach Friedrichshafen on Saturday.

The two latest messages on the Graf's position at two and three o'clock this morning, eastern standard time, indicated that the ship had swung in a north-westerly direction and had flown westward between 30 and 40 miles.

At Friedrichshafen it was thought that Dr. Eckener either was avoiding local storm areas or that the messages were misinterpreted, as everything thus far received pointed toward a good fast voyage.

While conditions generally were favorable weather reports indicated fog banks ahead and unfavorable winds between the Azores and Spain.

Zeppelin officials believed that the Graf, instead of swinging as far north as London, would head straight across Northern France in order to reach Friedrichshafen by the shortest route.

Preparations were being made for the departure of the round-the-world airship for Tokyo on the next lap of her long trip within three days.

SHOULDER OF SMALL BOY FRACTURED IN ACCIDENT

Little Lad Is Believed To Have Run In Front of Automobile.

Bruce Meredith, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Meredith, 490 Sherbrooke Street, had his shoulder bone fractured and suffered cuts about the face when he was struck by a car while running across the road last evening.

D. Amyotte, 293 George Street, was driving south on Park Street when the little lad ran in front of his car, coming from behind a parked car on the west side of the street. He was going very slowly, but had no opportunity to avert the accident.

Dr. Howson attended the injured boy.

GREAT BRITAIN MAY WITHDRAW FROM THE HAGUE

Chancellor Prepares To Leave Monday If Demand Is Not Met.

BREAK IS FEARED.

Attitude of Other Nations Is Just As Strong Against Any Revision.

LONDON, August 9. (C.P.) — The Reuter correspondent at the Reparations Conference at the Hague to-day stated that he had been informed in usually reliable quarters that Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was prepared to leave The Hague next Monday unless he obtains a satisfactory reply to-morrow to his demand for "protection of the British taxpayer."

THE HAGUE, August 9 (Canadian Press). — Rejection of the British demands by other nations participating here in the conference of the Government on reparations and departure of the British delegation for home was accepted generally in conference circles to-day as an inevitable development of the next day or so.

It was regarded as certain that the Finance Committee of the conference would either to-morrow or day after reject the resolution of Philip Snowden, head of the British delegation, for a sub-committee to revise the Young reparations plan.

No Change in Policy.

In the three days just past, Mr. Snowden, who is Chancellor of the Exchequer in the new British Labor Government, has affirmed so positively his Government's intention not to accept a lessened share in the distribution of German reparations that recession from his stand was considered highly improbable and hardly possible.

The attitude of the other nations concerned, notably France, Italy, and Belgium, was just as firm in the opposite direction. These nations held the Young plan should be accepted without alternation, as it stands now, that while not perfect it represented the best possible arrangement under the circumstances.

Meanwhile members of the other delegations considered how to keep the conference alive without the presence of the British. It was possible it was said, for the remaining of the Governments to go ahead without Great Britain, effecting a separate agreement with Germany and leaving Great Britain to do the same.

SWISS AVIATORS REMAIN SILENT

Plane On Way To New York Is Feared Down Near Lisbon.

HAVE LITTLE EXPERIENCE.

Le Bourget, France, August 8. (C.P.)—Fears for the safety of three Swiss aviators who left here yesterday afternoon for Lisbon on the first leg of a transatlantic flight to New York, were felt among the officials at the airfield to-day.

Pilot Kaesar, Navigator Tschopp and Mechanic Luscher, who have been flying only since 1927, planned to dare the difficult western crossing despite their few years of experience in flying.

Nothing has been heard of the Swiss aviators since they left late yesterday afternoon for Lisbon which they should have reached early this morning.

No French radio station reported their passage or landing, and it was learned from Madrid that they had not been reported at Lisbon. Officials here assumed they had stopped in some small town for fuel or perhaps had been forced down in a place without adequate communication facilities.

Old Man of 70 Would Use Water Wings To Swim 15-Mile Exhibition Marathon

TORONTO, August 9. (C.P.) — A strange missive arrived at the Canadian National Exhibition Publicity Office yesterday. It was from a would-be entrant in the men's swimming marathon to be held late this month.

The letter starts: "All together, I feel sure I have not swam more than two miles, and only once was I beyond my depth. Was always afraid of taking cramps. Am past 70 years, but feel sure I can swim that 15 miles by using water wings or pontoons."

In the concluding paragraph, the writer suggests a race for amateurs over a certain age, as he does not feel aged competitors have a fair chance against professionals.

The letter comes from a post office in northern Ontario. Whether endowed with a sense of humor or a peculiar desire to be different, the writer penned the entire missive in alternating lines of red and blue ink.

Prohibition Commission May Bar Agents From Using Rifles In Populous Districts

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press). — Prohibition Commissioner Doran said to-day he was preparing to bar the use of rifles by prohibition agents in several communities.

No change is contemplated, however, in sparsely settled districts where rifles are necessary for protection of the agents.

The Commissioner said no general order would be issued, but he would discuss the matter by correspondence with his administrators.

He declined to say what reasons prompted his decision.

Doran said his decision still would permit agents to use their service revolvers in the densely-populated communities.

In sparsely settled districts, especially in the mountains, the agents, he added, needed rifles for protection.

The situation in the Detroit area, where one of the agents recently lost his life, he continued, was well in hand.

Engine Moves Forward While Man Is Lying On Rail.

CROSSING CRASH FATAL.

Truck Driver Is Killed at Guelph —Several Injured in Auto Crashes.

KINGSTON, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—James McIntyre, engineer of the Canadian National Railways in charge of an eastbound freight train, was killed instantly here last night about 9.30 (daylight-saving time) at the outer station. McIntyre is from Belleville. His fireman, Percy Hill, also of Belleville, was with McIntyre at the time of the accident, but escaped injury.

When the freight train pulled into Kingston last night, something was wrong with the airbrake. McIntyre and his fireman, Hill, took the engine and two cars farther down the track, near the subway, and left the engine, going under it to make necessary adjustments. The brake was not on, and while McIntyre evidently was lying across one of the rails, the engine moved forward, crushing him to death. Dr. C. A. Morrison was called, and he summoned the Coroner, Dr. R. J. Gardiner, who will hold an inquest to-night.

Killed at Crossing.

GUELPH, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press). —When the laundry truck which he was driving crashed into a Canadian National Railways locomotive tender on the level crossing a mile from this city yesterday, Roy Greenaway, 23 years old, agent for a Kitchener laundry, was killed instantly. His body was mangled and the truck was a total wreck. The front end of the vehicle was torn away from the chassis and the truck was dragged 150 feet from the point of impact, smashing down a section of wooden fence leading to the tracks. Coroner Dr. I. M. Stuart has ordered an inquest. Greenaway, who was a son of the late Detective Thomas M. Greenaway, was a native of Guelph. He is survived by his widow, one child, a brother, Jack, of St. Thomas, and four sisters, Miss Elizabeth in training at Kitchener General Hospital; Mrs. R. E. Cottee of this city; Mrs. Hagedorn of Kitchener, and Mrs. Robert Grieves, North Bay.

WILL VISIT WELLAND

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(C.P.)— The three man board of United States Engineers, delegated by congress to make a comprehensive survey of proposed improvements on the Erie and Oswego canals, had its first meeting here today.

The advisability of making the improvements to permit an increase in the tonnage handled over the canals was discussed.

The survey will include study of plans for the deepening of the Erie, from Tonawanda to Albany, and the Oswego from Oswego to Oneida Lake.

Following the meeting the board, consisting of Colonel George M. Hofman and Lieut. Colonel Ralph T. Ward of New York and Major Eugene Reybold of Buffalo, inspected the Buffalo water front and canal facilities at Tonawanda, later planning a visit to the canal at Welland, Ont.

GOVERNMENT GRANTS $2,000 TO BUILD CHURCH

Cornerstone of Marsh Mill United Church Was Laid Yesterday.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 9.—The cornerstone of the Marsh Hill United Church, Sidney Township, was laid yesterday afternoon by G. A. Bailey, Reeve of Rawdon Township and Warden of Hastings County, assisted by Colonel R. Vanderwater, Reeve of Sidney Township. Rev. J. Snell is the minister in charge. Rev. W. D. Harrison had charge of the proceedings. The silver trowel used was presented to Warden Bailey. The ground upon which the church is being erected was presented by Colonel Vanderwater. The congregation lost its former home in a fire some months ago. A special grant of $2,000 was made by the Ontario government toward the restoration, although the Government admitted no responsibility over the fire, which occurred when some brush was being burned by the Highway Department employees near the church.

Sparrows Steal Rides On Huge Friends' Backs

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 9.—(C.P. —Albert Schreiber, who stowed away on the French monoplane, Yellow Bird, has nothing on nature's aerial straphaners, if the story told to Fred Woollven of Armure, Penn., and repeated to Clyde L. Patch of the National Museum is true. Mr. Woolven says in a letter that Maritime friends have told him how sparrows on Cape Breton Island, wishing to get to Newfoundland, and underpowered for the trip themselves, perch on the backs of migrating geese and make the crossing over Cabot Strait as "blind baggage." One of his friends claims to have seen as many as ten sparrows alight from such a stolen trip.

NO BLAME IS ATTACHED TO DRIVER OF CAR

Inquest is Held Into Death of Dorothy Wright On July 28.

BETTER SIGN NEEDED.

Party Had Been Returning To Newcastle When Accident Occurred.

"Dorothy Wright came to her death from injuries received in an accident while riding in a motor car driven by Charles Warren on July 28, 1929, on the Port Hope-Peterborough highway, no blame being attached to anyone. Owing to the fact that a side road leads directly on to the highway we recommend that a better curve sign be placed at the curve where the accident occurred."

This was the verdict returned by the jury last evening at the inquest into the death of Dorothy Wright, of 163 Wallace avenue, Toronto, fatally injured when the motor car in which she was a passenger somersaulted off the road at a sharp turn near Scott's Corners, four miles from this city. Dr. J. C. Smith, coroner, of Lakefield, conducted the inquest and the jury was out only twenty minutes.

Party Returning

Charles Warren, 25, teacher at Moose Jaw College, Moose Jaw, driver of the car, was the first witness called. He stated that the party consisting of Pauline Gordon, Irene Middup and Dorothy Wright, all of Toronto, and himself, had left Peterborough at 9.45 (Standard time) to return to Newcastle. Richard Cowan, employee of the Bank of Montreal here, son of Fred W. Cowan of Newcastle, had accompanied them from Newcastle the same evening but had remained in the city. Cowan's father owned the car, a high-powered sedan.

Warren said that it was quite dark that night and he estimated his speed at thirty-five miles an hour. He could not be definite because he was not watching the speedometer.

"I remember particularly that the road seemed to go straight along and I remember seeing signs about a mile back from the scene of the accident indicating that the road continued straight. I most remember seeing a line of white posts which went straight along, and I did not see a sign indicating that the road curved.

"As I came I noticed that there was a car parked on the road, apparently ahead, and I thought it was on the highway. Just as I went to pass this car I realized that I was headed off the highway. I tried to turn to the left; the front wheels tourned too much, the rear ones skidded on loose gravel, and the car rolled into the ditch.

"The car turned completely over and became motionless right side up.

"Dorothy Wright was sitting directly behind me with Irene Middup beside her, and Pauline Gordon was in the front seat. We had no luggage. The lights were on either dim or full.

Did Not Apply Brakes.

"I didn't apply the brakes. I put every ounce of my ability on the wheel in an attempt to turn the car around the curve."

He stated that the lights of the car on the dirt road dazzled his eyes just as he tried to make the turn.

He said that he had seven years' experience in driving cars and has a driver's license for the province of Saskatchewan. The car was in first class condition and showed only 4,800 miles on its speedometer.

Pauline Gordon, next called, had a cut on her right temple which she said was a result of the accident. The car was not going fast, she stated definitely, although she could not tell its speed. She did not see the curve nor any signs indicating the presence of one. She was not talking to the driver and he put every effor in trying to maneuvre the car around the turn. She saw the car ahead, and stated that she also thought it was on the highway. The car somersaulted and her forehead

CANADA WILL BE REPRESENTED AT BIG ARGENTINA EXHIBITION

Dominion Has Been Allotted a Pavilion To Show Her Produce.

FINE LOCATION.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9 (C.P.)—Canada's official participation in the six weeks' Empire Trade Exhibition to be held at Buenos Aires, Argentina, in the spring of 1931, was announced by the Department of Trade and Commerce yesterday. The exhibition will be staged in the world-famous Palermo Park, where the Argentine Rural Society annually stages its stock shows.

Canada has been allotted a separate pavilion with a floor space of nearly 40,000 squre feet. This pavilion is to be remodelled by the Canadian Exhibition Commission, and a new facade will be erected, the sculpture thereon to be suitably emblematic of Canada. This pavilion is in one of the choicest locations of the park and will be a striking monument of Canada's trade aggressiveness in South America. Copies of the prospectus of the exhibition have already been distributed by the Department of Trade and Commerce to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in Canada.

Truly Representative

Canada's participation in the exhibition has been strongly advocated by Major E. L. McColl, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Buenos Aires. The exhibition will be truly representative of the British Empire, and is being sponsored by the British Chamber of Commerce of the Argentine Republic, and is endorsed by the Department of Overseas Trade in London.

There is a growing interest and friendliness evinced in South America toward Canada which is reflected by the remarkable growth in trade with these countries in recent years. Canadian exports to the fifteen countries in South America have increased by nearly 108 per cent. in the past five years, to $32,357,990 in the fiscal year ended last March. Imports reached

Paper and Pulp Areas Closed By Fire Menace

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—J. H. Legris, forest supervisor for Thunder Bay, yesterday closed the Fort William Paper and Black Sturgeon pulp concession in the Nipigon district to all traffic. This action, Mr. Legris said, was made imperative by the large number of bush fires which have occurred in the district. He states that prospectors have caused many of these fires.

ENGINE CREW RUN GAUNTLET OF THREE MILE BLAZE, INTO PAS

Smoke Too Dense To See While Flames Blister Coaches and Burn Roofs.

PASSENGERS SAY 'GO.'

THE PAS, August 9. (C. P.) — With the paint on all passenger coaches blistered, with charred holes in the roofing and the windows begrimed with smoke, the Hudson Bay Railway Express limped into The Pas yesterday.

It had successfully run the gauntlet of a three-mile corridor of flames.

With all the windows and the doors closed, and the throttle wide open the train had roared through the three-mile stretch of forest fires while the flames leaped to a height of fifty feet on either side. The smoke saturated the air so much that the engineer at the throttle could scarcely see.

Before taking the plunge through the fire, the train stopped at mile 160, and the crew reconnoitered. The passengers, all men of the north, were eager to get through. It was decided that the dash could be safely made.

Once through the furnace of blazing timber the train again stopped, and the crew cleared the roofs of the cars of flaming sticks, and put out several small fires.

The bush along the right of way in the section around mile 160 is very thick, but it is not large. There were no giant trees to fall across the track.

The forestry officials hope to have the blaze under control by to-night.

PROMPT ACTION SAVES TWO MEN

Wire Crosses High Voltage Line Giving Men Holding it Below Shock of 500 Volts.

NICHOLLS CUTS WIRE.

LINDSAY, Aug. 9 (Examiner Correspondence).—Walter Scott and Albert McIntosh, of Fenelon Falls, had a narrow escape from electrocution in that village two days ago. Both men were engaged in wiring an electric pole, together with Mr. A. Nicholls, another employee of the Fenelon Falls Light and Power Co. The two former were on the ground holding the coil of wire. The wire held by Mr. Nicholls, who was working on the pole, crossed and touched an exposed and high-powered one, with the result that Scott and McIntosh received the shock of 500 volts. Mr. Nicholls' prompt action in severing the connection by cutting the wire undoubtedly saved their lives. Both men were unconscious for some time, and Mr. Scott was burned about the arm.

At Kingston the Admiral will view for the first time the Royal Military College and will see the workings of the Staff Course for Field Officers qualifying for junior ranks on the staff. It is possible that on the return trip the party may stop at Portland, to call upon Admiral Sir Charles Kingsmill at his summer home.

Aged Man Loses Roll To Wire-Tapping Gang

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 9.—H. B. Moirsky, 70, of Montreal, victim of the old wire tapping racket, has enlisted aid of the police of Windsor, Detroit, Toledo, and other cities in a search for "slickers" who, he claims, separated him from $12,000, his proceeds from a sale of negotiable securities.

Moirsky arrived here from Montreal last week. He changed his securities for cash at the local branch of the Bank of Commerce and proceeded to Toledo. He encountered men who had access to "inside" information concerning the race tracks. He won a few bets of trifling importance and then staked his roll on a "sure thing" and lost.

CAPT. A. WRIGHT NOTED MARINER PASSES AWAY

Commenced Sailing the Great Lakes When Only Eleven Years of Age.

CAPTAINED TEN SHIPS.

Achieved One of Greatest Feats of Lakes By Piloting Saronic Through 1913 Storms.

SARNIA, August 9. (C.P.) — Marine circles lost a prominent figure in the death of Captain Alfred M. Wright, at his residence, yesterday.

Captain Wright was recognized as one of the most capable mariners on the Great Lakes. Born in Collingwood 58 years ago he had occupied every position on a boat from cabin boy to master. He had been long associated with the Northern Navigation Company, and two months ago sailed his last ship, the Valcartier, into Collingwood, where he was forced to resign active command owing to illness.

In 1882 he commenced sailing between Collingwood and Sault Ste. Marie, at the age of 11 years. The first steamer of which he was master was the Britannic, which he sailed in 1902. In the following year he was in charge of the Atlantic, and in 1904 the City of Midland. The Collingwood was his next command in 1905, and for the next three years he had charge of the Majestic. From 1909 to 1913 he sailed the Saronic. In 1913, the year of a Great Lakes storm, in which many craft were lost, Captain Wright left Port Arthur in the gale and brought the Saronic safely into port, an achievement recognized as one of the geratest in the history of the lakes. In the following year he was given command of the Huronic, which he captained for five years, later going to the Hamonic and the Noronic. The captain was chosen Commodore of the fleet in command of the Noronic.

He is survived by his aged father, who resides in Collingwood, his wife, two sons, Jack of Ottawa, and Alfred, of Sarnia, one daugther, Mrs. Albert Ellis of Sarnia, and two brothers, Percy Wright of Galt, and Chester Wright of Toronto.

SINCLAIR ASKS FOR STATEMENT ON MELON CUT

Liberal Leader If Returned To Power Would Set Election Dates.

FAVORITISM CHARGED.

Some Municipalities Pay Only 20 Per Cent of Road Expenditure He Claims.

RIPLEY, Ont., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—A prediction that if Liberals come into power at the next Ontario elections, legislation will be passed so that provincial elections will be held between June 1 and October 15 every four years, was made here yesterday by W. E. N. Sinclair, Ontario, Liberal leader at the South Bruce nomination meeting. The holding of elections during this period would give rural people the same rights as urban dwellers, he said. Women on the farms cannot vote if elections are held during the winter months, he said, blizzards and bad roads preventing them.

N. J. Mackay, Huron Township, was elected provincial candidate for the Liberal party in South Bruce.

Commenting on reports that an election was imminent, Mr. Sinclair said there should not be any secrecy about this matter. "The people are the shareholders and have a right to be takn into the confidence of the government. They are greater than any party and their convenience should be considered," he said.

Favoritism Charged.

Favoritism in the administration of grants to municipalities for roads, was charged against the Ontario Government by Mr. Sinclair. 'The statutes require townships to pay 70 per cent on highways," he said, "but some got off with paying only 20 per cent."

In reviewing economic expenditures throughout the province, the Liberal Leader said that Hon. J. R. Cook, of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, had been reported as saying at Belleville recently that Central Ontario towns would be given at $15,000,000 melon to split when they all took over their own Hydro distributing systems. This later had been denied by F. A. Gaby, Chief Engineer. "The people of Ontario are entitled to a frank statement as to which is right," said Mr. Sinclair.

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Warren Harvey Barker, Vancouver, and her daughter, Thelma, aged 8, were drowned Wednesday in a deep pool above Ladora Falls, three-quarters of a mile down One River from Forbes Landing.

Mrs. Barker and her daughter, Thelma, and Loraine, aged 4, had come to visit Mr. Barker, who is an employee of the Campbell River Lumber Company. They had gone for a picnic, and it is believed Thelma fell into the water and the mother went to her rescue. The tragedy became known when little Loraine walked all the way to Forbes Landing.

Lord Pentland explained he had in mind a central farm and the various groups would work from it. He was greatly impressed with the progress made by the Clandonald colony. Before returning home he will make a tour of the Peace River country.

FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—George Reid, 28, Watford, was committed for trial to the Supreme Court when he appeared before Magistrate Hawkshaw here yesterday for a preliminary hearing in connection with the charge laid against him of a serious offence against a 21-year-old Mount Brydges nurse on the night of June 25.

The principal witness was the girl herself who described how she was forced to leave her fiance's car and accompany accused. Reid, she said, threatened to kill her fiance when he started to follow them in his car. Tattered garments were produced as evidence by the Crown.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

Campbellford is going on the map again when the town does some radio advertising. Yesterday morning the contract was signed for one hour's use of a Toronto station for Wednesday, October 23rd, from ten till eleven in the evening. The program has not yet been arranged, but it is understood that Miss Emma Meiklejohn, Mrs. Stanley Windrim, Mrs. Fred Free and Herb. Leonard will be among the local artists who will broadcast. Satin-Finish Flooring is sponsoring the hour.

• • •

Just as a painful reminder of the big week that is gone for another term of years, the Old Home Week decorations are still flying. The lights have been taken down, and the evergreen arches, but the colored buntings still float gainly in the breeze, waiting for someone to come and give them a little attention.

• • •

Chief Grassick is having a holiday for a few days, so the night constable is doing double duty.

• • •

The tale will be told to-night when the Old Home Week executive meets to report on the week's activities and financial surplus or otherwise. One of the favorite indoor sports lately has been to try to figure out how much the town is "in the hole." Even the most pessimistic are loathe to put the sum as high as four-figure numbers.

• • •

One of the feature of Old Home Week was a school day for old timers. It was a real live party while it lasted and there seems to have been a certain degree of contagion about it. Last night while making a casual round, one man encountered four different groups of young people in various parts of the town. Each group was discussing school days. From the tales they told, it is only fair to assume that should Campbellford have another Old Home Week sometime during the next few years, these former students would constitute an interesting class for any teacher.

• • •

In the account of the Campbellford Council meeting in Tuesday's Examiner, it was stated that Mr. Frederick had been injured by a fall from a sidewalk. It was not Mr. Frederick but Mr. Runnels who was injured.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, Aug. 9.—With R. A. Elliott in the chair, the monthly meeting of the Deloro Safety committee was held at the Hub on Monday evening, a goodly attendance being present. The flag for the best monthly record was awarded the Oxide plant.

This plant also retains the Star for the best record, thus far in 1929. C. T. Nicholson gave the report of the inspection committee. G. Brooks will bring in this report at the next meeting. Prone method practices were carried out in July by W. L. Regg at the Laboratory. W. Foster was assigned similar practices for the current month.

JAMES McINTYRE IS CRUSHED

Press).—When an automobile driven by Leo J. McFarlane, 24 years old, Detroit, left No. 2 Highway, a mile east of Maidstone, and turned over in a ditch last night, Louis Laffery, aged 26, Detroit, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries. He was brought to the Hotel Dieu, Windsor, where physicians reported his condition as critical. McFarlane escaped with minor cuts and bruises. According to Provincial Highway Officer Jackson of Essex, McFarlane's car was off the pavement more than 130 feet before it crossed a narrow bridge. The machine then skidded 225 feet, he said, before turning over.

Asleep at Wheel.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Falling asleep at the wheel of his car, J. C. Doran, Philadelphia, had a narrow escape from injury yesterday afternoon when the car in which he was riding with his wife crashed into a Bell Telephone Company truck on Ingersoll Avenue. Doran told the police he had been driving for a considerable distance, and had dozed.

BEETON, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press)—Jack McLaughlin of Allendale and a woman companion had a remarkable escape from death yesterday morning when their coupe, which the girl was learning to drive, left the road and crashed into a deep ditch on the main road, just outside Beeton. The car was shattered, but both occupants escaped with nothing more than a severe shaking up.

CANADA WILL BE

the high total of $32,390,560 in the fiscal year 1927-28, an increase of 92 per cent. in four years. In the last year imports dropped to $26,473,076, reflecting the reduced world prices of crude petroleum and other raw materials.

Raw Materials Imported

The leading commodities imported by Canada from the Southern Continent consist of approximately 97 per cent. of raw and semi-manufactured materials, crude petroleum, raw sugar, corn, green coffee, hides and skins, flaxseed and wool. On the other hand, approximately 96 per cent of Canadian exports to South America had undergone some process of manufacture, and consist mainly of manufactures of rubber, sewing machines, farm implements and machinery, paper, flour, dried and canned fish, condensed milk and electrical apparatus.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, August 9. — In a rapidly shifting market wheat prices yesterday averaged lower but closed with an upward slant. Reports of drought relief by rains in Southern Argentina, together with increased Argentine shipments of wheat to Europe, tended to favor the selling side, and so too did uncertainty over the United States government crop report due this afternoon. On the other hand big buying of flour, especially in the southwest, was noted, and there were indications of better export demand for wheat from North America.

Closing quotations of wheat were irregular, ranging from 1-4c off to 1-2c up. Corn closed at 1-8c net decline to 2 1-8c gain, oats showing 1-4c set back to 3-8c advance and provisions unchanged to 20c to 22c drop.

Rain Reports a Factor.

A quick transient tumble of nearly 4c a bushel from the day's top prices of wheat came about in the middle of the session largely as a result of rain reports from Argentina. Meanwhile reports from various quarters pointed to a liberal amount of European buying of North American wheat —both domestic and Canadian.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 9.—Wheat prices were 2¼c to ¾c lower at the close of trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. Price fluctuations were erratic, the marking showing an advance of 1⅜c over the previous close at one period, only to dip sharply and close with losses.

Spreading operations accounted for a good portion of the transactions. Very little export business was apparent.

Weather in Western Canada had no effect on trading yesterday. The weather throughout the West is mostly dry. No rain is forecast for to-day and temperatures are expected to remain high.

Cash wheat prices were unchanged, with the exception of No. 5 wheat, which was about ½c higher, and feed wheat, which dropped about 4c. Wheat delivered to country elevators Wednesday totalled 77,550 bushels, compared with 76,982 bushels on the same day a year ago.

Coarse grain trading was dull. Oats held firm, but rye, barley and flax fell off, the latter as much as 6½c.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—Trading on the local wholesale butter market yesterday was again quiet, with prices holding their own successfully, despite the fact that some brokers reported difficulty in obtaining more than 39c per pound for the No. 1 grade creamery. With the comparatively high prices low in force, butter is hard to sell, and dealers state that supplies are quite sufficient to answer all demands at the current rates. The situation is reported as being quite sound, and it is not expected among prominent trades that any reduction will be effected for the present at least. No. 1 grade creamery was quoted at from 39c to 39½c per pound, and the No. 2 grade at from 36¾c to 38c.

Egg prices firmed slightly yesterday during slack trading, due to the small number of arrivals, and a good demand all throughout the trade. It was reported that a large number of Western eggs are being received locally, and this is the only development that has been able to keep the supply anywhere within the bounds of the present demand. Dealers were quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned, as follows: Fresh extras, 34c to 35c per dozen; fresh firsts, 32c per dozen; fresh seconds, 23c per dozen.

The local cheese market was again very dull, with the price of the No. 1 large, paraffined and Government-graded cheese at from 17½c to 18c per pound.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, August 9. — Trading was steady on the local grain market here yesterday with prices unchanged.

Egg prices were higher, with carlot wholesale offerings selling as follows: Alberta fresh, 35c for extras, 30c for first, and 23½c for seconds f.o.b. Edmonton; Manitoba fresh, 31½c for firsts and 24c for seconds f.o.b. Winnipeg; British Columbia fresh, 39c for extras and 36c for firsts; Ontario fresh in carlots on spot here, 38c for extras, 33c for firsts and 25c for seconds. Retail prices were: Fresh extras, 46c per doen, fresh firsts 38c, and fresh seconds 29c. Receipts were 949 cases, as compared with 1,006 cases on the same day last week.

Butter prices were unchanged with receipts of 1,166 boxes, as against 1,072 boxes on the same day last week.

The cheese market was dull with no price changes. Receipts were 4,236 boxes, as against 5050 boxes on the same day last week.

The potato market settled at $1.25 per 80 pounds locally grown.

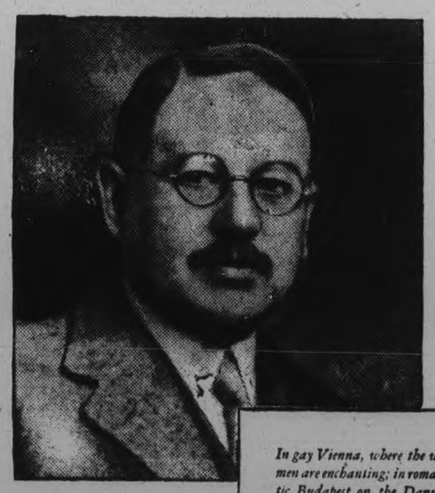
advises a simple way to skin beauty



"I earnestly recommend to my clients that they use only Palmolive Soap because its gentle action leaves the skin in a healthy, smooth, normal condition which is the very foundation of a beautiful complexion."

S. Pessl

VIENNA—BUDAPEST

In gay Vienna, where the women are enchanting; in romantic Budapest on the Danube—there is one name in beauty culture which has been recognized for over a hundred years—the name of Pessl!

Today, in the celebrated shop across from the Opera in Vienna, S. Pessl carries on the tradition of the Pessl name.

MONSIEUR Pessl, of Vienna and Budapest, has one favorite home treatment for keeping complexions youthful . . . a treatment based on twice-a-day use of Palmolive Soap. And all the great beauty specialists of Europe agree in this with Pessl.

"I should naturally have been led, by my knowledge of the complexion effects of palm and olive oils, to have invented a soap made exclusively from them," says S. Pessl.

"As these oils are already combined in Palmolive Soap, I earnestly recommend to my patrons that they use only this soap." Pessl's "foundation treatment" is just this: massage the warm rich lather of Palmolive into the skin for 2 minutes—rinse with warm, then cold water. That is all. Yet millions find renewed youth each day this way.

NO BLAME IS ATTACHED TO DRIVER OF CAR

was cut on the door.

Irene Middup was sitting to the left of Dorothy Wright in the rear seat. She corroborated the previous witnesses as to the moderate speed and the presence of the car in front.

"Miss Wright fell over me," she said in describing the events of the overturn. "Her head was in the cushions and she was half kneeling on the floor. She spoke but not rationally after the accident."

Richard Cowan, 18, next in the box, said that he had driven the car from Newcastle and on the return had driven to the end of Charlotte street where he got out, and party continued on out the highway. The car was in perfect condition mechanically and had only been purchased in May. The lights were on "parking" when he left the car.

Arthur Webster, Lakefield, driver of the car on the dirt road, stated that he did not know whether his lights were on bright, dim or parking. The front of the approaching car was in "a light blur" as though the front lights were burning. He estimated its speed at thirty miles.

Irene Middup, recalled to the stand, said that she was positive the lights of the fatal car were on bright and she said that they would show up the road ninety feet in advance, indicating by the length of the court room.

Neck Was Broken.

Dr. F. P. McNulty, in the absence of Dr. W. Fitzpatrick, gave evidence. He stated that death was caused by a fracture of the cervical spine, or in other words, a broken neck. Miss Wright, he said, had been admitted to the hospital about midnight on Sunday, and an X-ray taken shortly after showed all signs of paralysis from the neck down. The vital functions were suspended. Her neck was put in a plaster cast in an attempt to reduce the dislocation, but to no avail, the girl dying about 9.30 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

Arthur Webster, a car dealer from Lakefield, was next placed in the box. In his evidence he said: "I was approaching the highway from the west about five minutes after eleven when I saw the lights of the approaching car first. I was accompanied by Elwood Pearson, also of Lakefield, and we were driving a Windsor White Prince. We had slowed down to about ten miles an hour and were about six car lengths away from the highway when the accident occurred. As I saw it, the driver came straight up the highway to the side road. When he saw the side road and his mistake, he attempted to swing the car to the left back to the road. At that time his right wheels were on the extreme right of the pavement. As the car swung to the left it swerved across into the right ditch where it made a complete turn in the air and landed in the ditch on its four wheels.

"I stopped my car and Pearson and I ran over to the scene of the accident. When we arrived one of the girls was out on the ground and someone was helping her up. She was evidently hurt. I don't know whether she was thrown out or not. I opened the rear door of the car and saw a girl in the back seat of the car facing the back of the car. She said, 'I can't move, help me.' So I helped her out and put her on the ground, and went back to the car. Coming back we helped her into my car, and taking the driver of the ditched car, came to Peterborough. There I reported the accident to the police, and took the people to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Edwood Pearson, Lakefield, called next, agreed with Webster in his evidence.

Highway Traffic Officer J. M. Hinchcliffe said that he and Constable Thompson heard of the accident about 11.35 o'clock, and had gone out to the scene of the accident. When they arrived a wrecking car was there starting to move the car. The skid marks, he said, were about 90 feet long, the first few feet a straight skid, with the last part a crabbed or side skid. Only the left side showed a skid mark. The right fenders were smashed, and the glass broken in the right windows, while there was mud on top of the car. The car was a new Chrysler 75 model. When asked if he had ever heard of other accidents at the same place, he said he had. The curve was a fairly dangerous one, authough it was slightly banked, with about five hundred feet of a level stretch at the bottom before coming to the hill.

Hinchcliffe claimed that on a survey of the place he saw that there was a guard rail for about 450 feet, but then the side road started and there was a gap of 67 feet to allow for it. Had there been a rail there, the car would likely have struck one of the first posts.

Provincial Constable Harry Thompson said there was no break in the top of the car, and the headlights or windshield were not broken, but the right fenders, running board, and glass in the right front door was broken. The only signs of any one being hurt that he saw was blood all over the right front door. He said the skid mark was about thirty paces long, with the most of it a side skid, the mark showing only on the left side, a sthe right wheels were apparently off the road.

Asked what speed he thought it was safe to drive around the curve, he said about 20 to 25 miles an hour. Marks showed that the driver had evidently mistaken the side road for a continuance of the highway, and then seeing his mistake had turned back, upsetting as he did so, Constable Thompson said. He added that there was no checker board there, and that he thought the worst feature of the curve was the presence of the side road.

The jury empanelled was F. MacPherson, foreman, Thomas Cruickshanks, J. M. Boyd, W. S. Dowson, John H. Sedgewick, John Kylie John Malone, Wesley Flannery, Norman Henry, James Fowler, James Warren, and aPtrick Menogue.

The symbol of medicine, a staff with serpent entwined round it, had its origin some centuries before Christ.

"TOO MUCH LIQUOR."

Sir Henry Drayton's expression of a desire to foster the sale of light wines in Ontario may be interpreted as an admission that the consumption of "hard liquor" is greater than the Commissioner and the Government consider good for the customers of the chain of vendors' shops.

When the Government assumed the sale of liquor in 1926 on the mandate of the people, members of the Cabinet promised the large body of temperance men and women, as distinguished from the bone-dry prohibitionists, that the Government would endeavour to meet the wishes of those who hoped that there might be some effective median way of moderation in dealing with the liquor problem. To that end vendors in many places have exercised the discretionary restriction of sales which was of the essence of the regulatory scope of the Act.

But, according to Sir Henry Drayton, Ontario has become known as a Province of whiskey drinkers, and he believes that the introduction of cheap, light wines "would be a good way of fighting the abuse of alcohol." Temperance people in this Province will applaud any constructive experiment the Commissioner devises that will help to correct Ontario's reputation as a "Province of whiskey drinkers."

Sir Henry's plain, unvarnished statement is in itself an assurance to the temperance people of Ontario that his attitude and convictions on the liquor problem are akin to theirs. He drags it out into the light, takes the public into his conference and proposes to try to substitute light wines for much of the liquor that has been selling. Sir Henry says, in other words, that he is not satisfied with the heavy consumption of liquors, and it may be taken for granted that for the self same reason large numbers of those who voted for the Liquor Control Act are not more satisfied than Sir Henry himself.

The Government sale of liquor is not a political question. The plebiscite of 1926 left it unchanged as a social problem, but instituted a plan of control which is still in the balance of moderate public opinion. A change in the Government to-morrow would not cancel the liquor control mandate.

And while Sir Henry is concerned about the consumption of liquor and would approach from that direction the abuse which he publicly acknowledges, at the same time he might devote some attention to the devising of a practical way of limiting the sale of liquor. If he is free to propose the substitute of light wines, it may be assumed that he is also free to endeavour to check the actual sale of liquor, or to recommend to the Government further restrictions upon the present system of vending.

U. S. INTEREST IN SINGAPORE.

The possibility of the new Labor Government under Ramsay MacDonald abondoning the construction of the British naval base at Singapore evokes a gloomy and transparent prediction by the American weekly "Liberty" that the decline of Britain's greatness will set in with the discontinuance of this project.

The Singapore base, according to this magazine, affords a modern proof of British vitality and the will to survive and dominate. It was planned as a defence of Britain's possessions and dominions in the Pacific. It was the conception of the aristocratic element in England, "Liberty" asserts, not only as a mighty outpost of empire but incidentally as a bulwark and guarantee of high positions and opportunities for the sons of those families of wealth and blue blood whose prerogatives have been proconsulships in distant subject lands.

"The history of nations and empires is like that of people," "Liberty" continues. "They are young, they grow up to the fulness of power, and they die. Great Britain is going along this historic road. . . . If it abandons its naval base at Singapore the British Empire is walking down the hill to the sunset."

The magazine points out correctly that this base was intended to control the sea routes to the British possessions in the East and above all to the dominions of New Zealand and Australia.

But the expanding imperialism of the United States looks out upon the Pacific to her remote possession she wrested from Spain, and beyond the Philippine Islands to Japan with her growing necessity of an outlet for her multiplying population. If the antipodean dominions of Britain are determined to keep their populations white, specifically excluding the yellow races to the north, the United States is equally determined, by all signs, to retain her islands, which are even nearer to Japan.

Hence, the interest of "Liberty" in Singapore. As a naval base it could never be used offensively against the United States. In case Australia and New Zealand became involved in a fight for their lives "it is probable that we would side with them rather than sit back and see them extinguished," says "Liberty." "Should that come to pass, Singapore would be of inestimable value as a base for our navy. In fact, we could well afford right now to take over one-half of the cost of completing the construction at the Singapore base and enter into a joint ownership of it. Our half would cost us about $125,000,000."

During the British elections which returned the Labor party to power leading members of the party declared that the base would be scrapped if fortune turned in Labor's favor. Ramsay MacDonald would be actuated not only by the consideration of expense but also by his desire for world peace and willingness to disarm.

According to the sentiment of "Liberty" neither of these factors would deter the United States from obtaining an impregnable fortress in the far Pacific that would balance the proximity of Japan.

It will be comforting to the British peoples to know on the assurance of "Liberty" that although Uncle Sam insists that Britain pay its war loans down to the last farthing, he is not so close-fisted after all. Funding of the war debt to the United States may conceivably prevent the completion of the Singapore base, thereby, according to "Liberty," starting the "British Empire down the hill to the sunset," but somewhere down this slope of despair Uncle Sam would be willing to open up his bulging purse to the extent of $125,000,000 for a fifty-fifty interest in the projected Gibraltar of the Pacific.

It's a magnanimous offer, isn't it?

A MOTOR CAR'S POWER.

Proving grounds are an adjunct of every automobile factory. They submit the new cars to all the ordinary conditions of actual traffic. Business dictates these final tests and trials of the inanimate machine, but there is no such exacting examination of the purchaser. Cars are turned out practically identical down to the last nut and bolt, but what two drivers are alike in temperament and especially in emotional reactions to the common perplexities of highway congestion and the sudden emergencies that confront the most careful men who sit behind the wheels?

When the attention of the authorities and possibly of the manufacturers of cars turns more to the personal rather than the mechanical factor in the handling of automobiles, there should be more sanity and caution exhibited on the road and fewer of the accidents that have marred this summer's motoring.

The results of the research of the Massachusetts Safety Council as to the active force of a car going at forty miles an hour might be mentioned to some of the heedless motorists in the hope that they might realize something of the power that rests in their hands. It has been ascertained that an automobile or truck weighing 3,000 pounds traveling at a speed of forty miles an hour has a striking force of not less than 2,700 TONS.

"To state this point more clearly," the Council continues, "such a car at forty miles an hour strikes with sufficient energy to toss a rock weighing one ton eighty feet high."

However, that concrete illustration of an automobile's power probably would not convey any meaning to those who need its cautionary and salutary intention.

BRIAND AND POINCARE.

Aristide Briand has played many parts in French politics since he became, in 1902, a Socialist radical member of the Chamber of Deputies. He entered the Cabinet as Minister of Public Instruction in 1906, he was Prime Minister for the first time in 1909, and in 1911 Minister of Justice under Raymond Poincare, whom now he succeeds. The Socialist party expelled him from its ranks in 1909 because he suppressed a railroad strike by calling the strikers to the colors and assigning them to guard their own lines, and since that time his radicalism has not been marked.

To-day M. Briand is back at the helm, behind him the solid Poincare Cabinet with the exception of M. Poincare, who has resigned because of ill-health, and even Germany approves. The nations find in his success in the formation of his twelfth Cabinet an assurance that France will march without deviation in the paths of international peace and security. Washington believes he will give an impetus to the negotiations for naval reductions. Germany expects rather more consideration from Briand than it received from Poincare, and the German editors hasten to express their country's good intentions in the matter of co-operation for the settlement of reparations and other outstanding problems.

Briand, who was born in 1862, has been a power in the state for almost three decades. He gave notable service during the war, as a member of the Cabinet and, later, for a period as Prime Minister; but probably he will be remembered longer for his post-war contribution to European statesmanship. He has been a staunch supporter of the League of Nations. As Foreign Minister under Painleve he accomplished the famous Locarno pact with Germany in 1925, for which he received the Nobel peace prize. Later, as Poincare's Foreign Minister, he welcomed Germany to the council table of the League of Nations and urged that the way be cleared for "conciliation, arbitration and peace." These words give the clue to his policy of the post-war years. In the same spirit he proposed a treaty between France and the United States which was developed into the Kellogg-Briand multilateral treaties to outlaw war. He supported Poincare heartily in the recent decision of the Chamber to ratify the debt settlements with the United States and Britain.

Poincare has been forced into retirement by ill-health and the necessity of preparing for a surgical operation, but it is too early to compose his funeral oration. If he recovers, and his country needs him again, Raymond Poincare will be ready. For years his countrymen have turned to him in confidence to perform tasks requiring high moral and political courage, and he has not failed them. He has shown a skill truly remarkable in adapting the French parliamentary group system to the necessities of a continuous policy in the tremendous problems France has been obliged to face since the war. He has earned his rest, and the world will wish him well.—Ottawa Journal.

A Thought

PLEASURE

Pleasure is one of those commodities which are sold at a thousand shops, and bought by a thousand customers, but of which nobody ever fairly finds possession; either they know not well how to use, or the commodity will not keep, for no one has ever yet appeared to be satisfied with his bargain; it is too subtle for transition, though sufficiently solid for sale.—W. G. Simms.

CANADIAN PLEASES CRITICS.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—A singer from the prairies, Miss Isabel M. Mutch, formerly of Regina and Saskatoon, has made a decided success with her studies in Germany, and has received notable praise from several eminent German critics.

A lyric soprano, Miss Mutch has been studying in Hamburg, Germany, for the past year, and recently was heard in recital with Hans Herman, German pianist and composer.

Before returning to the Dominion, Miss Mutch plans to continue her studies in Italy.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

CHAPTER 12.

"That was Arthur Reyes place—Reyes, who does the etchings. You've never heard of him, I suppose?" Bert said, sitting on the arm of the chair in which Beatrice had established herself with the book, and looking over her shoulder.

"No, I never have."

"It's in a little place called the Rue Visconto."

"I never heard of that either."

"You wouldn't have heard of that."

"On the Rive Gauche?" Beatrice asked, looking up with a knowing little laugh.

"Yep," he answered, pleased and surprised. "How'd you know that?"

"Everything Hugh ever did, when he was studying in Paris, seemed to happen on the Rive Gauche," she explained.

"It's a great place—" Bert said slowly, with an ache in his voice.

"Paris?"

"Paris."

"Hugh's going to take me there some day," Beatrice said contentedly.

"To the Hotel Meurice, I have no doubt," Bert supplied lightly. "And to Versailles and Fontainebleau, and to the opera and Ciro's and Cartier's. Go in the spring, and drive in the Bois."

"That's what I thought," she assented eagerly, looking up. But at the quality she found in his smile, her own face changed, she flushed brilliantly, and frowned.

"Were you making fun of me?" she asked quickly, sensitively.

"No, not of you. Look, there's the girl I really liked," Bert said, touching with a well-groomed finger tip the figure of a woman, in a summer photograph. "That was at the races, one day. That's Madge."

"With the dog?"

"With Poum. Yes. Madge Templeman. You can't see her face well—she's very pretty. Here—" He turned pages. "That's a better one of her," he said.

"Oh, Bert, she is pretty."

"Isn't she?"

"Is she there now?"

"No. She's back in England, I believe. Or maybe they're in China. Templeman was to go to China.

"Her brother?"

"No, darling. Her husband.

"Oh—?" Beatrice said slowly, flushing again, and meeting his look with he confused, youthful smile.

"Exactly." Bert ruffled the pages, his arm touching Beatrice's bare neck as he leaned across her. Suddenly conscious of herself, she said in a tone of compunction:

"Oughtn't you to be going? It's just eight."

"O don't mind being late," Bert said carelessly. "I did something for you to-day, ma belle-mere," he added abruptly.

"For me?"

"Yes'm. I went over to the Atlantic Electric and applied for a job in their drafting-room."

"You didn't, Bert."

"I say I did."

"But why—why," she said eagerly, squaring about to half face him, and still conscious that his arm rested on her shoulders. "Why leave the firm?"

"Because I don't belong in the firm, and I know it, and Dad knows it. I'm a privileged character there—and it's not only that. It's not only that if I'm late or make mistakes, I'm not called down for it like the rest, because I'm the old man's son," he explained, still with his lazy air of not caring much one way or the other, "but it's also that if I do have an inspiration—if I do anything decent—I don't get the credit."

"I don't quite get that, Bert. I should think they'd be only too glad to give you any advantage they fairly could."

"That's just it. They're given me such a break already that it only sounds like more graft: of course Mr. Bert's idea is the best, of course it was Mr. Bert who thought of that."

"I see. I see."

"So I'm to be over with the Atlantic people, in the blue print too, and see what I can do on my own."

"Does your father know?"

"Not yet."

"Oh, I am glad of this," Beatrice exclaimed. "It will delight him. For I think he's been afraid there would be criticism of this—this crown prince stuff.....Come in, Hugh," she called, as there was a sound at the half-opened door. "Wasn't that your father?" she asked, turning to Bert.

"I didn't see. It might have been Marshall, to say that the Renfrews are waiting downstairs for me. They're to pick me up."

"That was what it was. Well, fly, then."

"Say that I'm a good boy," he said, when they were both standing, facing each other.

"You're a good boy."

"No, say it as if you meant it."

"You're a wonderful boy."

"That's better. Did I tell you that your hair is exactly the color of Mrs. Templeton's hair?"

"No." She laughed, confused and reproachful and amused. "I don't think you did. I daresay it's important.—?"

"Supremely important," Bert said solemnly. "Good night, my dear old faithful mother."

Unsmilingly, he kissed her on the forehead, and they both burst into laughter. Then Beatrice went to her own room, to await Hugh, who had had to take some business associates to dinner downtown and establish them safely at the theatre, and Bert snatched up his hat and overcoat and ran downstairs to join his dinner party.

To her surprise, Beatrice found that Hugh was already at home, lying on the couch, and looking pale and ill.

He had had a stupid headache all evening, it appeared, and had deserted the visiting architects at the first possible moment.

But, Hugh, I didn't hear you come in. I was in Bert's room while he was finishing dressing. He was telling me about Paris, and he showed me some pictures. Hugh, I'm so sorry. Have you had aspirin? Would you like me to—"

She fussed about him, solicitous and sympathetic, softening lights, moving a great crystal bowl of sweet peas to a distance, so that their too-powerful fragrance should not distress him, shaking up pillows. He had been chairman at the horrible dinner, and she suspected that he had eaten nothing.

Presently he opened his eyes to find her presiding at a low tray, ready to dispense tea and very thin hot toast when he was ready for them.

"How is it, Hugh?"

"How's what?"

"Your head."

"Oh, clear as a bell."

"Not really!" she exclaimed, with such heartfelt joy that tears came into his eyes and he stretched out a hand and took hers and held it.

"The minute I'm hom with you, my dear, and safe in this room nothing worries me," he said.

"But, Hugh, what was worrying you?"

"Oh, thoughts—thoughts. I wondered what made you think that you loved me, Bee, and I looked at myself—a dry old codger among those other dry old codgers—"

"Hugh, you poor simpleton. You don't deserve anything half so delicious as this—this is my best spider-leg, that old Chang Lo at the consulate gave me." Beatrice, both hands now busied with his cup said reproachfully.

"Is it, dear?" he said appreciatively, meekly.

"It is. Now drink that. And eat that. And here's jam too—shall I spread it?"

Half past eight o'clock, and yet it was only dusk now.....in the pleasant upstairs room whose wide-open windows looked out to-night upon high tree branches sweet with damp new leaves. Moonlight was struggling with the half light in the garden, trickling down through the trees, laying a timid shaft of silver across Beatrice's upstairs porch, where she sometimes sang in the mornings, Hugh thought, while she fed her parrot and played with her kitten, and dried her brilliant hair in the spring sunshine.

Her primroses everywhere, her photograph on the desk where Hugh was working on the Kreutzmann Memorial, her books comfortably piled beside her pillowy couch; the indications of her six weeks' invalidism all about, and yet the evidence of her living, glowing vitality here too; her books, her kitten, her writing desk with its black wax seals and little lamp; her tapestry, a tangle of brown and green wools in a shallow basket.

And here she was herself, the goddess of the enchanted apartment where he had spent the happiest hours of a happy life, the tall, lean, eager, red-headed girl who loved so to be useful, loved so to busy herself maternally with his toast and his tea.

She caught the black velvet kitten up from the floo, during one of the baby animal's stealthy marches from the shelter of the tea table to the shelter of Hugh's chair, and set him down, wobbling and confused, among the p ates.

"There, lick that cream up, Plutarch!"

"Aren't you having tea, Bee?"

"Well, no. Because, like an idiot, I had Nelly bring me a tray about seven."

"Have it with Bert?"

"Oh, no. He's dining with the Archibalds, or somewhere. No, I had it alone in her, in the company of the late dear queen," said Beatrice, glancing at her book. "It's wonderful—it's biting, but wonderful, isn't it?" she asked innocently.

ORIENT LEARNS EASTERN WAYS

Tokio Delegates Will Give Lessons On How International Good Will Is Kept.

3,000 MILE BOUNDARY.

By Wilfrid Eggleston
(Special to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—The Orient is to learn how two great nations with 3,000 miles of border line settle their boundary disputes in friendly fashion.

The secretary of the International Joint Commission, Lawrence J. Burpee, has been invited to give a paper at the Institute of Pacific Relations, which is meeting at Tokio in October.

Sir John Aird has been named as the head of the Canadian delegation to the Institute, but this lacks official confirmation. Sir Robert Borden's name has also been mentioned.

The semi-annual meeting of the International Joint Commission occurs on October 1st, being held at Ottawa. Mr. Burpee will leave almost immediately afterwards for Japan.

Only two boundary disputes, neither of them of major rank, are before the commission at the moment. One of these arises over proposals to cut drainage channels along the Roseau River, on the Minnesota-Manitoba boundary. Territory so far away as Winnipeg may be affected by drainage works near the border in that extremely level country.

The other, which is more complex, and which may require the assistance of the National Research council before it is settled, arose over the alleged damage of vegetation in the State of Washington from fumes from the smelters at Trail, B. C. Consolidated Smelters are engaged in an attempt to eliminate the objectionable fumes and produce chemical fertilizer at the same time, for use in the orchards and on the farms of the west.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

LAKE SHORE

Developments on Lake Shore proving very important. Drifting on 1,800 level is depulicating the results encountered on the 1,600. So far a length of 1,600 feet has been opened up. Much of it is extremely high grade. Short diamond drill holes are to be used to determine the widths quickly. On the 1,600 there are several crosscuts from the drift, which show 60-foot widths. These were put out at 100-foot intervals. Drifting on the 2,000-foot level is said to have advanced some 70 feet in ore of good grade to date. Delivery of new tube mills is being made now. The grinding capacity when completed should be good for nearer 2,500 tons per day when installed.

AMULET

The latest reports are that Amulet have cut still another section of high grade copper equal in thickness to any so far encountered in this new area. Awakens big possibilities, says our field man. This is D. D. Hole No. 222 and is 50 feet east of 217, the first hole to cut ore. Assuming a combined grade of $30 per ton and the thickness as reported, the four holes indicate approximate tonnage of 45,000, with a gross value of less than $1,400,000.

Further drilling will be watched here with interest.

WRIGHT—HARGREAVES

Opinion of some of the best posted men in Kirkland Lake says our field man is—Buy Wright-Hargreaves. There is a report from sources which are very reliable that the mill is going to be stepped up to considerably more than the 400 tons in the very near futre.

VENTURES

Another block of 15 claims in Blezard Township has been taken over by Ventures Limited. This purchase makes the total holdings of Ventures in Blezard 70 claims, with a total of about 2,800 acres. Area is declared to be most attractive from a geological standpoint and to offer good opportunities for depth exploration.

SUDBURY ORES

A wide gossan area has been opened up by surface crews working on Sudbury Ores located on north rim of basin area. Test pits have been put down and considerable nickel-copper mineralization disclosed. After a thorough campaign of surface exploration, it is expected some diamond drilling will be done in favorable sections during coming winter.

UNITED VERDE EXTENSION

The diamond drill operating on old Mount Nickel property in Blezard Township now down 1,600 feet. Drilling is continuing. This deep hole is being put down to glean information from the lower horizons. Up to the present time there has been no sign of the contact appearing in the core. The company has hopes of encountering copper enrichment somewhere along the contact zone at depth.

CONVENT SISTER DIES IN FLAMES

Perishes in Burning Building After Saving Sixty Sick Children.

FOUND BESIDE ALTAR.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Sister Celestine, acting Mother Superior of St. Patricks' Convent on Hayling Island, gave her life to-day to save sixty sick children and seven other nuns from fire which broke out in the Island Convent.

Sister Celestine after discovering the fire, calmly directed the evacuation and then returned to the flaming building to make sure nobody had been forgotten.

She was overcome by the smoke and was found dead near the altar by firemen who arrived after all the other inmates had been rescued.

PRICES CRASH IN LEAD ISSUES UNDER FLOOD SELLING ORDERS

Utility Stocks Were Chief Sufferers on the Montreal Exchange.

POWER GROUP DOWN.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 9 (C.P.).—Prices crashed in almost every important issue on the board of the Montreal Stock Exchange this morning under the pent-up overnight wave of selling orders with which clients flooded their brokers last night and early this morning when last night's announcement of the increase in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank to six per cent after it had been stationary at 5 per per cent. for more than a year.

Utility stocks were the chief sufferers on the local list and also those listed on the New York Exchange as well as the local board. Brazilian Traction which went to extremes yesterday, did the same thing in the opposite direction this morning when under a heavy accumulation of overnight selling orders it opened more than five points below its close of the night before. A steadying influence developed later in the morning, however, and at noon Brazilian was selling at 69¼, off 3½ points. All of the power stocks which reached new high marks during this week were on the toboggan as well; International Nickel, which is listed in New York, was subjected to all the vicissitudes of both markets and at noon had declined nearly three points.

Despite the severity of the break no particular uneasiness was expressed by local experts and new that the action of the United States Federal Reserve Board will have no effect on the English 5½ per cent rate was said to be a reassuring factor.

BRITISH LAW IS OUTLINED

throwing himself on the altar, he was above arrest. This is seen again in the fact that a person who could read could not be put to death for murder. Why, because the clerics only could read and this was exercising the Church's right. We still hear of the 'neck verse' in the Scripture and this is the verse the murderer was generally asked to read."

Only in recent times, Mr. Wearing explained, was it made impossible for a man to be imprisoned for debt, but for years debt was considered a crime. Now the Division Court clerk can order a man to pay a debt through the judge, and if he does not he can be committed for contempt of court.

"Contempt of court means disobeying the court or acting in such a manner as to be considered insulting to the court," said the speaker. "Only Parliament and Judges have this right ,and only at rare intervals does Parliament exercise its right."

It was explained that an injunction can be taken out against a person, restraining him from doing a certain act until a given time. If he does this act he may be committed for contempt of court.

"The reason of Louis Singer's committal to prison is this. Under a Dominion Act the power was given to Parliament to appoint commissions to inquire into the workings of combination trade concerns. A commission was appointed to inquire into one of these trade combinations in Toronto. The chairman of the commission has the power of a judge and he ordered Louis Singer, attorney for the trading company, to appear and give certain evidence and produce certain papers having bearing on business transactions. He refused and immediately Gordon Waldron, solicitor for the Commission, applied for papers to have Singer committed for contempt of court. They were given and now Singer is in jail, and likely to remain there for considerable time unless he gives the required testimony.

The right to imprison still rests with Parliament and Judges and in this enlightened time when men can read newspapers and think, there is little chance of the Judges misusing that power. Singer will get what he is entitled to and all that he is entitled to—Justice."

Herb McCannan gave several mouth organ solos which were heartily applauded.

The booster for the day was Dr. F. C. Neal and the prize winners were: J. W. Meyers, George Liddle and William Anderson of London.

The guests were: Helen Davis Sherry, of Saskatoon, R. H. Stewart, Stratford; Joseph Beauclerc, Owen Sound; Joseph Vivian, Brantford; and William Anderson, of London.

EARLY FOREST FIRE PATROLS.

The Forest Service of the Department of the Interior has found that by the use of aircraft equipped for winter flying, it is now possible to commence the patrol of forest areas in Manitoba and Saskatchewan in March instead of late May, as formerly. In this way fires started by trappers, prospectors, and others, during the winter months, are detected and reported ,and means taken for their suppression before they attain serious proportions.

LOSSES FROM INSECTS.

The Dominion Entomologist, Mr. Arthur Gibson, estimates that in the aggregate insects cost Canada well over $100,000,000 annually. This is the loss to field crops and to it must be added the loss to forest and shade trees, stored products, etc. While these latter losses are difficult to estimate they easily average over $50,000,000 a year.

In Police Court

Charged with theft, Joe Hills of Toronto, pleaded not guilty in Police Court this morning, and was remanded until Tuesday. Bail was fixed at $1000.

A man was remanded until to-morrow to allow doctors to examine him as to his sanity.

Arthur Druce was charged with driving a car with defective brakes. He was remanded for a week.

SEA-FLEA BOAT BUILDING PLANT TO BE ORGANIZED IN THE CITY

New Corporation Will Be Known as the Canada Flyers Limited.

ON NEW LOCATION.

D'Arcy Carter Designing New Crafts To Compete in C.N.E. Races.

D'Arcy Carter, the youthful designer of the famous Canada Flyer Boats, which have captured numberless honors since their debut two years ago, and which have won head line recognition in the sporting columns of the newspapers, is contemplating the formation of a company to be called the Canada Flyers Limited.

It was one of these speedy crafts that captured two firsts in the Bewdley Regatta last Wednesday, won at Frenchman's Bay ,and at South Beach. Now they are building new ones in which they aspire to cross the finish line ahead of any other seaflea in the races at the Canadian National Exhibition.

The boat building plant has been moved recently from their old location on George street to the building on Charlotte street, that used to house the Fisher Battery Service.

As soon as the company is definitely formed ,and the names of the directors are released the building of a new and modern factory will be built in this city.

GREAT BIRD MAN PUBLISHES BOOK

"Jack Miner on Current Topics" is Title of New Work by the Birds' Friend.

HAS MANY PHOTOS

During the last ten years Jack Miner, free of charge, has written articles which have been published from coast to coast in all leading Canadian and United States newspapers. Mr. Miner's idea was through the co-operation of press to educate the youth to the value of bird life to the country. All newspapers have co-operated fully, the result being that each article or statement has had a tremendous circulation, and been received so well by the public that, during the last few years, from fifty to one hundred letters would find their way daily to Jack Miner's post office box asking for reprints of these articles. Jack Miner being a poor man financially, could not afford to have reprints made, nor even acknowledge these requests. So rapidly did these requests pile up, that upon taking the matter up with Ryerson Press, Toronto, they decided to place on the market all these articles in book form, calling the book "Jack Miner on Current Topics." Under the able supervision of Mr. E. J. Moore, of Ryerson Press, an intimate friend of the Miner family, a book has been produced that is not only a credit to the Ryerson Press and Miner family, but will be a credit to the library of any individual. The book is handsomely bound and printed on white coated paper, the same as the first Miner book. It contains over fifty of latest photos taken on the bird sanctuary to illustrate the various articles. It retails at $2.50, and can be purchased at any book store, or direct from Ryerson Press, Toronto. Should a profit be derived from book the money is to used to maintain the Jack Miner bird sanctuary. Buy it for your own personal library, your town library and for your friends.

DEMAND FOR WOOD STEADY.

Although each year sees more substitutes on the Canadian market, the amount of wood used remains practicaly constant. This is due to the new uses being continually found for wood, as a result of the great amount of research now being carried on with a view to finding new uses for wood in its natural condition or by modifications, chemically or mecnanically.

FORGERS ARRESTED.

BELGRADE, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Police to-day arrested three Hungarians charged with forging and issuing $16,000,000 worth of Jugoslav revenue stamps. Later three accomplices of the forgers were arrested and an elaborate forging plant and printing press was seized in Budapest.

PANICKY LIQIDATION FOLLOWS INCREASE IN REDISCOUNT RATE

More Than Billion Dollars In Quoted Values Wiped Out At New York.

5 TO 6 PER CENT. INCREASE

NEW YORK, N.Y., August 9 (Canadian Press). — The most sweeping reaction in the history of the New York Stock Exchange, which wiped out more than a billion dollars in quoted values in 15 minutes of trading, took place to-day as a result of the panicky liquidation of stocks inspired by the unexpected increase from 5 to 6 per cent in the New York Federal Reserve discount rate, the latest official blow at securities speculation. Prices of scores of active stocks broke $5 to $15 a snare on opening transactions of 5,000 to 25,000 shares but a brisk rally ensued before the end of the first half-hour.

Similar recessions in prices took place on the New York Curb Exchange and in the stock markets of Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, and other leading financial centres.

Wall Street was taken completely by surprise by the rise in rate, which was aimed primarily at securities speculation, as the retention of the 5½ per cent. discount rate by the Bank of England yesterday was accepted as assurance that no change would be made in the New York rate on the theory that Federal Reserve officials would not want to embarrass British bankers in their efforts to conserve the dwindling British gold supply.

MONEY RATES.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Prime Mercantile Paper, 6 per cent.

Foreign exchange steady; demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Great Britain, 4.85 5-16; France, 3.91; Italy, 5.22½; Germany, 23.79; Canadian dollar, ½ of one per cent. discount.

Wheat Prices Advance After Early Downturns

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices made a quick rally to-day from early downturns that were associated with stock market breaks and with weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool. Word that Argentine rains were inconsequential and that drought continued did much to bring about the wheat rally. Opening 5-8 to 1 5-8 off, Chicago wheat afterward rose to above yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were firmer, with corn starting ½ to 1¼ down, but subsequently scoring gains.

AMULET GAINS AFTER DECLINE

Irregular Price Movements Again Feature On Standard Exchange.

PRECIOUS METALS FIRM.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Irregularity marked price movements on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. Most of the issues were softer, firmness being supplied by a few active non-ferrous issues and some of the higher-priced precious metal stocks.

Amulet led the activity again and dropped another five points at the opening, but then staged a rally to reach 2.56 for a net gain of 31. Newbec was up 2 to 45 under good demand and Arno 1 to 42. But Noranda declined 1.25 to 60.75, Hudson Bay reacted 95 cents to 19.00, and they were followed in the downward movement by Big Missouri, which lost 6 to 1.51, Sudbury Basin 10 to 8.80, Base Metals 10 to 5.30, Ventures 10 to 8.05, Pend Oreille 5 to 6.25, and Sherritt Gordon 5 to 7.70.

In the precious metals, Lake Shore was up 35 to 26.00, and McIntyre 40 to 16.40, but Dome and Falconbridge Nickel were off 25 apiece to 10.75 and 13.25, while Mining Corporation and Hollinger lost 20 each to 4.40 and 6.80. Teck Hughes was up 5 to 8.25, and Wright Hargreaves 4 to 1.90.

The same irregularity prevailed in the oils, where Calgary and Edmonton added 20 at 8.25 and Alberta Pacific dropped 10 to 4.10, Associated Oil and Gas 10 to 3.90, and Ajax 1 to 2.70.

Increase Also Felt On London Exchange

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—There was a general marking down of prices on the London Stock Exchange to-day resulting from the advance of the New York Bank rate and the posibility of an early rise of the London rate which tended to depress markets all around, but there was no sign of panic.

International securities were the chief sufferers. British funds, home rails and industrials participated in the downward movement with a slight recovery at the close.

The discount market at first was in a state of uncertainty in view of the possibility of a rise in the bank rate, but was reasured by the intimation in authoritative quarters this afternoon that no change was imminent unless the exchange position became serious.

INSANE ALIEN HANGS HIMSELF

Wrecks Home Following Several Weeks of Heavy Drinking.

WIFE AND DAUGHTER WATCH

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Insane with rage inspired by a long drinking bout, Metro Stephanyk, 36, wrecked furniture in his home here last night and then hanged himself in the cellar.

A heavy kitchen stove was smashed and chairs were hurled through the window by Stephanyk as his wife and daughter stood watching. He had just returned home after several weks of hard drinking according to the story told the police by his wife.

After wrecking the furnishings, Stephanyk left the house and returning, unperceived by anyone, committed suicide by hanging himself with a clothes line thrown over a gas pipe.

BURKE AGAIN PRIZE WINNER

Scores Five Successive Bull's Eyes To Capture Gold Medal.

AT ONTARIO MEET.

LONG BRANCH, Ont., August 9.—(C.P.)—The ability of Lieut. Desmond Burke of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa, to score five successive bull's eyes in a shoot-off, won for the 1924 King's prize winner, the Lieutenant-Governor's gold medal at the Ontario Rifle Association meet to-day.

After a triple tie between Burke and two other marksmen who also scored 117 out of a possible 120 for all stages of the match, Burke also was given the first cash prize on technical superiority. Sceond cash prize went to Sergt. S. Watson, 16th Canadian Scottish Regiment, of Victoria, B. C., who because he came from outside Ontario, was not entitled to shoot off for the medals.

Lieut. Burke shot off with Pte. T. Vamplew, 48th Highlanders, Toronto, who received the third cash prize, but fired only four shots, three of which were inners, and then ceased fire when he learned of Burke's perfect score. He received the silver medal. The numerical superiority of the three marksmen, regardless of their technical superiority for the cash prizes, made the shoot-off for the medals necessary.

TORONTO LIST FOLLOWS LEAD

Influenced By Sweeping Reactions Following Increase of Rediscount Rate.

GAINS IN MINORITY.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 9.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Influenced by the sweeping reactions that took place in Wall street when the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate was unexpectedly marked up from five to six per cent. Issues on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-ady staged a general decline and at the noon hour the list displayed a decidedly soft appearance.

Losses ranged from a fraction to five points while gains which were decidedly in the minority were for the most part confined to fractions.

The local market started downward at the opening with a rally setting in near the noon hour. However, the trend again turned easy when the selling movement met with little or no resistance.

The Utility stocks bore the brunt of the selling. Brazilian Traction eased three points to 69 1-4. Canadian Pacific was off five at 227. Another heavy sufferer was Dominion Power which eased five points to 120 3-8.

The Agricultural stocks were no exceptions to the general trend. Cockshutt Plow dropped a point to 32 and Massey Harris eased a like figure at 53.

Alberta Grain was an exception to the general movement. The stock gained one point at 41.

CYCLIST ESCAPES DEATH

At a quarter to ten last evening an accident occurred on Hunter street, opposite the American Hotel that might easily have proved fatal. John Krek was riding a bicycle out of the lane beside the American Hotel and it is claimed by witnesses that he went out on the street without seeming to see an approaching car proceeding toward George street, driven by J. R. McDonald. The car struck him and pinned him to the road beneath his bicycle. Fortunately his body was beneath the wheels of the car. He received scalp injuries and also injuries to his arm.

CHICAGO ECONOMIC EXPERT SAYS ANNUNITIES ARE ONLY SIDELINE

Snowden's Objections, Based On Desire For International Bank in London.

SHOWS POLICY BREAK.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—The action of Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer in the British Cabinet, in objecting to distribution of annuities under the Young Plan is probably based on a desire to "bargain" for the location of the proposed International Bank in London and early evacuation of the Rhineland rather than a revision of the distribution of annuities, Professor Jacb Viner, economic expert of the University told the Institute of Politics today.

Speaking before the inter-allied debts and reparations round table, Professor Viner declared that what Mr. Snowden has asked for he would undoubtedly like to get, but there is no reason to suppose he would not find compensation in other forms.

"The most significant aspect of Mr. Snowden's attiude is that it indicates a break on the part of Britain with the policy of following France," he said.

FOREST FIRES ARE DYING OUT IN NORTHWEST

Rain in Kenora District Brings Relief To Hundreds of Fire Fighters.

MANITOBA NEEDS RAIN.

Flames Still Roar Onward in Valuable Area Near Lake Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 8 (C.P.)—Rain has diminished the forest fire threat in Northwestern Ontario, a steady downfall in the Kenora district Wednesday night bringing relief to scores of men engaged in battling the flames. Manitoba's Forestry Department yesterday announced that rain might also be expected to solve the difficult fire situation in this province, though the hint that showers would be forthcoming was not supported from meteorological headquarters.

200 Fight Flames

Two hundred rangers and volunteers are engaged in a terrific struggle in the flame-stricken area of Lake Winnipeg, where the most serious fire hazard in the province exists. For several days this force of men has battled in an effort to check several menacing fires from creeping into valuable stands of timber. Some of the most valuable timber land in Manitoba lies in close proximity to the blazes and near Lac Du Bonnet, where other serious fires are being gradually checked.

Rain Still Needed

The situation to the East of Lake Winnipeg was termed "unchanged" yesterday by Colonel I. H. Stevenson, head of the Forestry Department. Rain is needed to completely blot out the flames.

While an airplane with men and equipment was rushed from Lac Du Bonnet to Rennie, Man., Wednesday to help in the work of fighting several blazes in the southeast section of the Province, only a scrub area of bushland is being destroyed and the loss is not regarded as serious by the Department, it was stated yesterday. Reports that the fires threatened to invade valuable timber stands were not true, officials said.

A VISIT TO NORTHERN ONTARIO'S INDIAN TRIBES

When Capt. Roy Maxwell flew to the north with a party, including W. N. Awrey, department of Indian affairs, and W. C. Cain recently, they handed over gold to the red men of the far north for the last of Indian lands to be ceded in the British empire. The party has now returned. The photographs here show some interesting character studies of the expedition. (1) A Cree Indian squaw at Trout Lake outside her tepee; (2) LEFT TO RIGHT, H. N. The pictures were taken by Mr. Awrey.

CANADA RIGHT IN REFUSAL OF RIVER'S USAGE

Should Not Allow Passage if Chicago Canal Impairs Lake Navigation.

NO OTHER RULE

Treaty Claims Canada to Have Unhindered Use of Boundary Waters.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 9 (C.P.).—Canada will be justified in refusing passage to United States shipping through that part of the St. Lawrence River which flows only through the Dominion if the Chicago Canal, by lowering water levels to a point where navigation is impaired, is proved a violation of treaties between the two countries, Dean P. E. Corbett of McGill University told members of the Institute of Politics yesterday.

Discussing the question of the Chicago Canal, which connects Lake Michigan with the Mississippi River and its effect upon the St. Lawrence system, Dean Corbett said:

"The rights of Americans to use the St. Lawrence from St. Regis where the river leaves United States territory, to the sea as an avenue of commerce depends solely upon a series of treaties between Canada and the United States, guaranteeing unimpeded navigation to Americans and Canadians alike in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence system.

Admits No Rule

"Canada does not admit thta there is any rule of international law apart from treaty, giving an upper riparian state the right to navigate the waters of a lower riparian state. The very treaties which grant Americans the right to sail the St. Lawrence through Canadian territory also lay down the rule that Canadians shall have free and unhindered navigation of all boundary waters. Now, if the Chicago diversion, by lowering water-levels to a point where navigation is impeded and existing harbor facilities impaired, is a violation of those treaties—and that is the Canadian view—the Dominion would be justified in holding that she is released from her obligations and is free to refuse passage to American shipping from St. Regis to the Atlantic.

GIRL MAY WALK.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Aug. 9.—Canadian Press)—A helpless cripple since she was three years old, Miss Virginia Conrad, 17, has a good chance of recovering the use of her legs, surgeons announced last night, following an intricate operation. A six-inch section of bone from one of her legs was placed in the lower spine.

ODD LANDINGS BY SEAPLANES

Landing of Water Ship in Field Recalls Many Remarkable Adventures.

TREE TOP LANDING WORST

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 9.—(Guy E. Rhoades, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The recent forced landing of Harold P. Ayres, who, after his engine failed in the middle of a 28-mile "dry hop" near Terrebonne, Que., brought a seaplane to a safe landing in a field, recalls a number of incidents in which Canadian pilots have made remarkable landings in planes which were out of their element.

The first adventure of this sort which has come to light was experienced by Stuart Graham, inspector in the civil aviation branch at Ottawa, the first man to make a commercial flight in Canada, and the first man in the world to make a long cross-country flight in a flying boat. It was during an operation in the Province of Quebec. Graham was flying over a forest in an old type flying boat when his engine suddenly died. He took a quick look around and could see nothing but trees, except in one spot where there was a small clearing. Graham set the nose of the machine well down and glided for it. He got down in amongst the stumps and logs without doing more than scrape the paint from the bottom of the hull of his machine.

Flying Officer Charles Bath, well known in the Maritimes and in the middle west as a resourceful flier of the Royal Canadian Air Force, was flying from the Atlantic coast back to Ottawa at the end of an operation when he headed into a snowstorm and was forced to land on ice with a machine equipped with floats. He was returning from a forest dusting operation and had taken off from water in the east. As he flew further west he noticed below him more and more lakes which had become frozen over, while the air became sharp and biting on his face.

As he neared Megantic, where he was to refuel, a violent snowstorm struck him. For a few minutes he flew around trying to find a way out of it, but was unable to do so. He was in heavily timbered country, on floats, and the lakes were all frozen.

Lights on Ice With Floats.

Finally he decided that he must try to get down, and glided for a small lake in among the trees. He got over it and landed on glare ice which bent and cracked as the floats of his machine skidded over it. He ran the plane in to shore and dragged it in among some willows to prevent its being blown over. That night he walked ten miles through the bush, in the dark and in the violent storm, to the nearest house, from which he was able to telephone rather anxious officials at Ottawa.

One of the most astounding forced landings from which a pilot escaped with his life was that of W. L. Brintnell, of Winnipeg, flying manager of Western Canada Airways, who landed a seaplane in the bush, coming down in the tree tops. The machine was practically torn to pieces, and Brintnell had considerable difficulty in getting out of the cabin and climbing down to a tree to the ground.

Skis on Mud.

The feat of an American pilot, William Winston, of the Curtiss Air Service, rivals that of the Canadians. Winston had been flying a motion picture news photographer in Canada during the winter. He was returning to New York with his machine equipped with skis. Somehow or other he missed the border of the snow line and found himself south of it without wheels. He was in a tremendous hurry and decided to take a chance with the result that he made a perfect landing on bare ground at Curtiss Field, Long Island, without even straining the machine.

TEACHER GETS SENTENCE

WINDSOR, Aug. 9.—(C.P.)—Gordon Woodrow, 35, local Sunday School teacher, convicted in city police court today of a serious offense against two boys was sentenced by Magistrate David M. THE BURIAL OF BLISS CARMAN

(By Wallace Havelock Robb, of Abbey Dawn).

In this irreverent life of mine,
I honor very little,
And least of all the rhyming line
Of professorial tittle;
The vapid, literary lot
Are not worth winey spittle!

But I revere nobility,
Am awed by Jesus' name;
In Carman's deep tranquility
I recognize true flame.
He walked with God, undoubtedly,
And therein lies his fame.

Yea, many a poetaster
With loose, cadaverous verse,
Would rhyme: "The gang just gassed her,"
And "hired a well trimmed hearse."
And who's this guy called Carman?
Gosh! His musta bin much worse!

Look ye, poetaster,
Ye maker of lacey line,
You might be inspired faster,
If you got well soaked in wine!
You're master of nothing but bunkum;
Your technique is fulsomely fine!

Bliss O Bliss,
I knew you not,
But I saw you pass one day;
I stood in the bankways of Montreal,
And I watched you go your way.
I hid in the silence of milling men,
Nor intruded with nothing to say.

Along old Rue Saint James you went,
Oh, I watched you till out of sight;
I watched you and murmured, "Oui Je suis content,"
Bliss Carman, a Bard with true light!

O Bliss, there may be noble phrases
To praise you, but I offer this:
I think you have touched Jesus' garment,
And maybe you gave it a kiss.

Most big-worded poets are liars;
My musings at least are sincere.
I never cared much for high fliers,
But I know a real musical ear.

The Bronze Gates of Silence.

Knock hard on the hellbouud, brazen gates!
Ye cultural laggards come forth!
Point out, safe passing the other side,
Our exile Bard of the North.

He passes, Bliss Carman, away and alone;
Knock hard on the hellbound gate!
We fed him in life with a well-picked bone,
We'll bury him dead and too late!

Knock hard on Canada's hellbound gate!
Slow toll with the Ottawa bell.
Praise be to the poets, who, knowing their fate,
Sing in silent, Canadian Hell.

QUEBEC STARTS FISH WAR WITH BOMBING SHIPS

Use All Kinds of War Material To Save Fishing in St. Lawrence From Porpoises.

MANY PLANES READY.

Huge Schools of Fastest and Most Vicious Fish in Ocean Invading Coast.

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright, 1929)

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 8.—Flagship of a fish-fighting fleet and fitted up like a floating arsenal, the steamer North Voyageur is on her way up the St. Lawrence to-day, her goal, the lonely waters off the tip of Anticosti where Nungesser and Coli are supposed to have perished, and her mission, to inaugurate a new type of naval warfare.

At her destination, a fleet of armed trawlers await her arrival and she will be joined, too, by a squadron of observation planes and aerial bombers under the command of the intrepid French-Canadian pilot, Louis Cuisinier, one of the flyers who went to the rescue of the Bremen last year, when Von Huenfeld and his companions were marooned on Greenley Island after their trans-Atlantic flight.

The murderous habits of that species of minor whale, the porpoise, are the reason for this armed drive. Driving before them mackerel, cod and other fish on which the commercial fishermen depends for his livelihood, mammoth schools of porpoise have been invading the St. Lawrence. Unchecked, they would soon have ravaged that whole section of the river and ruined one of the finest fishing grounds in that section of the Atlantic. The Quebec Government, therefore, decided on immediate action on a wholesale scale.

Bombs, harpoons, depth charges, spears, machine guns, dyamite and other high explosive were loaded on the steamer before she sailed from Quebec. She is equipped for a six week's cruise and expects, by that time, to have rid Canadian waters of the greatest menace which Quebec fishermen has yet had to face.

Faster Than Dreadnought

Planes surveying the waters to be searched reported a few days ago that large schools of the hunted fish were resting temporarily in the 50-mile stretch between Havre, St. Pierre and Anticosti. Present plans call for the warfare to commence near St. Pierre. Pilots reported that the grinning faces of the finny invaders were visible from the air on their observation flights and Dr. Cuisinier stated that he had flown over a school of them two miles long by a mile wide, coming up the river at a speed greater than that of the fastest dreadnaught.

Fastest fish afloat, the warfare against the porpoise will require all the ingenuity of Cusinier, his pilots and the scores of picked French-Canadian sailors on the ships which the Quebec Government has chartered.

Using Anticosti as a base, the fleet will cruise about in search of trouble. If a large school of the fish is discovered, it will be attacked from the air with depth bombs and high explosives. If the porpoises are discovered in smaller quantities, they will be raked with machine gun fire from the decks of the ships as well as attacked with harpoons and spears.

The battles, it is expected, will have an important psychological effect on the future plans of the porpoise world. It seems that the fish is very amenable to suggestion when this is backed up by gun fire or other drastic methods. The suggestion in this case is that the porpoises go away and do not return.

Plentiful This Season

Until this season, the porpoise was not among the difficulties confronting the Atlantic fishing fleet. He and his kind, however, were plentiful in Norwegian and Swedish fishing grounds and in the waters of northern Russia. Threatened with the same serious loss of revenue now endangering the Canadian industry, European fishermen adopted fighting tactics with the result that the areas formerly infested by the porpoise are now practically clear of them.

Fish captured alive during those piscatorial engagements were tagged and thrown back into the water. Some of these same fish, still bearing their tags, have been reported in the St. Lawrence. The theory is that the strategists of the porpoise schools, convinced by their recent reception in Europe of the unhealthy condition of those waters, have decided to move their summer haunts to the shores of the North American continent and, in particular, to the cod and mackerel feeding grounds off Anticosti. Carrying this supposition to its logical conclusion, the Quebec authorities hope that an equally violent series of greetings on this side of the Atlantic will bring about an equally satisfactory result. In any case, the same proceeding will be followed and all captured fish will be tagged and released. The fishermen thus hope to keep a check in future on the migrations of the fish.

Keep Them Moving

The basic idea behind the warfare is not to exterminate the porpoise so much as to move it on elsewhere.

The undertaknig is of particular interest to biologists, of course, and scientists interested in the migratory habits of finny residents of the deep. But it has another feature to it which has attracted the attention of medical men and research workers.

Constructing a clusmy weir, a French-Canadian fisherman at Tadousac succeeded in catching 45 porpoise in one night. The next night a virile group of colleagues rushed the weir and wrecked it, but the fishermen, nevertheless, still had his original captives. Some of them, it was obvious, were diseased at the mouth. A medical man, summering nearby, happened to see them and promptly sent some of the diseased tissue to a Baltimore laboratory where scientists thought that the fish might have been suffering either from cancer or goitre, though the tissue seemed to indicate that the latter was the case. The porpoise has more than a hundred teeth and, obviously, offers considerable field for investigation.

Recently, ex-President Coolidge while fishing in a Wisconsin lake caught a trout which seemed worn and weary. Under the impression that it was diseased, he sent it on to medical experts for examination. Some physicians were of the opinion that the fish had cancer and under the microscope at the Rockefeller Foundation in New York, the gills showed evidence of goitre and possibly also of cancer. The question is still more or less undecided and scientists are anxious to make further studies in the hope of securing valuable information on either one or both of these very prevalent types of disease.

Special watch will be kept, therefore, by the Canadian fleet for specimens which might have laboratory value and these will be made available to scientists who wish to pursue the research further.

The warfare will involve a 700-mile voyage, altogether. Once the base of operations has been fitted up and the planes are ready to lead the pursuit, the ships will go into action immediately.

WEDDING BELLS

MILLER—MATCHETT

(Examiner Correspondence)

A pretty wedding took place at eleven o'clock on Saturday morning, August 3rd at Rose Home farm, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matchett, Eighth Line Cavan, when their only daughter, Muriel Edna Vivian became the bride of John, Alexander Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Peterborough.

The wedding took place on the lawn beneath an arch of evergreens, with a large white bell in the center.

The bridal party took their places beneath the arch, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Gwen Hutchinson.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a period gown of oystershell crepe back satin, with fitted bodice, bouffant skirt trimmed with Chantilly lace and ribbon, caught with lilies of the valley; embroidered tulle veil, worn in coronet effect, with white silk hose, white kid shoes and gloves.

She carried a beautiful bouquet of roses with streamers of ribbon and tulle. The bridesmaid, Miss Gladys Heaslip of Janetville, was daintily gowned in maize georgette with large picture hat.

The flower girl, little Miss Helen Miller, niece of the groom, looked winsome in pink georgette.

The groomsman was Reginald Walton, Peterborough.

The Rev. J. E. Whitham, performed the ceremony, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives.

Fletcher Staples, Toronto sang. After the ceremony and reception, a wedding dinner was served to the guests in the spacious dining room. Six girl friends of the bride were waiters. The grooms gift to the bride was a crystal necklace set in white gold, to the bridesmaid, a cut steel beaded bag; to the flower girl a topaz ring; to the pianist a silver compact with chain; to the groomsman, engraved cuff links.

The happy couple left, amid showers of confetti, by motor for their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a navy blue suit, blue and white polka dot blouse, grey gloves, hose and bag and patent leather shoes. She wore a blue two-tone hat and a black silver fox fur.

Mr and Mrs. Miller were the recipient of many beautiful wedding gifts, showing the esteem in which they were held. They will reside in Peterborough.

THOMAS SAILS FOR CANADA TO INCREASE MIGRATION

Will Study Problem of Getting More British Settlers Over

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(C.P. Cable) — On his mission to increase immigration from Great Britain to Canada, Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Employment, sailed for Canada today with his wife and daughter. It was understood he would be accompanied by Sir Horace Wilson, permanent secretary of the Ministry of Labor, but Sir Horace Wilson says he believes he should stay in England until the cotton strike in Lancashire is cleared up. He may rejoin Mr. Thomas in Canada later.

Twenty-three new buildings are erected in New York City every day and six are demolished.

RESEARCH WORK IS ENCOURAGED

Empire Marketing Board Gives Three Scholarships to Cause.

OPEN TO EMPIRE

PRETORIA, South Africa, Aug. 9. —(C.P. Cable via Reuters)—An important step by the Empire Marketing Board in its policy of encouraging research work designed to develop the resources of the empire is the establishment of three fellowships at Onderstepoort laboratory here, of the value of about $5,000 annually each. The marketing board is making an initial grant of $50,000 towards the scheme, with an extra annual allowance of $55,000.

The appointments are not necessarily limited to South African scientific workers but are also open to scientists from the rest of the empire. The fellowships were established for purely research purposes, for which, it is claimed, the Onderstepoort laboratory has unrivalled facilities. The Ominees' attention will be specially drawn, among other things, to the problem of controlling the dreaded Tsetse flies.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARGARET G. ELLIS

CANOJOHARIE, N. Y., August 11.—The death of Margaret Gamble Ellis occurred at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Roseborough at 89 Otsego Street, on Saturday evening, August 3rd, after an illness of several months, during which period, she had been a patient at the Amsterdam City Hospital. The cause of death was nephritis.

Deceased was born at Peterborough, Canada, a daughter of John and Margaret Ferris Gamble and was 67 years, eleven months and 25 days of age. Some twenty-five years ago, Mrs. Ellis came here to reside and for many years, has made her home with her only sister, Mrs. Roseborough. She was an active member of the Methodist church, regular in attendance and also held membership in the Monday Evening Club of this village.

The services were held with her pastor, Rev. Peter Heller of the Methodist church officiating and the interment was in Canajoharie Falls Cemetery.

The only survivor is the sister, Mrs. James Roseborough.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MISS EUNICE E. HETHERINGTON

MILLBROOK, Aug. 9.—The death took place at noon on Monday, August 5, of Miss Eunice E. Hetherington, a life-long resident of this community, and a member of a family which, through its various branches, has been connected with the history of this section of the province practically from pioneer days up to the present time.

Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hetherington, both of whom came to this country from England, though their acquaintance did not develop until after arrival in Canada, their marriage taking place at Millbrook in its pioneer days, and here their home was established, their children born and raised, and their lives spent.

Miss Hetherington was predeceased by her three brothers, Stephen, of Peterborough; John of Kansas City; and Robert of Prescott, Arizona; she is survived by her only sister, Miss M. E. Hetherington, of Millbrook, the two sisters having been together since their parents' death, the homestead on Upper street continuing to be their place of residence.

For several years Miss Hetherington was a member of the teaching staff of the Millbrook public school, but in the fall of 1896 was obliged to resign her position owing to the unsatisfactory state of her health. A long illness followed, and from the effects of this she never fully recovered, though she was by no means a chronic invalid. In recent weeks, however, serious complications developed from which from the first it was known that recovery was not possible.

Miss Hetherington was always an attendant at the services of the Methodist, and later of the United church, so long as health permitted, contributed regularly to its support, and was constantly quietly, but keenly, interested in its welfare. Though not actively connected in membership with any of the church organizations, Miss Hetherington regularly paid the annual fees to the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary, and to the Ladies' Aid Society, and in many ways rendered unobtrusive service.

The funeral took place from her late residence on Wednesday at 2 p. m., Rev. Canon Allen, a life-long friend of the family, having charge of the services at the house and graveside, assisted by Rev. J. Stewart Ferguson, of Pickering, who is married to a niece of the deceased. The pall-bearers were all nephews, and included Messrs. Percy, George, and Walter Hetherington, of Peterborough; Percy Hetherington, of Toronto; Charles Ferguson, of Pickering, and Walter G. Hetherington, of Millbrook.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, interment was in the family burial plot at Gardiner's cemetery.

Among those from outside points who attended the funeral were: Mrs. (Rev.) J. S. Ferguson, of Pickering; Miss Emma Might, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hetherington, and Mr. and Mrs. George Hetherington, of Peterborough; Mr. Walter Ferguson, of Whitby; Mrs. Stephen Hetherington, of Peterborough; Miss Eunice Milligan, of Whitby; Judge L. F. Clarry, of Calgary, Alberta; Misses Helen and Mildred Hetherington, of Peterborough.

This very charming evening gown is made of black mousseline, which falls in shimmering panels touching the floor at the side. A motif of strass and black trims the bodice. Yteb creation.

CHARMING EVENING GOWN IN BLACK MOUSSELINE DE SOIE.

By Yteb.

Black mousseline de soie is used in this charming evening gown which I have created. An ornament in strass and black trims the bodice at the point of the deep V-line of the decolletage, which rounds off in a deep oval at the back. Filmy panels fall in points to the floor at the right and a large loose bow with long ribbon ends breaks the line on the other side, giving to the skirt a lovely shimmering movement when its wearer walks or dances. Bracelets in black and strass carry out the suggestion of the dress ornament.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne Wilcox:

Kindly send helps marked. My intention was to be the first to welcome you. This is my first letter with the exception of an old song sent in. I would often think of writing but in the rush of work letter writing gets crowded out. But our good intentions are not sufficient if not put into action. This is to be merely a note and I hope to write a letter sometime as I think anything published should be of interest if not to all but to at least some besides the writer. We could not hope to interest everyone. How would it be to write about our hobbies—lines of work or play we are interested in? Wishing you success.

Yours Truly,
C. C.

Thank you for your welcome, "C. C." I think it would be great to have the neighbors writing about their hobbies—wouldn't the letters be interesting! Maybe you could start it going!

• • •

Dear Anne Wilcox:

I just came in answer to your invitation. It is a pleasure to welcome you as leader of our circle in Marion's stead—she was lovely. If I were analyzing she was made up of one part efficiency, one part commonsense, one part snappiness and seasoned with sugar and pep to taste. I believe you are equally fitted for the job. You do your work cheerfully.

Work is not a curse, but a blessing, yet many spend a good deal of time pitying themselves because they have to toil. Instead of this they had much better try to fit in with nature's order and see if they cannot make their work as easy as possible. We do not mean that they should shirk their work, but that they should learn to do it in such a way that it will be a joy.

We choose the easiest way of doing our work, consistent of course, with the highest standard of efficiency. A little brains put into a task may mean all the difference between weariness and comfort to the toiler. The easiest way may be the most modern or it may be the most ancient, this makes no difference, but it is wise to choose the way which does the work in the least time, with the least expenditure of energy and with the greatest efficiency.

So mothers, grandmothers, and great-grandmothers send your helps. We must understand our work to enjoy it. No matter what your task it will be easier if you throw yourself into it with a will. A cheerful heart is a wonderful asset for every toiler.

Sincerely,
Lucinda."

Efficiency stands for a great deal in this world, doesn't it "Lucinda"? I'm afraid there are many going through the world with less than one-part efficiency! Sometimes it is difficult to do one's work cheerfully, but it always pays in the end. Thank you for your welcome and I am sure if Marion reads the mail, she will apciate your kind words!

FAVORITE RECIPE.

Cooked Ham

(Contributed b "Lucinda")

Wash half a ham well and put in large kettle of boiling water and boil until tender. Remove from kettle, take off all the rind, put in a quantity of whole cloves, place in a baking pan, sprinkle over with a little sugar, pour over it one half cup of grape juice. Place in oven, then bake brown.

PINEAPPLE FLUFF.

(Contributed by "Lucinda.")

½ cup shredded pineapple.
1-3 cup white sugar.
1 white of an egg.
2 teaspoon lemon juice.
1 cup heavy cream.

Cook pineapple pulp and juice with the sugar to a soft ball stage, then pour it in a fine stream over the egg white, beaten until stiff. Add lemon juice when thoroughly cold and fold in the cream, whipped until tiff. Set away to chill and serve plain or with custard sauce.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

WHY can't we all be good conversationalists?

• • • • • • •

So often you hear of some one being spoken of as being a good conversationalist, and we begin to wonder if we aren't? Of course, it is equally as well to be a good listener, but one can't listen to nothing!

• • • • • • •

Many a homemaker who could not consider giving herself inadequate food will expect her mind to keep alive and alert on a starvation diet. She deplores the fact that she is no longer up on interesting subjects, that she has become a dull conversationalist, that she is sure that her presence at any party is not much addition, but her thought about it ends there and nothing is done.

• • • • • • •

Her concern about it should start just as soon as she feels a slackening of interest within herself!

• • • • • • •

It is not the avenues of contact which are limited, as much as her own capacity for interest!

• • • • • • •

Unless someone else definitely goes about it to interest her in something, she seeks nothing out for herself which offers to her mind the stimulation which it craves, and without which her whole life is sure to be tempted with dullness.

• • • • • • •

Avenues of contact with the latest trends of thought of literature, of fashion, of drama are to be found in nearly every community—and where there is not a community, they still continue to exist in books, magazines and over the radio.

• • • • • • •

The value of such contact is tremendous—in fact, immeasurable!

• • • • • • •

Just think how small an area is required for two points of wire to touch in order to have an electric current of great voltage conducted through its entire length, providing one is charged!

• • • • • • •

Even right around Peterborough, I have discovered some homemakers—or maybe they aren't really homemakers—who think themselves shut off from the great currents of interest.

• • • • • • •

They should remember that not very far away is some highly charged wire of interest which needs only contact in order to send a tremendous impulse of invigorating thought sufficient to permeate their whole lives if they will but permit it to do so.

• • • • • • •

This is why, I believe, the radio is more appreciated than in the city where concerts of talented artists can be heard in concerts almost any time one desires.

• • • • • • •

In reading an article along this very subject I came across a paragraph which read something like this:

"The big dynamic forces of creative thought of world affairs, of religious effort, of sportsmanship, of enterprise in business, of art and of new and interesting hobbies to ride, are not less because the individual steps out of the way of them. They are merely waiting to be touched in order that their vitality be felt."

• • • • • • •

There is something exceedingly beneficial in keeping the mind as well conditioned as the body. The obvious route for the housewife to follow if she wishes to become increasingly dull is never to let her mind swerve from the routine; never to look up from the pans to be scrubbed to see what stars are in the ascendency; never to vary the hour of preparing a meal in order not to miss something of broadening interest that would delay it.

• • • • • • •

Such a woman may consider herself a good housekeeper, but she is not a good HOMEMAKER.

• • • • • • •

The making of a home requires that the faculties of the mind as well as the body be well nourished.

• • • • • • •

I have added two new helps to the coupon as you may have noticed—one a pattern for play shorts for either young brother or sister, and the other a new circular apron which is very attractive and could be made from some pretty thin material as described in the column on Thursday.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

GROWTH THROUGH PLAY.

Try to have an understanding appreciation of the need of play. Little children annoy their elders by their rough, loud, seemingly meaningless antics. "What do you think you are doing?" asks an irate adult of a child who is making a trapeze of a fine chair. "I'm playing," says the innocent youngster and proceeds with his contortions.

"I can't see any play in that. Can't you go play with your toys? Where's your bat and your ball? I haven't seen you use your new mechano at all? The trouble with you is you don't know how to play. Run. Don't let me catch you monkeying again."

Yet this monkeying is play; healthy play; essential play. Before he gets to the mechano stage he has to go through a more primal phase of growth. He must use his arms and legs, his back and his shoulders. He has inherited instincts that are as old as the human race and these must find expression in tumbling, reaching, stretching, pulling, pushing, and the rest of the violent movements dear to childhood. He must. So give him a place where he can follow the law of his growth without damage to the household goods, without damage to himself.

The nine-year-old children need swings and climbing-ropes and ladders. They need to climb about in the jungle gyms, need to slide down the chutes, need to see-saw and play like young monkeys before they can become interested or skilful in the intelligence tests—mechanos, puzzle games, anagrams, story books, weaving, and such operations. This crude physical play is essential for the growth of the power that is to be used in the more skilled games. Intelligence follows and is based on healthy physical growth. No child is to be denied opportunity to make that growth lest all other growth suffer.

Even in adolescent year the children have wild spells. Boys and girls want to stand up and yell. Yell until they nearly burst a blood-vessel. Indeed, some are burst in the process. They are answering the body's demand for an excess of energy in certain organs or sections of the body. They will not get the proper blood supply, the proper stimulus to growth unless the system is forced to send blood and energy, forced to stretch and expand these areas, at this time. A class rioting on the football field, a squad of boys yelling and prancing without evident cause or reason, a boy high on some roof yelling like a banshee, have right and growth on their side.

Nobody suggests this demonstration is pleasant for the grownups. But it is essential to the healthy growth of the children and so it must be not only allowed, but provided for, and if the athletic games did no more than perform that function, offer an opportunity for the flooding of latent areas of power with fresh blood, stretching and strengthening new organs and muscles and nerves. They are entitled to an honorable place in our curricula.

There must be things to play with, places for play, and understanding people in charge of the matter so that all children, young and old, may have a free field for growth.

COOKING SALE AT MILLBROOK

Successful Afafir Carried Out in Aid of Star Fresh Air Fund.

AFTERNOON TEA

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Fred H. Smith very kindly opened her home, King street, on Wednesday, August 7, for a sale of homemade candy and afternoon tea in aid of the Star Fresh Air Fund. The generous patronage accorded the event showed how gladly local citizens and others from outside the community, were ready to help with this worthy cause.

A bazaar, in a limited sense, featured the afternoon's proceedings, the booth being arranged out of doors between Mrs. Smith's home and her husband's place of business; the stock of cut flowers, homemade candy, and a few articles of fancy work being readily disposed of. Serving in the booth were the Misses Marcella and Marguerite Lang, Eva Houson, Marian O'Brian, and others, within doors the guests coming and going kept the hostess and her assistants constantly busy from the opening hour of three o'clock until after six p.m., the members of the Cavan council, which had been in session all afternoon, being the last to arrive, and enjoy the tea served at the daintily-laid tables.

Among those who helped Mrs. Smith in serving her many guests were Mrs. Charles Evans, and Mrs. Summerfelt of Port Hope; Mrs. H. A. Earle, Mrs. Thomas Douglas, and some of the younger girls who gave assistance when required.

Midsummer flowers, attractively arranged, in living and dining rooms, music supplied by the radio, and the opportunity for social converse were all features that added greatly to the pleasure and success of the occasion.

Financially the sale and tea were quite satisfactory, over forty dollars being realized; included with this amount was a contribution of five dollars from the Wide Awakes C. G. I. T. group, this orgahization having been prevented, through various causes, from following its usual custom of giving a 'teen age girl a holiday at the fresh air camp at Whitby.

This is the second time that Mrs. Smith has opened her home for a similar sale to that held on Wednesday; donations to the supply of provisions required, and for the booth, were made, in response to an invitation through the local press, and personal request, by a number of the ladies of the community.

BRITISH SETTLERS HAPPY.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Happy and enthusiastic in their new homes, 36 families of British settlers now are occupying cottages erected on farms in the Red Deer district. The men of the families all have had new agricultural experience and are entering into the prairie life with the greatest vigor.

The cottages are of frame construction, and stand on an acre of ground. They were erected under the "cottage scheme," sponsored by the Empire Settlement Board and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE KING OF ORGANS.

I talk frequently about the importance of the Liver which many years ago was "considered the king of organs."

And yet research men have been able to prove that you could apparently get along all right if it were only one third as large, or if it were greatly increased in size. Nature seems able to do the work in either case.

And yet the liver does a number of jobs of which we know, and likely does others of which we have not learned.

It manufactures the bile which breaks up the fats so they can be absorbed, and makes a sort of soap that lubricates the intestine. This is why an individual whose bile flows freely from liver or gall bladder never has constipation.

This bile also is able to destroy harmful organisms in the intestine. Bile is thus Nature's own antiseptic, and there are none better. It is thought that bile pigment is made into bile by the liver cells.

As the food comes pouring into the liver after being absorbed into the blood by the small intestine, the liver sorts it out, allowing the proteids (meat eggs and so forth) to go on their way, but taking hold of the carboyhydrates (bread, vegetables, and sugars,) and letting part go into the blood to create heat and energy, it forms glycogen or sugar from the balance, and stores it away in its cells to be used when it is needed by the system.

"It is a well established fact that the liver removes the poisons taken into the body, such as arsenic, phosphorous, chloroform, and other products of a poisonous nature which are formed by the tissues of the body as they act upon the foodstuffs brought to them by the blood."

As you know there are various tests that are now used to find out the actual ability of the liver to do its various jobs.

And if it is failing in some of them, a change of diet, exercise, or even surgery is used to help correct matters.

As I said before, the way to keep the liver in good condition is to make it move some. Squeezing it by bending exercises, or by deep breathing, sending the floor of the chest against it, are the simplest and most effective measures.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG,
That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"WATCHING FOR PA"

(Contributed by 'Beatrice')

Three little forms in the twilight gray,
Scanning the shadows across the way,
Six little eyes, four black, two blue,
Brimful of love and happiness too;
O how they gaze at the passers by:
"He's coming at last," they gaily cry;
"Try again, pets", exclaims Mamma,
And Nellie says that's the twilight star.

Chorus for Verse 2.

Watching for Pa; watching for Pa,
Yes, watching, Yes, watching for Pa.

Soon joyous shouts from the window seat,
And eager patter of childish feet,
Gay musical chimes ring through the hall,
A manly voice responds to the call:

Chorus fo Verse 3.

Welcome, Papa, welcome, Papa,
Yes, welcome, Yes, welcome, Papa.

SPRY FOR HER AGE

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Although she is 92, Mrs. Grimwade is probably the oldest church bell-ringer in the country. She rings the bell for services at St. John's church, Horsley Cross, Essex. In addition, she takes collections and acts as sacristan. She has been working at the church since 1867.

Petrels are so named because their habit of walking on water recalls the biblical story of Peter.

INNOCENT CAPTIVE FREED FROM JAIL

Frenchman Saved Living Death By Wife Who Fought 13 Years.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—The Australian police are searching on behalf of French police for a man who, it has been proved, denounced an innocent Frenchman, whereby the latter was condemned to the living death of Devil's Isle. The man's release, after nine years of terrible suffering, was effected by the devotion of his wife, an Australian whom he married while conducting a hairdressing establishment in Australia some years before the war.

Henri Bellon, the victim, while visiting Switzerland during the war, was swindled out of a large sum of money by an Australian trickster, who, because of Bellon's disclosures, had to flee to France. When there the Australian conceived the idea of revenging himself on Bellon by denouncing him to the French authorities as the man who had exposed a French agent in Switzerland as a spy.

Bellon, on returning to France, was arrested and tried on the charge of denouncing an accredited agent of France abroad.

Only the fact that deportations were suspended during the war years prevented his being sent to the Devil's Isle straight away, but after five years in jail he was sent to the French penal settlement for eight years and endured the horrors of life there until a few weeks ago, when his innocence was established by his wife, a native of Sydney. She had worked for his vindication all through the thirteen years when he was a prisoner under the shadow of false accusation.

She was backed up by the League of the Rights of Man, an organization started by Emile Zola and other eminent Frenchmen after the Dreyfus scandal to insure that no future French victim of injustice should be left to fight his battle alone.

LARGE ELECTRIC POWER SYSTEMS.

It has become the custom to rate as large electric power systems those interconnected plants under one financial control and management with an annual output of 100,000,000 kilowatt-hours or more. The latest figures available show that Canada has 17 such systems, of which each of the first four averages nearly two and a half billion kilowatt-hours per annum. The interconnection of electric power plants into large systems has been proved to give great advantages in economy, efficiency, and reliability of service, and these 17 systems represent over 90 per cent of the total central station output in the Dominion.

Australia, New Zealand, and Argentina are the greatest wool-producing centers.

STRAW USED IN NEW INDUSTRY

Manufacturing of Surplus Straw in West Into Straw-Board Planned.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 9.—(By the Canadian Press.)—People who live in straw houses may be far from rare if a new prairie project, gaining western vigor on the Saskatchewan prairies, comes into active being. It is the plan of a new body—not yet chartered, but planning a $150,000 incorporation — to convert the surplus straw of the west into panels of strawboard that may be used extensively for building purposes.

Four thousand feet of strawboard daily are being produced by a sample machine in operation near Regina—and, at that rate, the waste crop of a single acre lasts two days, and the straw of a quarter section would keep the machine busy a year. The finished panels come out of the machine ready for use, some five feet by 14 feet, laced with strengthening wire.

Virtually fire-resisting, claim its backers, the strawboard product has thereby an added value. Tested under a blow torch the panel did not burn, though the section immediately in front of the torch turned into a type of charcoal. Piston pressue of close to 100 pounds a square inch, it is explained, compresses the board so tightly that the air spaces in it are too minute to permit of the presence of oxygen for combustion.

Two inches thick, the panels are claimed by their originators to be the finest combination of heat and noise insulation in existence. For building uses, the outside wall may be stuccoed and plaster is applied to the interior wall. Both materials form a perfect bond with the strawboard, because of its rough surface.

Canadian rights to the system of manufacturing straw panels have been acquired by Dr. E. A. McCuskey, well known physician of Regina from the parent organization in Belgium.

Leafs And Bisons Winners In International League

TIMELY HITTING ON PART OF O'NEILL CLAN ALLOWS TORONTO CLUB 9-4 VICTORY

Sixth Consecutive Win For the Leafs Over Reading Keys This Summer.

WINGS WIN OUT 4-1.

Mueller's Homer in the Ninth Breaks Tie To Give Bisons 6-5 Decision.

READING, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Continuing their hard and timely batting, and taking advantage of their opponents' ragged fielding, the Leafs yesterday defeated the Reading Keys 9 to 4.

It was the sixth consecutive victory for the Leafs over the Keys, three in a row this series, and the game's highlights were Ralph Shinners' four hits in five tries, Jonathan Stone's second home run on successive days, and Phil Page's brilliant pitching in a relief role.

The Leafs mixed 11 solid blows off Bob Osborn and Sterling Stryker with five costly bobbles by the other side, but while the Keys were aiding and abetting the Canadians with their miserable defensive display, Manager Steve O'Neill was forced to trot out three pitchers before he found the right one.

BREAK TIE IN NINTH

NEWARK, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Heinie Mueller's home run in the ninth inning broke a tie and gave the Bisons a 6 to 5 victory over the Bears here yesterday.

Mueller's drive was the fourth circuit blow of the day, the other three having gone to the credit of Manager Tris Speaker, Wes Kingdon and Max West.

Carl Fischer, on the mound for Newark, fanned 10 batters but was nicked for 10 safe blows. Leon Williams and Dick Donnelly limited the Bruins to seven safeties.

WINGS BEAT CATS 4-1.

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Larry Irvin for Rochester and Bill Henderson for Jersey City hooked up in a pitching duel here yesterday. With Irvin holding the Black Cats to two hits, Rochester won by a score of 4 to 1.

Henderson was a bit wild and the league leaders pushed across three runs in the sixth frame, on four bases on balls, two hits, an error and a sacrifice.

The Wings pulled a pair of double killings and ran their total for the season to 162.

3 STRAIGHT FOR ORIOLES

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9.—Baltimore made it three straight from Montreal by taking the final game of the series yesterday 5 to 2.

After one bad inning Clarkson pitched a good game. Al Bool, Baltimore catcher, hit his twenty-second homer of the year with one on in the eighth.

ERRORS COSTLY FOR THE CARDS

Grover Alexander Fails in Attempt To Better Mathewson's Victory Record.

PIRATES WIN 5-1.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press)—Grover Cleveland Alexander failed yesterday in an attempt to better the late Christy Mathewson's National League record of 372 victories in his career.

Old Alex, was defeated by the Pirates 5 to 1, but he can blame the revense upon the poor support the Cardinals accorded him.

Gelbert's poor throwing in the fourth paved the way for four Pittsburgh runs which delayed Alex's 373rd triumph.

The victory ran the Pirate string over the Cardinals to 12 wins and two defeats for the season to date, 11 of the games won being successive.

Gardiner White Breaks Jasper Amateur Record

JASPER PARK, Alberta, Aug. 9.—All amateur records on the famous Jasper Park Lodge golf course were broken Wednesday when Gardiner White, of New York, an entrant in the Canadian amateur tournament, turned in a score of 69, one under par. A month ago B. Tait, of Pasadena, played the course in par, the first amateur to make it. Playing with Philip Armour, of Chicago, Col. George Murphy, president of the Royal Ottawa club, Ottawa, and Frank Hopkins, the New York artist, yesterday. White went out in 33 and came back in 26. On the first nine he did four holes in par, and played one better than par on the third, eighth and ninth holes. Coming in he had five par holes, and two, the eleventh and the fourteenth, in birdies. It is here that the Canadian amateur championships will be played beginning on Aug. 19.

CANADIANS TO SEE SHAW'S PLAYS AGAIN

Colbourn's Company Will Commence Tour of Continent at Hamilton.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—(C.P.)—Canadian theater-goers will again have the opportunity of seeing George Bernard Shaw's plays performed by Maurice Colbourne and his English company. Mr. Colbourne's tour of Canada last year proved so successful it astonished the Irish dramatist who had predicted the company would "go broke" in Canada. At the end of his tour the producer told his audiences he hoped to return to Canada another year and he is now making good his promise without delay.

The tour will begin at Hamilton on September 30 and the company will present their repertoire in Toronto the second week in October before launching into the main itinerary which will take them right out to the Pacific coast.

Five Shavian plays will be presented during the 1929-30 season—"Arms and the Man", "The Philanderer", "The Doctor's Dilemma", "Man and Superman", and the most sucessful of the group presented last year "John Bull's Other Island."

While a number of the members of last year's company are replace owing to other engagements many of the old favorites will again appear. Barry Jones will again share the leading male roles with Mr. Colbourne. Constance Pelissier and Phyllis Coghlan will be back again. Among the newcomers the most interesting is Margaret Rawlings, the beautiful 22-year-old actress whose talent has placed her among the leading British actresses.

HAMMOND SCORES ANOTHER CENTURY

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable).—M. Tate, England and Sussex bowler, to-day secured his 100th wicket in first-class cricket for this season. This accomplishment and Wally Hammond's century for Gloucestershire against Glamorganshire were the outstanding feats in county cricket.

1932 OLYMPIC HOPE

"Dud" Powell, the young Toronto sprinter, who crashed the limelight by leading the great Williams to the tape in his heat at the Canadian National Indoor championships, is still going strong. Not so long ago "Dud" thought of giving up running to follow the paddling game. He didn't however, and this was probably the greatest move in his athletic career for many believe that "Dud" possesses the qualities of a great sprinter. At the recent Oxford Cambridge vs. Hamilton Olympic Club meet at Hamilton "Dud" again came through to win the 100-yard event from the English college boys, and unless something seriously happens to him it won't be long before the sporting world will hear more of him.

14-YEAR-OLD GOLF PRODIGY COMES BY THE GAME HONESTLY

Bobby Reith, Sensation of Provincial Championships—Member of Three Generation Golfing Family From Scotland — Took To Club Soon As He Could Walk.

SON AND GRANDSON OF "PROS."

(Special to The Examiner)

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug 9.—For a 14-year-old boy to reach the semi-final stage of a provincial amateur golf championship is something one doesn't often read about.

Yet that happened when the Manitoba amateur gold championship was in progress. Bobby Reith, young son of Charles Reith, professional at the Winnipeg Golf Club, over whose course the competition was played, reached the semi-finals when he created one of the big upsets of the tournament in defeating an older, but nevertheless youthful star, Danny Kennedy. But in turn Bobby was eliminated by the veteran, Alex. Black, of Assiniboine, at the 17th hole.

Bobby comes honestly by his golf. For three generations the Reiths have been golfers. And a rather unique feature about this is that Bobby, his father and his granddad are all living in Winnipeg, the two older being on the staff of the club.

Grandad otherwise known as Wm. Robertson Reith, was born in Edinburgh and was a good amateur golfer. He turned professional when clubs in England were very few, accepting his first appointment with the Eltham golf club, in Kent, which was then just starting. This was in 1892.

He remained at this post 34 years, during which time the club developed from a course of seven holes to one of the best-known London courses. Mr. Reith was well-known throughout the British Isles, having acted as official starter to all the Professional Golfers' Association tournaments held since the war. He was one of the founders of the association. Five of his sons served their country in France during the Great War and two made the supreme sacrifice.

Arthur and Charley, two of the boys, took up golf as a livelihood after the war, the former going to the Norwalk Golf club, and Charley coming to Winnipeg, where he was professional at Pine Ridge last summer. Last winter he was associated with Eric Bannister at the golf school.

Charley learned his golf with his father at Eltham and remained there until 1921, when he went to Yelverton, Devon. In 1926 he went to the North Middlesex golf club, London, and after three years came to Canada.

Bobby is Charley's young son and he was born in Eltham in 1915.

He has been used to a golf club ever since he could walk and at the age of five was always the cause of much amusement to the club members, who kept him in "sweets" as a reward for his driving of golf balls over a distant hedge. He came to Winnipeg with his daddy and played in his first competition last year in the junior championship.

His work in the recent amateur tournament was a sensation, but after reading of his father and his granddad, golfers will fully realize that he comes honestly by his good golf.

YANKEES DRIVE RUBE WALBERG FROM BOX AFTER THREE FRAMES DEFEAT MACKS FOR 6-4 COUNT

Moore Replaces Pennock On Mound For New Yorkers in Sixth Inning.

TIGERS BEAT INDIANS.

White Sox Slug Way To Double Victory Over St. Louis Browns.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—Driving Rube Walberg, one of the prized left-handers of the Mackmen, from the box in a series of scoring drives, in the first three innings yesterday, the New York Yankees carried off the last game of their important series, 6 to 4.

Herb Pennock had to leave the game yesterday in the fifth inning after his team-mates had given him a five-run lead. But old Cy Moore came in valiantly and retired the A's runless through five smartly pitched innings, allowing only one hit. He was a big factor in the victory.

Against Moore was pitted Jack Quinn, and after the old-timer became steeled in the fourth, he was as good as Moore. If the game could have been won, Quinn's pitching would have done it.

DOUBLE WIN FOR SOX.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—The White Sox slugged out a pair of victories over the St. Louis Browns yesterday, winning the first game, 5 to 4, and the second encounter, 6 to 2. It took them 11 innings, however, to win the opener.

Bill Cissell was the big noise in the luncheon contest. He banged out a homer, a double, two singles, and finally a sacrifice in the 11th to help put over the winning run.

The after piece went to the Sox after they knocked Blaeholder out in less than one inning.

9-6 VICTORY FOR TIGERS.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—A four-run rally in the ninth gave the Tigers a 9 to 6 victory over the Indians in the series' final here yesterday.

Harry Heilmann's two-bagger, with the bases full, was the big punch of the winning attack.

The game was featured by four home runs. Alexander and Rice making the circuit loops for the Tigers; Averill and Falk for the Indians.

Alexander, with five hits, had a perfect day at bat.

DROP GAME TO SENATORS.

BOSTON, Aug. 9 (Canadian Press).—The Red Sox concluded their long stay at home by losing their second straight game to Washington yesterday, 3 to 2. What proved to be the winning run came in the sixth with two out, when Tait singled, stole second, and scored on Cronin's drive.

BETTY NUTHALL IS REAL PUZZLE

Popular Young English Tennis Star One Obstacle to the Two Helens.

U. S. FAVORITES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—America will rightfully rank as the favored contender when the British and United States Whitman Cup tennis squads collide for surpremacy at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, this Friday and Saturday.

There are two reasons for such an outlook: One is Helen Wills, the other Helen Jacobs. The English retort to this enthusiastic forecast is the ephemeral Betty Nuthall and the experience doubles combinations.

Miss Wills and Miss Jacobs will strive for this country in the major singles, while Miss Nuthall and a subsidiary as yet not known will compose the main foreign selections.

Seven meetings in all will occur to decide whether or not the trophy shall remain with England. If Miss Wills and Miss Jacobs can win two singles apiece the homeland is safe. Then the outcome of the fifth singles and the two doubles battles will be meaningless.

That Nuthall Girl.

The only doubt intruding on the so-called minds of the critics who follow tennis is whether or not Helen Jacobs will pass by the Nuthall girl without positive obstruction. A vastly faster and better-graced stroker since the change in her service, the popular Betty, now at Easthampton, may—and the may may loom with a large M—defeat the second of the Berkerley Helens of California.

In the event that her compatriots, Mrs. D. C. Shepard-Barron, Mrs. L. P. C. Michell, Mrs. M. H. Watson and Mrs. B. C. Covell, the former Kitty McKane, back Betty, should the latter surprise Miss Jacobs, England will hold the prize for the fourth time. So far each group has taken it on three occasions.

Inasmuch as Mill Wills has not conceded a set in three years and Miss Jacobs indicated superior ability this year at Wimbledon, where she was a finalist, and at Seabright, America will, despite the element of chance, probably acquire the cup.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy or Edith Gross seem eligible for the No. 3 singles position for America. The doubles group have yet to be announced, Miss Wills and Miss Gross, Miss Jacobs and Miss Gross, Miss Wills and Mrs. Bundy, Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Bundy being the best possibilities.

NO FAVORITES IN WIGHTMAN TROPHY PLAY

Leading Women Tennis Players of England and United States Meet To-day.

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED.

Matches At Forest Hills Promise Thrills Aplenty For Spectators.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 9 (C.P.)—After half a summer with the cabled reports from Europe as their only taste of international play, United States tennis fans get their chance to-day to watch the stars of two nations in action. The Wightman Cup matches between the leading women players of England and the United States starting to-day at Forest Hills, promise as close and as thrilling an encounter as the most ardent fan could ask.

Neither team reigns as a strong favorite in the predictions concerning the series of seven matches. England triumphed at Wimbledon last year to even the series at 3-all by virtue of greater strength in the doubles matches, and that superiority again may prove the turning point. On the other hand, the United States team, headed by Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs, shows far greater strength in the singles encounters.

Otherwise the teams are about evenly matched. The United States has Miss Wills and Miss Jacobs while England has Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Phoebe Watson. These four queens of the courts are scheduled to meet to-day in the opening singles matches. Miss Wills plays the first match against Mrs. Watson, taking the court at 3.30, while Miss Jacobs meets Miss Nuthall an hour later.

CRICKET

Owing to the fact that the Oval grounds have been let to the use of picknickers to-morrow afternoon, the cricket game scheduled between the local club and Oshawa St. George's has been called off. Arrangements are under way for the Peterborough club to play in the Motor city, failing in this the game will be postponed until a later date.

AN ADDED TERROR.

The demand to-day is for an automobile which moves sidewise, which will enable it to get the pedestrian no matter where he is.

HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS IN THE SPORTS WORLD

BOOSTS AND KNOCKS For EVERYONE

(By "TED" OUTRAM)

Sixty games have been played in the Softball league to date, and the teams have just clicked off two-thirds of the schedule. There are six teams in the league and it is a triple schedule, making a total of ninety games for the season, which will end in the last week of this month.

Harrison's and Bridgenorth Wildcats are still tied for the first honors as the turn is made into the homestretch, each having lost one game to the other. Tuesday evening these two outfits cross bats for the third time and fans are assured of a titantic battle.

* * * * * * *

Hank Koken's Arabs are all tuned to defeat the Raybestos in the Lakeshore League's finals, according to the Oshawa Times. The team has been practising hard for the series; "Duke" Dainty has been added to the pitching staff, and now the outfit is blithely expecting victory.

This evening may tell the story, because the Rays journey today to the Motor City to beard the sprightly Arabs in their own ball park. The Rays are all pepped for the battle, too, having made good use of the past two weeks to hammer in some smart workouts.

The return game is planned for Exhibition Park on Wednesday evening.

* * * * * * *

It is likely that the Kiwanis Juniors will go right into the semi-final round of the O.B.A.A. play off. Their logical contender in the east; the Moose team, champions of Belleville, have twice been easily defeated in exhibition games by the Kiwanis, and they have also fallen prey to the smart Moose team here, juvenile winners of the City League. It is not likely, in the face of their weak showing against the locals, that Belleville will continue to seek provincial honors. In all probability the Kiwanis will be called upon to meet the T.A.B.A. junior champs almost immediately.

McCracken's Landing has gained the enviable record of having one of the best regattas throughout the district, and the committee has made great efforts to raise the standard even to greater heights this season. Thirty events are listed on the program, and, starting at 10 a.m., with the Junior regatta, the sports will last nearly all day. Three sailing races are featured on the bill.

Grafton's ran true to form last evening when they defeated the Maple Leafs in the first game of the bantam finals. Clarke twirled for Grafton's and Calladine toiled in the hopeless cause for the Leafs. Clarke, after starting off wildly, and forcing in runs, settled down, and struck out eleven, and allowed two hits. The Grafton sluggers had a big night, cracking out twenty-one hits.

Alex. McKay returned from lakefront with the inside story of how the fan fracas commenced at Newcastle during the big baseball tournament there. Orono was playing Newcastle for the cup, and an Orono and Newcastle fan, both rather tipsy, were having a discussion right behind the catcher. The pitcher speeded a wild one at the plate, which cleared the backstop's hands by two feet, and hit the Orono fan smack in the eye. He had not seen the ball's quick descent, and when he got up groggier than ever, he drew back and punched the Newcastle man beside him. He maintained that the Newcastle man had sneaked up and hit him when he wasn't looking. The row started a small riot, and two hours later the Orono fans were still telling what a dirty trick had been played on him.

In previous years the Giants proved a fast starting club. In the years the Giants won pennants they were off to early starts.

Zack Taylor, veteran catcher, was in "the money" in 1920 and 1924 and expects to be again this year, now that he is with the Cubs.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE MOVIETONE FOLLIES"

There were lengthy line-ups for both shows at the Capitol last night. Evidently the "Follies" appealed strongly to the imaginations of the talkie fans.

And it certainly lived up to the advance notices. For swift and brilliant motion, jazzy dancing and singing, spectacular scenic effects and beautiful girls, the real stage "Follies" could hardly surpass it. The talkies have brought to the screen just one more fascinating type of spectacle that is filled with action and vim and pep.

The production hangs on the nail of a little romance. George Shelby, of the Kentucky Shelbys, comes to New York with $50,000 and a yen for his best girl. He finds her in a Broadway revue and objects to her chorus-girl occupation. He demands that she marry him at once and depart to Kentucky. She sees a career ahead of her and refuses smartly. Just for that, he buys out the show, which is tottering rapidly toward bankruptcy, and sails in to manage the opening night.

The complications are fast and furious. The creditors arrive in a group and demand their money. A resourceful business manager corrals them into a bunch and herds them out, to applaud the show. Later, when the stage crew goes on strike at a crucial moment (and this little bit of action looks like a backfire from some trouble of the same sort in real stage life) a funny episode intervenes when the creditors, again seeking their cash, are persuaded to act as a volunteer stage-setting crew. Another complication is the desire of the leading lady to commandeer Shelby, who has fired his best girl in a desperate effort to make her renounce stage life for good. She sticks around, however, and when the star becomes temperamental, she sings her song, "Those Big City Blues" and makes a real hit.

The scenic effects are extraordinary, in some of the episodes. There is a real "Follies" atmosphere to them that is fetching in the extreme and the splendid orchestral music which serves as a background throughout adds the final touch of gayety to the production. The under-water scene with skeleton dancers and dancing fauns and long-haired mermaidens with gorgeous gowns, is quite overwhelming. It is in technicolor, and is a superb bit of tinted screening. It simulates the love-story of a Japanese pearl-diver.

There is a "Breakaway" dancing number by Sue Carrol with a song that is the tuneful hit of the evening and has packed into it tons of excitement and vivid movement and fun. Then there is the song hit, "That's You, Baby," coming in sections(so to speak. There is a wonderful bass singer whose selection would have been more effective if done back stage, as his appearance detracts just a little from the number, but what could be funnier than the shiny face of the gentleman with the white teeth who sings "Walking With Susie" and the futuristic colored people who illustrate it for him?

As for "Swifty," the tall negro with the smooth drawl, who fills in with a buck and wing dance, when matters behind stage are at a perilous pass, and who provides an element of real, honest-to-goodness comedy throughout the piece, well, he is simply immense. He well deserves the opening and closing which bring him on the screen in the first and last moments, and the manner in which he "stalls" the harassed French gent who craves the ladies' ballet shoes in payment of an overdue bill, is full of delightful chuckles.

The "Movietone Follies" is a melange of pretty girls, swift action, gay singing and dancing, lovely orchestral music and youthful romance. It is very fine entertainment of the peppy "Follies" type.

In the comedy which precedes it, entitled "Leaping Love," Charlie Chase vocalizes, both in words and song. It has a modern touch in its sudden and unlooked-for ending, but Charlie isn't any funnier as a talking person than he has hitherto been as a dummy.

The News Reel contains a showing of the recent convention at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, when the managers of the various theatres on the Famous Players' circuit, met for their annual gathering.

THE SON LEAVES FOR COLLEGE IN 1948

By Paul Showers

"Dad, I'd like to talk to you for a minute. Come on into the study with me. Have a chair, that's right. Now, Dad, I'm going off to college, and you and Mother are going to be left here all alone on your own responsibility while I'm away. It'll be something of a test, I suppose, to see just what you two can do when you're left alone to yourselves. I shall watch you with a great deal of interest and some anxiety—oh, now don't frown that way, don't misunderstand me—I have confidence in you, of course. Why, if I didn't think you could get along without me, I wouldn't leave you for a minute. But there are many difficulties that you will have to face without me and without my advice from now on. I won't always be right here when you want me, and so you'll have to write me often about your problems. What's that? Yes, I know you and Mother managed to get along before I came, but that is all you did do, just manage. Now don't act that way and don't talk to me in that tone of voice. I just want to help you to realize life to the fullest, Dad, that's all. Now, while I'm gone, I want you to be a man that I can be proud of. And remember what I've told you about late nights and drink. Just be on your guard against those things.

"Well, it's almost train time and I guess we'd better get started. Oh, and say, I'll be in a position to give you expert advice on practically everything you want to know while I'm at college. Anything that bothers you or troubles you just let me know and I'll find out all about it for you . . . and remember, I'm always thinking about you and wishing you all the success in the world which I know you're going to have, old boy. Write often and let me know how you're getting on. And don't forget my monthly check, will you?"

While a pre-emptive bid following the adverse naming of a suit seldom serves any sound purpose in Auction when the suit adversely named is a Major, it may be of value when a Minor suit is bid originally by opponent on right. The reason for this is that such Minor bid may be introductory to further adverse partnership bidding and therefore a pre-emptive overcall may shut out either a response to such introductory bid or the showing of a second suit by the original bidder.

At Contract, on the other hand, pre-emptive bids are more frequently resorted to, both as a bidding defense and, with certain types of hands containing massed and not distributed values, to show the full strength of the hand at once.

Salient Points of Bidding.

Auction: South bids one Club originally as introductory to further partnership bidding, either suit or No Trump. While he holds high card strength in three suits, the singleton Heart menace precludes the possibility of an original No Trump.

West now considers the best procedure with his holding. He has six probable tricks in Spades and a half-chance of making the King of Diamonds, giving his holding the value of 6½ probable tricks massed almost wholly in one suit. It seems to West that to overcall with but one Spade cannot possibly embarrass further partnership bidding by North-South and, with any strength at all in hand of partner he should easily make three-odd. Therefore, he overcalls with three Spades as a measure of bidding defense.

North, holding what looks like practically a solid Heart suit, is well justified in bidding four Hearts as his partner, by his original bid, has guaranteed at least 2 Quick Tricks and therefore the probability of four tricks in support of any take-out on North's part.

East, having but two Spades and no high cards other than the Ace of Clubs, passes as he figures that with five Hearts headed by the Jack-Nine, he has a good playing defense. As West's pre-emptive bid shows values in Spades only, East is not in a position to double as he can count on partner for little or no defensive assistance.

Contract: South bids one Club as in Auction. It will be noted, incidentally, that introductory bids such as this may be made with a five-card suit as well as with a four-card suit.

West now bids three Spades both to show the full value of his hand and as a measure of bidding defense. North bids four Hearts and all pass.

Salient Points of Play.

East leads initially the Spade 9, which Declarer wins with Dummy's Ace. From the bidding, Declarer might well guess the Hearts as being bunched against him in East's hand, but the exact number held by East is of course unknown. To test this situation immediately, Declarer leads the Heart 4, winning with the Ace in own hand. West shows out on the first trump lead and East's trump holding is now definitely marked.

Accordingly, North shifts, leading the Diamond Queen, finessing, and losing to West's King. West now leads the Spade King which North trumps. Declarer now faces this situation:—he has already lost one Diamond trick, he will unquestionably lose the Ace of Clubs, and his problem is how to prevent East from making two Heart tricks. He concludes that the best way is to shorten his own trump holding to equal the number held by East and then force East to lead trumps to him.

With this in view, he leads a small Club which East passes and Dummy's King wins. Now, Declarer lays down the Ace of Diamonds followed by the 10 on which he discards a Club, and next leads the Club Queen to throw East in the lead if holding the Ace. East now in with the Ace of Clubs, returns a Club which North trumps. Declarer has now lost two tricks and holds in own hand the K-Q-10-5 of Hearts; East holds the J-9-8-7 of Hearts. Now, in order to lose but one more trick, all Declarer need do is to throw East in the lead again by playing the 5 of Hearts.

Love can be Measured in Dollars and Sense!

IN the first flush of youth love takes no count of the morrow (which is as it should be). But love . . . marriage . . . children . . . bring responsibilities. The measure of love can then only be determined by the efforts of the provider . . . to insure provision for loved ones, until they are able to provide for themselves. That is what we mean by saying that love can be measured in dollars and sense.

It is not suggested that man should deny himself the common comforts of life to do it. But it is wise and affectionate to set aside part of one's earnings to create an immediate life insurance estate that will be available if the necessity arises. This can best be done with a Confederation Life Policy, payable in instalments, because the income from it is sure and the principal cannot be lost.

Write now for our pamphlet . . . "Fully Paid in 20 Years." You will find it most interesting.

REGISTER

Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve, evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY
THE MONEY STRAIN.

When through the daily morning news
A roving eye I cast,
This cheering item I peruse:
"The money strain is passed."
And then the grocery man comes in
A trifle ill at ease,
And murmurs with a hopeful grin:
"Eleven dollars, please."

This incident fills me with pain
For suddenly I see
That the existing money strain
Has not yet passed for me.
If I give that eleven up—
Which I of course must do—
Our plainer fare I'll have to sup
Than I'm accustomed to.

The car needs shoes—the house needs paint
I need a lot of things
Which the so-called disgusting taint
Of lots of money brings.
I hoped for riches as a kid,
And hopeful still remain
But yet I never could get rid
Of that darned money strain.

Although I'm fairly well and strong
I have no way to know
Or even prophecy how long
I'll tarry here below,
But through for many and many a day
Or briefly I shall last,
I never, for myself will say:
"The money strain has passed."

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH BEING DECORATED

Entire Building Being Renovated By Windsor Firm of Decorators.

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church this week has been placed in the hands of decorators. For some time past it has been felt by the church officials that a new scheme of decorating the interior, the exterior, including replacing the metal sash of the windows, and modernizing the lighting system of the edifice, was necessary.

At a meeting of the congregation some time ago, the matter was placed before their notice, and after consideration of the financial and other aspects, permission was voted the Board of Managers and Session to proceed with the beautification of the building. The Sabbath School Hall will not be affected, as this part of the building was decorated recently. Besides the walls, staircases, and vestibules, the seating will also be stained in keeping with the pulpit and organ and choir loft and console.

A Windsor firm, Stoneman & Co., which makes a specialty of church decoration—and examples of whose work in different churches in Ontario have been viewed and greatly impressed the delegates from St. Paul's—has been engaged for the task, also having charge of the electric fixtures and alterations.

Worship in Nearby Churches.

During the renovation period—about two months will be occupied with the contract—the congregation will be called upon to worship elsewhere. In this connection, the officials of George Street United Church made it possible to have St. Paul's hold evening services during August in their building, and for the same month Murray Street Baptist Church officials offered their premises for the morning service, thus enabling the Presbyterian body to carry on unbroken worship.

Sabbath School sessions will be held at the morning service in conjunction with the congregation at 11 o'clock in Murray Street Church.

This courtesy, coming from both neighboring churches, is greatly appreciated by the congregation of St. Paul's Church.

For the month of September, no definite plans have been completed, but it is hoped to have, possibly, the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall for services until such time as the worship can be continued in the church.

On Sunday, August 11, Rev. Dr. J Cattanach, Moderator of the Presbytery of Baltimore, Maryland, will have charge of the services.

Three Large Muskies Caught Near Oak Orchard

When bigger and more Muskies are caught it seems that they will be taken from the water around Oak Orchard Lodge, situated at Gannon's Narrows between Buckhorn and Pigeon Lakes.

Three maskinonge, weighing 27, 23 and 22½ pounds respectively have been taken from the lakes in this district within three weeks, as well as numerous smaller ones.

To Mrs. Walter Baumann of New Rochelle, New York, goes the honor of catching the latest lunge of the year, when she succeeded in landing a 23-pound maskinonge after a hard struggle.

Mrs. Baumann was casting with an eight-ounce rod and a twelve-pound test line, using a plug, when the monster struck. With this light tackle it took nearly a half an hour of skillful playing to land the fish safely.

This latest beauty, with the Oak Orchard mark on it, is now on display at the Peterborough Hardware Company.

EMPIRE TRADE IS DISCUSSED

Deplorable State Would Arise if Political Rivals Crossed on Question.

TIMES GIVES IDEAS

LONDON, Aug. 9. —(C.P.)— "It would be deplorable if through any imperfect understanding of the facts of the case political rivals in Great Britain should pit themselves against each other on such issues," says the Times today in an editorial on Empire Trade.

Discussing the idea of Empire free trade the Times points out Australia raises about $200,000,000 annually, Canada $150,000,000 and South Africa, $50,000,000 in customs duties. "They would clearly be reluctant to abandon such a considerable part of their revenues," the Times continues, "Futhermore the British electorate has repeatedly shown they would never consent to tariffs upon foodstuffs originating outside the Empire."

The Times, however, mentions other approaches towards imperial economic unity. For instance, the organization on an imperial scale of agricultural research and extensive propaganda in favor of voluntary preference in the buying of British goods. It also mentions encouragement toward the creation of Empire-wide industrial units such as the Imperial chemical industries. A study of these approaches by a colonial office conference, imperial economic conference or the imperial conference itself would afford an opportunity for fitting colonial representation into the machinery for considering an Imperial policy, the Times suggests.

The Times concludes by pointing out existing preferences are "reckoned highly" by the dominions and expressing the hope that Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer will "as a last resort pay more attention of their opinion than his own."

Frenchman Is Prepared For Long Distance Flight

LE BOURGET, France, Aug. 9. —(C.P.) — Captain Dieudonne, a French trans-atlantic aviator, after scanning the weather reports to-day, announced that he would take off at dawn to-morrow for a "long distance flight record in a straight line."

Field attaches began their preparations for the take-off to-morrow morning on what no one doubted was to be another attempt to reach America in an east-west flight from Paris. Secrecy was maintained, however, so as not to run afoul of restrictions of the air ministry on trans-atlantic flying.

Weather conditions over the Atlantic were said to be favorable.

WEDDING BELLS

WARMAN—THEOBALD.

The marriage was solemnized on July 29th, at two o'clock in the afternoon, at the First Congregational Church at Pontiac, Michigan, of Ethel May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Theobald of Pontiac, and Albert T. Warman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Warman of 560 Albert Street, Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Walter J. Thoms.

The bride wore a lovely gown of pink georgette and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and gypsophila.

The bride's sister, Miss Rose Theobald, attended her, wearing yellow georgette and carrying Ophelia roses and gypsophila.

Mr. William Warman, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding repast was served at the home of the bride's parents on Hudson avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Warman left later on a motor trip to the bridegroom's home in Peterborough. On their return, they will reside in Pontiac.

SCULLY—COSTELLO.

St. Luke's church, Downeyville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday, August 6, when Nora Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Costello, became the bride of Clare Joseph Scully, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Scully, of Peterborough, Rev. P. Costello, cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony. In the sanctuary were also present Rev. P. J. McGuire and Rev. P. J. Galvin, P.P.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by her cousin, Jean Costello. She was preceded by the bridesmaid, her sister, Mary. The groom was attended by his brother Lorne, of Windsor.

The bride wore a French gown of beige lace with over-drapings of chiffon crepe and a hand-made picture hat of tulle lace and velvet. She carried bridal roses and valley lilies. Her bridesmaid chose a blue silk crepe ensemble with hat of same shade. She carried sweet peas and maiden hair fern.

During the mass an Ave Verum and O Salutoris were capably rendered by Fannie Costello.

After the nuptial mass about fifty guests assembled at the bride's home where a wedding breakfast was served.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a silver mesh bag and to the groomsman kid gloves.

Early in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Scully left by train for Toronto, thence by boat to the Thousand Islands.

The bride travelled in a dress of black romaine crepe with a close-fitting black velour hat. A beautiful black fox fur, the gift of the groom, completed her costume.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Her numerous friends join in their hearty congratulations and good wishes. On return Mr. and Mrs. Scully will reside at 585 Marlboro street, Detroit.

SANDERSON—STIRLING.

Miss Jessie Marguerite, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stirling, was married to Mr. Donald Edward William Sanderson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sanderson, of Peterborough. The bride is a graduate of the University of Toronto. Rev. W. D. McDonald officiated in Knox United Church, Agincourt. The ushers, Mr. Matthew McIndoo and Mr. George Stirling, brother of the bride, led the procession up the aisle. The bridesmaids, Miss Gladys Stirling, sister of the bride, and Miss Marjorie Patterson, a cousin of the bride, were gowned alike—Miss Stirling in blush pink chiffon and Miss Patterson in starflower chiffon with fitted bodices and tiered skirts, which graduated behind into peacock trains, soft girdles were caught in front with rhinestone buckles and they wore chiffon scarves caught behind the ear with a rosebud. They carried Colonial bouquets of Sweetheart roses, mignonette and valley lilies. The bride, who entered with her father, was in a decolette gown of white moire, fashioned with straight bodice and narrow belt, caught in front with a rhinestone ornament. The flared skirt was plain in front, falling in soft folds into a train-effect behind. She wore her mother's veil of embroidered tulle, caught into a cap with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Butterfly roses and lily of the valley. Mr. Oren Robertson, cousin of the groom, was best man. During the signing of the register, Miss Genevieve Brock, of Winnipeg, sang. Miss Bessie Armstrong presided at the organ. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the bridal couple receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Stirling and Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson. Mrs. Stirling wore a gown of beige georgette and a large black mohair hat. She wore a corsage of roses. Mrs. Sanderson, mother of the groom, wore a beige georgette dress with a large black hat and a corsage bouquet of bachelor's buttons and lily of the valley. The bride's travelling costume was a navy georgette ensemble. A matching cape, lined with oyster white chiffon, was finished with a pleated frill and fastened at the throat with scarf ties. A close-fitting aviation model hat completed the ensemble. Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson left on a three weeks' motor trip via Quebec for the Maritimes, and on their return will live in Toronto.

Another Mark Set In Swimming Events

HONOLULU, Aug. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Another record fell in the National A.A.U. women's swimming championship here last night. Josephine McKim of Balboa, Canal Zone, bettered by four seconds the former mark in the 440-yard free style event to win in five minutes 47 2-5 secs.

The 220 yard backstroke title changed hands when Eleanor Holm of New York ran away from the former champion, Lisa Linstrom of New York. Miss Holm's time was 3 minutes, 3 2-5 seconds.

TRAFFIC SIGNS STANDARDIZED

American Engineering Council Has Adopted a Set of Signals Suitable for All.

SPEED UP TRAFFIC

The American Engineering Council has adopted a standard for the marking of traffic signals, according to W. T. Palmer, Manager of the Russell Manufacturing Company.

All autoists, whether touring or merely travelling from city to city, can appreciate such a standardizing of signals. At present what is legal in one city or state is many times illegal in another and the motorist finds himself arrested or fined for doing something that is correct in his city but is a traffic violation in the next town.

A standard set of signals both as to design, and color of lettering and background, would enable the autoist to know just what signal was intended. Not only would this cut down the number of accidents due to misunderstood signals, but it would also facilitate the speeding up of traffic.

Suggested combinations are as follows for marking city traffic signs:

Stop—Red letter on yellow background.

Slow—Black letters on yellow background.

Caution—Black letters on yellow background.

One Way and Detour—Black letters on white arrow.

Information—Black letters on white background.

No Parking—Red letters on white background.

Limited Time Parking—Green letters on white background.

Other Restrictions—Black letters on white background.

There are also recommendations made that all State highway signs be black letters on yellow background with the exception of speed limit signs, which are to be black and white.

HUSBAND'S HUNT FOR LOST WIFE FINALLY ENDED

Body, With That of Two Year-Old Son Is Identified in Quebec Grave.

MISSING SINCE MAY.

Died in Car Accident With Another Man—Woman Buried Under Assumed Name.

NEWPORT, Vt., Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press). — A sorrowing husband, was here to-day to reclaim from their graves at nearby Stanstead, Que., the bodies of his wife and two year old son, buried under assumed names after an automobile accident in which both were fatally injured.

The man was Frank E. Quimby of Enfield, N. H., he has identified as his wife, the woman who until yesterday, was supposed to have been Mrs. Isaac Forton and as his son, Roy, the two year old victim of the tragedy.

Both the latter received their injuries when a horse drawn vehicle driven by a man who gave his name as Isaac Forton was in collision with an automobile operated by John R. Allard, an automobile salesman of Coaticcoke, Que., at Stanstead, a week ago.

Had Deserted Wife.

Forton, police now agree, was Isaac Fortier, 26, of Enfield and Lebanon, N. H., who disappeared simultaneously with Mrs. Quimby, last May. Mrs. Quimby left behind her two sons, aged four and seven years while Mrs. Fortier was left destitute with a two year old boy and is reported to have since been cared for by the town of Lebanon.

Clipping Only Clue.

An anonymously sent newspaper clipping referring to the accident at Stanstead which was mailed to Leon Copp, police chief at Lebanon, furnished the first clue to the real identities of those involved. Copp requested Chief George Newton of the local police to investigate. Chief Newton established the facts to his own satisfaction and brought Quimby and his attorney, John H. Noonan, of Enfield, to Stanstead where they made arrangements to have the bodies returned there.

Driver Disappears.

Fortier, whose injuries did not prevent him from testifying at an inquest where Allard was found responsible for the two deaths, has since been missing. He will now be sought on a warrant from Lebanon charging desertion.

FIVE INJURED IN BUS WRECK

Party of Tourists Plunge Over Incline While Sight-seeing On Mount Royal.

NO SERIOUS HURTS.

MONTREAL, August 10. (C.P.) — More or less seriously injured when a sight-seeing tally-ho plunged down a steep bank and rolled over twice on a steep incline on the way up Mount Royal here, five United States tourists were in hospital to-day.

They are: Miss Mildred Levon, 30, St. Paul, Minn., who dislocated and broke both ankles;

James Earley, Round Place, Mass., who is suffering from a compound fracture of the ankle;

Clarence T. Pennoyer, 32, New York, with a dislocated shoulder;

Lucien Gay, 41, Grand Rapids, Mich. Broken ankle.

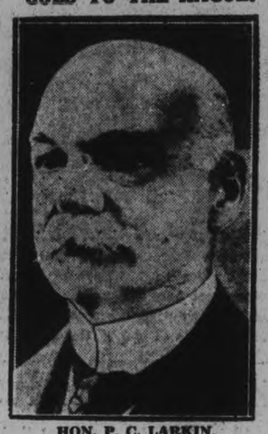
A. R. Freeman, 27, New York, head injuries.

A sixth passenger in the vehicle, which contained ten persons, T. J. Cowley, New Bedford, Mass., was allowed to leave the hospital after scalp wounds which he received were treated. None of the injured is thought to be in danger.

VALUABLE JEWELRY STOLEN.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 10.—Jewels valued at $150,000 were stolen early to-day from the summer home of Sydney Hutchinson of Philadelphia. The loot included a $100,000 diamond necklace, the property of Mrs. Hutchinson.

GOES TO THE HAGUE.



HON. P. C. LARKIN,

Canada's High Commissioner at London, who has been appointed to represent the Dominion at the Reparations Conference now in session at The Hague. The announcement was made yesterday by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King.

PREMIER TAKES FIRST STEP TO END BIG STRIKE

Meets Eight Representatives of Cotton Mill Employers at Edinburgh.

LEFT HOME BY PLANE.

Hopes Rise As Session Promises Results in Worst Strike Since 1926.

EDINBURGH Scotland, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press). — Premier Ramsay MacDonald moved dramatically to-day to bring about a settlement of the Lancashire Cotton industry stoppage which is causing idleness of nearly a million workers and 1,500 factories.

Leaving Lossiemouth, his native village, by aeroplane without announcing his destination nor the purpose of the flight, the Premier reached Edinburgh at noon and immediately went into conference with eight representatives of the cotton mill employers' negotiating committees and Sir Horace Wilson, permanent secretary of the Ministry of Labor.

Wilson has been in conversation with the parties to the dispute in Lancashire for several days. He and the employers' representatives left Manchester hurriedly this morning as MacDonald left Lossiemouth by plane.

Their meeting with the Premier is watched closely as promising some immediate development toward settlement of England's most costly industrial dispute since the great General Strike of 1926.

Thought Of Hague.

MacDonald's flight from his north coast native home received even more attention because of the great concern in Great Britain over the state of the deliberations at the Hague. The Premier's only word was that he was going on "National" business and this immediately gave rise to reports he intended to hop across the North Sea to join Foreign Secretary Henderson and Chancellor Snowden at the Hague.

IMPORTING FOREIGN LABOR ON CONTRACT PROHIBITED

Request of Labor Organizations put into Effect by Order in Council.

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug 10. (C.P. — Regulations have been put into effect in Canada prohibiting employers from bringing foreign labor into the Dominion under contract, Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, told the Halifax Trades and Labor Council last night. An order in council to this effect was passed in Ottawa two days ago, meeting the request of various Labor organizations, the Labor Minister said.

Mr. Heenan spoke at some length on behalf of the Old Age Pension plan.

EXPENDITURE IN NEXT FEW YEARS TO BE INCREASED

Premier Ferguson Addresses Large Audience in Lindsay Fair Grounds.

DISCUSSES SCHOOL POLICY.

Rural Hydro Scheme Will Probably Be Announced in Few Months, Premier Says.

LINDSAY, Ont., Aug. 10. — (Canadian Prss). — Since Ontario is now well supplied with trunk highways and main roads, the attention of the Ontario Government will in future be directed toward providing more and better rural roads, and the municipalities will be heavily subsidized with grants for road building. The present provincial expenditures of $7,000,000 on rural roads will be greatly increased within the next few years. This was the announcement made by Premier G. Howard Ferguson at a Conservative picnic here yesterday.

Work to Aid Rural Ontario.

Throughout his address the Premier stressed the activities of his Government in promoting the interests of rural Ontario. He also forecast substantial assistance to the building of rural Hydro lines, and discussed his policy of extending the educational facilities of rural schools.

In connection with Hydro, Mr. Ferguson said: "We hope to be able before many months to announce a scheme we have undertaken that will substantially reduce the cost of Hydro-electric power to rural users.

"Under it we will be able to call on the treasury not merely for $1,-500,000, as we are to-day, but for three, four or five million dollars a year for investment in rural Hydro lines.

(By Examiner Reporter.)

LINDSAY, August 10. — "Why shouldn't the country child have better educational facilities than the rural school house now offers?" asked Premier Ferguson at the annual Conservative Picnic held in Lindsay yesterday, when he spoke before a crowd of approximately two thousand staunch Tories who had gathered from the surrounding district to hear the first man of the province speak to them on what the government has accomplished and what it intends to do.

Mother Seeks Help.

"An instance came to my office by letter the other day," the premier said, "which drew this problem acutely to mind. A mother wrote and told of her child, who was eleven years of age and was graduating from the school in the district, and asked if there was not something that could be done in order that she should not have to be sent 22 miles away from home to the nearest secondary school at a time when she needed parental guidance, and should be at home? That is the problem which many other mothers are facing now, he said, as their children are ready for a higher education at a much younger age now than before, and have to be sent away from home in order to enjoy it, and this all comes at a most critical time in the child's life.

Stand or Fall on Policy.

"I propose to face this problem," he asserted, "no matter what the outcome is, and I feel that the people will approve of what the government will do. What we have in mind is to provide a course of study that will carry a child in any school up to the age of sixteen years. It will not be compulsory for schools to accept this, but the opportunity will be given and grants will be given to those schools that can afford the extra load, and to those who will be willing to take advantage of the higher course.

"The government is a business organization," he continued, "and I am the director of the business affairs of the people in Ontario. A nation without a vision must perish and so a government with no outlook is not able to give leadership to the people.

Better Rural Highways

"We have invested a great deal of money and one of the great things that has been done is the development of a system of transportation in order to put within reasonable reach all the advantages of the centres of population to the rural people. The highways are built for all the people of Ontario and we now have a good arterial system. Large sums of money will further be invested in county and township roads in order to give the man a chance who lives far from the highways to use them.

"In the outlying districts we intend to build good roads and subsidize those municipalities who undertake this work. I am trying to keep together the rural and urban dweller. They should have the same opportunities as we have in the cities.

"Some people say that we receive much more money from the gas tax than we pay out, but we have to have it, as we are planning for the future and then it is a fair means of put-

British Chancellor Demands Action

Prohibits Dancing In Bathing Suits

SIMCOE, Ont., Aug. 10.—(C.P.) —A by-law was passed by the Innisfil Township Council at Churchill yesterday prohibiting bathers leaving the Lake Simcoe beaches under its jurisdiction immodestly dressed. Leaving the beaches in autos, without donning a covering "from the shoulders to the knees," is banned by the by-law which also prohibits bathers in swimming suits from dancing on the streets.

Highways or any public or business place except in the immediate vicinity of a bathing beach, of any person clad in a bathing suit unless wearing some cloak or garment over the suit reaching from the shoulders to the knees.

The maximum fine provided for a break of the by-law is $20.

GRAF ZEPPELIN LANDS SAFELY AT HOME PORT

Covered 4,200 Miles in 55 Hours and 24 Minutes in Air.

MAKES RECORD.

Average Speed Was Seventy-five Miles Per Hour On Return Trip.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press). — The trans-Atlantic airliner Graf Zeppelin, after a record-breaking crossing of the Atlantic on the first leg of her round-the-world flight from Lakehurst N. J., landed at Friedrichshafen at 1.03 p.m. (7.03 a.m., E.S.T.) to-day.

The Graf covered approximately 4,200 miles in the 55 hours and 24 minutes that she was in the air, thus covering the entire distance at an average of 75 miles, a brilliant performance in the opinion of aviation experts.

The Graf's time of 55 hours and 24 minutes on her eastward voyage was about 40 hours better than her westward journey to Lakehurst, and 13 hours and 22 minutes beter than her last voyage from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen in October, 1928.

So thrilled were the spectators here by the Graf's early arrival that there was a general feeling that if breaking the record was a good augury, then the accomplishment of the Graf's first long hop on her round-the-world flight spoke well for her chances on the remaining three laps.

News of the Graf Zeppelin's early arrival spread like wildfire through the town, and despite the weather, great crowds had hurried to the Zeppelin works to welcome the airship. A heavy rain had fallen since noon.

The ground crew of the Graf Zeppelin took her in hand quickly and within fifteen minutes the huge airship was installed inside her hangar.

NEW LABOR ACT IS IMPORTANT

Prohibits Importation of Foreign Labor To Do Work Under Contract.

UNDER THE ALIEN ACT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 10 (C.P.).—Great importance attaches to the order in council passed recently which prohibits the importation of foreign labor into Canada under contract. The effect of the order in council, the passing of which was announced at Halifax last night by Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, is to provide immigration officials with the power to exclude such contract labor. This will probably have a much wider effect than the Alien Labor Act. Under the Alien Labor Act a complaint had to be filed before any measures for exclusion could be taken. It was a matter of court administration involving first the laying of a formal complaint and then the necessary steps following such a complaint.

The Alien Labor Act, passed approximately twenty-five years ago, was applicable only to countries which had similar legislation applicable to Canada. This new order in council applies to outsiders seeking to enter Canada under contract or agreement to do certain work. The order contains a proviso that the Minister of Immigration may set aside its provisions in specific cases if he thinks it advisable to do so.

CENTRAL POWER SYSTEM BOUGHT FOR THE PEOPLE

Premier Ferguson Gives The Examiner Statement in Regards Hydro Question.

COST $8,350,000.

Increase Value of Property More Than Covers "Dead Wood" Premier Says.

In a statement to the Examiner prior to his address at Lindsay Friday afternoon Premier Ferguson confirmed the assertion which Hon. J. R. Cooke made at Belleville last week that the Central Ontario municipalities would ultimately own outright the entire property embraced in the Central Ontario power system.

The contradiction made by F. A. Gaby, chief engineer under the Hydro-Electric Commission, to the effect that Hon. Mr. Cooke was mistaken, and that only the reserves would be returned to the municipalities, demanded a conclusive pronouncement which, coming from the Premier, himself, is beyond question.

Bought For the People.

"The government bought the old private power company in Central Ontario for the benefit of the municipalities," Mr. Ferguson stated. "That was the plan, and that plan will be carried out. The entire power properties will ultimately belong to these cities and towns, and all the Government as representing the rest of the province, is asking is simply repayment of the capital outlay which we have put into the system.

"May I repeat that we bought the Central Ontario power system with the intention of handing it over to the people. It has taken quite a time for some of the municipalities to see the advantages of falling in line."

Original Cost $8,350,000.

The Central Ontario system cost originally $8,350,000 and represents today in extensions and improvements an investment of approximately $15,-000,000, according to Hon. Mr. Cooke's information to the ratepayers of Belleville. It is, therefore, understood that the equity of the province as a whole in the Central Ontario system will be transferred to the district municipalities when they have all purchased their local distribution systems and also when the provincial bonds which provides the money for the purchase have been retired.

Premier Ferguson's assurance is simply what this district has been promised for more than twelve years.

The "Dead Wood."

The Examiner asked Mr. Ferguson whether he would consider the proposal that the Government absorb the losses involved in the inclusive purchase of such utilities as the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. The Premier's answer was that the increased value of the power properties themselves, that is the accrued values under the management of the Hydro-Elecetric Commission, were more than sufficient to cover this item of loss or what might be called "dead wood."

Referring to Belleville's vote on a by-law to purchase its local distribution system, Mr. Ferguson said he was entirely satisfied.

"I suppose a lot of the ratepayers thought the result was a foregone conclusion and their vote was not needed," he added. "I think that may explain why the vote was not larger."

AMERY ARRIVES WITH CHURCHILL

Former Will Mountain Climb While Latter Will Tour Whole Dominion.

CHURCHILL WILL SPEAK.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 10 (C.P.) —Two British public men. Right Hon. Winston Churchill, and Right L. C. M. S. Amery, were to-day starting a holiday in Canada. They arrived at Quebec yesterday from England on the liner Empress of Australia. Colonel Amery is en route to The Rockies, where he will engage in mountain climbing, while Mr. Churchill was today taking in the sights at Quebec. Colonel Amery was in Canada only eighteen months ago, when he was Secretary for the Dominions in the Baldwin Cabinet, but Mr. Churchill has not been here for thirty years.

In an interview in Quebec, Mr. Churchill, who was Chancellor of the Exchequer in the last British Government, said:

Here in Winter

"When I saw Canada before, it was under a mantle of snow. This impression naturally persisted. I have come out this time to correct it and to see the Dominion in summer dress in all its beauty, and learn about Canada."

"Next Thursday, I shall be sleeping on spruce branches in a cabin in the Rockies," Colonel Amery said.

Colonel Amery has no engagements in Canada before his visit to the Rockies, but Mr. Churchill will deliver a number of speeches, beginning with the Canadian Club at Montreal on Tuesday. He goes to Ottawa that day. Mr. Churchill is to travel to the coast in leisurely fashion and return to New York through United States territory. He then goes to South America.

ADDRESSES CONSERVATIVE RALLY

Premier G. Howard Ferguson of Ontario, who addressed a big Conservative convention in Lindsay yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ferguson, in the course of his speech, promised more aid for the rural roads in Ontario now since the trunk highways have been built, and also financial assistance in building rural power lines throughout the province.

MANY RUSSIANS THROWN IN JAIL

Martial Law Declared As Shops Are Fired and Railway Destroyed.

HARBIN CITY PATROLLED.

TOKYO, August 10. (C.P.) —Rengo news agency despatches from Manchuli, Manchuria, to-day said that the Chinese yesterday arrested and imprisoned 85 Soviet employees of the Chinese Eastern Railway at Khailar, and 56 at Pokotu. The action was taken as a precautionary measure against the threat of a general strike.

Other Soviet employees were kept under a close watch since it was feared they would attempt Sabotage.

Artillery Fire Heard.

LONDON, August 10. (C.P.)—Some alarm was felt here to-day at reports of events along the Manchurian Soviet Russia border, where increasing military activity, with considerable artillery firing, greatly heightened the tension between China and the U.S.S.R.

A Harbin despatch to the Daily Mail said that the authorities were apprehensive with respect to events in the near future. Much military and civilian activity at many points in Manchuria was reported. There was artillery fire on Thursday at Pogranichnaya, where Soviet airplanes flew over the town.

Destruction Started.

The despatch said there had been widespread sabotage along the seized Chinese Eastern Railway with the railroad cut in three places at Harbin and a bridge near Pogranichnaya destroyed. The shops at Harbin were set on fire.

Armed Chinese patrolled Harbin during the night, searching several buildings and arresting many Russians. The proclamation of martial law was discussed.

Red Army Protect Citizens.

The despatch further said that a Russian proclamation issued Tuesday declared that the Red army would protect all Soviet citizens "within ten days." Chinese troops were said to be moving northward. Hundreds of Soviet Nationals have applied for visas for their passports but expected considerable difficulty in crossing the frontier.

RESIGNS OFFICE.

COMMISSIONER L. H. BOYD

who is one of the members of the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada, who have resigned.

BOLT HITS LINE POWER IS OFF

Storm Puts Local and Long Distance 'Phone Lines Out.

The severe thunder storm that deluged the city with rain during the noon hour, caused many shoppers and workers to return home speedily with wet garments. The electric storm placed the city in darkness for a short period. The trouble was on "Y" line leading from Healey Falls, a result of lightning. The lights were dim for fifteen minutes because of the low voltage coming through the line.

Nearly fifty local telephone lines and several long distance lines were placed out of commission temporarily by the storm, but the Fire Department reported no fires.

SNOWDEN GROWS IMPATIENT WITH HAGUE MEETING

Cannot Wait Much Longer For Action On Resolution, He Declares.

MUST COME TO GRIPS.

British Chancellor's Statements Upsets Conference Which Was In Finance Committee.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—A slight recovery of confidence in conference circles today when general discussion of the Young plan was resumed without incident was again upset before the end of to-day's vital meeting of the financial committee by the intervention of Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

He declared that he had placed his case before the conference and could not wait much longer for a decision.

Must Come To Grips.

"I don't want to spend the rest of my days at The Hague," he declared. "We must come to grips on the question at issue. My resolution is still before the committee, and I cannot permit delay in action upon it much longer."

The financial committee meeting this morning was first devoted to a general discussion, W. Graham, president of the Board of Trade, stating that the system of deliveries in kind had affected British trade and caused unemployment. The British wanted them abolished or limited to the shortest possible time.

Henri Cheron, French delegate, gave a great number of figures which he held proved that Great Britain was getting more out of the Young plan than the Dawes plan.

Refute Every Figure.

Chancellor Snowden expressed surprise at discussion of the reparations sums. Since the morning was to have been devoted to the question of deliveries in kind, he said that he would refute every figure and every statement the French Minister made, but that he could not wait much longer for action on his resolution regarding the revision of the Young plan. He didn't want to remain indefinitely in The Hague.

The morning's session opened with the Rumanian delegates fyling their grievances against the reparations Rumania is to receive, after which Mr. Graham set forth Great Britain's position with regard to the economic consequences of deliveries in kind on the reparations account. He attributed to that a considerable part of the unemployment in Great Britain. He also complained of the effect of tariff barriers on British trade and that the circumstances had facilitated the access of other nations to markets built at British expense.

Mr. Graham was less categoric than Chancellor Snowden. He left a way out of the position taken by saying that the British would oppose any sort of deliveries in kind and would in any case insist that they be limited to a very short duration.

HUGE SALT WORKS BURNS AT LOSS OF HALF MILLION

Factory, Powerhouse, Storehouse All Fall Prey to Flames

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Aug. 10 (C.P.) —Bishopric and Lent Company's salt works, two miles west of Expanse, Sask., are in ruins to-day with a loss estimated at half a million dollars as the result of a fire which broke out yesterday afternoon. Thirty-five men were employed at the plant.

Five hundred tons of sodium sulphate and 1,800 gallons of crude oil were destroyed, and the factory, powerhouse and storehouse are in ashes. But five houses stand where one of Saskatchewan's best industries stood.

PLANE ON EUROPE TOUR.

MADRID, Aug. 10.—The airplane "Yellow Bird," manned by J. Lefevre and Armeno Litti, left here at 9.00 a.m. for Lisbon in continuation of its European tour. It hoped to arrive at the Portugese capital by noon.

Three Noted Girls Off On Long World Trip; To Write Stories, Take Moving Pictures

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press).—Arrayed in trig khaki-colored hiking suits, leather puttees and caps, three young women set out from New York yesterday in a light motor truck to 'go places and see things' in remote corners of the earth.

The party consists of one German baroness, cousin of Count Brandenstein-Zeppelin, who is a director of the Zeppelin Company; one motion picture actress, and one girl reporter.

The baroness is Christa Von Bradenstein, the movie actress, Miss Nada De Namur, and the girl reporter, Miss Margaret D'-Angelo of Ottawa, Ont.

They plan to pay as they go, partly by selling souvenir buttons and partly by writing stories for newspapers and magazines, and they are going to take a seven-reel motion picture.

Tragedy Stalks Italia Rescue Party As Bear Hunt Results In Guide's Death

ROME, Aug. 10 (C.P.)—Tragedy which stalked the dirigible Italia Polar expedition from the first has continued in the footsteps of rescue expeditions.

On August 7, a famished Polar bear attacked some members of the whaling expedition of the steamer "Sucai" which has been searching north of Spitzbergen for possible survivors of the Nobile expedition.

An Italian guide named Guidoz, who had participated with great fortitude in a march of 500 miles about Northeastland, seemed in danger, and Gianmine Albertini, head of the expedition, ran to his aid with a rifle.

Albertini unhappily fell in an ice crack and accidentally discharged his rifle as he fell. The shot hit Guidoz, who although transferred immediately to the whaler, died three hours afterward.

Ice conditions prevented the whaler making for land, so Guidoz was buried in the icy sea, wrapped in an Italian flag, while members of the expedition stood at salute.

Boy Falls Off Canal Wall

RUSHING HOME TO SUPPER MEAL YOUTH DROWNED

Nine Year Old Boy Falls Into Trent Canal Below Lock Eight.

BODY IS RECOVERED.

Small Family Spending Few Days Holidaying Below Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 10 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—When a mother called her little son to his evening meal, little did she realize that his boyish appetite would spur him on to his death. The little chap ran toward the camp from where he had been fishing. Apparently his foot slipped or he overbalanced. No one was paying particular attention to his movements. Suddenly he had disappeared. A member of the party saw the widening circles on the calm surface of the water. They told their tragic story. The body was recovered about fifteen minutes later, but life was extinct. The care-free family who had come for a week in the open, returned after five days, with heavy hearts for the loss of their little brother and friend.

Mr. and Mrs. David McGill and family of Merriton, motored from that town last Sunday to spend a week on the shore of Bradley Bay. They selected their camp site on the east point below Lock No. 8, where the canal returns to the river. With them was James Campbell of St. Catherines, and their nephew, Richard Hewitt of Merritown. Their family consisted of three children: Tommy, age 9; Charlotte, 6; and Katherine, 3.

Mother Had Called

Just before six o'clock last night, Mrs. McGill had supper ready for her family. She called them from the tent. Hewitt and Tommy were near the locks fishing. The older boy set out for the camp. Tommy tarried a moment to collect his fishing tackle. The two younger children came running across the fields, and the father went to help them over the wire fence about sixty feet away. Hewitt heard a spash and ran to the edge of the wall. He saw the widening circles on the calm surface of the still water of the lower approach, and shouted the alarm. The father came with a rush, shedding some of his clothes as he ran. He was not a strong swimmer, but did not hesitate to plunge into the twelve feet of water. Those on shore waited for him to return to surface, and he was under so long they began to fear for his safety. When he came up, he was all in, and had all he could do to swim the hundred feet to the end of the wall where he would be able to get out.

Meantime, Richard Hewitt had run to the nearest house, less than a quarter-mile distant, and summoned help. The house was the residence of John Potts, lockmaster of Number Eight Lock. The family and guests from Akron, Ohio, were seated at the supper table. Immediately, Fred Schrank and his son Carl, together with Mr. Potts, rushed down to the lower reach. The body had not yet been located. The two Schrank men got pike poles and grappling irons and began to search. They located the body almost at once and at the same spot where he went in. Dr. Haig of Campbellford arrived, and first aid methods of artificial respiration were employed. But it was useless. The water had done its work. The body was wrapped in a blanket and the coroner, Dr. W. F. Loucks, summoned. He inquired among those who were at the scene, and decided that an inquest was not necessary. The body was taken to Merritown last night in Bennett's ambulance.

Exactly what happened can only be supposed. Certain it is that Tommy started to run along the concrete wall of the canal. At the point where his body was recovered, the wall is not straight, but turns at a sharp angle. It is thought that he did not notice the turn. When taken from the water, there was a scratch on

ONE ARMED MAN RESCUES YOUTH

Nightwatchman On Rounds Hears Splash and Dives After Boy.

SWAM WITH MANGLED ARM.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 10 (C.P.)—A one-armed man rescued an eight-year-old boy from drowning in the Rideau Canal here last night. Albert Beaudoin, night watchman on construction work, was making his rounds when he heard a splash and saw young Conrad Barnabe struggling in the water. Beaudoin plunged in and caught the boy by the belt. He then paddled furiously with his mutilated arm and succeeded in reaching shore. Firemen later gave Beaudoin dry clothing and he continued his rounds for the night.

GIVE 'EM A CHANCE

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Flappers are up in arms here because widows are marrying for a second time. One of them recently remarked to Sir Thomas Davies: "We girls want you to bring in a law to stop widows marrying a second time. There ain't enough men to go round for us girls. Widows shouldn't be allowed to marry until there are."

The Finance Committee decided to change the schedule carried in the House Tariff Bill which made no change in the present law.

WHOLE VILLAGE IS IN DISTRESS BY LAKE LEVEL

Low Water in Nipissing Lake Prevents Drive Being Made To Mills.

MUST RAISE WATER.

Unless Situation Relieved Over 375 Employes and Families Destitute.

STURGEON FALLS, August 10 (Canadian Press). — Unless immediate action is taken to raise the level on Lake Nipissing, more than 375 employees of George Gordon & Company, lumber concern at Cache Bay, will soon be thrown out of employment and left with little or no hope of securing other work that will assure them of means of sustenance for their families. These men are employed in the Jordon Mills, and the mill yards at Cache Bay, and practically comprise the entire resident population of the village.

In a statement late yesterday, Senator George Gordon, president of the lumbering concern which bears his name, confirmed the statement of the condition which prevai's at the Cache Bay Mills. He stated that owing to the low level of the lake, it is impossible to bring drive material to the mills, and in consequence the company would be forced to cease operations at a date approximately two months earlier than in past seasons, unless the Government can be prevailed upon to take steps to raise the lake levels.

DUCHESS MAKES RECORD FLIGHT

Cheered Wildly By Thousands As Her Tiny Monoplane 'Spider' Alights.

TRIP INSIDE WEEK.

LONDON, Aug. 10 (Canadian Press Cable).—Thousands of hats and handkerchiefs were waved wildly from a packed landing field, roofs and the roadway outside Croydon Airdrome when a blue and gold monoplane appeared, circled the ground and made a perfect landing yesterday.

It was the "Spider," bearing the Duchess of Bedford safely home after the fastest return flight ever made between England and India.

The "Spider" left Lympne at dawn, August 2, and was flown to India and back in eight prodigious hops.

The evening of August 2 the plane arrived at Sofia, Bulgaria; August 3 at Aleppo, Syria; August 4, at Bushire, Persia, and landed at Karachi, India, August 6. The return flight was begun from Karachi August 6, the plane arriving at Bushire that day; at Aleppo on the 7th and Sofia on the 8th. The last stage of the journey was begun from Sofia this morning.

The Duchess was accompanied on her flight by Captain C. D. Barnard, pilot, and R. F. Little, mechanic and relief pilot.

BODY IS FOUND IN TEMAGAMI

Ten Day Hunt Reveals Peter Mack's Body in 70 Feet of Water.

NO FOUL PLAY SIGNS.

TEMAGAMI, Ont., Aug. 10.—(C.P.)—The body of Franklin D. (Peter) Mack, 19, member of a prominent Westchester County, N.Y., family was found in 70 feet of water off Bear Island, near here last night by Mate Ackroyd, Toronto.

The youth had been missing since the night of July 31 when he left a dance hall here and took his outboard motor boat to his camp and left, presumably for a neighboring camp in his canoe, which was found several days later right side up with his sweater in it.

A rigorous search for the youth has been in progress for the last week. On Wednesday night the Provincial Police were called into the case when his mother said she feared her son had met with foul play. No bruises were found on the body, however.

CAR AND TRAIN MEET HEAD ON KILLING THREE

Driver of Death Car Crashes In. to Flier Going Fifty Miles An Hour.

TWO GIRL COMPANIONS.

Engineer Unable To Stop Train For Eight Lengths On Account of Oil On Tracks.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—Thomas S. Wooley, aged 33, of 9 Naama Street, St. Thomas; Clara Mann, aged 19, and Ethel Tansley, aged 21, both boarders in an apartment at 183 Talbot Street, St. Thomas, died instantly late yesterday when Wooley's car zigzagged from the Glanworth sideroad, across a 25-foot ditch and turned up the main line of the London and Port Stanley railway to meet a lake-bound flier travelling 50 miles an hour.

Engineer Signalled.

The London and Port Stanley train No. 22, in charge of Motorman Robert Fulton and Conductor A. Wilkey, was speeding down the long tangent through Westminster Township when Fulton first saw Wooley's touring car proceeding eastward to the village sideroad toward the crossing. He signalled furiously and applied his emergency brakes, but the touring car swerved from side to side, though not very rapidly. It is thought that the driver may have been confused by an echo of the whistle and clanging gong, and thought the train was coming from the south. In any event, the auto hurdled a ditch and cut diagonally across the grass for 25 feet, then headed straight north for 17 feet along the tracks, to meet the train head-on.

Oil Made Tracks Slippery.

Lubricating oil from the shattered automobile drenched the tracks and sent the train skidding on the greased rails, so that it was not stopped for eight car lengths. The automobile, however, had been thrown to the side of the right-of-way and against a fence. Two bodies, those of Wooley and one of the girls, were found beside the tracks, but the second girl was unseen beneath the wreckage of the automobile till a closer investigation was made some minutes later.

President of Builders' Council Is Trying To Get Jailed Man's 'Contempt Purged.'

OTHER STEPS TAKEN.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Roy B. Belyea, Toronto, president of the Amalgamated Builders' Council, will to-day attend a conference of his officers with W. F. O'Connor, K.C., counsel for Louis M. Singer, K.C., organizer of the Council, who is in the jail here for contempt to Gordon Waldron, K.C., Royal Commissioner. Belyea will urge that steps be taken at once to have Singer "purge his contempt," and obtain his release from custody.

Mr. Belyea said he does not think Mr. Singer should be asked to do more than he has, "even to uphold the rights of the Council," and will ask at the conference that persuasion be used to have Mr. Singer take any steps which will secure his liberty.

FARMERS CLAIM CORN CROP LOST

Corn Borer Situation Near Tilbury Grows Worse Instead of Better.

SERIOUS AS LAST YEAR.

TILBURY, Ont., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—The corn borer is more of a menace to this year's crops than last year, farmers of this district said yesterday. The situation is now becoming serious, the farmers say, whereas a few months ago authorities believed that the dreaded pest had been exterminated.

Several farmers said their crops were a total loss. There are ears on most stalks, but there are borers in like proportion. They abound in different sizes, from pinhead to an inch long, and there are millions of eggs yet to be hatched.

Charles Hill, Tilbury grain merchant and farmer, said that the boier ravage this year will be as serious as it ever was, despite the precautions taken by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

GRAIN CUTTING GENERAL IN WEST WITH FIFTEEN BUSHEL AVERAGE

Wheat Crop Far Below Normal With Oats Suffering Worst.

COARSE GRAIN LIGHT.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—The general condition of the wheat crops of the three Prairie Provinces, on the whole, has not changed seriously for the worse since July 20, and some districts report a distinct improvement, states the fifth general crop report published by the Manitoba Free Press this morning. The newspaper's fourth report was issued July 20.

The report says:

Crop Below Normal.

"The replies to the request to give general conditions at the time of wiring, vary widely, but only a very, very few of the 325 replied from correspondents throughout the prairies indicate that a normal crop of wheat will be reaped, and not one suggests a normal crop of coarse grains, oats having suffered the most." While there has been no general rain in the 20 days between the reports, states the Free Press, several areas have had light rains or showers and a very few points rains of several hours' duration. In other districts there has been no rain at all, and many correspondents state precipitation at this time would be of no benefit.

Out of 85 points reporting in Manitoba, 48 state wheat is being cut and that harvesting will be general from the 15th.

Cutting Started.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—As wheat cutting is becoming general in many sections throughout the southern part of Saskatchewan, the yield is expected to be anywhere up to 15 bushels to the acre on summer fallow, according to the weekly survey of the Canadian National Railways.

By next week wheat harvesting would be in full swing.

Local showers have been reported in several areas in the crop report, but in most cases there has not been enough moisture to benefit the standing grain.

Stubble Crops Loss.

Stubble crops as a rule are a total loss, though in some places they may supply feed.

Shrinkage damage is expected in most districts, though this is as yet undetermined. The shortness of straw also is giving some trouble to harvesters.

Coarse grain crops are generally very light with rye, already cut running as high as 20 bushels to the acre in the Qu'Appelle sub-division of the C.N.R.

Inspector Distributing Treaty Money Claims Tribes Say Game Scarce.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 10.—(C.P.)—Returning from helping Agent Albert Wady, of The Pas, distribute over $10,000 of treaty money among 2,800 natives in northern Manitoba, J. R. Bunn, inspector of the Indian Affairs department, reported that the Indians in several districts complained of a bad winter and a great deal of illness. Game was scarce, and many of them had a hopeless outlook towards the future.

"All we could tell them was that, unless they exercised care to conserve the wild life as laid down in the game laws, the story of the vanished buffalo and wood pigeon would be repeated," said the inspector. "We stress that at every opportunity, but in bad seasons, when food is short, a beaver and a hungry Indian do not face each other very long before the beaver is satisfying the desire of the Indian and his hungry family."

DANIEL AMONG THE LIONS.

Golden text: The angel of the Lord encampeth about them that fear Him, and delivereth them. Psalm 34:7.

Time: 537 B.C., Babylon.

Daniel's Fearless Loyalty to Jehovah (10:13).

"He kneeled down upon his knees three times a day and prayed." The secret of Daniel's marvelous life of victory is found in these words—he was emphatically a man of prayer (cf. Ch. 2:17, 18, 9:3-4)! He knew to whom to pray, when to pray, and how to pray. So he knew how to get the victory in every conceivable emergency of life (Ps. 50:15, Phil. 4:6-7). To human reason there were only two alternatives open, to compromise or to die for conscience. But to the eye of faith there was another way open, the way of prayer (Jer. 33:3). Daniel knew that "prayer changes things." He had found this out not only from the study of "the law" and "the Psalms" and the earlier prophets, but also by experience (Ch. 2:12-49). He must "obey God rather than men" (Ac. 5:29, 4:19-20). He was willing, if God so willed, to take the consequences, but he knew if God did not so will he would not die, for his God was able to deliver. He did not shut his windows that looked out toward the city where God had put His name (I. Ki. 8:30-38, 48-50; 2 Chron. 6:38). "Three times a day" his prayer went up. In this, too, he was in fellowship with the saints of all ages (Ps. 55:17, Ac. 2:1-2-15, 10:3-9-30). His prayer was accompanied with thanks to God (Phil. 4:6, I. Thes. 5:17-18). Those who forget to return thanks when they pray need not expect their prayers to reach the ear of God. His godless enemies were watching for their opportunity. They thought they had found it, but it only proved to be an opportunity for God to display His power and grace, and resulted in Daniel's promotion and not his ruin. They found Daniel in intense earnestness in prayer, "praying and making supplication" (cf. Eph. 6:18). They would have come well to have listened to the prayer instead of hurrying off to the king. In trying to blast Daniel they bore a testimony to all ages to his devotion.

The wretchedness of the

The Wretchedness of the King (14-18).

"The king was sore displeased with himself." Well he might be. In his impious pride he had walked into a trap. He seemed about to lose his wisest and most trusted counsellor. He tried hard to extricate himself from the snare, but all in vain. Any man who puts himself in the place of God will have occasion to be displeased with himself before he gets through. And many a man to-day is putting himself in the place of God. At last the king yielded and "they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions." The fear of man kept Darius back from doing what in his heart he longed to do (cf. Prov. 29:25). As Pilate at a later day sought to appease his conscience and cover up his own infamy by washing his hands, so Darius here seeks to cloak his infamy by saying, "Daniel, thy God whom thou servest continually, He will deliver thee." That was true, but it was a truth used to excuse sin. Darius had no right to do wrong, trusting God to overrule the wrong he did. But, after all, Darius was not as sure that God would deliver Daniel as his statement would indicate (v. 20). The king had a bad night of it. He deserved to have. Daniel had a far better time in the lion's den than the king in the palace. It is far better to be in a lion's den with God than in a palace with a guilty conscience.

God is Able to Deliver (1:9-23).

For once at least the king was up early. Dignity was forgotten and he hastened to the man he had wronged. He cried with a lamentable voice, "O Daniel, servant of the living God—thy God whom thou servest continually!" That is a grand testimony to a man. Daniel had made a great impression upon this potent but time-serving king. The testimony was true, as the whole record shows. No better testimony than that to a man's character could be given. And, remember, Daniel was a statesman nearly all his life, and he was now nearly ninety. Of very few statesmen in all this world's history could it be said that "he served God continually." Most statesmen, even though professed Christians, compromise sooner or later. There is a striking inconsistency between Darius' testimony to Daniel and his treatment of him. Such a friend is scarcely worth having, but Daniel had a better one. Daniel's answer was in a cheery tone, in marked contrast to the king's lamentable voice. God had wrought another deliverance. He is always working deliverances for His faithful servants. If He be for us, no enemy can harm us (Ro. 8:31). Deliverance was wrought through an angel; it is the business of angels to look after God's own (Heb. 1:13-14, Ps. 34:7, 2 Chron. 32:21, Ac. 12:11, 27:23). He could shut every one of their mouths without the least difficulty. Paul was delivered out of the mouth of the lion in another way (2 Tim. 4:17). Daniel was delivered because he was innocent. Innocency is the best shelter from every ill. He escaped unhurt "because he believed in his God."

HARDY FRUIT SEEDS NEEDED FOR NORTH

Expedition Into Hudson Bay Country Will Study Conditions for New Fruits.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 10.—(C.P.)—In search of the secrets of winter hardiness for introduction into fruits and flowers in the northern part of Canada and the United States, five men are on their way into the far north Hudson Bay country. They expect to bring back with them seeds, slips, and shoots taken from growths, with which to cross with fruits and plants that grow in the more moderate temperatures.

The party includes W. A. Leslie, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Morden, Man.; Prof. B. W. Jackson, botanist, Manitoba Agricultural College; W. H. Alderman, head of the horticultural division of the Minnesota Agricultural College; Dr. E. W. Montgomery, a physician of Winnipeg; and Prof. J. Alderman, of the Minnesota Agricultural Experimental Station.

Hardy grapes and raspberries will be particularly sought by the botanical explorers. "What we want is extreme hardiness," said W. H. Alderman before the party left here. "We have made good progress in crossing the native wild fruits, for example, with fruits from other parts of the country. We have, by so doing, greatly improved the quality of fruits which can be grown in this northern country and we have given growers plants which survive cold winters.

"Possibly by getting extremely hardy wild grapes from the Hudson's Bay country and crossing them with California varieties we can get one or more outstanding grapes for Canada and the northern states, the fruit having the quality of the southern fruit and the vines having hardiness of those from the vicinity of the Arctic circle."

The party expects to be in the field for about six weeks.

UNITED CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE IN CONFERENCE

Five Central Conferences of Church Are Represented at Oak Lake.

120 ATTEND.

Conference Is Under Leadership of Rev. Frank Langford and Rev. Manson Doyle.

One hundred and twenty young people of the United Church are gathered for a ten days' conference at the Bay of Quinte Summer School Grounds on Oak Lake between Stirling and Belleville. They come from the five central conferences of the church—London, Hamilton, Toronto, Bay of Quinte and Montreal and Ottawa. With the exception of a few of the far north Presbyteries of the Toronto Conference every Presbytery in this district is represented by some of its leading young men and women.

The conference is under the leadership of the Rev. Frank Langford, secretary of Young People's Work of the United Church of Canada, as Dean, and Rev. Manson Doyle, Associate Secretary of Young People's Work, and Director Miss Bona Mills, Girls' Work Secretary, is also on the directorate. The staff includes the following: Prof. A. R. Cragg of Winnipeg, who is leading a discussion on the essentials of Christian living; Rev. George A. Brown of Chalmers church, Kingston, who leads the devotional Bible Study, based on the Gospel of St. John; Mr. R. C. Sidenius, Secretary Wentworth County Rural Y.M.C.A., who is directing the recreational activities, and Rev. Kenneth Benton, missionary on furlough from China, who is in charge of the Vesper services. Miss Lois Holman is the Registrar of the camp.

This gathering is a new venture in the Summer School field bringing together for intensive training a group of mature young people, who from their experiences will make a contribution of value to the general young people's program of the United Church, and also will take new enthusiasm and enlarged vision to the districts from which they come. One of the chief items on the program leading to this goal is the open forum when ideas and plans on Young People's Work are exchanged and discussed. This forum occupies one hour each morning and is most interesting and fruitful.

YOUTH OF EIGHTEEN OWNS HIS BUSINESS

Shoe Shine Lad of Alien Parentage Has Staff of His Own.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—"Streets have their epics as the mountains do, and the story of a Winnipeg shoe shine boy is undoubtedly one of them," says the Evening Tribune. "Speak with this boy, as his taut rag rhythms its rum-a-tum-tum across gleaming leather, and you will not long be wondering how, within three years after leaving school, he became probably the youngest employer of labor in the city.

"For Stanley Ostapowicz, the 18-year-old son of a Ukrainian father and Polish mother, is the alert owner of a flourishing little business, netting him an income which might be envied by many grown men of larger opportunities. Stan's opportunities have been mostly of his own making. He owes his independence to nothing but natural curiosity and a passion for being his own boss. You might divine these qualities from the keen face, frank eyes and lightning quickness of up-take, but you would never imagine all the energy and ingenuity that have gone to the building of his tittle castle, brick by brick.

"'Course, you know,' he gravely observes, slathering on some more polish, 'course you've gotta work hard when you're on your own. I enjoy hard work when it's for myself.'"

SWISS FAMILIES INVADE CANADA

Seventy-Three Members of One Rich Ranch in Russia Seek New Fortune.

TEN DIVISIONS IN CLAN

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 10.—(C.P.)—An industrious Swiss family that sought and found a comfortable fortune in Russia through farming and cattle-raising, lost all in the revolution and then, even under suppression, regained a great part of it in recent years, arrived in Canada a few days ago. Seventy-three strong, the Anmeter family in its entirety, led by Christian Anmeter, grey-bearded old patriach, left Russia six weeks ago and are eager to live in a group, if that is possible, in western Canada.

More than fifty years ago Christian Anmeter and his two brothers left Switzerland, their home land, to seek fortune in Russia. They acquired land and became the progenitors of a rich and industrious family. Then came the revolution, and their ten thousand acres of land, their cattle, their money in the banks of Lenigrad—all was seized by the state. The land that was theirs by right they had to rent, but despite hardship they built up a herd of 600 cattle, a shadow of their former possessions.

Stories of Canadian possibilities came to the ear of Christian Anmeter and he picked up scouts from his large family to gain information about this promised land. Reports were good, so they left Russia.

The clan comprises ten divisions, all of whom go by the name of Anmeter. There are 29 men, 20 women and 24 children. The advance scouts, Alfred Anmeter, now on a farm at Deloraine, Man., and Jakob Tinner, member of the family by marriage, who has a farm in Alberta, met their kinsmen at Winnipeg.

BEN'S BIRTHDAY

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Everyone probably knows of London's "Big Ben," the clock whose chimes are broadcast all over the world by radio. It has just celebrated its seventieth birthday, and is practically as good as new. The works are in perfect condition and the only sign of a run-down condition is its cracked bell, which developed at the very beginning of the clock's career.

It takes less than a minute to dissolve the marriage bonds of a Kurd in the eastern part of Turkey. The man simply says "I divorce you" three times and the parties are free.

FARMERS FAVOR HORSES

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 10.—(C.P.)—The western farmer is apparently not yet prepared to allow machinery to displace horses entirely. The combine harvester-thresher will be used more in clearing the 1929 crop than in any previous year, but that does not mean there is no work for the horse. Sask.tchewan has, according to the latest returns, four hundred thousand horses, a large percentage of which is kept on the farms.

The Cathedral of Seville is the second largest Gothic edifice in Europe and was dedicated in 1402. It contains the tomb of Christopher Columbus.

KIN OF FRENCH HEROINE

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Andre du Lye, a young peasant living near St. Andre de L'Eure, has been found to be a direct descendant of one of Joan of Arc's brothers. UNEMPLOYMENT IN MIDDLE AGE.

One of the anomalies of the present disposition of industry to lower the maximum age limit of employment to the border line of youth is found in the fact that more men and women than ever live to the middle years, and also that during that period they are more active than were their parents at the same age.

This tendency has been ascribed to the American cult of "pep" and the assumption that only youth possesses the energy necessary to maintain the accelerating speed that is accompanying mass production. As if "pep" were the only quality required in all phases of labor. The gospel of physical fitness disseminated by insurance companies and other agencies has had the apparent effect of prolonging the power of youth. The collar and shaving cream advertisements have made men of the middle years conscious of their appearance of fitness and freshness, and the breakfast food "ads" have placed the emphasis on the advice that the glow of health must be more than skin deep. The outdoor life never had so many devotees in all classes of society, and our preoccupation with physical culture is surely more general, and probably more enlightened, than in the era of Grecian power and predominance.

Youth is not only in the advertising columns, but also in the saddle, and the propaganda seems to have impressed the managerial departments of industry and reached out to those arbiters of employment, the directors of personnel. The world is paying tribute to youth as its blind worshippers, and those who have passed the border line are sacrificed to it. But on the other hand industry has become inextricably mechanized. The machine is the symbol of this age, and youth is its manservant.

Will youth open its eyes to the transition in industry which offers it a brief day of employment? If the dead line is to become fixed at 50, 45 or even 40, then it behooves this young and reputedly spendthrift generation to look to its reserves of real estate, insurance and other investments. For their productive years will be pitiably less than the lifetime in which their fathers earned a competence.

In all probability society will adjust itself to this present mania in industry, with employers unquestioningly following their own crowd. The injustice of it will be righted some way, and if the old age pension limit is not to be lowered to include those whom industry will cast aside in the meantime, some measures of compulsory insurance or other employment protection will have to be provided.

Youth may be "sitting pretty" to-day under this new scheme of industry, but eventually youth will pay, more than previous youth paid, if it does not prepare for the new danger of the middle age scrap heap now looming above the bright plane of business.

"LEAVE THE FOOLS TO NATURE."

Out of the fullness of his knowledge of the Bible, Bruce Barton, author of "The Book Nobody Knows," pronounces a judgment that does not find sanction in several of the parables which everybody knows.

Discussing the so-called liquor habit, Mr. Barton says in a magazine editorial: "My guess is that 65 per cent. of the American people are dry, 33 per cent. want an occasional drink, and only two per cent. are fools. I object to reformers because they stir up so much rumpus about the two per cent., who are not worth it. I hate to see the church, whose business is to make life more abundant, neglecting the decent millions to concentrate on the punishment of the indecent dozens."

Mr. Barton read in vain the story of the Samaritan, and also of the one sheep that persisted in straying from the flock. Of course, he advertently charges that the church is concerned only with the "punishment of the indecent dozens" as if the church cared nothing for their salvation. This accusation is as contemptible as it is false, just a glib, highly remunerative job of smart paragraphing.

Mr. Barton, whose book on the Bible was a best seller for some months, says: "My program is leave the fools to Nature. She has various diseases with which to deal with them." Those words are tinctured with the essence of paganism.

The church's mission, Mr. Barton dogmatizes, is to make life "more abundant." For whom? Surely not for those who already possess this vague abundance, or a comforting share of it!

"Leave the fools to Nature" is Mr. Barton's counsel to the church. Jesus, according to St. Luke, told His disciples that the Samaritan "Had compassion" on the man he found bruised and beaten on the road from Jerusalem to Jericho.

"And he went up to him and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast and brought him to an inn and took care of him."

There's no excess of compassion in Mr. Barton's "Leave the fools to Nature."

SEASONS NOT ON THE CALENDAR.

Man may mark off the months and the seasons, but the year has its own mileposts. We are passing one of them now, the regatta period, dear to the summer cottagers and the sun-tanned young folk rapt in the illusions of youth.

The strawberry festival season has already disappeared in the whirling mist of the year, a brief span in the early summer that leaves a pleasant taste. It is particularly favored in the country, and some of its devotees are among our prominent citizens.

And when the holidays close upon the summer resorts we enter upon the season of the fall fairs, following the example of Toronto, where the people from rural Ontario who have stayed on the farm meet their urbanized relatives and friends who comprise the bulk of the big town's population. In these Central Ontario counties Peterborough leads the procession which extends from early September until the middle of October, when the summer bravely clings to us with all the affection of an old friend loth to leave us.

Finally comes the season of the "fowl suppers" provided by the churches in the city and along the rural circuits. Temptation will trap the most circumspect of men at these affairs when the seemingly endless supply of chicken and all its garnishings are heaped around him.

Of course, there is the winter dance period, but it is barely distinguishable from the rest of the dance-mad youths. But, anyway, these natural divisions of the year are a pleasant sequence.

LIFE INSURANCE.

Beneficiaries and policy-holders in Canada and the United States last year were paid $2,057,000,000 by life insurance companies, an increase of $311,000,000 over the preceding year. On account of policies held in Canada there was paid out $99,116,746. Nothing illustrates so well as these figures, just made public by the National Underwriter, the growth of life insurance on this continent.

The Underwriter points out that most claims paid were in modest amounts; that for death claims above $100,000 the total was only $59,621,000. On the other hand there were comparatively few very small policies. "The day of the $1,000 policy is practically gone," it is said, "and the $5,000 policy is passing." The largest payment was for $5,825,450 on the life of Rodman Wanamaker. Five policy holders who died in 1928 were insured for more than $1,000,000.

The insurance companies paid out $4,838,000 in Toronto, $3,721,600 in Montreal, and claims around the million-dollar totals in several other Canadian cities.—Ottawa Journal.

STRAW-BOARD ON THE PRAIRIES.

New uses for various by-products previously regarded as of little value are constantly being discovered. Some months ago, mention was made of the manufacture of paper from cornstalks in certain of the middle western states. Now it is Western Canada's turn to find a use for her straw, large quantities of which in the past have been burned on the prairies because the farmers knew of no use to which they could put the huge volume left after threshing.

It has now been found that a straw-board can be made from straw which can be used in building.

A company has been formed at Regina for the manufacture of straw-board to replace ordinary lumber in the construction of buildings, and, according to press notices, one machine has been placed in operation on the farm of T. A. McCusker, one mile north of Regina. The machine, it is stated, compresses the straw under a pressure of 100 lbs. to the square inch, the product being laced with wire and turned out in boards 14 feet long by five feet wide and two inches thick.

While visitors to the prairies in the autumn may no longer enjoy the spectacle of burning straw stacks for miles around, the farmers will have an added source of income, which in the aggregate, will be substantial.—Monetary Times.

FADDISTS AND "YES MEN."

A faddist has been described by Rev. Edward Lytton of England, as "a man who, on a point of not first-class importance, thinks and acts differently from the majority." Generally speaking, this definition covers the ground, but it raises another question: why the person who presumes to think for himself and to act accordingly, even if the matter involved is one of major importance, should be treated with more or less good-humored condescension by the majority as a social non-conformist? "Independent thinkers are scarce," declares another preacher, Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin, almost simultaneously. "Those in authority," he adds, "seem eager to make them scarcer."

Standardization has very real dangers to the individual mind. There are a thousand influences whose tendency it is to eradicate individualism and to bring about a composite mentality—magazines with circulations in the millions, motion pictures, automobiles, the radio and so forth. Millions who read alike, who dress alike, dance to the same music, and thrill to the same film heroics, are dangerously apt to think alike, and to dismiss as a faddist, an oddity, the person who goes back to the classics for his literature, who mourns the decline of the legitimate stage, and who groups the radio and the "talkies" among other objectionable noises of the night.

Perhaps a standardized world is a good thing; perhaps it is not. Of course, the individual is saved a good deal of inconvenience if he goes with the crowd. He is saved many an argument if he agrees with his neighbor on everything from the culture of sweet peas and the proper training of children to religion and politics. He becomes a tiny and inconspicuous unit in the mass intelligence, the mysterious "consensus of opinion" which decrees what we shall wear, where we shall eat, and how we shall amuse ourselves.

But one may wonder if this "yes man," this agreeable soul, is the best possible type of citizen and the safest friend.

We venture to suggest the faddist is a useful sort who should not be discouraged. Very often he is not interested in movements or missions so much as in the right to pursue his peculiar ways and to do his own thinking. He may plow a lonely furrow through the advocacy of lost causes, but he is honest with himself and he ought to be an inspiration to the multitude. Perhaps he believes the earth is flat and the sun is 97 miles distant. He may wear silk knee breeches and a flowing blouse. He may prefer butterflies or postage stamps to service club luncheons, and golf may be one of the useless arts. But what about it? If the majority ever catches up with him he becomes a leader of thought and an example to youth. In the meantime he can do no harm, he gives some other people to think, and at least he adds variety and a touch of the unusual to a conforming world.—The Ottawa Journal.

MAY APPOINT AUSTRALIAN.

MELBOURNE, August 9 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—Feeling is strengthening in favor of the appointment of an Australian to the See of Melbourne in succession to the late Archbishop Harrington Clare-Lees. The Anglican Board is postponing further invitations to candidates in England pending receipt of replies from Lord Davidson of Lambeth and the present Archbishop of Canterbury, who were asked to make a selection for the board's consideration.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 13.

He was looking at her concentratedly; he did not hear her.

"Isn't what, dear?"

"The book, Hugh?" she exclaimed reprovingly.

Hugh smile luxuriously.

"You are wonderful, I know that. Bee, I wonder if any man in the world ever had a place like this to come back to and a woman like you to cure him of all the hurts and stupidities of life?"

Her gray-green eyes widened into a smile.

"Isn't that—marriage, Hugh?"

"Ought to b."

She was watching the kitten. She forced his small black head down, with a sudden gentle pressure, into the saucer of cream, and laughed at the picking and sneezing that followed.

"Bee—" Hugh began, and paused.

"Milord?"

"Bee, if you should ever stop caring for me, dear—no, don't laugh, I'm serious," Hugh said, catching her hand again. "If you should find—well, that you loved someone else more, or—or in a different way," he went on quickly, almost incoherently, "you'd tell me, wouldn't you?"

Without releasing her hand, she slid to her knees beside the couch and gathered both his hands against her breast.

"Why, what nonsense is this, Hugh?" she asked, in her maternal, half-laughing, half-chiding voice.

He studied her face gravely, anxiously, for a few seconds. Then he laughed.

"It is nonsense!" he exclaimed in relief.

"Well—" she said in a brisk, sensible tone, withdrawing, and occupying herself with the tray once more. The kitten rocketed away to a distant lair under the bookcases, but neither Beatrice nor Hugh had eyes for him.

They had taken possession of the big drawing desk and had littered it once more with T-squares, sheets of squared paper and pencils. Beatrice had clipped from an architectural magazine half a dozen little photographs of arches, steps, grills, doorways; she displayed them eagerly.

She toiled on busily, absorbedly, without interruption. While they worked sometimes her hand touched Hugh's hand, or her bright hair brushed for a moment against his face. And whenever that happened he stopped short and looked at her for a moment quitetly, without speaking, without interrupting the labors of the sharp pencil and the soft eraser and the little silver ruler he had got for her, of which she was so proud.

In June, they moved to the shingled cabin on Spy Lake.....that had been the Challoners' summer camp for twenty years. It was an airy, piny place, only three miles away from the fashionable resort of Sentinel Beach, near the new golf club, near the yacht club, and with its own lovely tennis court and old-fashioned garden.

Hugh's mother had the adjoining house, a square, white, colonial house, with green shutters, and Hugh's sisters, Mrs. White and Mrs. Carey, their own unpretentious places farther up the lake. All about the summer homes of old friends and long-tested neighbors were scattered; the fish man and the milkman and the man who repaired the boats and the man who brought the mail knew the Challoners and welcomed into their ranks the new member of the family.

There was a needle-carpeted steep descent of ground through the woods, below the cabin, reaching to the ripples of the lake. A boathouse and a few tethered rowboats were there, and hammocks for warm afternoons. The hotel was out of sight, beyond a long wooded point of land, but the hotel yachts and launches often came into view, as well as the patient steamer that crossed the blue stretch of water twice a day. The air at the lake was sweet and aromatic and sleepy, and at sunset the hills turned a clear deep blue, and fish plopped in the mirror of the water, and flies buzzed in columns in the sunshiny spaces in the woods.

Beatrice loved it all; she was ecstatically happy in the freer, simpler life and in Hugh's presence, for he almost always spent a long week-end, from Friday afternoon until Monday noon, there, and sometimes made the thirty-mile run from town on a week night as well.

She went swimming with the young Whites and Careys in the dreamy blue mornings, when dragon flies flitted and twinkled on the hot rocky shale of their own particular little bathing cove. The morning sun brought a clean resinous smell from the hemlocks and pines; squirrels flashed and chattered in the near-by woods, where the winter's fallen timber had been heaped into stacks incredibly picturesque, up and down the forest aisles.

Often old Mrs. Challoner was wheeled down to the pier, and sat there basking under her great sun umbrella, with the dripping children and the murmuring elders at her feet. Harriet Challoner Carey had a daughter of Beatrice's age and Minnie Challoner White was only three years younger, and the three girls chattered and laughed together, in and out of the satiny blue waters, in and out of the open cabins, all day long.

"And how are the Memorial plans Beatrice?"

"Oh, they are coming on marvelously. We're perfectly fascinated by them: We're getting all the details together and Hugh is going to stay home all Friday, and Saturday too, this week, and put both mornings in on them;"

"No swimming for you then, Bee," Mary Randall protested resentfully.

"Oh, yes, I'll swim—we won't work that hard. But really I get as much fun out of it as Hugh does," Beatrice said.

"Lucky boy, Hugh Challoner," his mother's deep voice would say boomingly. And at that Beatrice always gave her happiest and most youthful laugh, in sheer content.

When Bert was at Spy Lake he always stayed with his grandmother, so that Beatrice felt no responsibility for him He spent his Monday-to-Friday intervals in the city, but usually put in an appearance at the lake on Saturday afternoons, expectant of tennis.

Sometimes Hugh would play, and they would find two other men for a hard session of doubles. More often Beatrice played with her husband, with Bert and one of his young cousins for opponents. Young Tom Carey, Harriet junior, or Mary or Pauline White all played well, and the other members of the family would gather as audience in the shaded chairs on the south side of the court

Beatrice, who had made an early beginning with tennis in the long-ago days of Miss Roberts' school, when Mummy had taught music and Marcia the upper grades, was enormously in demand as a partner. But it was not so much because she was a good player—they were all good players—as because of the elements she brought to the game; fire and excitement and enthusiasm that gave it new life.

Her face grew red as she played, her hair wild; she fought desperately for every point, lost hard, and fairly danced with triumph when she won. "Oh Hugh, Hugh—take it," she would shriek in a tone that brought tears of laughter even to dignified old Mrs. Challoners' eyes.

"She's a nice child, Beatrice," the old woman told her son one morning.

"That's exactly what she is, a child, Mother."

"Well, all the better," his mother said. "Eh?" she added, a little sharply, twisting her head to see his face, as if something in his expression surprised her. "After all, she's only twenty, Hugh."

"Twenty-one. Yes, But many girls of twenty-one aren't as young as Bee," he offered, a little uncertainly.

"She's quite remarkable with her French, Harriet says," her mother-in-law defended her, "and she's a good manager and very sensible with the girls—as far as that goes, she seems eight years instead of eight months older than little Harriet. And she's certainly been a help with your prize plans, Hugh."

"Oh, yes, all that, all that," he conceded almost impatiently. But it's not natural to have her settle down here among all of us, who are so much older—"

"All the children except Peter and Tom are younger than she," persisted the old lady as he paused on a discontented note.

"Yes, but she's not one of them; she's 'Mrs.' Challoner," he said. "There's a great difference. The tradespeople—the employees down at the office—make much of her. It makes no impression—she's just a child. I've put money to her account, of course, but she doesn't spend it as most girls do—now and then she sends her mother or sister a present; that's all. A child about money too She isn't always after furs or hats or jewelry. I took her to Cate's the other day: tried to find a ring or a chain she wanted. She liked them all—and didn't want any."

MAY DAY IS LEI DAY

HONOLULU, Aug. 10.—The first of May in the United States is May Day. In Hawaii it is lei day. These flowery garlands, seen draped around famed trans-Pacific flyers and other visitors here, represent friendship and love on the islands. The wreaths for many years have been used by natives as tokens of the "Aloha" spirit of the islands.

Electrical refrigeration is said to have been used as far back as 1755.

What To-day Means To You.

AUGUST 10th "LEO".

If August 10th is your birthd ay, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1.50 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 7.30 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m.

There is nothing of an unpleasant nature forecast for this date. You will neither be pushed nor hindered in your activities, and you are much in control of the day's history. "To-day well lived, makes every yesterday a dream of happiness, and every tommorrow a vision of hope."

The child born on this August 10th will be very fond of the good things of this life, and pleasure loving. It will be remarkably good in one or two studies, and very indifferent in all others, and should be allowed to cultivate its talents. It will have a nature which must not be driven diplomacy and tact will go much further.

You have a very variable and moody nature, and others never know how they are going to find you—singing in the clouds, or grousing in the depths. There is no one who can be pleasanter or more congenial company than you, when you are in one of your lighter moods. You are capable of thoroughly enjoying yourself. On the other hand, there are times when you prefer to be in complete silence, and words have to be pried from your mouth by those who are unfortunate enough to be in your company if given free play, this tendency will lead to morbidness, and irritability, and it is selfish on your part to allow yourself to succumb to such unpleasant mental states.

If a man, you have a great deal of force of character and considerable business acumen. You are able to organize large movements with skill, and to carry them through cussessfully. You are very fond of history, ancient and modern and keep yourself well informed with the times.

If a woman, you are self-assertive and active, and you have a strong, rather than a sweet nature. Your emotions are very much suppressed, and you are considered cold, although at heart you are kind and generous. As a mother, you would be a strict disciplinarian.

WHEAT FAILS TO HOLD ADVANTAGE

Prices Recede To Yesterday's Finish At Close of Market.

CHICAGO, Ills., Aug. 10. —(Canadian Press) —Unexpected sharp upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations led to a brisk early advance to-day in the wheat market here. The advance here, however, failed to hold well, Liverpool despatches showing price upturns abroad were based on aspects of the United States Government crop report which had been discounted here boforehand. Opening 1-2c to 3c higher, Chicago wheat later receded in most cases to about yesterday's finish. Corn and Oats swayed with wheat, corn starting ¼c to 1 1¼c up and then reacting. Provisions were higher.

AMULET DOWN.

TORONTO, August 10. (C.P.) —The Standard mining exchange closed firmly to-day with gains in most of the leading non-ferrous issues, continued quietness among the precious metals and a general strengthening of the oils.

Amulet was an important exception yielding 10 to 2.60 under considerable selling, and Noranda dropped 40c to 60.50. Arno was a leader in activity, firming 2 to 47 on sales of 106,400 shares, while Newbec rose 4 to 48, Big Missouri 8 to 1.59, Hudson Bay 30 to 19.50 and Base Metals 15 to 5.40. Abana was strong, adding 22 at 2.00 and Pend Oreille was up 15 to 6.40.

Following the lead of British American, which rose 1.50 to 55.50, and Home which added 1.25 to 25.00, oils improved considerably, Calgary and Edmonton strengthening 70 to 9.00; Alberta Pacific 30 to 4.45; Associated Gas and Oil 10 to 4.00; Southwest Petroleum 10 to 5.10 and Ajax 5 to 2.70.

Lake Shore dropped 50 to 25.50 and Hollinger firmed 25 to 7.00; other changes in the precious metals moving in a restricted range.

RICH NEW METAL LOCATED IN NORTH

Deposit Used for Hardening Steel Found by Prospector and Indian Band.

REGINA, Sask., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—In the Manitoba northland, about 200 miles from The Pas, and in the vicinity of the Hudson Bay Railway, a rich deposit of "molybdenum," a rare metal used for hardening steel and making it rustproof, was discovered during the past spring by two Regina prospectors and a band of Indians.

George Pootmans, of Regina, accompanied by Pierre Cels, also of Regina, and Indian guides, were the discoverers of the deposit in the Split Lake area.

After an arduous journey, Pootmans and Cels were taken to what the Indians described as the "silver location." White men had never been there before. The Indian chief displayed rich samples of the mineral, but the Reginans at first did not realize how valuable their "find" was.

Returning from the north country, Pootmans dispatched samples to assayists at McGill University, Montreal, in New York and Denver, Colo. From each came the same report—"molybdenum," known to scientists as the "metal of a thousand uses." Its present value is reported to be $850 a ton.

A number of claims have been staked in the Split Lake district, and arrangements are being made for development to be carried on by a Belgian syndicate now interested in numerous mining enterprises in the Manitoba hinterland. Pootnams and Cels are natives of Belgium.

Vancouver Island, British Columbia, is the site of a "molybdenum" mine now operated by the British Alloy Company of Sheffield, England.

IN POLICE COURT

A local youth will either go to work or spend a week in jail. He appeared in Police Court this morning on remand on a charge of vagrancy, and the case was adjourned for another week to give him a longer time to find employment. It was said that he was too fond of riding in cars to seek a job, and if he hasn't found work by next Friday he will be sent up on the hill.

An immigrant, Stanley Graham, on remand on a charge of uttering a false cheque, was again remanded until Tuesday.

George Davis bore all the appearances of being a staunch Knight of the Road, but he pleaded not guilty to the charge of vagrancy. He asked for a remand for one week and said "Thank you" when it was given him.

A local man was committed as insane.

ACTIVE ISSUES REGAIN LOSSES

Market Retrieves Part of the Ground Lost in Yesterday's Decline.

TRADING LIGHTER.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—The stock market today retrieved part of the ground lost in yesterday's sweeping re-action, which is estimated to have wiped out between two and five billion dollars in the quoted values of all listed securities. Recoveries to-day averaged about 2 points in the active issues, as against average declines of about 5 points yesterday. Trading showed a marked falling off in volume, total sales in the first half-hour running around 333,000 shares, or a million less than in the same period yesterday.

Railroad shares took a prominent part in the rally with buying influenced by the publication of record-breaking earnings in the first six months by the class 1, carrier. Net income in that period totalled $563,347,000, an increase of $101,192,000, or 21 per cent. above the same period last year.

Atchison was the leader of the rail group, climbing nearly 9 points above yesterday's final quotation. Deleware and Hudson rallied 7 points, Union Pacific 6, New York Central and Southern Pacific 3 each, and at least a dozen others moved up 1 to 2½ points.

Contrary to general expectations, there was little distress selling today as a result of the margin calls sent out yesterday. Midland Steel Products Preferred dropped 5 points and Houston Oil sank 1½ to a new low at 68½. Commercial Investment Trust ran up 6 points to 177, and then toppled to 164.

Financial News and Briefs

A Special Service to the Examiner

Sudbury Basin Making Real Progress

Returned from a four weeks' trip out west, most of its devoted to examining British Columbia mining properties on behalf of his company, Jos. Errington, president of Sudbury Basin Mines, expressed himself as very well pleased with reports from the many operations which the company has on hand, and with which he was familiarizing himself, after his absence, according to the Northern Miner.

Not having the assays, he could not speak specifically, but perhaps the most interesting thing that has lately happened has been the cutting and proving of the Vermillion Lake zone at two places, a mile and a mile and a half, west of the intensive drilling of last winter, which so greatly increased the size of the known orebody. He could not say how important, in a commercial sense, the eastern intersections of the zone were, nor how much of the intersections made ore. One of the two holes which had reached out from the lake shore, with great difficulty, and cut across the zone is still being drilled. It has yet to reach the main objective, having passed through what appears to be a subsidiary zone.

From Sudbury Nickel and Copper, mainly owned by Sudbury Basin, were reports telling of several drill hole intersections. Mr. Errington said this company was meeting with very good success. Because of certain conditions, he did not care to dilate in detail, but was willing to say they were demonstrating nickel copper ore of very good grade. The Strathcona Mine is included among the operations where ore showings are being steadily enlarged.

Falconbridge, in which Sudbury Basin is heavily interested, is opening out in a way to demand full optimism. Mr. Errington expressed every confidence in its future.

Cypress Oil to Arrange Finances

The annual meeting of shareholders of the Cypress Oil Company, Limited, will be held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on August 13, next, to be followed immediately by a special meeting called for the purpose of devising and ratifying a method of financing. It is understood that some 200,000 shares remaining in the treasury will be disposed of, the proceeds from which will be used for drilling wells on various sections of the company's wide-spread holdings.

Cypress Oil has an interesting history. The company is an outgrowth of a syndicate formed several years ago which acquired some 50,000 acres of well selected land in the Cypress Hills field, Alberta, a short distance north of the famous Kevin-Sunhurst field of Montana. An agreement was then made with C. E. Roth, who for a consideration of 10,000 acres of the syndicate's holdings agreed to drill two wells on their leases, the syndicate to receive 12 1-2 per cent of all oil and gas recovered on Roth's holdings also.

The Cypress Oil Compay then entered into an agreement with the Imperial Oil Limited, whereby this company paid Cypress $60,000 cash and upon payment of $25,000 on completion of the company's first well the Imperial were to acquire the balance of the Cypress acreage and Imperial would form a company at that time, Cypress retaining a 40 per cent interest. Thus the Cypress Oil Company came into existence. The first well being sunk by Mr. Roth, is now down to 3,900 feet and is expected to come into production at between 4,000 and 4,100 feet. This is being put down by Standard drilling rig but the No. 2 will be sunk by a rotary drill.

The financing is for the purpose of enabling the company to carry out drilling on other sections of their holdings.

NEWS FROM THE MINES

Solloway, Mills & Company Through

Newbec

Drifting along the diabase contact has aroused new hope for the 250-foot level of Newbec as it is in this formation that the downward extension of the high grade on the 125 foot level is expected. All kinds of predictions are being made as to what will happen to the stock if the ore is encountered.

Noranda

While some suggest that Wednesday's $3 jump in Noranda was the result of the focusing of attention on Rouyn operations, others believe that it is just the long expected upward swing to discount the big production expansion program which is not now far off.

Big Missouri

Much optimistic gossip is going the rounds on Big Missouri, and some contend that the present movement will exceed the last bull drive during which the $2 mark was left considerable distance behind.

Amulet.

Amulet's two drills are pounding away seeking further extensions of the new "P" orebody. It is reliably stated that the whole truth has not been told and that the dimensions of the ore is greater than any figures so far published, and likewise the grade. Our field man says machine spotted west would likely reach ore during the night or some time today, while second machine is drilling to south and west.

Newbec

Our Rouyn field man wires that Newbec's president visited the property Wednesday. "Do not see why he would want to look if there was nothing to look at," he remarked.

Dome

Dome shares are creeping up steadily. Accumulation has been going on steadily until the market is pretty well cleaned. It will likely require a fairly sharp price advance to bring out much stock as much gossip is heard on the street about a possible dividend increase. Dome pays $1 per year and the yield is now slightly under 10 per cent.

Amulet Results Sure

Discussing the two new holes now being put down on Amulet, our Rouyn field man says they were spotted within a 50 ft. radius west and south and in a line where it seems sure that a further extension of the copper ore-body will be obtained.

GRAIN REPORT IS MORE FAVORABLE

Prospects in Manitoba Are Better Than in Other Two Provinces.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 10.—(By the Canadian Press.)— The Government crop report made public at noon today gave the definite estimate in bushels of the total yield of wheat this year. It placed the yield of spring wheat as of July 31, at 66 per cent of the average per acre for the past ten years. Manitoba's estimate is given as 71 per cent., Saskatchewan 65 per cent., and Alberta 66 per cent. This is a marked falling off from the estimate for June 30 last which gave spring wheat for the whole of Canada 88 per cent. of the average yield, Manitoba 91 per cent., Saskatchewan 89 per cent., Alberta 84 per cent.

Wheat Acreage Increases.

The estimates of the areas sown to the principal grain crops in the three prairie provinces as obtained by the annual statistics collected in June last through the rural schools are now available. Wheat occupies an area of 24,297,116 acres, as compared with 23,158,505 acres in 1928, an increase of 1,138,611 acres. Manitoba shows a decrease of 359,510 acres, while Saskatchewan and Alberta show increases of 654,432 acres and 843,689 acres respectively. The area under oats for grain is estimated to be 7,731,937 acres, a decrease of 425,474 acres, as compared with last year. Barley was increased from 4,104,250 acres in 1928 to 5,114,203 acres, an increase of 1,009,953 acres, of which 244,632 acres were in Manitoba, 607,141 acres in Saskatchewan and 158,180 acres in Alberta. Rye shows an increase of 168,302 acres, increasing from 733,000 in 1928 to 922,217 acres in 1929. Flaxseed has increased from 367,385 acres to 373,415 acres, an increase of 6,030 acres.

WATCH THE POISONS.

When you swallow Carbolic Acid or Tincture of Iodine, by mistake, you at once become alarmed and say, "Send for the doctor, I have been poisoned." For one person poisoned from these preparations, there are thousands of persons poisoned daily from faulty elimination of poisons produced by the body itself. When the kidneys or the liver are not working well, they fail to carry away these dangerous poison, and the result is that you wake up in the morning with a headache, a stiff back or stiff joints, caused by poisons that remain in the system. If you wish to correct this condition, procure a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will enable the kidneys to eliminate these poisons from your body and will make you feel fit and active for any kind of work.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills are for sale at Lynch's Drug Store, and if they fail to do what we claim for them, your money will be refunded. w,s-7673

WHAT ARE YOU DOING-PLAYING SOLDIER?-COME HERE AND I'LL TELL YOU MY EXPERIENCE IN THE BIG WAR

ONE DAY THE GERMANS WERE BOMBARDING US-DROPPING SHELLS ALL AROUND US AND YOU'D THINK THE ENTIRE ARMY WAS SHOOTING EVERYTHING THEY HAD AT US

THE CAPTAIN SAID TO ME-"PRIVATE NEBB, MAYBE WE BETTER LEAVE THIS PLACE."-AND I SAID "THIS IS NOT GOING TO BE A PLACE VERY MUCH LONGER."

PRETTY SOON WE RAN INTO OUR MAJOR AND HE LOOKED SCARED-HE SAID HE WANTED A VOLUNTEER FOR A DANGEROUS BIT OF WORK WHERE THE CHANCES OF RETURNING WERE VERY SMALL-

I STEPPED UP-SALUTED AND SAID-"I'M YOUR MAN, MAJ, I WELCOME THE OPPORTUNITY-WHEN DO I START?"

MY JOB WAS TO DESTROY A MACHINE GUN NEST-THE FACT THAT A NUMBER OF MEN HAD ALREADY BEEN SENT ON THIS MISSION AND FAILED TO RETURN DID NOT STOP ME-

AT ONE SPOT I HAD TO CRAWL INTO OPEN VIEW OF THE ENEMY AND BELIEVE ME THERE WAS NOTHING STINGY ABOUT THEM-THEY UNLOADED NO LESS THAN $20,000 WORTH OF ARTILLERY ON ONE MAN

I FINALLY LOCATED THE MACHINE GUN NEST AND WAS CREEPING TOWARD IT WHEN A BIG SHELL EXPLODED NEAR ME BLOWING ME INTO THE AIR

AND LUCKY RUDY! WHERE DO YOU THINK I LANDED?-RIGHT ON TOP OF THE MACHINE GUN NEST.

TAKING THE MACHINE GUN FROM THE GUNNER, I TURNED IT ON THE ASTONISHED ENEMY WHO SURRENDERED WITHOUT EVEN HESITATING-

YOU CAN IMAGINE THE MAJOR'S SURPRISE WHEN I WALKED BACK WITH THE CAPTURED GUN AND CREW-I WAS OFFERED A LOT OF DECORATIONS BUT I MODESTLY REFUSED, SAYING, "I ONLY DID MY DUTY."

had to be different to do what it has done

De Soto Six could never have shattered so spectacularly every existing sales record for a first-year motor car if it were merely "just another good automobile".

It is only because De Soto is sensationally different—totally beyond the limits of price and class—that it has been granted the most sweeping immediate acceptance ever given to any car at any price.

The public itself has decided that De Soto

—sets an entirely new standard for style, beauty and distinction among low-priced sixes;

—provides alertness and smoothness of performance hitherto unrealized in cars of this moderate price;

—demonstrates by actual records, remarkable economy of operation and maintenance;

—gives the utmost safety through its positive and dependable four-wheel hydraulic brakes.

Test these definite superiorities for yourself. See and drive a De Soto Six. You, too, will register unqualified approval.

ting the burden on the one who uses the road. We must have funds for our future program.

"As for electrical energy, he continued, we have been very fortunate and there has been a great deal developed and there is an enormous supply in the province but it is not unlimited, and in my time I expect to see that Ontario will have to obtain some of her power from outside the boundaries.

"We have secured power contracts outside that will guarantee an adequate supply and this has been successfully negotiated through the Hydro Power Commission.

Power at Cost

"Power at cost is the principle that is exercised in all districts and the more power users that there are, the cheaper the rate becomes. To the rural subscriber it is dear, and we are overcoming this in a measure by subsidizing the extension of the lines into rural districts. The government sets aside from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 yearly for this purpose and are paying half of the cost.

"Now we propose to take a step whereby I hope to be able to announce in a couple of months a plan that will reduce the cost to the rural subscriber and that will enable us to call on the treasurery for two, three or four dollars as is needed.

Then the Premier turned to agriculture saying, "Agriculture should be successful in Ontario and go on in that way and the way that it has been in the past few years. Last year Ontario produced products in that line that were worth $510,000,000 alone as compared with the mines that produced $100,000,000 of new wealth and the forests which contributed $120,000,000. So Ontario farms have produced about five times the value of these last two and is a reason why everything possible should be done to encourage this.

Answers Extravagance Charge

"I do not propose to cling to office for office's sake; I am only the hired man of the province and can be dismissed at will, but when I have a great problem I go to the people for their endorsement and then we shall have an election.

"They say we are extravagant—Well if extravagance is the investing of large sums of money, then we are. We have a debt in Ontario of approximately $300,000,000, but we have borrowed it to use in great services. $150,000,000 is invested in the Hydro, and $130,000,000 in the great system of highways. We are getting a 20 per cent assessment on these from the municipalities and they are earning enough to meet the carrying charges. The public are not charged a single dollar in taxes, but those who use them pay for their use the same as they would purchase a railway ticket and that in my estimation is a real sound business way. As for taxation there is $1,000,000 set aside for mother's allowance, of which we pay one-half and another $1,000,000 for old age pensions, which are the only taxes that are charged directly to the people.

President Speaks

John R. MacNichol, Dominion and Provincial President of the Conservative Association, was the only other member of the Premier's party in Lindsay, and he addressed the gathering before the Prime Minister took the stand, and glorified the Old Conservative traditions and urged the people to be true Britishers in spirit and it really did matter the flag that one was under. The government is purely a British organization, formed on strong British principles and the introduction of any set day for elections as is done in the United States would be a wrong precedent to establish.

Appeals for Protection

He then stressed the value of protection and appealed to the people of the district not to allow Canada to become a rich hinterland for the country to the south and to furnish them with materials so that their workers could find employment while Canada is becoming dependent economically and politically on the States. He urged a return to the historical Old Conservative traditions of an adequate protection.

Immediately before the picnic at the Fair Grounds, Premier Ferguson was the guest of the combined Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs at a luncheon in the Benson House, when he spoke to them on the opportunities that were given to scholars who were handicapped by sickness or crippled, and mentioned the gratifying fact that each one of these pupils who tried their examinations achieved honors in every subject that they attempted, and it was not the examiners who allowed this as each of the papers were put with the rest and numbered so they could not be identified from any of the others.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

Councillor J. R. Wilkinson and farming did not agree. On Tuesday morning he went down to his farm to see about the horses and cattle pastured there. He found his tenant drawing in grain and went to help with the work. They took in two loads before dinner. After the noon meal there still remained one load. Mr. Wilkinson was building the load and also driving the horses. The field was on a side hill. The wagon tongue shot up past the horses' ears. The pace kept increasing till a crash seemed unavoidable. Mr. Wilkinson realized that something had gone wrong with the harness and that the horses could not hold back the load. "They were running hard," he said, "so I tried to slip off over the side of the load." His 180 pounds came down with such violence that he is confined to his home with his ankles securely bandaged, and orders to remain there for several days yet.

COULD WALK FASTER

CALCUTTA, Aug. 10.—There is a stretch of road here in India that has traffic regulations more strict than any other place in the world. It is about 50 miles long and a motorist is given a timed strip which he is forbidden to negotiate in less than four hours.

A new railroad which the French are building across the Sahara will probably run through a steel tube. This will save the rails from being constantly blocked by wind-drifted sand.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, August 10. — With only three market days available, owing to the Monday holiday, cattle receipts at the Union Stock Yards market this week were some 700 head heavier than in the week previous. Shipments direct to packers' sidings were heavy, and buyers were anything but well situated to cope with the heavy offering at the yards. Tuesday's trade was slow, with 2,000 head left at the close, and prices on all killers, but baby beeves, top butchers and good to choice cows down 25 cents per cwt. Prices held at that decline on most classes, though common cows and the worst of the butcher steers showed close to a 50 cents falling off in spots before the close. Good cows improved somewhat in activity on Wednesday, and some of the best made as high as 8½ cents per pound. Heavy steers were more plentiful than last week and shared in the decline suffered by the bulk of killers. From 10½ to 11½ cents took the bulk of the heavies, and only the odd half load made a top of 11.90 cents per pound. Real good butcher steers were scarce and only a few loads made 10½ to 11 cents per pound, with odd small lots up to 11.35 cents. The bulk of the butchers showed just medium quality and sold from 9 to 10 cents, while common kind went at 7 cents, and in spots a shade lower. Heifer sales showed a range of 7 to 11 cents per pound with only the odd small lot at the top and the bulk at from 6½ to 9¼ cents. Most good cows brought 7½ to 8 cents, but sales as high as 8½ cents showed increase in number on Wednesday. The bulk of the cows were common to medium selling from 4½ to 7 cents per pound, while canners were fairly plentiful and established a new low for the season at 3¾ cents per pound. Bologna bulls sold 50 cents per cwt. off for the week, the bulk moving at 6 cents with a few at 6¼ cents per pound. The odd fancy light bull made 8 cents and fair lights and good heavies, in a light offering of that class, sold from 6¾ to 7½ cents.

MONTREAL MARKET.

MONTREAL, August 10. — The local grain market yesterday ruled steady with the prices unchanged.

There were no price changes on the local egg market. Receipts were 1144 cases as compared with 2775 cases on the same day last week.

Butter prices were lower. Eastern Townships No. 1 selling at 38c with retail prices unchanged. Receipts were 2494 boxes, compared with 3335 boxes on the same day last week.

Cheese was lower following announcements of local Cheese Board reductions. Local prices were 16 1-2c per lb. No. 1 Ontario white and colored sold at 17 1-2c to 17 5-8c per lb. Receipts were 4781 boxes compared with 4893 boxes on the same day last week. Prices were unchanged in the local potato market.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 10. — Yesterday's wheat market was the dullest witnessed for some time. Prices had a narrow range throughout with fluctuations a trifle erratic. The final quotations were 1-4c to 3-8c lower for the day. Trading consisted mostly of spreading operations.

Weather conditions in the west were ignored by traders. Temperatures were up in the 90's throughout the prairies yesterday but cooler conditions were expected to prevail Saturday. Thunderstorms are forecast for Manitoba.

Offerings were light on the cash wheat section and prices generally unchanged. Very little export business occurred. Wheat deliveries to country elevators Thursday totalled 37,260 bushels compared with 52,273 bushels on the same day last year. Coarse grain trading was featureless and with the exception of flax futures the prices were fractionally higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Grain traders appeared more impressed yesterday by likelihood of a stimulating crop report from Washington than by effects of price breaks in the stock market. Evening-up transactions to prepare for the Government's August summary, due after the close, helped wheat and corn values to rally from early setbacks. The summary, when issued, proved to be decidedly bullish as to corn, showing 13,000,000 bushels less yield than the average of private estimates, but the official figures on wheat were 7,000,000 bushels above the unofficial forecasts.

Closing quotations on wheat were steady, ⅛c off to ⅛c up, compared with Thursday's finish. Corn closed at ¾c decline to ⅜c advance; oats unchanged to ¼c setback, and provisions a shade to 12c down.

In the beginning, wheat prices here underwent a material downturn as a result of selling that was associated with acute weakness of the stock market, and with Liverpool wheat quotations much lower than were due. However, Chicago wheat values made a quick rebound, advices showing that rains in Argentina were inconsequential, so far as wheat was affected, and that the wheat crop outlook in Austria could hardly be worse owing to the persistent drought.

Independent strength shown by the corn market, with the East outbidding Chicago for corn at country stations, tended also to make grain traders forget to a surprising extent the course of Stock Exchange quotations. Besides, rural marketing of winter wheat was letting up decidedly, arrivals of wheat at primary points yesterday totalling but 3,981,000 bushels, against 5,186,000 bushels a week ago.

As the day drew to an end, grain traders more and more focused attention on possibilities that the Government crop figures would make an exhibit favorable to friends of higher prices. Meanwhile, good-sized purchases of flour at Minneapolis were noted. On the other hand, export business in wheat from North America was slack, and every bulge in the price of wheat future deliveries here evoked a ready increase of selling.

Curtailment of the Government estimate of corn yield was commented upon as reflecting deterioration of the crop in parts of the corn belt owing to extreme heat and dry weather late in July. Oats production, as officially reported, is 9,000,000 bushels under the average of private estimates.

Provisions, although firm, declined later on account of scattered selling.

WEST GETS PHI RHO SIGMA

On First Visit.

This was the first time the McGill family had visited this section as a camping spot. They arrived on Sunday night and had enjoyed unusually good luck fishing. The weather had been slightly chilly but they had enjoyed their outing in spite of that. There was just one more day left for them before they would have to return to the daily routine of the work-a-day world. It was a beautiful evening, with the sun setting a little to the west of the giant barren hills across the bay. The entire scene was restful and beautiful. Tragedy was never so it seemed, more distant. All week the children had played safely and there was every reason to suppose it would continue for the few remaining hours. Then there was a splash. The boy in his teens saw the widening circles on the water. Death had swooped down out of a clear sky.

Mrs. McGill was almost frantic with grief. She was assisted to the lock cabin, where Mrs. Schrank attended her. Anxiously the mother waited for the news she seemed to sense would never come. A report came in to use the 'phone. He had been asked to notify some of the Hydro-Electric operators if he thought there was a chance. While an over-wrought mother pleaded with him to do something, he put through the call as requested. There might be a chance, he was forced to say, but he thought it was a slim one. The mother's sobs broke out afresh. She knew that her only son was dead. The Hydro men, as many as could be located, instantly came on the scene. They were too late. They arrived from their six-mile drive just as the little body was being carried to the lockmaster's shack.

There was no joy in camping there any more. The McGills said they would return to Merritown at once. Mr. and Mrs. Schrank and their son struck camp for them. Before the sun went down, the tent was down and packed and all stowed on the two cars. Before darkness set in the undertaker had arrived to take charge of the body, and the little procession set out on its long weary journey to Merritown.

Always the Trent River has been considered more or less treacherous, and in some places dangerous. Although for several years there have been no drowning accidents, this season's toll now numbers five. The first four were all local citizens. Yesterday's fatality was the first to claim the life of a tourist or camper. The scene of the tragedy is one of the most peaceful that will be found along this section of the waterway. The water is still and about twelve feet deep. The greatest hazard is the vertical concrete walls that rise between three and four feet above the water level for some distance along either bank below the locks.

DREAD DISEASE IS IN TORONTO

Infantile Paralysis Cases Not Serious With Two of the Tiny Victims.

GIRL WORST.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Two Toronto children and one from Niagara Falls lay in a hospital here last night victims of infantile paralysis. One of the children was taken to the hospital yesterday suffering from what was described as a mild attack of the disease.

A seven-year-old girl from Niagara Falls, Ontario, was admitted to hospital on August 1, suffering from incipient paralysis. The other child, a two-and-a-half-year-old boy, was admitted to the institution on August 6.

Only one of the cases is of a really serious nature, hospital authorities said last night. The paralysis in the case of the boys is not of the extreme nature usually found, it was said.

Oil Tanker Cargo On Fire At Sea May Yet Be Saved

CANSO, N.S., Aug. 10.—(C.P.)—The 2,500 tons oil tanker Mina Brae is still afire four miles at sea off Canso. The tanker was abandoned on Wednesday afternoon. The blaze, however, has not reached the 45,000 gallons of gasoline and refined oil that make up her cargo, but is still confined to the engine room. The tug Reindeer, with fire fighting apparatus, has been sent from Halifax, and chances of saving the ship and cargo are considered good.

WINTER FODDER GREATLY AIDED BY LATE RAINS

Average Wheat Yield Given At 14 Bushels Compared With Last Year's 25.

SOUTH FAIR, COST POOR.

General Cutting Starts About Aug. 15 With Hail and Frost Damage Slight.

EDMONTON, Alta., August 7. (C. P.) — Rains that have fallen in several districts in the past few days will greatly help grain to fill throughout Central Alberta and relieve anxiety in regard to winter fodder to some extent. The wide range in yields that is common to most every district is evident from the fourth monthly crop report of the Edmonton Journal.

Early summer drought had already cut the crop prospects appreciably on the whole and the estmate now stands at 54 per cent. on the 1928 wheat yields, according to the average of all figures supplied by upwards of the one hundred correspondents.

The average yield worked out from the individual estimates provided for ten crop districts, places wheat at 14 bushels per acre, as against 25 estimated in early August, 1928.

Crops Good in North.

Wheat has been filling well in areas to the north, fair to the south, but rather poorly and unevenly to the east, in many spots where short straw hampers full development. Recent hot dry weather has hastened the ripening of wheat. Many correspondents state that it is coloring too fast.

Cutting of early wheat has commenced in a number of districts and August 15 will see the harvest generally under way.

Slight Hail Damage.

Hail and frost damage to date has been very slight. Light frosts occurred at Red Deer, Lacombe, Bashaw and Clive. Hail damage has been confined to a few districts and several correspondents note losses of 5 per cent; Marwayne reporting heavier hail. Absence of further damage is necessary to assure the garnering of the half-crop now in sight.

Coarse grains are good in the north, and poor in many districts to the east. A scarcity of winter feed is anticipated at several points and unfinished livestock is being shipped out. Green feed varies with the district, much of it being short, and the hay crop generally is light.

Peace River district leads with a yield that will exceed the wheat crop of last year, with the grain standing two to three feet. All other districts report a decrease, the immediate Edmonton district at 70 per cent., with much wheat 20 to 36 inches tall.

NO CHANGES ARE MADE IN POLICIES OF OVERLAND

President L. A. Miller Makes Statement to Press—Policies of Founder to be Followed.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 10.—That there will be no change in the personnel or policies of the Willys-Overland organization was indicated here today in a statement by Linwood A. Miller, who succeeds John North Willys as president of the company. Mr. Miller said:

"The development that makes Mr. John N. Willys, chairman of the board and gives Willys-Overland a new president, does not mean any change in the personnel or policies of our organization.

"For the last two years, Mr. Willys has felt the need of curtailing his personal activities. He has been a tireless worker, both at Toledo and when traveling in the interests of the company. He has undoubtedly visited more domestic and export distributors and dealers than any president in the automobile industry.

"In spite of this desire for release from some of his responsibilities, Mr. Willys deferred selling his stock until he felt that he had developed an organization that could carry out his policies. We shall continue to have the advice and counsel of Mr. Willys. In fact, he has just played an active part in mapping out our production program for the next eighteen months.

"Our board of directors is greatly strengthened by the financial experience and business acumen of Marshall Field and Charles F. Glore, selected as members at the July 16th meeting. The other members of our board have served for many years. Most of them are manufacturers whose practical experience is most valuable in the formulation of our plans.

"Over the last five years we have steadily been turning back profits into our plant, so as to have it in the best condition for an expanding volume of business. We have also established our assembly plant at Los Angeles. Our subsidiary plants at Pontiac, Elmira and Elyria were never in such excellent shape. We have on our books more distributors, dealers and authorized service stations than ever before in our history. Moreover our product has been so well received by the public than 1928 established a new record of 314,000 cars sold.

"We all recognize the importance of maintaining a satisfied and prosperous distributor and dealer organization. The same policies that made Mr. Willys so popular with all our retailing organization will be continued.

"The future of our company, in the judgment of us all, can best be served by carrying out the policies of its founder, and this will be the goal of our efforts."

PARK CHAIN FOR ALBERTA.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—A chain of provincial parks is planned by the Provincial Government, Premier J. E. Brownlee has announced. The first step in the plan that will eventually take in various parts of the Province was the Government's purchase of 17 acres at Aspen Beach, on Gull Lake, with a water frontage of 550 feet. The experience gained in this project will be a guide for future developments. It is intended to make other parks at places strategically situated so that Alberta people may have easy access to local pleasure resorts. Preservation of places of natural beauty and historical interest will also enter into the calculations.

Ghost River, about 40 miles from Calgary, is another place about to receive attention from the beautification branch of the Government. Two large areas of land will be laid out, one as a public playground and the other for private holdings under long term leases. Ghost River will also become a summer resort town and be built according to a special plan.

The electric street railways during the past year carried 15,000,000,000 riders on their cars and buses, this being more than seven times the population of the entire world.

PEACE RIVER AREA GROWS.

PEACE RIVER, Alta., Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press).—Progress of the vast Peace River country is noted in a special edition of the Peace River Record, a weekly newspaper, in honor of its fifteenth birthday. C. W. Frederick, the editor, points out in an article that the first issue came off the press a year before the first shipment of grain out of the Peace. The consignment was made up of three cars of wheat hauled by team 85 miles from Vanrena to Reno. There were no highways or telephones and only two small rural schools then.

To-day, says the article, there are 1,650,000 acres under cultivation, with a prospective crop of 15,000,000 bushels. Population has increased from 3,000 to 50,000; there are schools, churches, flourishing stores, elevators, electric light plants, highways and telephones.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure a weet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind

CAVAN

A couple of years ago the Cavan Women's Institute sponsored a Choral class for the Young people of the community.

A competent teacher was engaged and the class was open to all the young people of the district. The only fee was a silver collection. The Institute paid the balance of the expenses. A goodly number availed themselves of the privilege of joining. The class ended their term with a concert which was much enjoyed by the community.

Recently an account was published of how a Women's Institute in South Huron took active and effective steps to promote community singing. They first engaged a regularly trained leader to guide them in their community singing at their regular meetings. The effort was so satisfactory that the Institute saw the value of having the school children taught by a man who really knew how the singing and teaching should be done.

They next got in touch with the boards of ten schools. Consent to have this work done was readily granted, the Institute becoming responsible for at least a part of the cost. That was about two years ago. So gratifying were the results that nine of the schools have continued the musical teaching, the trustees assuming the entire cost of the tuition.

The result of this instruction was that the boys and girls of those schools learned to sing the parts particularly suited to their respective voices, and were trained to be real helps in their community life, and the ratepayers and trustees of those schools would be very loath to have the instruction in music discontinued. It is a timely subject for consideration at this time.

Canadians have been threatened with the loss of their singing. The phonograph began the work of declension. The radio has hastened the process.

No one cares to sing when her hearers may put on a record exemplifying the performance of some outstanding artist. The fault is not with the phonograph nor is the radio to blame. The coming short, rests with ourselves. As a people we have not given singing the place in our lives that it really deserves. The singing school was one of the features of social life in our older communities, by all accounts. It would be an excellent work, if during the coming fall and winter Institutes would consider "music" among its activities.

Canada on the whole is a musical country. We have given more than one famous artist to the world and there are some young people now starting their training, who bid fair to shed a new lustre on our national reputation. But what we want and what we need in our vigorous, rigorous, northern life is the habit of song in every home, in every school, and in every church. Emotionally, mentally and physically we grow strong and sane on a diet in which music and the study of music, form a constant part.

We would like to hear from any Institute or Institutes in our district who have successfully carried on instruction in music in either Institute or school, outlining methods and results.

MILLBROOK

A plan followed by the Orono Women's Institute for the past few years has proved a community benefit, and might be imitated with profit by other branches. The public library, including its upkeep, buying of books, supplying of librarian and caretaker in winter months, was undertaken by the Institute and has been successfully carried on ever since.

Volunteer service on the part of officers and members fills capably the position of librarian, though the official appointee is Mrs. J. R. Cooper, at present the district president for West Durham. Mrs. Cooper, however, is relieved by others who take turns in being present on the three afternoons, and one evening (Saturday), each week that the library is open; the leading magazines are on the tables, but daily papers are not subscribed for as these are available at the Publicity Club rooms which are open every day and constantly in use.

To help in meeting expenses incurred to keep the library going, such as rent, lighting, heat, purchase of books, subscriptions to magazines, etc., the usual annual fee of one dollar is charged, two books being allowed out at a time, and a fine imposed if the limit of two weeks is overstepped. The undertaking is undoubtedly a heavy one, with a decided tie for those who must serve on library days, but the Institute is certainly serving the community admirably, and its members have the satisfaction of knowing theirs is a work worthwhile and well done.

The president this year of the Orono branch is Mrs. Adolph Henry, and the two vice-presidents, Mrs. Thomas Cowan, and Mrs. James Dixon.

Recipes for the preparation of fruits and vegetables in season will shortly be available for all Institute branches through the efforts of Miss Edith Elliot, a recent appointee as lecturer and demonstrator with the Fruit Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. Miss Elliott will gladly answer any questions sent her regarding the use of fruits and vegetables, and her recipes will be broadcasted with the Dominion crop reports, and may be copied down when they are heard over the radio. A request will bring them in printed form to the housewife.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

MOST OF US have learned that there's no use in trying to dodge all trouble.

* * * * * * *

Like rain, trouble falls upon the just and unjust alike.

* * * * * * *

But we can accept trouble and help to disperse and dispose of it by weighing it accurately instead of adding additional weight by melancholy and bad thinking to it.

* * * * * * *

A neighbor gives me the idea when she tells about her troubles—and she has lots—and adds: "But I manage to sing, somehow, and that makes the troubles lighter."

* * * * * * *

Splendid philosophy of life! I wish we all had it!

* * * * * * *

You can't dodge the rain drops so hoist your umbrella; you can't avoid trouble, so up with your protection in the shape of song and bright thoughts.

* * * * * * *

I don't say we should always resign ourselves to trouble, but we should make sure the trouble is a real one before we even recognize it.

* * * * * * *

Most "troubles" will fade before a heroic smile or a challenging song. A real big honest-to-goodness trouble will then be easily recognized, and we can go at it hammer and tongs until it is beaten.

* * * * * * *

It is a curious commentary on our civilization that savages do not take their own lives. The reason is, of course, that trouble doesn't upset savages.

* * * * * * *

They are realists. What is, is. They don't make it worse.

* * * * * * *

Civilization advances according to the improved thinking of mankind; in fact, civilization is the fruition of thinking. If we didn't think we would revert to the ways of savages.

* * * * * * *

And then we wouldn't be upset by troubles.

* * * * * * *

The obvious cure for trouble, then, is DON'T THINK OF IT. It's the dwelling on trouble that hurts mentally and physically.

* * * * * * *

Trouble distorts one's perspective if dwelt upon. It throws the emotions into tumult. It forces the victim to look at the world through a fog of confusion.

* * * * * * *

You know, every reader of you, that when worried your sense of perspective is distorted, and your sense of values, upset. Small things that you would ordinarily pass up, assume gigantic proportions, and the big fine things of life are unnoticed.

* * * * * * *

Fevered feelings run away with you. You dwell too much on trouble, and it is thinking of trouble that starts it all.

* * * * * * *

Don't add weight to disappointment, woe to difficulty, and distress to pain. Sift your troubles through a smile and song—and tackle only the big ones.

* * * * * * *

Because what you get out of life, neighbors, depends a lot on how you resist trouble.

* * * * * * *

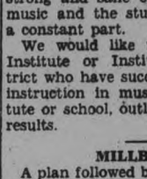
And we all wish to get all we can of pleasure and profit.

* * * * * * *

Let's be more like savages—and drop a little of civilization's affectation and liability—thinking.

* * * * * * *

So shall the dark days be bright, and the heavy burden light.



OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

NOTHING TO DO.

"Now you children can go out and do anything you please," said mother kindly.

The three children stood where they were, looking doubtfully at each other.

"But what'll we do mother? We have nothing to do."

"Why go out and play. Do anything you want to do."

The children, accepting the queerness of grown-ups, went out to play in a yard bare of anything that might suggest play. Even the earth about was too hard to allow a fork to penetrate it and there was so little life left in the one old tree that by common consent it was left

Negative freedom for children is not enough. There must be something positive about it. "Go and play," must imply the existence of something to play with, somebody and some purpose. Give the children simple equipment, suggestive material and then tell them to play. A hint as to what and how is not amiss. A child makes something new out of an old idea when he plays. The game or the material need not be new. Creative imagination will make them new.

All children like some sort of a "house." If they can build it even in part, they enjoy that immensely. A tent, a hut, an arbor, anything that will serve as a home and habitation will stimulate a host of ideas.

Sand for sand games; clay for modelling dishes and the like for the house; a swing; a garden set with a barrow; a boxful of costumes the more grown-up the better; some simple tools and some building material; a few dolls, balls, books and blocks will supply all the necessary impulse to play.

When we tell a child to go play, to go do something, to busy himself, we have said nothing at all. All children want to play. The impulse is born in them. What they need from us is a helpful suggestion as to what to play and how to play it. We are not offering the children a rare gift of freedom when we give them permission to go and do as they like. Most of the time little children do not know what they like until it is shown them.

It is a good idea to have a reserve suggestion for playtime. Keep some special form of activity, some treat in reserve against the day when nobody knows what he wishes to do. A rainy day, or an off day that comes now and then because the spirit grows weary of well doing, can be met by bringing out the reserve.

A special book; a new ball; a set of water toys, simple and cheap; a puzzle; a set of transfer pictures; a box of color; a tea party. It will repay you many times to be prepared for suggestions for play. It is through intelligent play that children learn the most valuable facts and processes. Prepare for it.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

AFRAID OF HEART DISEASE.

Tell a man he has an organic ailment of stomach and he takes it bravely enough; also with liver conditions. A serious lung condition may take some of the fight out of him.

But tell him that he has organic disease of the heart, and you just about take all his courage away from him.

Because he has always believed that as the heart is the main organ, in that it pumps the blood to all parts, anything that interferes with that pumping is likely to result in death.

Now although it is unfortunately true that more people die of heart disease than any other single ailment, nevertheless an organic heart ailment need not carry you off any more surely or rapidly than ailments of stomach, lung, liver, or other organ.

Because after all the heart is only tissue like other organs, and is made up of muscle tissue entirely.

There can be leaks in the valves, and inflammations of lining and covering of the heart, but they can clear up and leave the heart in condition to do its work fairly well, just as in the case of inflammations elsewhere.

The big point however, is that if the heart has some trouble and this is found out early, then precautions can be taken to protect it, just as with any other organ.

For instance you or your youngster have a sore throat, tonsilitis. The throat clears up, but you find that you are slow getting back your strength; you get out of breath easily.

That means that the tonsilitis, and following it perhaps inflammation of the heart lining, and a weakening of the muscle structure of the heart, have taken away some of the "reserve" strength of the heart.

Now this is the thought. If after illness the patient is willing to be guided by his doctor as to just how soon he will go to his employment, what rest he is to take, and, most important of all, just how much exercise he is to take, there need be no more fear of heart disease than of other serious ailments of kidney, liver, lungs, and so forth.

Enabling the heart to preserve its reserve strength or helping it to build up again, by this careful oversight, will permit many individuals with organic heart disease to live to a good age.

ABOOT THE HOOSE

Labor Savers in the Kitchen

"When a man is in earnest and knows what he is about, his work is half done."—Mirabeau.

Truly, it is the tendency to attack our work in a rather haphazard way, to refrain from bringing our best thought to bear upon the task in hand which accounts for so much "time elaborately thrown away." One of the most effective labor savers in the kitchen, or anywhere else, is a good, workable time table. If you know you should have so much done by ten o'clock you'll have it done; otherwise your morning work will probably be spilling over into the afternoon—encroaching on the time which should have been given to recreation, study, or sociability.

There are, however, some household appliances which also greatly expedite the work of the busy housewife—and they need not cost much, particularly if the man about the hoose is handy with his hammer and saw.

One is a wheel table. It saves the cost of many journeys from the room. It may be made from a cheap kitchen table, fitted with a lower shelf, drawer and towel rack, plus four wheels. It should be light, steady, and of such size as to go easily through the doors. One that is especially suitable for the small kitchen consists simply of a large drawer mounted on folding legs which are provided with wheels.

To the woman who depends on the low temperature of her basement for refrigeration the dumb waiter is a saver of time and energy. It can be as simple as to be only a pulley fastened to a strong and a large basket or box suspended from it by ropes, all operating through a shaft; and in its simple standard form, in which there is a counter-weight to the box, it is not expensive. One man whose deftness with hammer and nails caused him to dub himself "community tinker" fitted up such a box to be lowered into the well which, by the way, was in the summer kitchen, and it provided very good refrigeration.

Then, there is the window food storage box. It should be ventilated, should have a slanting, rain-proof, projecting room, and should be on two cleats to raise it above any moisture on the window sill. In building a new house, a ventilated food-storage closet can be built on the outside of the house on the kitchen wall, and made to open directly into the kitchen by a special door through the wall.

Efficient time and labor-savers of smaller size are: Meat grinders, spatulas, metal-mesh pot cleaners, and aluminum cleaning pan for silver.

SIX MARRIAGES FOR TWO

BILBY, Alta. Aug. 10.—C.P.)—Dilman Musselman, 76-year-old postmaster, is back in his general store again after an incident unique in the marital records of Alberta. Recently he was married to Mrs. Elizabeth Preston, 77, of Irma, Alta. For each of the bridal pair it was the third marital venture.

Between them, the new couple have nine great-grandchildren, as well as a larger number of intervening descendants. A grandson gave away the bride and two grand-daughters were bridesmaids. A nephew of the bridegroom acted as best man.

The wedding came after a romance of short duration, ten months after the first meeting of the elderly couple.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Annie Wilcox:

You certainly gave us something to think of when you wrote of the choice between an intense happiness for an hour or moderate happiness for a year.

Could we live and endure complete, thrilling, unadulterated, throbbing happiness for very long? I doubt it. Our nervous systems would be too strung up, so much so that they would crack. We are not made to endure it. It is splendid once in a while—oh, wonderful to have had the experience and treasure it in one's memory! It is very apt to come to some natures, but these same natures rarely escape the antithesis, intense, soul-rendering agony. That could not last forever either, and if long continued the mind would snap, as a violin string too tense will break, and the ends recoil.

Once I read a story of a wonderful violinist who could find, or did sometimes find, a note that wrought destruction in certain human beings, animals and even inanimate things. Whether, as the story said he did, a glass building could be destroyed by a long sustained note, I do believe some people's nerves could be. We have all known the breathless quiet caused by some grand music, especially among music-lovers who seldom hear any but ordinary music, when there is some wonderfully good, and when it stops, there is an unconscious break in the tense posture, breath and whole being.

The ordinary, every-day things, little things of every day as they come, if well done, give us joy, and the necessary happiness to carry us through the so-called drudgery of the daily duties even through very hard things, great treats.

If the mind is evenly poised, it can stand a great strain in either direction, and it would seem that our Creator and Father knows what is best for us, and has given us ordinary happiness for every day. It is all we should ask for. Supreme happiness, if we win it, may come to us later, but soul-stirring, constant happiness, it does not seem, that it even can.

Sincerely yours,
"QUID EST."

How I enjoyed your letter, "Quid Est"! Happiness is a vital subject, but I'm sure the neighbors as well as myself will enjoy reading your most interesting letter. It is no wonder the neighbors were asking where you were, when you always write such interesting letters as this one!

* * *

Dear Miss Wilcox:

I guess I am rather late in my welcome to you—my only excuse is laziness. There seems always to be so much to do.

Will you please send me the helps I have checked? I am enclosing my salad dressing recipe that I have found very good and hope some of the neighbors will like it.

By the way, Miss Wilcox, when will the new fall and winter fashion book be on sale? I want to make my little girl a winter coat and a couple of dresses as soon as I can as I have the material in the house.

Wishing you every success, I am,
Sincerely,
MRS. R. W.

Thank you for your welcome—it's never too late! I'll let you know just as soon as the new fashion book comes, Mrs. R. W. The patterns are great, aren't they? I was greatly surprised when I discovered the number in Peterborough who used them. Thank you for your recipe, and don't be long in coming again.

OLD SONGS

THE WORTHIEST HEAD

(Contributed by "Lucinda")

"Lo!" the tall archangel said,
"A crown of peace for the worthiest head."
His messenger angel took the crown,
And bore it far through the ether down,
To the whirling ball where mortals dwell,
He went from palace, to hut and cell.
He peered through the dim cathedral gloom,
Through the battle smoke where cannons boom.

He stole through the wreath of dancers gay;
He paused where cloistered women pray;
Still seeking the worthiest mortal brow
To wear the beautiful crown he bore.
Long he paused by a matron grand,
Who gave good gifts from her gentle hand;
Who carried cheer and help to the poor,
Whom sick ones blessed when she crossed their door.

Outstretched he held the crown; but —"No!"
Said a voice, "Not here your wreath bestow."
At last he came to a tenement old—
The night was damp and the wind was cold—
A pale girl over her sewing bent,
The midnight lamp to her forehead lent
A marble hue, as she stitched the white
And yet her lips wore a restful smile.

Doing her duty with honest pride!
Breasting temptation on every side;
Caring for one that was old and cross;
Bearing bravely love's saddest loss,
"For her the crown" the low voice said;
And peace was dropped on the girlish head,
"No time. No wealth for alms has she;
But duty is higher than charity.

CHURCH CHOIR HOLDS PICNIC

Members of All Saints' Choir Hold Enjoyable Outing At Rice Lake.

GOOD SPORTS PROGRAM.

The 20th annual picnic of All Saints choir was held on Monday afternoon at Hiawatha. It was the intention of the picnickers to journey to Mr. Hooper's island, "Idyl-Wyld," who had placed his cottage at their disposal, but the wind blowing in from the lake made it impossible for them to cross, so Hiawatha was destined for the day.

With the kind permission of Madden Howard, who loaned his cottage and grounds, the comforts and wants of the picnickers were ably taken care of. Mrs. S. Willis, assisted by Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Roberts, soon prepared lunch, and when the signal for assembling was given not one member was missing, and all did justice to the luncheon the choir picnic excells in.

After lunch games of soft ball were indulged in. The coolness of earlier in the day did not mar the swimming determination of others for their annual dip in Rice Lake.

The afternoon's sports gave all an appetite worthy of a bountiful supper.

Splendid arrangements were capably handled by George Chandler, (choirmaster), Frank Roberts, (President,) T. Bramston, (Secretary), and Vic Chandler, (Sports Convenor.)

The following is the result of races which were keenly contested:

Boys' race: 1 Bryan Roberts, 2 George Pulford.

Single men's race: 1 Jack Hope; 2 Reg. Chandler.

Single ladies' race: 1 Miss E. Young; 2 Miss I. Maconomy.

Married ladies' race: 1 Mrs. F. C. Roberts; 2 Mrs. J. Howard.

Married men's race: 1 F. C. Roberts; 2 Stan Willis.

Tug of war: George Chandler vs. Frank Roberts. Winning team, Mr. Chandler's.

Throwing ball in hat, boys: 1 Bryan Roberts; 2 D. R. Rusaw.

Boot race, boys: 1 D. R. Rusaw, 2 A. Musther; 3 B. Roberts.

Boys' wheelbarrow race: George Pulford and D. Rusaw.

Ladies' tug of war: Married versus single; draw.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—ust a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Boys Thrive On It!

Active youngsters on the go all day long need the nourishing vitamins that our Pure, Pasteurized Milk provides. There is no other single food that contains such muscle-building and blood-strengthening elements as are found in milk. See that the children drink lots of it, at meal times as well as in-between meals.

HOME RUN WITH BASES LOADED GIVES PETES GREAT VICTORY OVER THE OSHAWA BALL TEAM

Max Swanston, Manager of Locals, Hits For First Circuit Blow of Season.

SCORE 13 TO 2.

Three Oshawa Pitchers Fail To Hold the Petes in Final Innings.

(By G. W. C.)

Staging a rally in the seventh with a home run by Manager Max Swanston when the bases were loaded was all that was needed to put the ball game on ice for the Peterboro crew and allow the Petes to win from Oshawa 13 runs to 2, in James Stevenson Park last night. It was a great game to win for the locals who are fighting hard to finish in second place and last night's victory puts them tied with Oshawa and half a game behind Deloro, who occupy second place in the league. In the seventh frame the Petes turned a real good ball game into a slugging festival and added five runs to their already three and came back in the eighth with five more.

It was a great home run of Swanston's, the first that has been seen on the local diamond this year in senior baseball. The drive went into deep centre to fall near the score board and roll under.

Three pitchers faced the Petes in those final two innings—for the game was called in the eighth on account of darkness, but none seemed able to stop that avalanche of hitting which wrecked vengeance on the Motor City outfit. Every man on the Petes' lineup went up to bat in the seventh with Johnston and Legon each getting two cracks at the ball. The same happened again in the eighth when the nine batters appeared at the plate.

Given Splendid Support.

Heckman, pitching for the locals, was steady, with plenty of control, and was given wonderful support by both the infield and out. Every player was on his toes and they gathered in the flies from all angles. Wells, who started for the visitors, went great guns until the seventh and kept the hits well scattered, although wild at times and had not the control of the veteran Central Ontario League hurler. But in the seventh he was replaced by Ogden, who later was pulled in the eighth to make way for Sutton, who was not any better, but the visitors realized that the evening was getting dark and ten runs were a whole lot to make up in one innings, so he was left. When Sutton was announced to come to the mound the Oshawa manager had a turn of heart and went to send Matthews in, but Umpire Collings ruled that Sutton must pitch to one man and so Matthews went back to right field and Sutton was left to finish the game.

Heck, with two hits, two runs, two walks and a hit by the pitcher got a lifer every time he faced an Oshawa hurler, while Legon in his five times at bad got two safeties and scored three of the runs. Rose and Swanston also scored twice. Matthews and Young were the only two of the Oshawa players to connect twice safely.

Thirteen hits in all were collected by the Petes, while Heckman kept the Oshawa crew to eight well scattered blows. Four erorrs on the part of the visitors aided the locals considerably, while the only one to be chalked up against the Petes went to Rose in the first in a play that failed to mean anything in the scoring column.

How the Play Went.

The Motor City outfit got away to a flying start when Gray drove a nice single by Heckman and between Rose and Hollingsworth, McCallum laid a bunt down the third base line to advance Gray but was thrown out before he made first. Elliott lifted a high one to Ash. Matthews singled over second base and Gray scored. Young singled and Matthews was safe on second when Rose dropped the ball, but Rowden was out when he lifted one to Jimmy Hall. Three hits, one run, one error.

Wells could not find the plate when Legon stepped up to bat, and gave him four wide ones in a row. Rose struck out. Swanston sacrificed and Legon went to second. Heckman hit a hot one to short, which Little failed to pull down, and Legon scored. Hollingsworth walked, but was caught stealing second. One hit, one run, no errors.

In the second the Oshawa and Petes went out in a row. Quinn, the first up for the Motorites, lifted one to "Shiner" Johnston. Little sent a hopper down to Johnston, and Wells flew to Jimmy Hall in left field. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Jimmy Hall's fly was caught by Gray. Ash singled, but was caught stealing second by Quinn, and Beavis struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Only three men faced Heck again in the third. Gray lifted one to centre, McCallum was out, Johnston to Ash, and "Shiner" caught Elliott's fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Johnston, first up for the Petes, drove one to second. Legon lifted one to Rowden, which appeared to have been caught on the ground. Rose was safe when Wells dropped his fly on the third base line, and Swanston singled to Wells. No runs, no hits, one error.

In the fourth the Oshawa heavy hitters appeared. Matthews singled behind centre. Young sacrificed to first. Rowden doubled into deep centre, scoring Matthews. Quinn was out, short to first, and Little hit to Rose. One run, two hits, no errors.

Heck was hit by Wells, stole second and made third on Wells' wild pitch. Hollingsworth sacrificed to score Heckman. Jimmy Hall lifted one to right, and Ash to Young. One run, no hits, no errors.

Wells singled into left. Gray sacrificed to advance Wells. McCallum was out, Johnston to Ash, and Elliott lifted one to Beavis. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Beavis, first up in the fifth for the Petes, struck out, and Johnston hit one to second. Legon got a nice single into middle field and stole second. Rose singled into left and Legon scored. Swanston was out, Wells to McCallum. One run, two hits, no errors.

Matthews hit a deep one into left field which Jimmy Hall caught. Young hit a high one which Swanston made a nice catch of. Rowden walked, but was caught making second. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Heckman, first up for the Petes in the sixth, walked. Hollingsworth was hit, and Jimmy Hall sacrificed down the first base line, and nearly beat out McCallum. Ash lifted one to second, and Smith, batting for Beavis, hit to the box. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Quinn struck out. Little singled and Wells walked. Gray hit to Rose and McCallum to Jimmy Hall. No runs, one hit, no errors.

The Glorious Seventh.

"Shiner" Johnston singled into right, Legon into deep centre, and Rose walked to fill the bases. Swanston, next up, hit one on the nose which landed beneath the score board for the first home run of the season on the local diamond. Heckman walked, and Hollingsworth sacrificed. With two balls and no strikes on Jimmy Hall, Wells was pulled and Ogden took his place. Hall walked. Ash singled into centre, and scored Heckman. Len Hollingsworth hit a foul which Quinn caught. "Shiner" Johnston, up for the second time, walked, and Legon hit out to Gray. Five runs, four hits, no errors.

Elliott, in the eighth, lifted one to Legon. Matthews walked. Young singled but was caught off first when Rowden lifted one to Rose for the first double killing of the game.

Rose was safe when Elliott dropped the ball. Swanston singled past McCallum. Heck singled and Rose scored. Sutton replaced Ogden. Red Hollingsworth singled, and Swanston scored. Jimmy Hall singled, and Ash was safe when he drove one to Little, who caught Hall at second. Len Hollingsworth lifted one to Sutton. Johnston singled to score Red Hollingsworth and Ash. Legon was out on a foul tip. Five runs, five hits, one error.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Mebbe this had better be put in serial form, so here goes the synopsis of the early chapters:

Last Sat. p.m. A. Wise Cracker skipped blithely down the gang plank of a Stoney Lake steamer, on his face a glad-to-be-back-again smile, and in his battered telescope suit case a collection of the newest fishing baits known to science. There was hope in his heart; hope based on stories of ice houses full of captured muskies and on widely circulated yarns of memorable catches. "I oughta make it a record year," our hero chortled.

Now, go on with the story.

Well, friends, up to the present 'tis a sad tale. I have caught me nothing, save the suspicion of a cold, at the time of writing. But I got a alibi, boys. Starting in the day after I got here, Mac, a young blizzard drifted down from James Bay or them parts, and it was all a bird could do to keep from freezing to death, let alone catch fish. No fooling, Mac, could I have got a harpoon and a fur coat I'd of gone sealing, for the weather wasn't fit for nothing else. And the wind! Say, Mac, the only thing that would have anchored a boat the 1st 2 or 3 days I been here was the cook stove, and believe me they was plenty of work for it to do without joining the fishing fleet.

You can see, Mac, the brakes has been all again me. Why I ain't even seen one of them sun tan smocks the girls was supposed to be wearing up here, so you can tell what the weather has been like. Any time the flappers is too chilled to wear what's supposed to be the 1929 style for summer resort wear, you can bet your last nickle, boys, it's cold. What I mean.

But I ain't given up hope, Mac. You know me. Fight till the last man is out; that's my motto. It can't stay cold and windy all the time and if the thermometer does drop a little lower, I'll just try my luck through the ice. Don't worry old timer. I get my kill before the old holiday is over. Why I got some baits that would nearly make a fish climb up on shore to get, and believe me I'll give them the works from now on.

I missed the regatta Mon. Mac, figgering that a stove and a good supply of firewood beat a few boat races. My hat is off to the hardy mariners which braved the elements and pulled off the annual events, for the way that old wind was howling through the rigging made it a real test for all and sundry. I hope they enjoyed it, as for me I'll read the list of winners and that will give me just as big a kick as if I had froze down there Mon., watching the gang do their stuff.

Well, old timer, look for something better next week. It's a long lake that has no lunge in it, and believe me, if they's fish here they're going to hear from me. And so's the bird I got my baits from if I don't hook on to something in the next few days.

Give me the weather, and I'll click. So far I ain't had a chance, but I feel lucky, so it looks like as if some family of muskies is going to be without a breadwinner soon.

Watch next week's bulletins and you'll know that I'm hitting on all 8. And now, old thing, I can't spare another min., so cheerio.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

RAYBESTOS DOWN COCKY MOTOR CITY ARABS 4-3 IN THE FIRST GAME OF LAKESHORE PLAYOFFS

Brakeliners' Eleven Hits, Along With Matchless Fielding, Gives Locals Victory.

KITCHEN GOOD ON MOUND.

Winners Tally Three Runs in First Frame On Four Lusty Clouts.

(By Ted Outram.)

It looks like Raybestos to meet the E.P.I.A. champs in the O.B.A.A. playoffs, for last evening in Oshawa they tossed down the cocky Arabs of the Motor City 4 to 3 in the first game of the Lakeshore loop's finals.

Rays' eleven hits to five along with matchless fielding tells the bare story of the victory.

The Brakeliners nearly gave the home fans heart failure when, in the first innings, they shattered their way to three runs on four lusty clouts, two of them doubles. But the Arabs are a fighting ball club and sending in a new pitcher to stop the onslaught they by the end of the fourth innings had regained those three counters. Then the Rays with continued hitting pressed on to grab the winning run in the fifth.

It was another one of those close-scoring, free-hitting, fast-fielding games that has featured the competition between these two teams all season. The fans can look for a rare battle when the Arabs come to Exhibition Park next Monday evening in the return engagement, because Hank Kohen's team are one down but they are not out.

Gower, a southpaw, started on the mound for the Arabs and the Rays immediately showed their strong liking for his kind of twirling. After three runs had crossed the plate on a quartette of hits, Frink, a right-hander, was called in to replace him. Frink had a burst of speed and a fast-breaking hook and he managed to keep the Rays' hits scattered until the fifth, when they touched him for two doubles and the deciding run.

The Rays placed their trust in Rus Kitchen, and backed by sterling fielding the youngster again came through. He allowed five hits and issued two walks, one to Hubble, the strong man of the Arab brigade, on purpose.

Lambert Collins was the big hitter of the game, getting four hits, half of them for two bases, in four appearances, while Oscar Nicholls was next with two hits, one a double, in three. Both teams played almost faultlessly, each having but one error, neither of them figuring in the scoring. The infielders tore in quickly to gather up the bounding grounders, and in the outer gardens the fly catchers through. He allowed five hits and particularly sparkling catch of Crossett's drive into deep right. Corrin took the ball, which was headed for the race track, over his shoulder after a long run.

The Rays cracked the game wide open in the first innings, collecting four sound hits for three runs. Batten led off with a single to centre and H. Nicholls smacked a hit into right. Corrin's long fly was caught in centre field, but Collins, next up, slammed a double into right, scoring both runners. Mein followed suit for two bases into left, scoring Collins. Manager Hank Koeen was impressed with the fact at this stage that the Rays were taking too kindly to the portsided slants of Gower and he called in Frink to the box. Moore and Hickey each rolled out to second.

The Arabs went out in order in their half. McDougal was tossed out by Kitchen, Batten snagged Little's grounder and Mein got Elliott's.

O. Nicholls singled into centre, but he was out at second on Rus. Kitchen's grounder to short, but McDougall's throw to first, in an attempt for a double, was wild and Kitchen took second. Batten and H. Nicholls each sent high flies into left field.

Oshawa managed to get their first run in their half. Hubbel, a dangerous hitter, was passed, and he took second on Crossett's roller to Mein. Bond hit through short and Hubbel scored. Bond was caught off first on a snap throw by Kitchen. Frink walked and took second on a balk. Gower was out, Mein to Hickey.

Collins hit into right after Corrin had grounded out to the pitcher, but Mein fanned and Moore sent a lofty fly into right.

Koeen was out at first on his roller to H. Nicholls and McDougall singled through second. Little's bunted fly was caught by Hickey. Elliott was safe at first when Batten erred on his grounder. Hubbel raised a long fly into left, but O. Nicholls mitted it after a long chase.

The Rays went out in order in the fourth, Hickey and O. Nicholls popping into centre and Kitchen fanning.

Oshawa came through with two counters to tie the score. Crossett sent up the longest fly of the game, but Corrin grabbed it over his shoulder. Bond hit down the left field line and the ball went under a car for three bases. Frink struck out. Gower rolled to third and Nicholls threw to first, Bond crossing the platter. The umps called Gower out and then changed his decision. Koeen hit for two bases into left, scoring Gower. The side was retired when Nicholls took McDougall's fly.

The Rays put the winning run across in the fifth. After Batten had rolled to second, H. Nicholls cocked a two-bagger into left. He took third and Corrin was safe at first when Koeen dropped the third strike. Collins doubled, scoring Nicholls, but Corrin was out going into third. Mein was out on a fly to right.

Oshawa went out in quick style. Little filed to short, and Hubble and Elliott each grounded to H. Nicholls.

The Rays nearly added to their total in the sixth, a run being cut off at the plate. After Moore had fanned, Hickey hit into centre and went to third on O. Nicholls' double. Kitchen hit down to third and Hickey was out coming home. Batten grounded to second.

Crossett was safe at first when he knocked the ball from Hickey's hand on his grounder to Mein. Bond got to first when Mein chose to get Crossett at second on a roller. Frink struck out and Gower got to first on a fielder's choice. Koeen filed to O. Nicholls.

Koeen took H. McNeely foul tip and Corrin filed to left. Collins collected his fourth hit, singling into left, but Mein struck out.

Little and McDougall each filed to Hickey and Elliott fanned to finish the game.

KEYS BREAK LOSING STREAK

Reading Pounds Offerings of Frank Barnes To Take 8-7 Victory.

ROYALS LOSE SERIES.

READING, August 10 (Canadian Press). — Steve O'Neill's stampeding Leafs were finally stopped yesterday when the Keystones won a ten-inning battle by 8-7. The reverse was a hard one for Toronto to swallow, especially since the Leafs twice went to the rescue of Frank Barnes by presenting him with comfortable leads. The left-hander, however, was easy to solve and the Keys pounded his offerings hard.

ORIOLES WIN SERIES.

BALTIMORE, August 10 (Canadian Press). — The Birds snatched the final game from the fire to make a clean sweep of the series, with the Montreal Royals here yesterday. Berney James' homer on the first ball pitched in the tenth gave the flock an 8 to 7 victory, and brought to a successful conclusion a courageous uphill fight. The Royals held the lead, 7 to 1, in the sixth, but the Orioles got to Buckalew for four runs and the same number of hits in this frame.

In the eighth, after two were down, the locals counted two more to knot the score at 7-all. Gulley led the Montreal attack with four hits, two of which were homers.

WINGS BEAT CATS IN FINAL.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., August 10 (Canadian Press). — Rochester took the final game of the series here yesterday with the Jersey City Skeeters by 5 to 2. The Red Wings practically sewed up things in the fourth frame, scoring three runs.

Worthington's triple in the sixth scored Southworth and Watkins, giving the league leaders another pair of markers. These were the only two real bad innings that Grant suffered.

Wera, the locals' third baseman, scored the only two Jersey City runs in the fifth when he doubled to left centre, sending Selkirk and Prewster home.

The Red Wings made two double plays to run their total of the year to 164.

BISONS BREAK EVEN.

NEWARK, August 10 (Canadian Press). — Buffalo broke even in their four-game series when the Bears nosed out the Bisons in the final contest yesterday, 5 to 4. Hub Pruett, southpaw fade-away star, checked the Herd with seven safeties, one a homer by Clayton Sheedy. Max Weston poled one of "Curley" Ogden's fast balls over the left field wall for his seventeenth circuit blow in the eighth inning. Ogden retired in that frame after the Bruins had plastered his offerings for 12 safe hits. Jess Barnes finished.

White Sox Drop Final To St. Louis Browns 9-4

CHICAGO, August 10 (Canadian Press). — Ted Lyons was ineffective yesterday, and some heavy swatting by the White Sox went for naught when they lost the final of the series to the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 4. The Browns piled up a seven-run lead before Lyons was taken out.

"Rip" Collins retired under a barrage of base hits, but the Sox could not overtake the Browns.

ST. LOUIS LOSES TWELVE IN ROW

Pirates Sweep in Two Straight, Taking Last Session By 7 to 6.

FOUR HITS FROM SWETONIC.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press). — St. Louis suffered its twelfth straight defeat of the season at the hands of Pittsburg yesterday when the Pirates, sweeping the two-game series, annexed the final contest 7 to 6.

After Jim Bottomley had tied the score in the seventh with his twenty-fifth home run of the season, scoring Frisch ahead of him, the Pirates came back in the next frame to win.

Swetonic, who relieved French in the third, allowed only four hits.

FITZSIMMONS STOPS REDS.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press). — Fred Fitzsimmons had the Indian sign on the Cincinnati Reds as usual here yesterday and the Giants won the opening game of the series by 7 to 1. Big Fred gave his welcome antagonists only four hits and never was in danger of losing. It was Fitz's fifth victory over the Reds this season.

The Giants drove Jakie May from the box in the sixth and continued to pound Ray Kolp. Hogan led the attack with his first home run of the season and two singles.

HOARDS DEFEAT PETHERICKS 20-10

Earn Right To Meet Menie For Softball Championship.

BURNBRAE, Aug. 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—The last game of the regular league schedule played at Stirling on Monday evening resulted in a 17 to 9 win for Bethel over Springbrook.

The standing of the league at the end of the schedule was as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Bethel	6	2
Menie	5	3
Petherick's	3	5
Hoard's	3	5
Springbrook	3	5

As a play-off for a third place winner was necessary, the first game of this series took place at Menie on Wednesday night, when Petherick's and Hoard's met in a sudden death game to decide who would play Springbrook, for the privilege of playing Menie, second place winners.

After trailing for five innings, Hoard's came to life in the sixth with a barrage of hits that netted them 12 runs and the game by a score of 20 to 10. Kerr pitched fine ball until the fifth when a protest against his delivery forced him to use his slower-breaking curve and the Hoard's batters took advantage of the change in no uncertain manner. Owing to the fact that Owens was unable to play, Petherick's borrowed Little from Menie and he caught a splendid game as well as getting two good hits. Ray Barnum hit safely on every trip to the plate for Petherick's while D. Kerr got three out of four. These two and G. Petherick each scored twice, while Anderson and Watson failed to count, being both forced at the plate in the fourth to end Petherick's big inning.

Jeffs, with five hits in six trips, was the heavy batter for Hoard's, while O. Rannie, C. Hoard and J. Coggins each scored three runs. Hoard started in the box for the southerns but gave way to Pierce in the fourth, with three on and the bases full. Fry's single and Anderson's two-bagger cleared the bases and thereafter Pierce was master of the situation. In the last three innings only three men reached first and one of these was forced out. Hume drove a homer to deep left in the fifth with one on while Grant Meiklejohn's three-bagger was another healthy effort.

The Hoard's-Springbrook game will be played on Monday evening, probably at Rylstone.

CUBS' MANAGER WILL NOT CRY OVER OUTLOOK

Cheerful Joe McCarthy Asks "Who Or What Is Going To Beat Us."

ECHO ANSWERS WHO?

Have Won Fourteen Games Out of Sixteen Played At Home.

CHICAGO, Ill. Aug. 10.—It is time to squawk. Mr. Joe McCarthy yesterday refused point blank to shed a tear over the condition of the Cubs. A sports writer pleaded with him to sob a tiny sob, or only just let a few words choke in his mouth for the sake of tradition. But, no, Mr. McCarthy wouldn't even take out his handkerchief and pretend. It has been the custom of managers and coaches of great teams to break down and weep and plead for sympathy of newspapermen, but that is all gone now on account of Mr. McCarthy.

Mr. McCarthy, a stark realist who manages the Cubs, is all cheery and exceedingly affable because he is under the evident impression that the Cubs can't avoid winning the National League's main cut in the world's series.

"Of course," he says uncertain-like, "we have a long way to go and six games lead can be killed quickly. But who or what is going to beat us? Pitching? Where is there a better pitching staff than ours? What if Grimes does get back in Pittsburgh; is their staff going to be better than ours?"

Hartnett Returning

"Furthermore," he continued, "we've been getting along without Hartnett, the best catcher in the league, and he will be back to help us within a couple of weeks."

At this prospect Mr. McCarthy's good-humored smile broadens an inch or two. Then he adds:

"I'll say this—our boys are pepped up, in fine spirits and good shape. If any club is going to beat us, it is because it is a better team. We still have about fifty games to play, so you must give the other teams a chance mathematically. A six game lead isn't any too much to hold at this stage of the race.

"Only a few weeks ago the Cards came here three games in front. We beat them four straight here and then went to St. Louis and did the same there. Instead of being three games behind them we were five ahead when we got through. So you see how easy it is to fall down.

Finish at Home

"Just the same, I think we are at some advantage because we finish the schedule at home. This Chicago atmosphere has done wonders for the Cubs. We just won fourteen games out of sixteen at home in the past couple of weeks."

The McCarthian confidence is borne out by the fans. Requests for tickets are pouring into the Cubs' offices from all sections of the country, another fact that Mr. McCarthy regards with great approval. As he has been in this major league business only four years, Mr. McCarthy is just new enough to get a kick out of almost everything nice that happens. He takes pleasure in seeing a large crowd at the games, he enjoys hearing that somebody in Hawaii ordered two tickets for the worlds series and most especially he likes to see the Cubs win.

Since he took over the management of the Cubs in 1926, Mr. McCarthy has produced a very novel record. Each year the Cubs have won more games than in the preceding season. In 1926 and 1927, when they finished fourth both times, the Cubs won 82 and 85 games respectively. Last year, they grabbed 91 to finish third.

If they continue their present pace, they will have won 104 games by the end of this season, a total no National League team reached since another Chicago outfit did it in 1910. Maybe this is too much to expect in view of the fact that no team has been able to win as many as 100 games since 1913. With everything pointing toward a Chicago landslide when all the ballots are cast, Mr. McCarthy can afford to be very magnanimous, so he tells your correspondent, who comes from New York:

"I don't count the Giants out. The Pirates must be conceded a better chance because they are eight games ahead of the Giants, but the Giants are still a good club."

FOOTBALL STAR SHOT TO DEATH DURING HOLD-UP

Fred Foster, Former Argonaut Player, Murdered on the Coast.

LOS ANGELES CLUBMAN.

On Eve of Departure Across Continent To Effect Reconciliation With Wife.

Special to The Examiner, Copyright

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—Fred Foster, wealthy Los Angeles clubman and promoter, was shot to death by hold-up men in Los Angeles last week just a few days before he was to leave California for Toronto where he had planned a reconciliation and reunion with his wife and little daughter Gay, according to information furnished locally by friends of the young couple.

Foster was well known in Toronto although he has not lived here for any length of time for over ten years. In his younger days he was very popular in sporting circles and was well known especially throughout Ontario and Quebec as the speedy flying wing of the Argonaut rugby team. Long before he left for the south he had established himself as a successful business man, and there are to-day scores of houses in the Rushton road residential district which attest his success as a contractor.

When he left Toronto, his friends say, he was in excellent financial circumstances, and reports from the south indicate that on the whole he invested wisely there. Of all the enterprises he launched only one was a failure, and that the result more of his love for polo than bad management. His polo clubhouse and grounds in California was luxurious but it did not pay and his losses are said to have been five figure proportions.

Mrs. Foster was formerly Dorothy Roberts, a Toronto girl. They were married three years ago and had one child, Gay. They were together scarcely more than a year when matrimonial troubles are said to have separated them, and Foster left his wife, who returned to Toronto. The proposed reconciliation was brought about by Foster's attachment to his daughter. While he was separated from the child and her mother, he is said to have spent hundreds of dollars in long distance telephone tolls to enquire after her health. In a recent telephone conversation he promised the child that he would soon be back with her.

The reconciliation has been planned, it is learned, by Jack Roberts, Mrs. Foster's brother, who was to leave Los Angeles on July 27 to be present. He has since refused to comment on the fact that Foster was shot coming out of his apartment with a young lady, except to say that Foster was very fond of his daughter.

PICTORIAL GOLF

HITTING AGAINST LEFT LEG AID TO PERFECT RHYTHM.

Walter Hagen puts the punch in a golf ball in a different way from most golfers but he gets distance combined with accuracy. The main reason of Walter's success in hitting a golf ball, comes from his perfect rhythm. There is no suggestion of forcing the shot by an unusual forward movement of the body, but there is a suggestion of great power and something that looks more like a direct hit than a sweep.

One important thing in Hagen's swing is the position of the left foot which stands like a tone wall supporting the body and furnishing something to hit against. One cannot go very far wrong in hitting against the left leg. If one can remember to keep this in mind, he will usually find success at hand instead of waiting around the corner.

SERGEANT POPE HAS 142 SCORE

Highest Total of Two-day Series in Lieutenant-Governor's Match.

BURKE WINS AGAIN.

MONTREAL, August 10. (C.P.) — The silver medal presented by Hon. H. G. Carroll, Lieutenant-Governor of the province of Quebec, for the highest total of the two-day series in the Lieutenant-Governor's match at the 54th annual prize meeting of the Province of Quebec Rifle Association was won yesterday by Sergt. J. M. Pope of the Royal Montreal Regiment with a score of 247. Yesterday he scored 142 out of a possible 150.

Private S. Kwauk, also of the Royal Montreal Regiment, a green shot of Chinese extraction, won the Governor General's bronze medal in the Tyro aggregate division, the Lieut.-Governor's bronze medal for being the Tyro holding the highest score in the first and second stages of the competition, and also led the division in the Gazette match to-day.

AWARDED MERCER.

TORONTO, August 10. (C.P.) — Topping off a series of victories in the 55th annual tournament of the Ontario Rifle Association, which closed last evening at Long Branch after five days of almost perfect shooting weather, and a program which went off without a hitch, Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, runner up this year for the King's prize at Bisley, was announced last night as the winner of the Mercer Challenge Cup, and minature trophy, for permanent possesion, for his top score in the Mercer militiate aggregate.

Lieutenant Burke's score of 415 was unequalled, his nearest competitor, with a score of 414 being Sergt. F. Wallace of the Irish regiment, Toronto, who was awarded the Governor General's silver medal and second cash prize.

The Mercer, one of the most difficult to win, and the most sought, is based on the performance of competitors in six different matches of the O.R.A. meet—the City of Toronto, Duke of Cornwall and York,the Banker:s', Tait-Brassey, President's, and Our Friends.

Nighbor Resting Easily After Knee Operation

OTTAWA, Aug. 10. — Frank Nighbor was reported from the Civic Hospital to be resting comfortably early this afternoon following an operation for the removal of a cartilege from the knee of his right leg. The operation was performed this morning by Dr. G. S. McCarthy and Dr. J. M. Murray.

The knee injury caused the centre star of the Ottawa Senators to spend many hours on the bench last season during the National Hockey League schedule term. First hurt a number of years ago, the leg joint was aggravated considerably last winter when Nighbor collided with the boards during a game.

Nighbor is expected to have fully recovered by the time the National League clubs swing into action for the 1929-30 season.

When the Texas League and Southern Association champs meets this fall the new rookie rule of the former may prove a handicap.

NORTH ENDERS BEAT WESTCLOX

Air-tight Field Work Saves the Day For Harrisons and Allows 14-4 Win.

POOR HURLING.

Harrison's hung up another scalp last night when they defeated the Westclox by a count of 14—4 in a regular softball fixture at Central school grounds. Good field work on both sides was the feature of the game and also of note was the consistently poor twirling by both Curry of the Clockmen and Dundas.

There were very few strike-outs, with plenty of connections in each frame. Airtight fielding saved the day for the Harrison's.

Score by innings:

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Divine Lady," a picturization of the immortal love story of Lady Hamilton and Lord Nelson, with Corinne Griffith, Victor Varconi and H. B. Warner heading the cast, opens at the Capitol on Monday.

Stupendous in the sweep of its scenes at sea, and tense and dramatic in its more intimate moments, "The Divine Lady," First National's biggest production of the year which opens at the Capitol Monday is easily one of the season's most important film productions.

Corinne Griffith has never before had a role of the proportions afforded her by the character of Lady Hamilton, after whom the picture is titled and about whom the plot revolves.

There is no more fascinating person in either history or literature than the beautiful Lady Hamilton and her turbulent and largely unhappy life. First National has spared nothing in making "The Divine Lady," either in the excellence of its cast nor the surpassing production values.

Without quibbling and devoid of the too frequent tampering with history, "The Divine Lady" tells the dramatic story of Lady Hamilton's life, from her obscure beginnings as the daughter of a blacksmith, through her eventual rise to fame and prominence as the wife of Lord Hamilton.

Her idealistic romance with Lord Nelson, England's great naval hero and her final years of oblivion and obscurity when she sent Nelson back to command the British fleet make a dramatic tale from history which no novelist has ever surpassed.

Admission Fee For Second Game

In the hope of putting a stop to disturbances against which many fans have complained, the East Peterborough League executive have decided to charge an admission fee of ten cents when Bethany and Cognawags play the second game of the championship series at Exhibition Park next Monday evening. An admission fee will keep many children out of the main grandstand where their antics and noise have marred games for the spectators. Children accompanied by adults will, of course, be admitted free.

STELLAR ATHLETES COMPETE TO-DAY

Track and Field Stars Perform At University of Toronto Stadium.

TORONTO, Aug. 10 (C.P.)—Some two hundred athletes were on hand early to-day for the Ontario Field and Track championships at the University of Toronto Stadium. A thunder-shower before daybreak that left an overcast sky gave officials some concern, but at eight o'clock there were indications that the sun would break through. Fair weather was the promise of the weatherman.

Led by such stars as Phil Edwards, British Guianan, who carried the Maple Leaf in the last Olympic Games; Roland St. G. Harper, star hurdler of the Oxford-Cambridge team; an extremely strong contingent from the Hamilton Olympic club, and a full representation from every Toronto organization, as well as a generous scattering of unattached performers from all over the province, the record-breaking entry promises a continuous assault upon Ontario field and track marks.

Collegiates, Y.M.C.A.'s and Athletic clubs from many of the smaller cities throughout the province are sending their quotas, and there is a distinct prospect that upsets may come from unexpected quarters.

There is a likelihood that Victor Pickard, of Hamilton, holder of the Canadian pole vault record, who has been attending the University of Pittsburgh, will compete in the special event against the Detroit police stars, L. Reich and R. Goeriz.

The program is made up of seventeen championship events, three races for juniors, and two special contests, the hurdle race and pole vault. The mile relay race has an entry of six teams.

Oshawa Arabs Here Next Wednesday Night

The Raybestos Club and the Oshawa Arabs will continue their close battle for the Lakeshore League's flag and the right to meet the E.P.L. winners at the Exhibition Park on Wednesday evening. The Rays stepped out in the game last evening as one of the strongest hitting teams in the district and the fans can be assured of a sparkling game here Wednesday night.

Sharkey-Loughran Winner To Meet Unnamed Contender

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10. — The winner of the Sharkey-Loughran fight in New York City next month will be matched with another heavyweight contender, yet to be selected, for a world's championship bout in Miami next February, it was annqunced here late to-day by Frank J. Bruen, Vice-President of the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Bruen, who came here to-day to select a site for a stadium, declined to state whom he thought the second man in the ring would be, intimating Garden Corporation had not made a decision on that point. He also intimated that another title bout would be held two weeks prior to the heavyweight contest, between middleweights or lightweights.

Dominion Sales Gain 62% Over Last Year's Record

(First Six Months of 1929 Over Same Period Last Year)

It has been satisfying and reassuring to see Graham-Paige sales in Canada for the first six months of this year continue to increase, until at the end of June they were 62% ahead of the same period last year.

You can buy a Graham-Paige today for as little as $1050 (at Windsor). In this car—the 612—you will find many advanced features and refinements, that are missing in cars of much higher price. Its 62 horsepower engine has a 2¼ inch crankshaft—the largest of any car in its price field; water jackets extend to the bottom of every cylinder; the protection of two independent braking systems is provided. The 612, ready for the road, weighs 3,125 pounds—every pound adding to strength, safety and long life.

We shall be glad to have you make any comparison which your experience suggests as a measure of motor car value, for we want you to find out for yourself just why so many careful buyers are choosing Graham-Paige. It will pay you to do this before you decide on any car.

One feature of good defensive play frequently consists of immediately driving out re-entries in either Dummy or Declarer's hand to stop, if possible, the bringing in of an establishable long suit. The defensive play of the East-West players on this deal is well calculated to accomplish this, although in this particular hand it fails to stop game.

Salient Points of Bidding.

Auction: South bids originally one Diamond. West holds the total high card requirement for a defensive overcall but passes, as his biddable suit is headed by the Queen and falls off to nothing. North's distributed high card strength clearly indicates a take-out to No Trumps as he holds double stoppers in Hearts and Clubs and protection in the Spade suit. All pass thereafter.

Contract: Instead of taking out South's original Diamond with one No Trump, North bids three No Trumps immediately. With his distribution (4-3-3-3) he figures that as many tricks can be made at No Trump as at a suit trump, and that if the partnership is going to reach a game contract, it should be at No Trump. He, therefore, bids three immediately, which concludes the bidding.

Salient Points of Play.

East leads his fourth best Spade, the 7. North plays the 5 from Dummy and West's singleton King wins the trick. West now leads his fourth best Heart, the 4, an indication to East that the Spade King was alone. To the Heart lead North plays the 2 and East wins with the King.

It is at this point that East makes clear to partner his strategy of defensive play by laying down the Spade Queen to drive the Ace in Dummy, and thus kill a possible needed entry to that hand. Declarer wins the Spade lead with the Ace in Dummy and plays the Club 7, finessing with the Queen which wins. He next leads the Diamond 3, going up with the King in Dummy which West permits to hold. As partner has driven out the Ace of Spades, West plans to hold off with his Ace of Diamonds until the third round, realizing that should Declarer hold but three Diamonds he can never get back into the South hand to make the two long cards of the Diamond suit.

After winning with the Diamond King, Declarer leads the Club 5 from Dummy and finesses the Jack which also holds. He next leads a small Diamond, winning in Dummy with the Queen as West refuses a second time to play the Ace.

Declarer now sees there is no point in continuing Diamonds and therefore takes the marked Heart finesse by leading through the West hand. He thus makes two Hearts, the Ace of Clubs and the Jack of Spades, in addition to the five tricks already won.

It will be seen that East's defense, while well planned, failed to accomplish the desired result of stopping game. The defense did block the establishment and bringing in of Dummy's long Diamonds, but North went game without these tricks. It will be noted that had East held the ten of Hearts instead of the nine, game would have been stopped, for in such case Declarer could not have made two Heart tricks by leading through the West hand.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write to him, care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

NEW INDIAN CHIEFS.

KENORA, Ont., Aug 10.—(Canadian Press).—Indian bands of Lake of the Woods reservations are now conducting elections for chiefs and councillors under a newly-inaugurated system. Hitherto elected for life, these officials are now to be chosen for three-year terms. The change was finally effected this year after a long period of agitation.

Each band has its own chief and councillors to the number of one to each one hundred population of the band. Present tenants of the official positions and permitted to stand as candidates in the elections.

MANY PITTIED PUPPY.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press).—When a local newspaper printed a story about a little dog who moved each day one place nearer the "little green door" which marks the lethal chamber in the local dog pound, a leader waited in the early morning until the pound opened and adopted the dog. The newspaper office was deluged with a barrage of letters, telegrams and telephone calls, as other persons, touched with the plight of "man's best friend," inquired as to the particular dog mentioned and adopted others when they found he was gone.

SKOOKUM CAMP REAL PARADISE TO LOCAL LADS

Clear Lake Grounds Have An Average of Over Forty in Attendance.

HAVE SPLENDID LEADERS.

Have Daily Picnic of Ball, Hikes, Fishing, Swimming and Camp Fires.

(By Staff Reporter).

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 10. —There is a hurry-scurry of sun-tanned feet as more than fifty boys rush madly for the bunk houses, grabbing as they go, their still-wet suits off handy tree limbs or verandah railings and disappear within dashing out again in a moment on their way to the water buttoning their shoulder-straps as they go.—It is swimming time at Camp Skookum! The director has called a stop to the morning period of work and the word of permission for the swim period has passed like lightning through the camp.

Such is the scene to be witnessed by the visitor at the Rotary Camp for boys on Clear Lake—Camp Skookum. More than fifty boys are at present in attendance at the camp and the season's average has been well over forty. Four leaders besides the camp director Doug. Loomis of the Y. M. C. A. assist in the operation of the camp.

Roused Out Early.

At seven o'clock in the morning the first call is sounded on the bugle and shortly the boys are up and ready for the short period of physical training given them by Doug. Loomis. This is followed by a short dip in the lake so that by 8 o'clock when breakfast is served, the boys invariably have an appetite of enormous proportions. The ceremony of flag-raising is carried out each morning after breakfast and then they hold a devotional period.

"All play and no work woud make Jack a dull boy" is the belief of the authorities, so each morning the members of the camp give over some time to work. They are divided up into gangs and a spirit of competition is encouraged among them. There is wood to be chopped, potatoes to be peeled, water to be carried and pumped and the grounds to be cleaned up for the day. All enter into these duties with zeal for an hour or two and seemingly enjoy them.

Occasionally a trial is found neccessary in the camp when some member is charged with a serious offense such as disturbing his fellow bunkers at night for no good reason, playing some exceptionally mischevious prank or breaking camp rules otherwise and the suspect is summarily tried before twelve good men and true and the verdict passed. If found guilty he often finds himself on special fatigue duty much to the amusement of his more lucky fellows.

Swim After Work.

A plunge into the cool water off the wharf is the prospect after the work has been finished for the morning. During this period close supervision is maintained over the swimmers. They have a great time as they dive and swim, sliding off the chute on the boathouse to land with a great splash in the water, or doing a special dive known in the parlance of the younger generation as the "Royal Dip" a stunt performed by taking a run at the water and sitting on the surface with as loud a smack as possible.

For non-swimmers a separate class is held in shallower water. The youngsters in this class have been showing exceptional aptness for the instruction which is given by Mr. Loomis and his assistants. It rarely takes more than two weeks training before they are able to swim.

Sometimes there is an opportunity for a softball game before dinner. If so, the boys repair to the diamond about three hundred yards behind the camp where the limestone rocks provide a somewhat flat area although the diamond has the characteristic Kawartha Lake bumpiness. They choose up with the inevitable aid of th baseball bat and with cries "no fingers allowed" the teams are finally lined up and the game gets going. This sport also provides an unbelievable appetite among the young participants.

Real Feasts.

The meals are prepared by an excellent cook who knows the tastes and capacities of a mob of hungry young campers and proceeds to do her duty as her conscience dictates. Sometimes some special treats are provided and at all times the lads have a wealth of the more substantial foods at their disposal. It is a rare day when such a delicacy as a tin of jam manages to make more than one tour of the tables without being scraped clean. This year, instead of eating at two large tables as in other years, the boys are distributed about a number of smaller tables. Milk is obtained from the cow, a substantial animal that daily provides the camp with sixteen quarts of good fresh milk.

Lots of fun in the way of picnic trips is to be had at the camp. Jack's Creek is a favorite spot for these, giving the boys a two hour trip up the lake and lots of climbing after they get there. For transportation all the craft of the camp are put to use consisting of a pointer, a runabout and two Hudson Bay freight-canoes. They start out after breakfast in the morning and have dinner just before reaching Jack's Creek. After arriving at the creek, some of the more ambitious start an ascent of Blue Mountain, which is a formidable task but one which well rewards the efforts of the climbers by the wide view that can be obtained from its peak.

Huckleberries Are Treat.

One of the features of a trip to Jack's Creek is the wealth of huckleberries that are to be found in the locality. The youngsters do not by any means neglect this treat.

To Gilchrist Bay is another favorite trip enjoyed by the lads. This is not as far from Camp Skookum as Jack's Creek, being only about six miles. After landing in the Bay, the boys walk the short half-mile to White's Lake through which Indian River passes. If some have been thoughtful enough to have brought fishing tackle they try their luck while others amuse themselves about the rapids and falls on Indian River.

Once in a while a base ball tournament is staged for the boys over at Kawartha Park on the Sandy Point diamond. They play among themselves or challenge the local teams of the park.

Unforgettable Camp Fires.

A nights, a camp fire of huge proportions is often lit and they gather about, roasting weiners or marshmellows. Camp stories are told and special stunts are staged by the boys at these parties. The wood is gathered from the shores of the lake and stacked sometimes fifteen feet high for these fires.

The camp is well equipped for the amusement of the boys. In the large common room there is a victrola and a radio. An excellent library has been built up and the campers make lots of use of the books. Large pictures obtained from the Canadian National enliven the room.

Outside there are pegs for horse-shoe pitching and plenty of benches. On the wharf there is a small diving tower as well as the metal chute off the top of the boat house. Even the smaller chaps in the camp show no fear of precipitating themselves off this to land with a great splash in the water.

Prove Ardent Fishermen.

The Skookum lads have been fishing with considerable success. Very little trolling is done but they still-fish along the limestone shores near the camp. Such has been there luck at times that fish dinners have been enjoyed by the whole camp. Most of the catches have been of average size fish but a couple of large ones have been brought home nevertheless Skookum is fortunately situated in one of the best fishing districts of the lakes on account of the limestone formation of the shore.

The lads have a weird list of pets in their care about the camp. One boy has two partrides as pets and another takes much pride in a snake which he carefully guards. A little mouse numbers among the members of the menagerie. With great pride one chap maintains the claim that he discovered a turtle's nest with a hundred eggs in it. Nor is the secluded position of a swallow's nest with its brood of young near the camp any secret among the boys who carry crumbs daily to it.

Loons For Alarm Clocks.

Early in the morning, even before the reveille call, the camp is often awakened by the wild, lunatic cries of two loons which have been exceptionally tame this year. In the daytime they come within a hundred feet of the dock. The rythmetic song of the whip-poor-will lulls the youngsters to sleep at night.

REGISTER Of Social and Business Meetings

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve, evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

IT'S A CRUEL WORLD.

Bisected by the eagle's beak
The jay gives a despairing squeak.

His fate seems cruel, wrong and gr:
And so we sympathize with him.

But if the jay were left alive
Unless he ate he could not thrive

And being far from kind and mild
He'd dine upon the robin's child.

And therefore bitter words we'd s
About the fierce, rapacious jay.

Yet if the robin's child grew up
Upon an angle worm he'd sup

Which all the scientists affirm
Is quite a beneficial worm.

Yet doubtless if the worm were spared
Some lesser creature would be scared

When it came writhing through the soil
In search of living wriggling spoil.

We kindly human folk agree
That things like this ought not to be.

And yet we soon would pass away
Unless we too were beasts of prey.

Outstanding events under the presidency of Mr. Heron were the consolidation of the local branch under a splendid executive, the addition of many members, including a score of leading business men, the settling of many pension claims, and the raising of funds for Legion objectives through a draw and the splendid four-day carnival which did so much to put the Legion on the map in this district.

HOLD EVERYTHING.

When a shower suddenly bursts on unsuspecting people in the street, it is a case of any port in a storm, and every man for himself. In the noonday downpour to-day a young man was noticed going up George Street carrying an attractive red umbrella with a cute handle, such a parasol as a woman would carry in a suitcase or overnight bag.

REGENT TALKIES.

The work of installing the talking equipment at the Regent Theatre on Hunter Street is well under way. Most of the equipment has arrived, and the booth has been enlarged to accommodate the new machines. The operation engineer from the Northern Electric Company, whose equipment is being installed, has arrived, and is looking after the details.

The reproducing unit is so huge that it barely was possible to bring it into the theatre through the wide exit doors; had it been an inch or so wider it would have been practically impossible to get it into the house.

TRAFFIC TIE-UP.

Oh these women drivers! One young lady from Ohio threw consternation into Peterborough motorists this morning when she held the cars up for a block back so she could park near a certain popular shop on George Street, just above Hunter. She tried to get into the curb twice and had to back out for another car. In the meantime she kept her coupe stranded across the street so no one behind could get by. Well, thank goodness, she finally did get where she wanted, after which she climbed out and lingered bashfully for a while in front of Sir Henry Drayton's Tea Shop, and then dashed in with four others of the weaker sex.

A NEW PARASITE.

From all observations this seems to be the age of parasites. Hitch hikers, tag days and phoney promoters, but the latest one made its appearance on Peterborough streets last night in the form of a parasite pedestrian. A youth on roller skates was standing on George Street, when he hailed a couple of passers-by and asked them to tow him, which they did. He continued on his way, by no energy of his own, while the pair of genial friends supplied the necessary locomotion.

ON PLEASURE TRIP.

F. G. Stinson, secretary-treasurer of the Trent Waterway Association is on a trip through the Georgian Bay district attending to publicity matters regarding the Iroquois Trail.

MANY TOURISTS HERE.

Tangible evidence of the heavy tourist traffic that is passing through this section was to be seen on the Main Street this morning. In the space of three blocks 35 cars bearing foreign licenses were to be seen either parked or in motion at 11 o'clock. Perhaps it might be mentioned that more than fifty per cent of these were to be found on the block of Sir Henry Drayton's refreshment stand.

EVIDENTLY A LONG JAUNT.

Even honeymoons must come to an end some time. A bedraggled looking car stood on Charlotte Street yesterday afternoon that brought home this cruel fact with bitter force. Many miles had the car borne the happy honey-mooners before bringing them home to commence the mundane duties of life. A thick coating of dust scarcely covered the now blurred letters of "just married" which an application of rain had caused to dribble down in sorry fashion. Even the dangling strings that had towed such trinkets as pots and pans and old shoes remained as blunt reminders.

AUTO ON FIRE.

At 7.51 this morning, an automobile belonging to S. Houlihan caught fire in front of 173 Westcott Street and the services of the fire department was required. The blaze was extinguished with the aid of chemicals and Pyrene but not before the car had been considerably damaged.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand, the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mothers' best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. John James Morton, Cavan, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Vera Kathleen to Mr. Mervyn Osmund Best, only son of Mr. Austin E. Best, of Mount Pleasant, the marriage to take place quietly the latter part of August.

SIR EDWARD KEMP DIES AT SUMMER HOME

EARTHQUAKE FELT IN CITY

EARTH TREMORS MOST DISTINCT FOR 10 SECONDS

City Houses Shake and Furniture is Displaced at 7.25 A.M.

NO SERIOUS DAMAGE.

First Shock Peterborough Has Felt For Over Five Years.

Many citizens of Peterborough were rudely awakened between 7.15 and 7.30 this morning by their houses and beds shaking as Peterborough was visited by its second earthquake in five years, which lasted about ten seconds. However, many thought nothing of it at the time, believing that it was caused by a heavy train or truck passing by.

But on meeting with others who experienced the same sensations, there was only one conclusion drawn that the cause of disturbance was an earth tremor.

The reports that reached The Examiner, and on investigation, showed that the 'quake was generally felt throughout the city, to the north, south, east and west.

Police Constable G. Puffer heard a rumble like thunder, but everything was clear. However, his wife, looking out of the window at the time, stated that the leaves on the trees shook as if by a breeze until after the rumble ceased.

Tremors Distinctly Felt.

C. Curtis, at the City Buildings, felt a decided disturbance about 7.15, and happened to be looking at a mirror at the time, which seemed as if someone was shaking it.

A resident in East City was quite alarmed by the rumbling sound that accompanied the disturbance, but did not feel any tremor. On Princess Street, in the south part of the city, it was violent enough to make one party believe that the phone was about to fall off the wall.

Traffic Officer Hinchcliffe reported a vibration in his Maitland Avenue home that caused the pictures on the wall to rattle. The shock was quite severe in the West-End also, when residents on Weller, Gilmour and Monaghan Road felt a decided tremor.

From the highway, on Mcner'ef's farm where berry pickers were at work, comes the report that these workers in the berry patches felt the ground beneath their feet shake for about ten seconds, the tremor being accompanied by a decided rumbling sound similar to trucks passing along the road or caused by thunder.

In the central part of the city at the City Buildings, G. Grange, the caretaker of these offices, said, that he heard the noise and at the fire Department those on duty there felt the building shake.

The shock was so severe at Aberdeen and George Streets that the residents in the house at the corner thought that the house would fall down and the 'quake made a noise like a hot water boiler about to blow up.

Felt in District.

From the district reports reached The Examiner that would confirm the belief that the tremor was more severe in the district to the south of the city.

At Millbrook, mail clerks on the train from Port Hope, which reached here at nine o'clock, stated that the shock was so severe that it threw one of the residents of that village out of bed, and in another place that

Train Bearing Dying Man To Hospital Kills Another On Its Errand of Mercy

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 12 (C.P.) —A special train speeding on an errand of mercy shortly after midnight last night ran down and killed Ingvold Johnson, 32, son of T. Johnson, Korah Township, whose mangled body was found lying on the tracks this morning at the Conmee Avenue crossing of the Algoma Central Railway.

The special train was bringing to a Sault hospital, Frederick George Howe, 22, son of George Howe of the Sault and a brakeman on the Algoma Central Railway, whose leg had been crushed yesterday in an accident at Michipicoten Harbor, when he fell between two cars. Howe died at 3.10 this morning a little more than two hours after reaching the hospital.

How Johnson came to be hit by the train is not known, as the train crew did not know they had run into anyone and did not see anyone on the track. The body was found this morning when a young woman saw a number of dogs gathered around the railway crossing and went over to investigate.

SHORT CIRCUIT STARTS BLAZE

Quick Action By Firemen Save Contents and Front Part of White Home.

KITCHEN DESTROYED.

Considerable damage was caused by a fire early Sunday morning in the residence of Frank White, at 252 Smith street. The occupants were disturbed by the smell of smoke and on investigating discovered a fire in the rear of their house. A short-circuit of wires in the kitchen caused the fire, which spread up the partition to the roof and ignited the roof.

The firemen succeeded in putting it out after an hour's work but the rear of the house and the roof was damaged extensively. The house was insured. The contents were saved from damage by the quick work of the firemen in throwing tarpaulins over the furniture.

Chief Scout's New Title Is "Gillwell and Essex"

LONDON, Aug. 12 (C.P. Cable) —"Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell and Essex," is the title taken by Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder and chief of the boy scout movement. His Majesty conferred a baronetcy on the chief scout at the opening of the great international scout-jamboree now being held at Arrowe Park, in recognition of Sir Robert's work in developing the scout movement.

Gilwell Park, where many scout masters have been trained, was given to the Boy Scouts by a Scotsman named MacLaren. It was formerly an old hunting lodge, and beneath it is a subterreanean passage leading to Highbeech and Epping forest, which legend says, was used by the famous highwayman, Dick Turpin.

EPICENTRE OF EARTHQUAKE IS NEAR NEW YORK

Tremors Accompanied By Rumblings Throughout Ontario.

HEAVY IN STATES.

Ontario Towns and Cities Report Tremors and Rumblings.

TORONTO, August 12. (C.P.) — An earth disturbance of comparatively mild intensity, originating it is believed in New York State, was felt early to-day throughout Southern Ontario and at other points in the province.

Reports indicate the tremors which occurred at 6.25 o'clock, Eastern standard time, and lasted for less than a minute, were felt at all points on Lakes Ontario and Erie and as far south as central New York.

In Ontario the tremors were accompanied by a rumbling which in many places awakened persons from sleep. No damage was done by the shock which was the first experienced in this section since March 1, 1925, but early risers were treated to the novel thrill of seeing pictures swing and windows and crockery rattle. Newspaper telephones buzzed as startled citizens sought information regarding the unusual occurrence, while in many cases there were hurried exits to the streets. While the shock was slight in Ontario reports from the United States tell of toppling chimneys and cracking walls.

Recorded for 20 Minutes.

The tremors noticeable outwardly for less than a minute, were recorded on the seismograph at the local Meteorological Office for a period of 20 minutes with the initial tremor at 6.25.07. This lasted for 13 seconds, and five seconds later the most intense waves were registered.

The Dominion Observatory at Ottawa reported a shock lasting about ten minutes. The distance at the epicentre was 210 miles and the time 6.24.52.

Seismograph records show that the quake was not nearly as severe as that of 1925, which originating in the Laurentian Mountains, provided Canada with the greatest earth shock in its history.

Post Office Wrecked

SAYRE, Pa., Aug. 12 (C.P.).—The walls of the post office here were wrecked by the earth tremors which shook this place, rattling dishes and awakening residents.

The tremble was felt throughout this section and southern New York State as far as Elmira.

First 'Quake in History

GALT, Ont., Aug. 12 (C.P.).—For the first time in Galt's history what is believed to have been earth tremor was felt here this morning at 6.25 a.m., lasting several seconds. Preston and the village of Blair also reported having felt the tremor. Windows and dishes in cabinets rattled, pictures and mirrors shook. People were awakened and those up said they trembled from vibration. The disturbance was felt in various sections of the city.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 12 (C.P.)—An earth tremor rattled dishes and disarranged pictures on the walls here shortly before 6.30 this morning, the disturbance lasting about fifteen seconds. The 'quake was not of sufficient strength to do any damage.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 12 (C.P.).—An earthquake tremor which rattled windows and shifted the pictures on the walls alarmed Londoners at 6.30 this morning. The disturbance was accompanied by a rumbling noise and died down after a few seconds only to recur two minutes later. No damage had been reported.

GUELPH, Ont., Aug. 12 (C.P.).—A mild earth tremor, which lasted for about fifteen seconds, was felt in this city and district about 6.30 this morning. Houses and windows quivered, and many citizens felt the shock but as far as could be learned, no damage was caused.

The Weather

The electrical storm of Saturday was a severe one—not alone in the amount of rainfall and vivid lighting, but in the ominous and alarming darkness that overspread the city. Cars were to be seen in all directions with headlights going, while the street lights were also turned on, until an unusually vivid stroke of lightning put them out of commission for a time, and the darkness that ensued was like midnight. The rainfall was .77 of an inch. Sunday's highest temperature was 82 degrees.—W. P.

CAMP SKOOKUM HAS 68 YOUTHS ROTARIANS TOLD

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Is Speaker at Weekly Rotary Luncheon.

EVERY DAY LIABILITY.

Speaker Tells Members Some Facts Every Man Should Know in Regard to Liability.

"Everyday Liability," was the subject of a well-received address delivered by the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., at the Rotary luncheon at noon today. "Through a lack of information on this subject a man's rights, his freedom and his money may be placed in jeopardy. It is important that every man should have a working knowledge of the liabilities that may involve him at any time during his life," the speaker said.

"At the luncheon a report was made by J. Seels on Camp Skookum, the Rotary Camp on Clear Lake. "A bumper house is being enjoyed at present. The place will accommodate 67 boys and there are now 68 there. Some have been bedded on the dining room floor for the time being." J. Seels said that everything at the camp was most satisfactory. Wednesday afternoon of this week is the afternoon set for the annual visit of the Rotary Club to the camp. They will leave at 3.30 from this city in cars and arrangements are being made to bring along the usual treats for the boys, such as ice-cream and water melon.

A. McNabb introduced a new member to the club in the person of the Rev. C. V. McLean, pastor of St. Andrew's church. Visitors at the luncheon were Rev. J. E. J. Millyard of George Street United Church, George Reichart of Niagara Falls, and W. Wishart of Washington, Pennsylvania, and Herb Brown of Porto Rico.

Explains Wills.

Mr. Gordon opened his short talk with a few words on the subject of Wills. He pointed out that a will can be drawn protecting the children or beneficiaries against judgments that may have been obtained and that if a man leaves his property without properly providing for his dependents they can apply to the court to have the terms of the will modified. Thus a man can not now leave his family destitute.

"Insurance if left to a man's estate, is liable for his debts and also may be liable for the debts of the beneficiaries of his estate. Whereas he might be ever so honest he may have business misfortunes which might rob his family of the benefits of his whole life's effort. But if this insurance is left direct to the beneficiaries it is free from creditors' claims."

Dealing with directors' liability, the speaker outlined the possibilities of liability which a man may incur by his failure to attend directors' meetings or carelessness in signing a prospectus, in the case where he is a director of the company. He may become liable for all the loss sustained by shareholders who purchased stock in the company becoming bankrupt as a result of this carelessness or lack of attention to his duties.

Mr. Gordon referred to several innocent appearing documents that a banker may hand out, on the subject of which those involved should have knowledge. For instance, the joint account which two or more persons often hold at a bank generally provide a supervisorship clause. In the case of the man's death the survivor gets as a result of this clause the entire account whereas the man probably had no intention that it should all go to the survivor or survivors. Unless it can be shown by clear and distinct testimony that the money was de-

GREAT LEADER DIES SUDDENLY AT PIGEON LAKE

Senator and Former Minister of Militia Dies At Summer Home.

71 YEARS OLD.

During War Served As Minister of Overseas Forces in London.

BOBCAYGEON, Ont., August 12 (Canadian Press). — Stricken suddenly a few hours after he had celebrated his 71st birthday, Sir Edward Kemp, member of the Canadian Senate, died early this morning at his summer home, Mississquoi, near Pigeon Lake. Acute indigestion was the cause of his death.

Sir Edward's death added to the roll of necrology another statesman who has played a prominent part in the nation's affairs. Succeeding Sir Sam Hughes as Minister of Militia and Defence, on November 23, 1916, Sir Edward was eleven months later appointed Minister of Overseas Militia Forces in London, and retained the portfolio in the Cabinet of Sir Robert Borden until completion of the demobilization of the Canadian forces.

While in London Sir Edward was a member of the Imperial War Cabinet. Prior to his appointment to the administration of the Militia Department, Sir Edward played a prominent part in the organization of Canada's wartime strength. Under his direction as chairman of the War Purchasing Commission, authorized by the Government in May, 1915, the war expenditures of the Dominion in connection with purchases and transportation was controlled.

Sir Edward, who had been spending the summer at Mississquoi, with his wife and infant daughter, Katherine Norton, celebrated his birthday yesterday by playing a round of golf on his private links, and apparently was in the best of health. About four o'clock this morning Lady Kemp was alarmed by sounds of distress from her husband's room, and before Dr. Kelly of Bobcaygeon arrived in response to Lady Kemp's call, the former Minister was dead.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

President of the Sheet Metal Products Limited, Director of the National Trust Company, Imperial Life Assurance Company, and other concerns, Sir Edward's business activities covered a wide area. He started life at the bottom of the ladder as a bookkeeper and reached the topmost rung of achievement. The Sheet Metal Products Company he regarded as his monument. From his first job at $2.50 a week in a hardware store, he rose to the place where he could sell outright for $3,500,000 cash his holdings in the company.

It was typical of Sir Edward's altruistic outlook that at the conclusion of the world War he created a sensation by returning a cheque for $25,000 as Minister of Militia and Defence. Nor would he put in a bill for his expenses. In other words, he served his country at his own expense during the war.

He refused to be downed by adversity, and guided by a natural shrewdness, marched unfalteringly to success. Success did not harden him nor harshen him. He was alert, quick and shrewd, cautious but decisive. At the same time he was a man of large visions and a generous heart. He refused to be inveighed in the pitfalls of showy business or statesmanship, being a firm believer in the doctrine of common sense.

Great Business Man.

Sir Edward Kemp's business activities covered a wide area. He was president of the Sheet Metal Products Company, Limited, Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg; director of the National Trust Company, Toronto, and director of the Imperial Life Assurance Company of this city, as well as holding directorships in other concerns. He was an ex-president of the Toronto Board of Trade which he represented at the annual meeting of the British Association in Bristol in 1898. He was a delegate from the Toronto Board of Trade to the Fourth Congress of the Chambers of the Empire in London, 1910.

A member of several fraternal orders and national and philanthropic societies, Sir Edward Kemp's interest extended to the local Young Men's Christian Association, to which he gave liberally. He was a member of the Board of Regents of Victoria College (Methodist) for some time.

Sir Edward was born at Clarenceville, Que., on August 11, 1858, and was a son of Robert Kemp, a farmer and country merchant of English ancestry, and of Sara A. Kemp, who was of Canadian descent. He started life as a bookkeeper and worked his way up until he became one of the leading manufacturers in Canada. He married Miss Wilson of Montreal, in 1879. Three daughters were

Ranger Loses Finger In Encounter With Bear

POWASSAN, Ont., Aug. 12. — (Canadian Press).—Conrad Weller, fire ranger, is minus a finger to-day, the price he paid for avoiding an encounter with a large bear yesterday morning.

Travelling on a speeder over an old logging railway near Trout Creek, Conrad was suddenly confronted with a large bear. Owing to the down grade, the speeder skidded when he applied the brakes, and in the excitement his hand was caught in the cogs. The speeder left the tracks, the bear ambled off and Conrad's hand was treated at an outpost hospital.

CRISIS AVERTED AS COMMITTEE IS ADJOURNED

British Chancellor Proposes Adjournment of Conference Until Wednesday.

COMES AS SURPRISE.

J. P. Morgan is Said to Have Been Called To Act As Mediator.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 12 (C.P.).—A crisis in the reparations conference was averted to-day by adjournment of the financial committee meeting until Wednesday and rumors were rife that the delay was intended to give J. P. Morgan, United States banker, an opportunity to exercise mediating influence.

Louis Loucheur, French delegate, had been listed to speak at to-day's meeting of the financial committee, which was to have taken up the proposal of Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer of Great Britain, looking toward revision of the Young plan.

Comes as Surprise

Chancellor Snowden, after several minor speeches had been made on the question of payments in kind, suggested that the meeting be adjourned until Wednesday. This was rather a surprise, in view of the desire he had expressed Saturday to leave The Hague as soon as possible.

Reparations circles were alive with rumors that Chancellor Snowden's proposal was intended to give Mr. Morgan, who was one of the United States representatives at the Paris Experts' Conference which framed the Young plan, time to exercise mediating influence.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 12.—(C.P.) — Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, British Chancelor of the Exchequer, to-day made public the text of a cablegram received by him from Ramsay MacDonald, British Premier, endorsing his stand at the reparations conference here.

The cablegram said:

"The Fiancial committee (of the Reparations Conference) will make a most serious mistake and may wreck immediate prospects of settlement unless they understand quite finally that the experts' report (that adopted at Paris embodying the Young plan) requires readjustment to meet the just claims of this country.

"Irrespective of party or section, the country supports the case you have made. Every newspaper as far as I have seen backs you. All parties in the House of Commons stand by you.

"I hope most sincerely your colleagues on the financial commission will see that they have to face a position when the most elementary consideration of fair play as between country and country compel reconsideration of some of the recommendations of the experts' report.

"Our action hitherto in promoting settlement of Europe on a basis of good will is proof we wish this conference to succeed both on its political and its financial sides, but we have reached the limits of insquitable burden bearing."

EIGHT YEAR OLD GIRL IS DROWNED WHILE BATHING

Little Tot Went in Bathing With Three Companions.

STEPPED INTO HOLE.

Body Is Recovered Ten Minutes Later But Artificial Respiration Fails.

Mary Wright, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wright, 431 Willard Avenue, Toronto, was drowned in Chemong Lake shortly after twelve o'clock to-day. The little girl, with three other small companions, went bathing in a new place and she stepped into a hole and was drowned in six feet of water.

Although her body was recovered from the lake about ten minutes after she had sunk, all efforts of resuscitation failed. The pulmotor was called from Peterborough, and was used for nearly fifteen minutes, but when Dr. Murray Fraser arrived he said all methods of artificial respiration were useless, pronouncing life extinct.

Visiting At Harper's.

The Wright family are visiting F. W. Harper, manager of the West Toronto branch of the Bank of Toronto, and family at Chemong Park. Little Mary Wright and the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper, along with the two children of Major Rooney, went bathing about twelve o'clock. They went to a new place, a spot on the beach just in front of Jack Patte's cottage.

The children had been playing along the beach and in the water only a short time, when Mary Wright began to wade out from the shore, venturing out further than the other children. She stepped into a hole and went over her depth.

Her struggling attracted the attention of her playmates, and their shouts made W. Shevling, who was on the bank, aware of some trouble. He raised the alarm.

Every effort was immediately made to recover the little girl from the water, and several persons began diving into the hole. About ten minutes after she had disappeared beneath the surface, Alfred McKee, son of Ronald McKee, 546 Gilmour Street, after several dives, retrieved the body.

Graf Zeppelin Ready To Continue World Flight Prepares To Take Off 9 O'clock Tuesday Night

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 12.—(C.P.)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, this afternoon ordered the dirigible "cleared for sailing" on the Tokyo stage of her flight around the world, at 3.00 a.m., Wednesday (9.00 p.m., Tuesday, E.S.T.)

He admitted the departure of the big air liner might be delayed by unfavorable weather until the same hour Thursday morning.

"Everything is in perfect order for the entire flight around the world so far as necessary permits, visas and other governmental requirements are concerned," Dr. Eckener declared.

"The Soviet government has been most obliging in every respect. At the beginning of negotiations the Soviet authorities suggested a certain route over the vast Russian territory to us. We immediately asked them whether this was a prescribed or an option route.

"The Soviets replied this was merely a suggested route based on their meteorological experience. They did not in the least wish to prescribe by course."

Pilot Lost Nine Days in Ungava Bay Wilds Is Vainly Sought For By Airways Plane

OTTAWA, Ont., August 12 (Canadian Press). — Somewhere in the lonely stretch of country between Seven Islands, Que., on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, and Ungava Bay, Pilot C. S. Troup flying for the Interprovincial Airways, has been lost for nine days, according to word received here to-day.

A number of planes belonging to the company have been searching for him during the past week without finding any trace of him or his machine.

No particular anxiety is felt at the present time as the machine was well stocked with emergency rations, and it is felt that Troup is quite capable of looking after himself, unless he has crashed. It is considered unlikely that the Royal Canadian Air Force will be asked to aid in the search as there are plenty of commercial machines at the disposal of the company.

SEVERE STORM LEAVES CROPS IN BAD SHAPE

Yonge Street is Strewn With Wreckage While Cars Skid Into Ditch.

BARNS BURN.

Large Picnic Tent Struck By Bolt Few Minutes Before Crowd Assembles.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Central Ontario and the districts surrounding this city in particular were visited by one of the most severe storms in recent years on Saturday. In its wake was left ruined crops, shattered buildings and burning of at least one barn.

Many buildings and trees were struck by lightning, a barn at Maple was burned and field and orchard crops were flattened by hail and tossed about to destruction. No estimate of the loss to farmers has as yet been compiled.

Yonge street from Toronto far out into the country was dotted with wrecks caused by the storm. Traffic police reported more than 24 cars in the ditches—many of them overturned and badly wrecked. Fortunately no fatalities occurred, although a number of minor injuries resulted.

Crops Damaged

In the vicinity of Agincourt it is estimated that 50 percent of the oats crop was damaged while the garden crops will be a total loss, it is believed. The apple crops in many orchards are believed ruined while fruit which remains on the trees was bruised by the hail. The corn crop was also badly affected.

Hail stones an inch in circumference showered that section of the country. It was reported that large hail stones were found on the ground an hour and a half after the storm had ceased.

Close Call.

The residents of Laskey, a small village near Maple, are congratulating themselves to-day from the narrow escape many had from death and injury at the village picnic grounds. Saturday was to have been Community day there but the storm broke just before the citzens assembled. One flash of lightning ripped into fragments the large tent in the centre of the grounds. A few minutes later and it is said the tent would have been filled with people.

A barn on the farm of Edwin Hadwin, near Maple, was destroyed by fire which followed the lightning. His hay and wheat crop were consumed. The damage is estimated at $5000.

EGYPTIAN WAFD IS IN DILEMMA

Nationalists Undecided What Policy To Take On Proposed Treaty.

MAY BE ELECTION SNAG.

CAIRO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—The proposals in the new Anglo-Egyptian treaty, which if ratified will give Egypt a greater measure of independence than she has enjoyed for a great many years, have put the Nationalist Party in Egypt into a dilemma, according to the newspaper Al Ahram. If the Wafd (the Nationalist Party) supports the projected treaty, Premier Mahmoud Pasha may interpret it as an indication of the nation's acceptance, and sign the treaty without taking the opinion of the Egyptian Parliament.

On the other hand, if the Wafd expresses an unfavorable opinion this may lead to the difficulties being created for the Wafd candidates when the next elections are held for a resumption of the suspended Parliament.

DUKE SCHILLER IS FEARED LOST IN NEW ONTARIO

Great Canadian Flying Ace Is Missing While On Prospecting Trip.

SECOND PLANE SENT OUT.

Company As Yet Has Received No Official Report As To Pilot Missing.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Search is being conducted by airplane along the north-west shore of Hudson's Bay for C. A. "Duke" Schiller, Canadian flying ace, reported as overdue from a flight for a prospecting company with whom he has been employed as pilot.

Despite a search over the territory for several days, no report of Schiller had been received last night at the head office of the Northern Aerial Minerals Exploration Company which employs Schiller. A second plane was to be despatched to-day from Sioux Lookout to join in the search.

Going Into Wager Bay.

Schiller's trip was to take him to the vicinity of Wager Bay, on the shore of Hudson's Bay. He took off from Baker Lake two weeks ago and was accompanied by Jack Humble, mechanic, and Tom Creighton, prospector.

Creighton's office at The Pas, Manitoba, had received no report the plane was missing, and at The Pas, headquarters of the far north prospector, the belief was expressed that there was as yet no cause for worry. The country Schiller headed for is flat, and a forced landing would not be dangerous. The plane was well stocked with provisions, sufficient for a month. Prospectors admit that if the plane was disabled, its occupants could do little but wait for aid to come. They might not have started a return flight after reaching Wager Bay.

Expert Pilot.

Jack Hammell, president of the N.A.M.E., said "Duke" Schiller knew the north country well and was an expert pilot.

Mrs. Donald D. Schiller, Toronto mother of the missing flyer, was advised over the telephone by Mr. Hammell that an intensive search was being carried on for her son, and that another plane was being despatched.

Early yesterday, Schiller's wife, who is at Sault Ste. Marie, where the flyer makes his home, telephoned to her mother-in-law seeking information. Both mother and wife are convinced that Schiller is not lost, and are hourly expecting word from Sioux Lookout that he is safe.

Jungle Forests Of Unknown Amazon Yield Trees Producing Sugar And Lard

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 12 (C.P.) —Trees which produce sugar and lard, plants which yield potions for treating disease, and poison which kills all the fish in a body of water without spoiling their edibility, are among the discoveries reported to the Field museum yesterday by Llewelly Williams, leader of a botanical expedition to the Amazon.

"The pale de asugar, or 'sugar tree'," Mr. Williams said in his report, mailed after a trip of 325 miles into the dense wildnerness of the Manay region, "contains in its bark a sweet edible resin with the consistency of real sugar. The pale de acele, or 'lard tree', exscrates an oily substance which, in appearance, taste, consistency and other properties, is a close affinity to the lard rendered from animal fats."

Telling of the remarkable number of medicinal plants growing in the Brazilian forsest, Mr. Williams wrote that the Indian natives had a wealth of knowledge of their uses. They have developed specific remedies from the plants for treating rheumatism, nervous disorders, tumors, debility, anemia and other maladies, he found.

They have also developed fish poisons which, thrown on the surface of the water, kill all the fish in the vicinity and make the obtaining of a fish dinner easy, according to the scientist. "The poisoned fish do not harm the human consumer, but often animals die from drinking the contaminated water."

DEATH FOLLOWS GARAGE BLAZE

Sturgeon Falls Business Block Is Razed With One Fatality.

CRIPPLE IS RESCUED.

NORTH BAY, Aug 12 (C.P.).—A woman was fatally burned and a business and apartment block was destroyed by fire of unknown origin which broke out in Sturgeon Falls yesterday.

The victim was Mrs. M. Morin, who occupied an apartment on the top floor of the block. She was taken from the burning building badly burned and suffering from the effects of smoke and died a few minutes after being carried into a nearby residence.

Joseph Miner ,an aged and crippled man, who occupied another top-floor apartment, was rescued from the flames and carried through an upstairs window.

The building was owned by Michaud and Levesque. The ground floor was occupied by a garage and sewing machine agency. A number of cars stored in the garage were destroyed.

Started in Garage

The fire was discovered at 2 o'clock in a garage in the rear of the business and residential block and before the fire brigade arrived had enveloped the main structure. The firemen had just returned from a fire across the river when a call from the Michaud and Levesque block was turned in. Chief R. McCaffrey and his volunteers hurried to the scene but found flames shooting from all section of the building.

The firemen's first efforts were turned toward rescue work. Miner and his wife were brought out safely. Twenty minutes later the firemen were advised Mrs. Morin was still in the building. The fire chief ascended a ladder to her apartment window and groped about in the smoke until he located the occupant. He carried her to a window where members of the brigade brought her down the ladder. She was taken direct to a physician's office in a nearby residence, but nothing could be done for her and she died within a few minutes.

Damage was estimated at from $30,000 to $40,000, distributed among all occupants of the building.

The dead woman was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Sullivan, North Bay. The funeral will be held from her parents' home Tuesday morning. She was 37 years of age.

Scottish Pioneers Celebrate the Founding of Present Oxford County.

FIRST WHITE SETTLERS.

EMBRO, Ont., Aug. 12—(Canadian Press).—Hundreds of descendents of early Scottish pioneers of the east and west Zorras gathered here yesterday from many parts of Western Ontario and joined in a series of special centenary services marking the anniversary of the clan who were the first white men to take up homes in the wilderness which is now Oxford county.

Rev. Dr. Perrie, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, conducted the morning and evening services in English. The afternoon service was conducted in Gaelic by Rev. M. C. Campbell, who was momentarily floored as he rolled out a particularly impressive phrase and paused. There was no response from his congregation. He repeated. Still no response. At last he translated. "The collection will now be taken up" and a wave of laughter swept the solemn faced Scottish congregation.

LIGHTNING BOLT HITS TRANSFORMER

Number of Havelock Citizens Receive Slight Shocks During Havelock's Storm.

The heavy electrical storm which passed over Havelock about noon on Saturday startled more than one citizen who is not ordinarily of a nervous disposition.

A group of young men standing in Ross Covert's garage on Ottawa St., felt quite a shock when the lightning struck a hydro pole and transformer about 20 yards away. One young lady standing near an electric fixture in the kitchen of her home, saw the lightning run along the wire and received a slight shock; and an older lady in another part of the town thought that it had struck her house, as she received a decided shock, which however was only momentary.

The damage to the transformer was slight, and the power was off only a short time while the repairs were made.

TWO ARE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Automobile Crashes Into Culvert Railing, Throwing Occupants Out.

MEN MARRIED.

GALT, Ont., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Howard Whitney, 45, Kitchener, was killed and Charles Ruhlmann, 50, Kitchener, was fatally hurt in a motor car collision, two miles south of this city on the Hamilton highway yesterday.

Ruhlmann died last night in a hospital from a fractured skull and fractured jaw. Both men were married and had borrowed the car owned in Waterloo for a trip to Hamilton. This caused much difficulty to the police in their efforts to identify the men.

There were tire marks on the grass beside the highway for 60 yards, before the machine crashed into a culvert railing. All the posts supporting the culvert railing were flattened, and a piece of pipe about 15 feet long tore through the car and presumably hit Ruhlmann in the face. The machine was hurled back to the highway, and one man was thrown to the pavement. The car then piled into a tree, pitching the other occupant from his seat.
